disposed of, if your diagnosis is right. Quinine will turn the trick, if administered properly. I give it on chill-days only, getting in three doses (which should total at least ten grains), the last dose at least one hour before the expected chill. For instance, if the chill has been arriving at 11 o'clock every second day, I give four grains of quinine at four, seven and ten on the day the chill is due.

Given in this manner it will dismiss the chill on that day. Then, on next chill-day, I repeat the little program, and do it for at least six "chill-days" after the last chill. The malarial poison will have been conquered. Of course the bowels must be looked after, and the diet kept in the bounds of good, easily digested food. This routine is for the acute form of malaria, which will not become chronic if

PROFITS ARE SMALL

FARM RECORDS SHOW

Records of 80 central and western Kentucky farmers, gathered by the farm economics department of the College of Agriculture at the University of Kentucky, indicate that these farmers have a slight margin between cost and selling prices under present conditions.

The records of these farmers show that on the basis of present prices for feed and labor it is possible to produce beef at a cost of $4.53 per 100 pounds, lambs for $7.47, hogs for $4.32, and milks for $1.19 per 100 pounds. These figures are deductions from costs of production on the 80 farms last year.

Costs varied considerably on individual farms. Beef, for instance, ranged from $4.75 to $9.35 per 100 pounds, which probably meant a good profit for the farmer producing at the low figure and a loss for the one producing for $9.35. The cost of producing milk varied from 80 cents per 100 pounds to $1.81; lambs from $7.20 to $12.37 per hundred, and hogs from $3.81 to $7.21.

The department points out that feed and labor make up 88 per cent of the cost of producing hogs, 73 per cent of the cost of producing cattle, 73 per cent of the cost of milk, and 55 per cent of the cost of lambs. These costs are, to a large extent, within the control of the individual farmer.

SHORT COURSE ON POULTRY PROBLEMS

Problems of practical farm poultry raising will be discussed at the eighth annual poultry short course to be given at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, June 27-July 1, Monday, the opening day, will be devoted to factors involved in improving flocks. Disease control, including sanitation and vaccination will be considered Tuesday.

Flock management and the problem of profits under present conditions will be the subject of speakers on Wednesday, while Thursday's program will be devoted largely to breeding. Culling, will be the central theme Friday, and examinations will be given Friday afternoon to persons desiring licenses to accredit flocks.

Members of the staff of the poultry department will be assisted by Dr. L. E. Card of the University of Illinois, Dr. T. P. Polk of the department of animal pathology of the Kentucky College of Agriculture and other experts. The course will be free to all men and women.

BERRIES PROFITABLE IN MARSHALL COUNTY

Strawberries proved "the great panacea for the farmers' problem" in Marshall county, says County Agent E. P. Tichenor, in his May report to the College of Agriculture. Seventy-three car loads had been shipped out on June 1, bringing a total of about $65,000, with many more yet to be picked. Several farmers had picked more than 100 crates to the acre.

SAYS COUNTY AGENT INDISPENSABLE IN FARMERS COME-BACK

"The county agent is an important and indispensable factor in the come-back of agriculture," declares Dan H. Otis in the June bulletin of the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association. "Any attempt to save taxes by dispensing with or limiting the efficiency of a good county agent is a serious step backward."

Mr. Otis writes as follows: "When business comes back we cannot expect it to proceed along the same highway or knock at the same door it did previously. Necessary readjustments are bound to bring about new methods and new devices. Those who are alert will profit thereby; those who are aimlessly for things to just happen may wake up some day to find that the business they have been waiting for is already in the hands of the wide-awake competitors."

"Farming is no exception. To avert disaster and to effectively prepare for the future the farmer, like any other business man, needs expert advice. He must have a vital and close contact with his agricultural college and Experiment Station. The human medium through which this is accomplished is the county agricultural agent. His service is an investment, not an expense."

"Any attempt to save taxes by dispensing with or limiting the efficiency of a good county agent, is a serious step backward. Compare taxes and ability to pay taxes, in counties with and without agents; the evidence is all in favor of the county agent."

"The county agent is an important and indispensable factor in the come-back of agriculture. He is selected because he is well trained and familiar with research. Through him contacts can be made with specialists and other experts. He is the man to whom we look for the latest information and the newest and most efficient methods, and also for demonstration on how to apply this new knowledge to the problems of the farm. If questions arise that come outside of his own expertise he knows where to make contacts in order to find a solution. Being a student of local conditions he discovers useful methods employed by the most successful farmers and carries these on to those who need them and can profit by them. He is always within reach for a personal call or for a telephone message."

"The most important problem for the individual farmer is to adjust his operations in changing economic conditions. He must proceed in the light of reason and not rely on habit, tradition, or emotion. He must utilize the most effective methods and policies, including the production of food and feed for his own use. He must avoid all hazards possible, such as losses from plant disease, insect pests, rodents, etc. This is no time to let things drift. We must stem the tide with a well thought-out plan or program. This is no time to dispense with the farmer's most helpful counselor and friend. All are saying taxes to support county agents in other counties. Shall we continue to tax ourselves to help farmers in other counties and deny ourselves equal advantages and benefits?"

"When the battle of economic deliverance is in progress is no time to discard a good soldier or to question the need of an able captain. It is all right to reduce expenses, but a reduction that will impair our capital and jeopardize our income may be false economy. If we have a good county agent, let's uphold him and make it possible for him to help us out of the wilderness."

"These remarks apply with equal force to the efficient home demonstration and 4-H club agent."

I. C. TO GIVE TRIPS TO THE STATE FAIR

The Illinois Central Railroad Co., will give trips to the Kentucky State Fair to a 4-H Club livestock judging team from each of sixteen counties. Three club members will comprise each team, which will be accompanied by a county agent. Seventy-five county teams will take part in the judging of fat cattle, dairy cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry.

The 4-H Club department of the College of Agriculture is planning to make its usual State Fair exhibits of baked and canned foods, clothing and room improvement.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of W-H-A-S the week of June 20. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

Limited Appreciation

A small girl in the north end received from her grandmother in Cleveland, the other day, a pin cushion for a birthday gift. The gift didn't evoke great rejoicing but the child's parents insisted that a letter of thanks be sent to grandma. Suitable expressions of gratitude were suggested. As finally written, the letter read: "Dear Grandma—I thank you very much for the nice pin cushion. It was just what I needed, but not very much."—Detroit Free Press.

POINT PLEASANT

The Pt. Pleasant Sunday school was reorganized May 16th, 1933, with twenty-five present and the following officers were elected: Supt.—Adam Dolwick, Secy.—Elizabeth Schuler, Treas.—Carroll White. Teachers were chosen as follows: Mrs. Vickers Adult Class, Miss White—Young Peoples Class, Miss Kenton—Intermediates and Miss Wernz Beginners. Now this is a fine list of workers and we could have a great Sunday school if the people of the community would each do their part and attend S. S. each Sunday morning at 11:00 o'clock (fast time). We have a fine church building and it seems a shame not to make use of it. Why seek elsewhere for enjoyment for what is better each week than to come together and study the Bible and renew our faith in Him who is the giver of all things.

There is church services each second Sunday of every month, both morning at 11 o'clock (fast time) and afternoon at 3 o'clock (fast time) and don't forget the S. S. every Sunday at 11 o'clock (fast time). Please come out and see if we can't have a real live church and Sunday school.

KENTUCKY BOWS TO INDIANA

Editorial from Louisville Times
Pineville, Ky., June 10.—A sixteen-year-old Indiana girl—Miss Margaret Jane Burton of French Lick—a senior at Sayre College, Lexington, Ky., was crowned Queen of the second annual Kentucky Mountain Laurel Festival at Clear Creek Springs, three miles from here today.

There can be no reasonable doubt that the loveliness of Miss Burton was, to the judges, and to those among 5,000 who were Kentuckians, "convincing," as critics of drama say. For without the sympathy of the crowd what judge would have dared to award the prize to any but a Kentucky girl?

That an Indiana girl is laurel crowned in a Kentucky county which borders Virginia and Tennessee, and from whose purple peaks North Carolina is, actually or almost in sight, means that Kentucky bows graciously, and bows low, to Indiana.

Men may bow too low, in politics. Richelleu knew that, and expressed himself upon the point. But there is no politics, no possibility of insincerity, in Kentucky's bestowing a crown of laurel blossoms serving as the boys of the conquering queen of beauty—upon a Hoosier maid. "The incident means that Kentuckians who, as a people, know too little of Indiana, which some persons look upon as the most thoroughly American section of the United States, and which is at least in a position of what might be termed proud, if not preeminent, centrality, have, at last consented to admit, or more exactly, have proclaimed, gladly, and with cheer—summa cum laude—that an Indiana lassie has shown them that the Ohio River is not the water boundary of beauty.

Of course each judge knew, from birth, that there never had been, and never could be, a girl from any other State comparable to a Kentucky girl. But, in Miltonic phrases, slightly amended, each of the judges said, of the Hoosier sixteen-year-old, a student in Lexington, Lexington, the hub of the Bluegrass, the hub of romance:

When I approach her loveliness, so absolute she seems, all prior knowledge in her presence falls degraded.

Sir Thomas Lipton turns in his grave, to remark, with his everlasting good sportsmanship, that although he didn't win the cup, there can be no slight doubt of the square-shooting of Americans, since Kentucky crowns an Indiana girl Queen of the Mountain Laurel Festival!

FARMERS TO SAVE THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS THRU LOWER COMMISSIONS AT CINCINNATI

Farmers patronizing the Cincinnati livestock market will save 15 per cent in commission charges as a result of new, low commission rates which went into effect there on June 1, it has been announced by R. Q. Smith, Manager of the Producers Co-Operative Commission Association. The reductions amount to from 10 to 33 1-3 per cent with an average of 15 per cent on all stock arriving both by rail and truck. It is estimated that the new rates will save farmers of Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and Illinois who patronize the market from $60,000 to $70,000 a year on the basis of 1931 business.

For several months the Producers have worked on the new schedule of rates at the request of a number of its members. After this schedule has been approved by directors of the co-operative it was presented to members of the Cincinnati Live Stock Exchange and other agencies licensed to operate on the market, then accepted and filed by the Packers and Stock Yards Administration of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Receipts on the Cincinnati market last year were 1,084,074 hogs, 457,031 sheep and lambs, 218,832 cattle and 122,987 calves.

The reduced commission rates are not expected to affect the policy of the Producers co-operative in refunding to its patrons part of the savings made during the year. Each year since the organization was established in 1925 cash refunds amounting to from 18 to 25 per cent of the gross commissions collected have been returned to farmers as patronage refunds. In these seven years these refunds have amounted to $176,888.66.

CINCINNATI ZOO

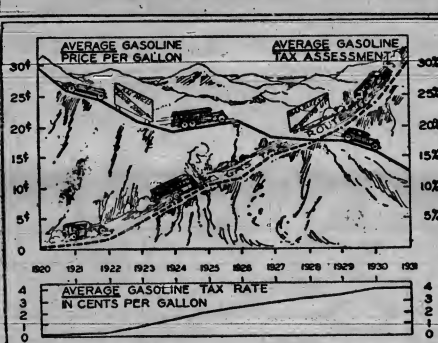

The second week of the Zoo Opera Season will open Sunday night, June 19, with a preliminary Zoo Revue, featuring members of the Opera Company and the Zoo Opera Ballet. The principal number on the program will be a modernistic ballet in jazz style, entitled "Krazy Kat," by John Alden Carpenter, noted American composer. The work is based on a cartoon strip which has been appearing in many papers throughout the country. The operas to be presented are "Tannhauser," on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, and "Faust," on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The cast of "Tannhauser" will include Myrna Sharlow, Coe Glade, Forrest Lamont, Giuseppe Cavadore and other prominent members of the company, while the leading roles of "Faust" will be sung by Leole Turner, Helen Ornstein, Edward Molitor, Italo Picchi, Joseph Royer and Ruth Lewis.

On Saturday and Sunday afternoons there will be free popular concerts by the Zoo Summer Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Reuben Leyson.

The Zoo Clubhouse continues to be the rendezvous of amusement seekers who enjoy dining and dancing in the open. Drastic reductions in dinner, luncheon and a la carte prices at the Clubhouse have tended

GASOLINE TAX RATES SOAR AS PRICE IS CUT IN HALF

ALTHOUGH in a decade gasoline prices have been halved, motorists are unable to take full advantage of the bargain because state gasoline taxes increase the cost nearly one-third.

Records of the American Petroleum Institute show that in 1920 prices in 80 representative cities, at least one in each state, averaged 29.74¢ per gallon. State taxes averaged .09¢ per gallon, an average assessment of .8% on the retail price. At the beginning of 1932 prices averaged only 18¢, but tax rates averaged 4¢, making the cost to motorists 17¢ per gallon and the average assessment 10.6%, or nearly one-third of the retail price.

In 1930 state tax rates were only 1¢ and 3¢ per gallon. Now they range from 1¢ to 16¢. Counties and communities impose additional taxes, the pyramided levies running as high as 9¢. Although two-thirds of the states now impose taxes of 4¢ or more, increases in their rates have been proposed. A federal gasoline tax of at least 1¢ per gallon has been mentioned. Gasoline tax revenues have soared from around $4,000,000 in 1920 to an estimated $35,000,000 in 1931, the counties and communities garnering additional millions to increase its popularity over past seasons. Harry Wilkey's Orchestra provides the music for dancing every evening. Special entertainment features also are included.

Dancing according to the park plan also is available at the Zoo damant, Dance in Russianland, where Charles McClure's Russian Dancers provide the rhythms. Free Punch and Judy shows, Kid-friendly, the Fun House, Merry-go-round and Pony Track offer special diversions for the children. The big and interesting animal, bird and reptile collection is always a center of interest.

Harvest Home gave Rosedale A. C. a neat trimming last week and climbed into a tie for third place in the league standing.

Braun although wild, held Rosedale to four hits and his infield gave him some real big league support. Ralenkotter, Miller and Hartman having no less than three double plays. While Glenn played his usual star game at third base and drove out a triple and a single. Shearer caught a nice game and also drove out a nice hit.

A battle royal can be expected next Sunday when Constance makes its second appearance. The home boys played one of the worst games of the season in their last meeting and are out for revenge next week. Braun and Ellis will probably be the opposing pitchers.

KENTUCKY PIONEERS

(BY N. LOUISE LODGE)

No. 10—POAGE—A large number of Poage descendants mustered at the call, "On to Harrodsburg!" during the celebration of the sesquicentennial celebration of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the first permanent English settlement west of the Alleghenias.

Ann Poage, the first female child of white parents born in Kentucky, lends special interest to the Poage lineage and to this celebration. She was the daughter of William and Ann (Kennedy) Poage.

The emigrant ancestors of the Poage family were Robert and Elizabeth (Sheridan) Poage, who came from Ulster County, Ireland, and were of good and ancient Scotch-Irish lineage. With the exception of Thomas, their children were all born in Ireland. Thomas was born in America about the year 1760. Other sons of the Colonial ancestors were George, William, Robert and John. The daughters were Elizabeth, Margaret, Mary and Martha. John's wife was Mary Blair. This gives eligibility to patriotic societies, for John served at the Battle of Point Pleasant (now West Virginia, October 10, 1774).

William, as already stated, was the son of John and Mary (Blair) Poage and the father of Ann Poage, Kentucky's daughter of white birth. He became an early settler at old Fort Harrod (now Harrodsburg, Ky.).

John and Mary Poage had a family of 13 and their descendants have changed hearts and fortunes with the families of Crawford, Townsend, Gordon, Polk, Hopkins, Bell, Wood and Marshall.

No. 11—FOWLER—Will some one please give information on the first Fowlers of Kentucky. Where was Jacob Fowler born, whose name is mentioned as having lived near Covington, Ky., in 1810. Who was his wife, how many children did he have. Who was Benj. Platt Fowler's first wife? His (2)—wife was Ann (Scott) Brown. "Who was Ann?" Her ancestry is desired, and especially the first Scotts of Kentucky. How did Benj. P. Fowler get the name of Platt. Give all married names, if known, sending this information to N. Louise Lodge, in care of the Boone County Recorder, Burlington, Ky.

All families whose records have never been written up are asked to kindly co-operate with us by sending in all information they can in regard to the first members of their families in Kentucky.

REPORT OF RED CROSS NURSING ACTIVITIES FOR MAY, 1932

Inspection of the children of the Verona school was completed during May, and since our schools are now all closed our work is turned to more concentrated efforts in behalf of those children found during the school term to be greatly in need of corrective medical or operative attention. Sixteen parents have very recently consulted with me in the interest of such children.

During May I have taken eleven children to the Children's Clinic and hospital in Cincinnati for examinations and treatment. Four were eye cases, others were tonsil cases, one with a defective speech, by which to overcome this. One boy with a very bad rupture has just been operated on, and is now recovering nicely.

Then besides these I took three adults to obtain expert advice, the planning and carrying out of this type of work consumes much time and thought, but since it promises much benefit to our people, I feel it is most worth-while in every particular, besides the advice and care which they receive, they also get much Health Instruction.

My inability to obtain entrance into Hospitals sometimes for adults who need to be so placed, and yet who are without means to pay is grievous to me indeed. However, since we have already received much from Hospitals in Covington and Cincinnati, we can readily see that with the existent financial conditions, they have within their own territory all the charity cases for which they can possibly care for, and therefore cannot admit ours, who are not within their county or state. We can only be thankful for what we have already received, and hope for a day when we may care for our own.

The two Home Hygiene classes of New Haven have been completed, 21 girls are eligible for Red Cross Certificates.

Farmers' Alliance Notes

On Saturday night, June 4, the Hebron Local of the Farmers' Alliance held a meeting at Grant, where Mr. Al Rogers and many others expect to organize a strong Local within the next week or two. This will be four Locals in the County. The members of the Hebron Local are very anxious to establish Locals at Florence and Verona, and probably at Burlington within the next month. It is their aim to have a thousand members in the Alliance by August 1. Meetings are held at Hebron on the second and fourth Saturday nights of each month. This gives the members of the Hebron Local an opportunity to attend meetings in other parts of the County on the first and third Saturday nights of each month and wherever arrangements can be made in advance for a meeting, and where there is a probability of establishing a strong Local.

Anyone desiring to establish a Local in any part of the County, or in any other County, kindly communicate with Mr. H. L. Crigler, Secretary, Rural 3, Burlington, Kentucky, or Mr. Linton Hemphing, President, Constance, Kentucky, or Mr. M. L. Ayler, Chairman of the Extension Committee, Hebron, Kentucky. The members aim to establish a County, a State, and an Interstate organization within the next three months. They want to get ready for a big Fall and Winter campaign, for the purpose of putting over some big "stuff" in a big way.

The opportunity for the Alliance to be of great service to the farmer in every possible way is unlimited. The farmer needs a strong, powerful, fighting organization. The necessity for it was never as great as it is today. The farmer is beset on every side by enemies, strong, powerful, and avicious. He must organize and fight for his self-preservation to save himself from a state of economic servility, from the state of the European peasant.

Every branch of industry and commerce is strongly organized and fortified. Each of these organizations is fighting to get the farmer's last dollar. Numerically, the farmer is big enough to whip any of them in a fair and square fight. All he needs to combat his enemies is a strong organization, a big gun, plenty of ammunition, and above all, an abundance of grit. What the farmer must have is lower taxes, a dollar's worth of service from every County, State, and National official for every dollar spent. The farmer is the biggest tax payer in the world. Thirty cents of every dollar that the farmer takes in goes to pay taxes. The farmer must have a free and open market where he can sell his products without unnecessary and foolish restrictions and limitations; the big part of the consumer's dollar for the products he produces and sells; and higher prices for his products and not a mere pittance such as he is now receiving. He must have an opportunity to buy fertilizer, seed, feed, implements, and other things necessary to carry on his vocation at prices commensurate with the prices he receives for his products, and not be compelled to pay wartime prices in the time of the world's greatest crisis, a time when the prices of all the world's products are the lowest on record, except the things the farmer needs and must have. He can't buy $75.00 mowing machines; $19.00 bran; $35.00 fertilizer, with 3 1/2 cent hogs; 3c tobacco, and 6c per gallon milk. He must have a better deal than that, or the dumps for him.

Without an organization to fight his battles, he can have none of these. With an organization, virile, active, and strong, everyone of these are in his grasp. Remember, he feeds and clothes the world. Don't forget the other fellow can't get along without him, but he can live without the other fellow. He won't have anyone to place any burdens on his back that he can't carry.

The National Dairy Corporation, the largest dealer in dairy products in the world, and one that is rapidly extending its activities in its endeavor to obtain a monopoly of the dairy industry, last year had a net income of $22,000,000. How did this corporation do it? The answer is plain. By forcing down the prices paid the farmer and milk producer for their products, and holding up the price to the final consumer without hindrance or molestation from any State or National official. It seems that all the big corporations are either in receivership, or headed in that direction, except the National Dairy Corporation and other big corporations engaged exclusively in handling or dealing in farm products, and approaching a condition where they have a monopoly of the products that they deal in, such products being the necessities of life, and all of these latter corporations dealing in farm products seem to have made money.

What right has such a corporation to exist? None. They are rapidly approaching a condition where they are existing in violation of the various anti-trust laws of the States, and of the nation, and are abusing the gigantic power they possess to the great detriment and harm of the people. Any man or set of men united into one corporation has no right to have a monopoly of the necessities of life. The anti-trust laws should be enforced against them.

A powerful, acting, vigilant farm organization would see that such corporations, possessing monopolistic power over the necessities of life, are brought to the bar of justice, and that the anti-trust laws would be invoked against them.

What the farmer needs above everything else is a strong, powerful organization, organized nationally by the States and by Counties, so that the national organization is in complete touch with every local branch of the organization. He needs a big engine with plenty of steam and a big whistle, and a through ticket. With these he can get aboard, blow the whistle, turn on the steam, and go ahead. So come to the meeting the fourth Saturday night of June, at Hebron, and get aboard.

IN MEMORY

In memory of M. C. Stevens who died February 4th, 1932. My poor husband is dead and I am alone.

The debt which all mortals must pay. Yet of all sorrow I've felt in my life

I never knew grief until today. As the sun went down neath the hill tops, And the shadows stole in over my head, So the light of his life and mine went out. And left me alone with my dead. Each a staff to the other alway, But the Angels of death has taken my help. So what can I do but pray? Bless thou us, Lord in the Kingdom above, Whence thy Grace so freely is given, So long have we journeyed together on earth, Receive us together in Heaven. From his Loving Wife JOSEPHINE STEVENS

Deaths

MRS. MARY GEBHARD

Mrs. Mary Gebhard, aged eighty-one years, passed away suddenly Sunday at her home on Erlanger Road, Erlanger, Ky. The remains were removed to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home for preparation. Funeral was from the late residence Wednesday at 9:30 A. M., with requiem high mass at St. Henry's church at 8 A. M., interment following in St. Mary's. Mrs. Gebhard had lived in Erlanger for 41 years and she is survived by her husband, two sons Martin and Gus Gebhard, and three daughters, Mrs. Frank Michels, Mrs. Norby Michels and Mrs. Teyman Clutterback, and one sister, besides several grandchildren and many other relatives and friends.

The pall-bearers were Edward and John Gebhard, Kiefer Schuh, George and Tom Michels and Fred Scheben.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

WM. C. HOCK

Wm. C. Hock, aged 55 years, passed away Sunday noon at St. Elizabeth Hospital after an illness with cancer of the stomach. The remains were removed to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home in Erlanger where funeral services were held at 10 A. M. Wednesday morning by the Rev. A. Miller, pastor of the Elmore Baptist church, after which he was taken to Cincinnati for cremation.

He was a member of Queen City Council No. 130 Jr. O. U. A. M., and New Era Council No. 25, D. of A., both of Cincinnati. These councils held their impressive services at the funeral home Tuesday night at 8 P. M. He was also a member of Good Faith Lodge No. 95 F. & A. M., and this lodge held their service following Rev. Miller. The pall-bearers were members of the Masonic Lodge.

Mr. Hock is survived by his widow Mrs. Emma Hock.

The "Bible Quiz" proves interesting at our Sunday school hour each week. It is our aim of this quiz to familiarize ourselves with the Bible as a whole, and the chapters dealing with each Sunday school lesson in particular.

The large crowd attending last Sunday evening's service found Brother Donohue's message interesting and with plenty of food for deep thought in it.

A rare treat was given us again Thursday evening.

Bro. Johnson, Bro. Donohue and Bro. Sticker visited the Mission.

We always take advantage of the fact that Bro. Johnson loves to study the Bible, therefore is so well able to explain the texts to us.

For this reason Bro. Johnson always leads the Bible Study hour when he is present.

It becomes a great pleasure for us to ask questions and have them so fully explained.

The folks at the Mission have greatly missed Bro. Wesley Fogel.

He may be certain of a hearty welcome as soon as he is able to be with us again.

We hope Mrs. Irvin Hood, her daughter Vivian and son Welburn, have enjoyed the few days visit with relatives.

A number of folks from Hebron have been enjoying the Mission services. It is our hope that they find it possible to attend every service.

If you enjoy asking "Bible questions" and receiving answers, come to our Sunday school services, beginning each Sunday at 2:45.

Regular preaching services every Sunday evening at 7:45.

Regular Bible Study Hour each Thursday evening at 7:45.

THE FAMILY

We desire to express our thanks for the many acts of kindness shown during the long illness and the death of our dear mother Eliza H. Walton. The flowers that at all times adorned her room, the thoughtfulness of neighbors, kindred and friends brought to her so much comfort and cheer.

We also wish to than Rev. Walker for his comforting words, the donors of the beautiful floral pieces and C. Scott Chambers for the efficient manner in which he conducted the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Ryle, of near Aurora, Indiana, were in Burlington last Friday afternoon attending the funeral of Mrs. Eliza Walton.

Repeal Utterances Rock Nation On Eve Of Republican Gathering

(BY FRED HOLMES)
Washington Correspondent for The Boone County Recorder

Not just one explosion but a whole series of them last week rudely jolted a lot of apathetic sleep-heads into a state of surprised mental activity. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., touched off the first one when that erstwhile most liberal contributor to the support of our noble experiment told us why he had come to the conclusion that the experiment was lacking in nobility. And as if that was not enough to cause spasms in the camps of the drys, along came John R. Mott, president of the International Missionary Council of the World's Alliance of the Y. M. C. A., with announcement that he had come to favor resubmission of the prohibition question to the people of the United States. Down in Florida, Mark Wilcox, who advocates repeal, of the Eighteenth Amendment, eliminated from Congress the able and popular Ruth Bryan Owen, a crusading dry, but in Indiana after one of the wildest scenes of turmoil in an Indiana political convention in many years, the Indiana Republican party abandoned its traditional role of champion of prohibition and adopted the Resolutions Committee's plank providing for a referendum by States on prohibition and for repeal of the present State bone-dry law. Stimulated by a report that Calvin Coolidge was planning a public denunciation of prohibition, Republican leaders in both houses of Congress predicted there would be a wet plank in the platform to be adopted by the Republican National Convention next week. To cap the climax, Governor Roosevelt repeated and emphasized his demand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

However, the explosives were by no means confined to the field of national prohibition. There was one here in Washington when seven or eight thousand veterans descended upon us and proceeded to tell Uncle Sam "just where he got off." There was one in Iowa where Senator Smith W. Brookhart was officially notified that his services would not be required after March 4, 1933. There was another up in New York when Governor Roosevelt announced his decision not to postpone consideration of the charges against Mayor "Jimmy" Walker until after the National Democratic Convention in Chicago. There was another in the Senate when that body evidenced a disposition to heave the Garner bill out of the window. Many other minor political detonations followed each other in rapid succession. In ordinary circumstances each would have produced its thrill. As it was, they attracted just about as much attention as the popping of fire-crackers in a salvo of artillery.

For the time being, at least, the Senate has disposed of the tax bill. By no means does everybody believe that it is a good bill, an equitable bill, or a bill which will meet the present emergency. But it is agreed that it is better than none. Congress is now dealing with the equally important and difficult phase of the budget-balancing problem summed up in the term "economy." That any measure to reduce the cost of government could be put through without a hitch—or several hitches—was, of course, out of the question. The first hitch came over the Senate Committee's proposal to cut all the Federal salaries ten per cent. The House offered an utterly worthless compromise, with such generous exemptions as to make negligible any saving from this source. Now, even the Senate is weakening to reduce the cost of government.

As a matter of fact, horizontal salary slashes either in private business or the Government service are unfair and work genuine hardship in numerous individual instances. But in the emergency which confronts both the Government and commercial businesses it is necessary to adopt means of economy which would not be considered in normal times. In the case of Congress there is danger that too much squabbling over means will defeat the desired end, which is to save between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000 in this saving the reduction of the payroll must play a leading part. Personal sacrifices are essential and are being made, and no reason is seen why government employees should be exempted. The sacrifices asked are merely for the period of business abnormality.

In the Senate it has been proposed to substitute the furlough plan for that of a cut in the basic pay of Federal employees. While the system of furloughs without pay will undoubtedly work great hardship upon thousands of Federal workers, who are running behind even when working full time, many contend that the system is preferable to a pay cut, because it maintains the basic rate of pay and therefore encourages all industry to maintain wages. Federal workers, if the Senate plan should prevail, will be deprived of the opportunity to work full time for full pay, but they will at least be owners of the idle time, and in many cases can turn this time into extra money. They will have the satisfaction of knowing that their basic pay is undisturbed, and that a renewal of national activity will require the Government to command their full time again.

The truth is that never has the move for economy been free of political jockeying. And never has either the Administration or Congress been a firm ground as to what had been done or what could be done. With Washington full of accountants and bookkeepers, nobody in the Administration or in Congress made an honest effort to trace out the effect of proposed curtailments for the purpose of presenting a clear, definite and dependable picture of the results. Nobody either in the Administration or in Congress has gone to the trouble to guard against deception of the public through duplications of proposed curtailments. Nobody either in the Administration or in Congress has surely and reliably segregated mere postponements from actual curtailments. They all started in insincerity and they have gone on in carelessness and inefficiency.

The writer does not approve of the violation of confidences, but all signs fall in bad weather and it must be recounted that when Macbeth sat beside me in the south end of the Capitol, gazing down upon the manager, he propounded this classical question: "Can such things be, and overcome us like a summer cloud?"

"Sure," I whispered in reply.
"Sure," I whispered in reply.
"We're only a bunch of easy marks."

WASHINGTON SNAP SHOTS

Taken by The Helm News Service

The strangest military parade the Capital has ever witnessed—8,000 veterans reversing the route that so many of them had taken when they stepped jauntily down Pennsylvania avenue fifteen years ago on their way to France, trudged wearily up the avenue from behind the White House to the Capitol in the climax of their appeal for the bonus. Many pageants of all sorts and sizes have marched along this historic parade route of the nation, but never one which quite equaled this. They had come from a spontaneous migration from all over the United States. The parade was reviewed by 100,000 friendly citizens. There was not a semblance of disorder as they moved through lines of curious spectators, who cheered sporadically.

The heroes of 1917-18 marched in ragged, soiled shirts and rumpled olive drab uniforms which many of them last wore in the victory parades in their home towns when they returned triumphant after the armistice. Directly behind the leaders were 14 heroes of the World War, headed by James E. Rogers, of Miles City, Montana, the holder of the congressional Medal of Honor, the French Legion of Honor, the Victor Emanuel Medal and the French Croix de Guerre. To hear him tell it they were all awarded for "getting excited near Verdun and getting some information." But he obtained the information, it was learned by becoming a prisoner in the German army, getting the lists of strategic positions on the Hindenburg line, burning down a German prison camp, escaping to the allied lines and giving the information to the allied command.

Commander in Chief of the parade, George Almon, Portland, Oregon, lumberjack, said: "This is the forerunner of a fixed determination on the part of the American people to elect men to Congress who will stand solidly by their platform. There is no more loose change of the Constitution. The Constitution as it is written is the finest document for the welfare of the human race. It is the men in Congress who will permit people to go hungry who need to be replaced. Our aim for a peaceful demonstration has been achieved."

The ragged veterans' "army" demanding bonus payment grinned in reply to police persuasion that it pack up and go home. Walter W. Waters, of Portland, Oregon, elected commander in chief, said his 3,400 charges had decided to "disregard" a police invitation to get out of town. He said: Whenever the bonus is voted, we will be very glad to accept the police offer of free truckage out of the city. The parade showed the grim determination of the veterans to stay here until we get the bonus. Waters was the originator of the marcher movement.

The Senate Democratic program for extending Federal assistance to the unemployed was whipped into shape for immediate presentation when the Banking and Currency Committee rejected the administration plan and completed its approval of the Wagner program. In taking that course, the committee voted to report the second Wagner bill, authorizing first $1,000,000,000 in additional loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to self-liquidating projects of non-competitive character, and second, a $500,000,000 public works program to be financed by a bond issue. Previously the committee had reported the first Wagner bill, providing $300,000,000 to be advanced to states through the finance corporation to be used for emergency relief purposes.

Internal Revenue Bureau officials pressed forward with the preparation of the new taxes levied in the budget-balancing law, while the Postoffice Department announced a 3-cent increase in airmail postage rates. One temporary effect of trade stimulation growing out of provisions of the new law was noted, when it was pointed out that many retailers are preparing to stock up quickly on commodities on which the manufacturers' excise taxes will be levied. These taxes will not apply on affected articles until June 21.

With passage of the economy bill national budget balancing was again off center and bi-partisan cooperation in Congress to meet the country's most severe crisis appeared at an end. The Senate reversed itself on the proposal to extract a 10 per cent salary cut from Federal employees and substituted the Hoover-backed month-further plan. The vote was 38 to 35. This action, lost $40,000,000 in anticipated savings in running the Government. With $48,000,000 lost in refusal to discontinue veterans' allowances, the economy lacked $88,000,000 of the $238,000,000 it expected to furnish.

Controversy in the high command of the Democratic party over the permanent chairmanship continued to rage showing every symptom of lasting until the organization of the convention at Chicago. How to prevent it running on into the campaign and causing a breach which will have its effect in the election is something for which no one has been able thus far to present a formula. The Smith-Raskob combination wishes to have Joseph Shouse act as chairman, while the Roosevelt faction desires Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who they declare will be fair to everybody.

With the political retirement of Charles G. Dawes, who announced his resignation as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it is rumored that the office may be tendered to either former President Coolidge or Silas H. Strawn. Mr. Strawn has just retired as head of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Friends of the former President doubt that he would accept the post.

Dr. Charles Gray Shaw, professor of Philosophy at New York University, says: "Let's stop asking 'what's wrong with America!' Let each one ask, instead 'what's wrong with me?' Just as in the troublesome days of Hebrew history, the great commandment should be 'To your tents, O Israel.' Let every man go to his own tent and think things over."

FOOD OFFICIAL EXPLAINS

MANY KINDS OF VINEGARS
Few housewives know that there are many kinds of vinegar, varying widely in desirability for different purposes. If the housewife wants only an acidulating medium and is not especially concerned with the delicate shades of differences in flavor between the various kinds of vinegar, she can get such an article with complete assurance that it will contain the 4 per cent of acetic acid required under the pure food law. The sour taste of all vinegars is due to the natural acetic acid developed during the fermentation process.

According to H. A. Lepper, of the Federal Food and Drugs Administration, vinegars are classified as follows: Cider vinegar or apple vinegar, the kind commonly used, is made by fermentation of the juice of apples. Wine or grape vinegar is made in a similar way from the juice of grapes. Malt vinegar is the product resulting from the fermentation, without distillation, of

According to the law, ye are not allowed to kill squirrels until the first day of August. An' by that time, they'll be so tough ye cudn't stick a fork in the gravy.

Squirrels hov a world uv sense. They used to run a rail. Now, they walk a wire fence. An' balance wid their tail.

They used to be shy as mice. Now, they venture up in town. So stop once, an' think twice. Before ye shoot thim down.

An infusion of barley malt, or cereals whose starch has been converted by malt. Sugar vinegar results from the fermentation of solutions of sugar sirup, molasses, or refiner's sirup. Glucose or corn-sugar vinegar is made in like fashion from solutions of starch, sugar, or glucose. Spirit, distilled, grain, or white vinegar comes from the acetous fermentation of dilute distilled alcohol. Evaporated-apple or dried-apple vinegar is made by the fermentation of an infusion of dried apples.

The pure food law insists that a label designated descriptive of a vinegar shall be accurate. When the product is labeled with the word "vinegar" alone, it is either vinegar or apple vinegar. Other kinds may be labeled with the varietal name, such as "wine vinegar" or "malt vinegar." The Federal food and drugs act requires that all packaged or bottled foods, condiments, or beverages be labeled with a correct quantity-of-contents statement. The discerning housewife will be aided in making economical purchases if she will carefully note the words on the label which tell how much the container holds.

THE BICENTENNIAL

ART EXHIBITION
Thousands of visitors, many of them worldwide prominence, have discovered the combined historical and art interest of the great collection of famous paintings of George Washington now on exhibition at the Corcoran Gallery of Art in the National Capital. This assemblage of the best-known likenesses was collected by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission as part of the Government's own tribute to its first President during this year marking the Two Hundredth Anniversary of his birth.

Mrs. Hoover, the British Ambassador, General Pershing, the Italian Ambassador and many other dignitaries have already visited this exhibit.

The collection, nominally worth millions of dollars, is really priceless in value, both from the historical and the art angles. All but a few of the portraits made of Washington from life by the leading painters of his time are represented.

The collection, nominally worth millions of dollars, is really priceless in value, both from the historical and the art angles. All but a few of the portraits made of Washington from life by the leading painters of his time are represented.

Foremost among them is the celebrated Landsdowne Portrait, painted by Gilbert Stuart and now owned by the Earl of Rosebery, of London, who kindly loaned the treasure to the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission for this exhibit.

The Rosebery portrait is one of the famous paintings of the world. Executed from life in 1796, it was presented by Mrs. William Bingham of Philadelphia as a gift to the Marquis of Landsdowne. After several changes of ownership, it came into the possession of John Delaware Lewis, Member of the British House of Commons, and was exhibited at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, in 1876. Now its present owner, Lord Rosebery, has enabled Americans to see it a second time in their own country.

Flanking the Rosebery portrait are a number of other Washington portraits painted by Gilbert Stuart, together with paintings by Charles Wilson Peale, Edward Savage, John Trumbull, and others. The portraits by Charles Wilson Peale, also done from life, and representing Washington in his younger years as a Colonel of the Virginia Militia, are of great historical importance. The entire collection affords the clearest possible picture of Washington's actual physical appearance as seen by the most trustworthy eyes in his various phases, from early life to his last years.

Besides the fifty-three portraits of Washington, the collection includes paintings of Martha Washington, her children and grandchildren, and likenesses of all the notables of the time directly associated with the First of All Americans. For historical and art interest these rank only second to those of Washington himself. They bring together Washington's generals in the Revolutionary army, the members of his Cabinet, the Supreme Court of his day, besides other outstanding patriots such as Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Robert Morris, John Jay, John Marshall, James Madison, and Lafayette.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial reports that it labored for more than a year in assembling this collection. No such complete array of Washington portraits has ever been made, and nothing of the kind may be possible again as the paintings are drawn from all over the U. S. and the world, from private as well as public sources; and such is the rising value of the pictures that they may never again be trusted out of their possessors' hands.

By the very nature of things, this collection is one of the very few features of the Bicentennial Celebration that could not be taken to the people. But it has been made possible by the hundreds of thousands of Americans visiting in the city of Washington this year. The exhibit will continue until Thanksgiving Day, the day the Bicentennial celebration comes to a close.

Among the 50,000 visitors to the exhibit thus far have been notables from all over the world. Recently the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, was to be seen with Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams, commenting on the resemblance between the present representative of the Adams family and the Gilbert Stuart portrait of his great-great-grandfather, John Adams, first Vice-President, and Second President, which Secretary Adams has loaned to the exhibition.

Slipson county probably will have a barley acreage equal to that of last year, but only 65 per cent as much one-sucker tobacco.

GASOLINE

State Collected $244,150 in Taxes During Past Year, Auto Club Secretary Says

Taxists (Guns) Increase
Motorists in Kentucky used 174,302,800 gallons of gasoline during 1931, an increase of 4.7 per cent as compared to 1930, according to Glen F. Weisman, secretary manager of the Blue Grass Automobile Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association. Mr. Weisman declared that the car owners of the state paid a total of $244,150 in gasoline taxes.

The AAA club executive pointed out that motorists for the county as a whole used 15,407,483 gallons of gasoline last year, an increase of 4.4 per cent over 1930. The total tax amounted to $209,397,938, he added.

"The increase in gasoline consumption for the nation," said Mr. Weisman, may be largely attributed to increased commercial operations. This is indicated by the fact that in 15 states, including some with a large rural population, there was a decrease in the use of gasoline ranging from 3.1 per cent to 16.5 per cent.

"Whereas the commercial operations in Kentucky are about the same for 1930 and 1931, the increased gasoline consumption is due largely to the great flow of tourists who visit Kentucky during 1931. This has been a substantial source of income for the operators of filling stations and garages throughout the state."

"Nine states increased the gasoline tax rates last year, namely, Alabama, Arizona, Florida, Massachusetts, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee. The result is that the average tax for the country is now 3.48 cents per gallon.

The AAA official said that New York led the Nation in gasoline receipts, with $1,527,203,065. California ranked second with Pennsylvania third, both collecting over a billion dollars in taxes.

PAINTS OF LIGHT COLORS

REDUCE HEAT PENETRATION

Light-colored paints on roofs of refrigerator cars cause a reduction in heat absorption, reports of the United States Department of Agriculture. This fact was brought out in investigations which engineers of the bureau of agricultural engineering made on surface temperatures of refrigerator cars to determine an economical distribution of insulating material to the walls, floor, and roof.

Tests show that outside surface temperatures of a car and the resulting heat penetrates into the car were materially affected by solar radiation and by color of paint used on roof, sides, and ends. They also show that the difference between air and surface temperatures for stationary cars was about twice as great as for moving cars.

APARTMENT HOUSES FOR HENS

ARE MODERN EGG FACTORIES

Hens become laying machines and nothing more in the new apartment hen houses which are replacing the old type single-story laying houses on many poultry farms, reports the United States Department of Agriculture.

Some of these new laying houses are from two to six stories high and have a capacity of several thousand hens. The birds are confined in these modern houses and are never on the ground after they go into the houses as pullets in the fall.

Special efforts are made to protect the health of the birds in these egg factories. The windows are arranged to allow the maximum amount of sunlight in the house, and cod-liver oil is fed to provide vitamins A and D. Birds in large houses are less affected by changes in the weather than those in small houses.

The successful management of apartment laying houses requires careful attention, the department cautions. Rations must contain all the essential ingredients, properly balanced, because the hens have no chance to supplement their feed with greens, minerals, or grain found on the range. In one of the department's experiments a slightly deficient diet gave fairly good egg production with hens on range, but gave poor results when fed to hens confined in houses.

Ventilation in large laying houses is provided by mechanical ventilating systems. Many houses are insulated and are heated during the cold months. It is absolutely necessary, says the department, that large houses of this type be kept clean and sanitary, or losses will be great.

Very few good fish have been caught so far this summer out of the streams of this county.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

A Florida salesman picked up a hitchhiker. He noticed that every sharp turn in the road threw the stranger against him. His suspicion was verified on finding his watch gone. Stopping his car, he picked up a tool and, threatening his companion, demanded: "Now, hand over that watch and make it snappy!"

The other handed the watch over and was left on the road. When the salesman later related the experience to his wife, she replied: "Why, you forgot your watch this morning. It has been lying on your dresser all day!"

The swimming season is here. We again call attention to the dangers that lurk in unknown streams and ponds, and urge parents to prohibit their children from swimming or wading in unfamiliar water, or going to ponds and streams unattended. Children who cannot swim should not be allowed to go wading in streams alone, because of the possibility of stepping into a deep hole and drowning, and even those who can swim are not immune from the danger.

There is perhaps no more lamentable death than one that comes from drowning. They are so easily preventable. Let's be more careful than ever before.

Repeal Utterances Rock Nation On Eve Of Republican Gathering

(BY FRED HOLMES)
Washington Correspondent for The Boone County Recorder

Not just one explosion but a whole series of them last week jolted a lot of apathetic sleep-heads into a state of surprised mental activity. John D. Rockefeller, Jr., touched off the first one when that erstwhile most liberal contributor to the support of our noble experiment told us why he had come to the conclusion that the experiment was lacking in nobility. And as if that was not enough to cause spasms in the camps of the drys, along came John R. Holt, president of the International Missionary Council of the World's Alliance of the Y. M. C. A., with announcement that he had come to favor resubmission of the prohibition question to the people of the United States. Down in Florida, Mark Wilcox, who advocates repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, eliminated from Congress the able and popular Ruth Bryan Owen, a crusading dry. Out in Indiana after one of the wildest scenes of turmoil at an Indiana political convention in many years, the Indiana Republican party abandoned its traditional role of champion of prohibition and adopted the Resolutions Committee's plank providing for a referendum by States on prohibition and for repeal of the present State bone-dry law. Stimulated by a report that Calvin Coolidge was planning a public denunciation of prohibition, Republican leaders in both houses of Congress predicted there would be a wet plank in the platform to be adopted by the Republican National Convention next week. To cap the climax Governor Roosevelt repeated and emphasized his demand for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

However, the explosives were by no means confined to the field of national prohibition. There was one here in Washington when seven or eight thousand veterans descended upon us and proceeded to tell Uncle Sam "just where he got off." There was one in Iowa where Senator Smith W. Brookhart was officially notified that his services would not be required after March 4, 1933. There was another up in New York when Governor Roosevelt announced his decision not to postpone consideration of the charges against Mayor "Jimmy" Walker until after the National Democratic Convention in Chicago. There was another in the Senate when that body evidenced a disposition to heave the Garner bill out of the window. Many other minor political detonations followed each other in rapid succession. In ordinary circumstances each would have produced its thrill. As it was, they attracted just about as much attention as would the popping of fire-crackers in a salvo of artillery.

For the time being, at least, the Senate has disposed of the tax bill. By no means does everybody believe that it is a good bill, an equitable bill, or a bill which will meet the present emergency. But it is agreed that it is better than none. Congress is now dealing with the equally important and difficult phase of the budget-balancing problem summed up in the term "economy." That any measure to reduce the cost of government could be put through without a hitch—or several hitches—was, of course, out of the question. The first hitch came over the Senate Committee's proposal to cut all Federal salaries ten per cent. The House offered an utterly worthless compromise, with such generous exemptions as to make negligible any saving from this source. Now, even the Senate is wakening.

As a matter of fact, horizontal salary slashes either in private business or the Government service are unfair and work genuine hardship in numerous individual instances. But in the emergency which confronts both the Government and commercial businesses it is necessary to adopt means of economy which would not be considered in normal times. In the case of Congress there is danger that too much squabbling over means will defeat the desired end, which is to save between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000. In this saving the reduction of the payroll must play a leading part. Personal sacrifices are essential and are being made, and no reason is seen why government employees should be exempted. The sacrifices asked are merely for the period of business abnormality.

In the Senate it has been proposed to substitute the furlough plan for that of a cut in the basic pay of Federal employees. While the system of furloughs without pay will undoubtedly work great hardship upon thousands of Federal workers, who are running behind even when working full time, many contend that the system is preferable to a pay cut, because it maintains the basic rate of pay and therefore encourages all industry to maintain wages. Federal workers, if the Senate plan should prevail, will be deprived of the opportunity to work full time for full pay, but they will at least be owners of the idle time, and in many cases can turn this time into extra money. They will have the satisfaction of knowing that their basic pay is undisturbed, and that a renewal of national activity will require the Government to command their full time again.

The truth is that never has the move for economy been free of political jockeying. And never has either the Administration or Congress been a firm ground as to what had been done or what could be done. With Washington full of accountants and bookkeepers, nobody in the Administration or in Congress made an honest effort to trace out the effect of proposed curtailments for the purpose of presenting a clear, definite and dependable picture of the results. Nobody either in the Administration or in Congress has gone to the trouble to guard against deception of the public through duplications of proposed curtailments. Nobody either in the Administration or in Congress has surely and reliably segregated mere postponements from actual curtailments. They all started in insincerity and they have gone on in careless inefficiency.

The writer does not approve of the violation of confidences, but all signs fall in bad weather and it must be recounted that when Macbeth sat beside me in the south end of the Capitol, gazing down upon the menagerie, he propounded this classical question: "Can such things be, and overcome us like a summer cloud?"

"Sure," I whispered in reply, "We're only a bunch of easy marks."

WASHINGTON SNAP SHOTS

Taken by The Helm News Service

The strangest military parade the Capital has ever witnessed—8,000 veterans reversing the route that so many of them had taken when they stepped jauntily down Pennsylvania avenue fifteen years ago on their way to France, trudged wearily up the avenue from behind the White House to the Capitol in the climax of their appeal for the bonus. Many pageants of all sorts and sizes have marched along this historic parade route of the nation, but never one which quite equaled this. They had come from a spontaneous migration from all over the United States. The parade was reviewed by 100,000 friendly citizens. There was not a semblance of disorder as they moved through lines of curious spectators, who cheered sporadically.

The heroes of 1917-18 marched in ragged, soiled shirts and rumpled olive drab uniforms which many of them last wore in the victory parades in their home towns when they returned triumphant after the armistice. Directly behind the leaders were 14 heroes of the World War, headed by James E. Rogers, of Miles City, Montana, the holder of the congressional Medal of Honor, the French Legion of Honor, the Victor Emmanuel Medal and the French Croix de Guerre. To hear him tell it they were all awarded for "getting excited near Verdun and getting some information." But he obtained the information, it was learned, by becoming a prisoner in the German army, getting the lists of strategic positions on the Hindenburg line, burning down a German prison camp, escaping to the allied lines and giving the information to the allied command.

Commander in Chief of the parade, George Alman, Portland, Oregon, lumberjack, said: "This is the forerunner of a fixed determination on the part of the American people to elect men to Congress who will stand solidly by their platform. There is no need for a change of the Constitution. The Constitution as it is written is the finest document for the welfare of the human race. It is the men in Congress who will permit people to go hungry who need to be replaced. Our aim for a peaceful demonstration has been achieved."

The ragged veterans' "army" demanding bonus payment, gripped in reply to police persuasion this, it pack up and go home. Walter W. Waters, of Portland, Oregon, election commander in chief, said his 3,000 charges had decided to "disregard" a police invitation to get out of town. He said: "Whenever the bonus is voted, we will be very glad to accept the police offer of free truckage out of the city. The parade showed the grim determination of the veterans to stay here until we get the bonus." Waters was the originator of the marcher movement.

The Senate Democratic program for extending Federal assistance to the unemployed was whipped into shape for immediate presentation when the Banking and Currency Committee rejected the administration plan and completed its approval of the Wagner program. In taking that course, the committee voted to report the second Wagner bill, authorizing, first, $1,500,000,000 in additional loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to self-liquidating projects of non-competitive character, and, second, a $500,000,000 public works program to be financed by a bond issue. Previously the committee had reported the first Wagner bill, providing $300,000,000 to be advanced to states through the finance corporation to be used for emergency relief purposes.

Internal Revenue Bureau officials pressed forward with the preparation of the machinery for collection of the new taxes levied in the budget-balancing law, while the Postoffice Department announced a 3-cent increase in airmail postage rates. One temporary effect of trade stimulation growing out of provisions of the new law was noted, when it was pointed out that many retailers are preparing to stock up quickly on commodities on which the manufacturers' excise taxes will be levied. These taxes will not apply on affected articles until June 21.

With passage of the economy bill national budget balancing was again outcentered and bi-partisan cooperation in Congress to meet the country's most severe crisis appeared at an end. The Senate reversed itself on the proposal to extract a 10 per cent salary cut from Federal employees and substituted the Hoover-backed month-further plan. The vote was 38 to 35. This action, lost $400,000,000 in anticipated savings in running the Government. With $8,000,000 loss in refusal to discontinue veterans' allowances, the economy lacked $88,000,000 of the $238,000,000 it expected to furnish.

Controversy in the high command of the Democratic party over the permanent chairmanship continued to rage showing every symptom of lasting until the organization of the convention at Chicago. How to prevent it running on into the campaign and causing a breach which will have its effect in the election is something for which no one has been able thus far to present a formula. The Smith-Raskob combination wishes to have J. P. Shouse, act as chairman, while the Roosevelt faction desires Senator Thomas J. Walsh, of Montana, who they declare will be fair to everybody.

With the political retirement of Charles G. Dawes, who announced his resignation as head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, it is rumored that the office may be tendered to either former President Coolidge or Silas H. Strawn. Mr. Strawn has just retired as head of the United States Chamber of Commerce. Friends of the former President doubt that he would accept the post.

Dr. Charles Gray Shaw, professor of Philosophy at New York University, says: "Let's stop asking 'what's wrong with America?' Let each one ask, instead 'what's wrong with me?' Just as in the troublesome days of Hebrew history, the great commandment should be 'To your tents, O Israel.' Let every man go to his own tent and think things over."

FOOD OFFICIAL EXPLAINS MANY KINDS OF VINEGARS

Few housewives know that there are many kinds of vinegar, varying widely in desirability for different purposes. If the housewife wants only an acidulating medium and is not especially concerned with the delicate shades of differences in flavor between the various kinds of vinegar, she can get such an article with complete assurance that it will contain the 4 per cent of acetic acid required under the pure food law. The sour taste of all vinegars is due to the natural acetic acid developed during the fermentation process.

According to H. A. Lepper, of the Federal Food and Drugs Administration, vinegars are classified as follows: Cider vinegar or apple vinegar, the kind commonly used, is made by fermentation of the juice of apples. Wine or grape vinegar is made in a similar way from the juice of grapes. Malt vinegar is the product resulting from the fermentation, without distillation, of an infusion of barley malt, or cereals whose starch has been converted by malt. Sugar vinegar results from the fermentation of solutions of sugar sirup, molasses, or refiner's sirup. Glucose or corn-sugar vinegar is made in like fashion from solutions of starch, sugar, or glucose. Spirit, distilled, grain, or white vinegar comes from the acetous fermentation of dilute distilled alcohol. Evaporated-apple or dried-apple vinegar is made by the fermentation of an infusion of dried apples.

According to the law, ye are not allowed to kill squirrels until the first day of August. An' by that toime, they'll be so tough ye cudn't stick a fork in the gravy.

Squirrels hav a world uv sense. They used to run a rail. Now, they walk a wire fence. An' balance wid their tail.

They used to be shy as mice. Now, they venture up in town. So stop once, an' think twice. Before ye shoot thim down.

The pure food law insists that a label designated descriptive of a vinegar shall be accurate. When the product is labeled with the word "vinegar" alone, it is older vinegar or apple vinegar. Other kinds may be labeled with the varietal name, such as "wine vinegar" or "malt vinegar." The Federal food and drugs act requires that all packaged or bottled foods, condiments, or beverages be labeled with a correct quantity-of-contents statement. The discerning housewife will be aided in making economical purchases if she will carefully note the words on the label which tell how much the container holds.

THE BICENTENNIAL

Thousands of visitors, many of them world-wide prominence, have discovered the combined historical and art interest of the great collection of famous paintings of George Washington now on exhibition at the Corcoran Gallery of Art in the National Capital. This assemblage of the best-known likenesses was collected by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission as part of the Government's own tribute to its first President during this year marking the Two Hundredth Anniversary of his birth.

Mrs. Hoover, the British Ambassador, General Pershing, the Italian Ambassador and many other dignitaries have already visited this exhibit.

The collection, nominally worth millions of dollars, is really priceless in value, both from the historical and the art angles. All but a few of the portraits made of Washington from life by the leading painters of his time are represented.

The collection, nominally worth millions of dollars, is really priceless in value, both from the historical and the art angles. All but a few of the portraits made of Washington from life by the leading painters of his time are represented.

Foremost among them is the celebrated "Landsdowne Portrait," painted by Gilbert Stuart and now owned by the Earl of Rosebery, of London, who kindly loaned the treasure to the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission for this exhibit.

The Rosebery portrait is one of the famous paintings of the world. Executed from life in 1786, it was presented by Mrs. William Bingham of Philadelphia as a gift to the Marquis of Landsdowne. After several changes of ownership, it came into the possession of John Delaware Lewis, Member of the British House of Commons, and was exhibited at the Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia, in 1876. Now its present owner, Lord Rosebery, has enabled Americans to see it a second time in their own country.

Ranking the Rosebery portrait are a number of other Washington portraits painted by Gilbert Stuart together with paintings by Charles Wilson Peale, Edward Savage, John Trumbull, and others. The portraits by Charles Wilson Peale, also done from life, and representing Washington in his younger years as a Colonel of the Virginia Militia, are of great historical importance. The entire collection affords the clearest possible reflection of Washington's actual physical appearance as seen by the most trustworthy eyes in its various phases, from early life to his last years.

Besides the fifty-three portraits of Washington, the collection includes paintings of Martha Washington, her children and grandchildren, and likenesses of all the notables of the time directly associated with the First of All Americans. For historical and art interest these rank only second to those of Washington himself. They bring together Washington's generals in the Revolutionary army, the members of his Cabinet, the Supreme Court of his day, besides other outstanding patriots such as Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, Robert Morris, John Jay, John Marshall, James Madison, James Monroe, James McMillen, and Lafayette.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial reports that it labored for more than a year in assembling this collection. No such complete array of Washington portraits has ever been made, and nothing of the kind may be possible again as the paintings are drawn from all over the U. S. and the world, from private as well as public sources; and such is the rising value of the pictures that they may never again be trusted out of their possessors' hands.

By the very nature of things, this collection is one of the very few features of the Bicentennial Celebration that could not be taken to the people. But it has been and will be a magnet to the hundreds of thousands of Americans visiting the city of Washington this year. The exhibit will continue until Thanksgiving Day, the day the Bicentennial celebration comes to a close.

Among the 50,000 visitors to the exhibit thus far have been notables from all over the world. Recently the British Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsey, was to be seen with Francis Adams, commenting on the resemblance between the present representative of the Adams family and the Gilbert Stuart portrait of his great-grandfather, John Adams, first Vice-President and Second President, which Secretary Adams has loaned to the exhibition.

Simpson county probably will have a burley acreage equal to that of last year, but only 65 per cent as much one-sucker tobacco.

GASOLINE

State Collected $1,000,000 in Taxes During Past Year. State Club Secretary Says

Tourists' Gasoline Increase Motorists in Kentucky used 178,302,604 gallons of gasoline during 1914, an increase of 47 per cent as compared to 1913, according to Glen F. Weinman, secretary manager of the Blue Grass Automobile Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association. Mr. Weinman declared that the car owners of the state paid a total of $1,010,130 in gasoline taxes.

The AAA club executive pointed out that motorists for the county a whole used 18,497,453 gallons of gasoline last year, an increase of 44 per cent over 1913. The total tax amounted to $934,897,458, he added.

"The increase in gasoline consumption for the nation," said Mr. Weinman, may be largely attributed to increased commercial operations. This is indicated by the fact that in 12 states, including some with a large rural population, there was a decrease in the use of gasoline ranging from 3.1 per cent to 16.5 per cent.

"Whereas the commercial operations in Kentucky are about the same for 1900 and 1913, the increased gasoline consumption is due largely to the great flow of tourists who visit Kentucky during 1913. This has been a substantial source of income for the operators of filling stations and garages throughout the state.

"Nine states increased the gasoline tax rates last year, namely, Alabama, Arizona, Florida, Massachusetts, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma and Tennessee. The result is that the average tax for the country is now 3.48 cents per gallon. The AAA official said that New York led the Nation in gasoline receipts, with $1,527,203,055. California ranked second with Pennsylvania third, both collecting over a billion dollars in taxes.

PAINTS OF LIGHT COLORS

Light-colored paints on roofs of refrigerator cars cause a reduction in heat absorption, reports of the United States Department of Agriculture. This fact was brought out in investigations which engineers of the bureau of agricultural engineering made on surface temperatures of refrigerator cars to determine an economical distribution of insulating material to the walls, floor, and roof.

Tests show that outside surface temperatures of a car and the resulting heat penetrates into the car was materially affected by solar radiation and by color of paint used on roof, sides, and ends. They also show that the difference between air and surface temperatures for stationary cars was about twice as great as for moving cars.

Under like conditions of radiation and exposure to sunshine it was found that car surfaces painted red are hotter than those painted yellow but cooler than those painted black.

APARTMENT HOUSES FOR HENS

ARE MODERN EGG FACTORIES

Hens become laying machines and nothing more in the new apartment hen houses which are replacing the old type single-story laying houses on many poultry farms, reports the United States Department of Agriculture.

Some of these new laying houses are from two to six stories high and have a capacity of several thousand hens. The birds are confined in these modern houses and are never on the ground after they go into the houses as pullets in the fall.

Special efforts are made to protect the health of the birds in these egg factories. The windows are arranged to allow the maximum amount of sunlight in the house, and cod-liver oil is fed to provide vitamins A and D. Birds in large houses are less affected by changes in the weather than those in small houses.

The successful management of apartment laying houses requires careful attention, the department cautions. Rations must contain all the essential ingredients, properly balanced, because the hens have no chance to supplement their feed with greens, minerals, or grain found on the range. In one of the department's experiments a slightly deficient diet gave fairly good egg production with hens on range, but gave poor results when fed to hens confined in houses.

Ventilation in large laying houses is provided by mechanical ventilating systems. Many houses are insulated and are heated during the cold months. It is absolutely necessary, says the department, that large houses of this type be kept clean and sanitary, or losses will be great.

Very few good fish have been caught so far this summer out of the streams of this county.

STRANGER THAN FICTION

A Florida salesman picked up a hitchhiker. He noticed that every sharp turn in the road threw the stranger against him. His suspicion was verified on finding his watch gone. Stopping his car, he picked up a tool and, threatening his companion, demanded: "Now, hand over that watch and make it snappy!" The other handed the watch over and was left on the road. When the salesman later related the experience to his wife, she replied: "Why, you forgot your watch this morning. It has been lying on your dresser all day!"

The swimming season is here. We again call attention to the dangers that lurk in unknown streams and ponds, and urge parents to prohibit their children from swimming or wading in unfamiliar water, or going to ponds and streams unattended. Children who cannot swim should not be allowed to go wading in streams alone, because of the possibility of stepping into a deep hole and drowning, and even those who can swim are not immune from the danger.

There is perhaps no more lamentable death than one that comes from drowning. They are so easily preventable. Let's be more careful than ever before.

CONSTANCE

The Bible School attendance was good again on June 12th. Much interest is being shown in all departments. The young men are leading by a small margin in their contest with the young women of the Bible School. Remember to bring your Bibles or New Testaments, as they are counted in the contest. Church attendance also counts, so come prepared to stay for the whole service.

The communion service still has the central position in our worship, as it had in the days of the Apostles.

Something new is in store for all who attend the first Christian Endeavor service ever held in the church at Constance. The regular topic will be used and a good program is being planned by the leaders.

THE SPICE IN SPORT

ing day after day by the margin of a single run. With any kind of push behind them, these men would be winning their games. In addition, Johnson is out of the game on account of illness. The team has already dropped twelve games by the margin of one run, most of them low-score games. Owen Carroll, for example, has lost six games, three of them being 3 to 2 defeats and another 4 to 3, in twelve innings.

Well Is Determined
Thru it all, President Sidney Well remains determined to give Cincinnati fans a real ball team and is not at all broken up by the team's recent performance. The Red chieftain has worked hard to build up his club, and is working even harder now to strengthen the line-up. His recovery of Hendrick from the Cardinals was hailed as a smart move. The veteran should do much to improve the team. Some of the fans are inclined to ridicule the President of the Reds for the club's slump, which is extremely foolish unwarranted. Cincinnati never had a club owner who worked as tirelessly as Sidney Well. As we have often stated before, a winning club isn't built in a day—and even winning teams will have their slumps. It's a quaint old base ball custom.

Six Quality For Open

The most sensational golf championship ever played in the Cincinnati district marked the qualifying for the National Open in the Queen City last week. Six players made the grade after a hectic and bitter struggle over 36 holes at the Hyde Park Country Club. Otto Hackbarth, veteran Cincinnati Country Club professional, finished with medal honors with 142 strokes. Johnny Florio, Ohio State University champion from Columbus, Ohio, and Johnny Fischer, Western Conference titlist from Cincinnati, tied for second with 143 each. Fourth, fifth, and sixth places went to Eph Collins, unknown and unheralded amateur from Cincinnati; Art Smith, Summit Hills Country Club Professional in Northern Kentucky; and Leonard Schmutte, nationally known professional from Lima, O. These three tied with scores of 144.

McGraw Quits Game

The biggest news in base ball last week was the announcement that John McGraw, for 30 years manager of the New York Giants, has resigned his job and intended to retire, leaving the managerial work to Bill Terry, star first-sacker of the Giants. The passing of McGraw from the game marks the end of one of base ball's greatest careers. There never was anyone quite like old "Jaw" and probably never will be again. McGraw knows just about all there is to know about the pastime, and his record over the 30 year period has never been approached by any other pilot.

There has been some talk about McGraw having been "fired," that he did not resign until he was obliged to do so. Although this is possibly the case, there are no facts to prove that the "grand old man" of the Giants was forced out. The team's poor showing during the early part of the season and its subsequent spurt since Terry took over the reins might lead to that impression, but that is all. McGraw has been ill for some time and has not been able to stay with the club. He was undoubtedly anxious to quit in order to preserve his health. Certainly, McGraw has lost none of his craftsmanship that won 10 National League pennants for the Giants and enabled them to finish second 10 times.

Sarazen Wins Title

Gene Sarazen, stocky American professional golfer, added another title to his already large collection last week when he annexed the British Open Crown at Sandwich, England. What golf that man did shoot to win it, too. Gene was 13 strokes under par for the 72 holes of medal play over as tough a course as England has to offer. Par at Sandwich is 74, which gives you some idea of the length of the course. Sarazen shot 70 on the first 18 holes to take the lead, four under par, and followed with a 59 in the second round. Again, in the third session, Sarazen scored 70 and ended with a 74 on the last 18 holes to win from MacDonald Smith, a fellow American, by five strokes. Sarazen had 283, Smith 288.

Black Wilson Comes Back

When the Chicago Cubs released Wood Wilson, a lot of folks thought that the star slugger was all washed up and would soon disappear from the game. Brooklyn grabbed him to fill the vacancy left when Babe Herman was traded to the Reds, and for a time Hack remained on the sick list and was of very little service to the Dodgers. Now, however, the fiery center fielder is back in the game and going strong. Hack is batting well over .300, and has already chalked up ten home runs with the promise of boosting a good many more various walls before the season is over. The real reason why Wilson couldn't play ball for the Cubs was Roger Hornsby by Wilson thoroughly detested the Cub manager and simply wouldn't play for him. Hornsby never liked Wilson after Hack attended a farewell dinner to Joe McCarthy when McCarthy was kicked out by the Cubs and signed up by the New York Yankees. The dinner was something of a protest against the late William Wrigley's high-handed action and a criticism of Hornsby. At least, the "Rajah" inferred it to be and never forgave the offending players.

BIRD A WEEK COLUMN

The Barn Swallow (Hirundo erythrogastra) is one of the most familiar birds around the farm and one of the greatest insect destroyers. The female is duller in plumage and has a less forked tail than the male. The forehead and throat is chestnut and entire under parts buffy. The tail deeply forked and has a white spot on the inner web of each feather except the central pair. This is the most graceful and beautiful of all our swallows, and the most common about barns, stables and farm houses.

From daylight till dark on tireless wings it seeks its prey. The inside beams and rafters of barns are its favorite haunts where it builds a bowl-shaped structure made up of mud cemented together with the birds saliva and lined with feathers, attached to the rafters in barns, the nest opening being at the top instead of at the side. Most modern barns are so tightly constructed that swallows cannot enter them, therefore in many parts of the country barn swallows are not so numerous as they once were.

The nests are sometimes infested with parasites, but they are not the ones the careful housewife dreads. There need be no fear of the infestation spreading to the house. Insects taken on wing constitutes the almost exclusive diet of the barn swallow. Half consists of flies. Beetles come not in order such as the dung beetle of the May beetle family, that may be seen swarming over the pasture late in the afternoon. They catch both wasps and bees, also ants. They delight in skimming over the rolling meadows or across the ponds, rising with the wind, now swooping downward like an arrow. Their song is a long continuous, rapid twitter. They nest both in pairs and colonies and are more widely distributed during the breeding season than any other of our swallows. They like to dart in and out the wide open doors of old fashioned barns. Their sweet call notes and twittering song may be heard early in the morning. They are familiar to every farm boy who lives in the country. Barn swallows take first rank among a family of birds famous for their great power of flight. They capture their prey nearer the ground than do other swallows.

They go skimming along low down, rising now and then, turning quickly to left and right, up and down and do it with great ease and grace. They will return year after year to their rows of mud baskets hidden away beneath the rafters of an old fashioned barn with its great doors hospitably opened bidding them welcome. They are real seasons, the writer has watched them on the muddy banks of the mud which enter into the construction of their nests. They have long, powerful wings and very weak feet, therefore they present an excellent illustration of the effect of

In the Spring a Young Woman's Fancy Cooking Turns to Peanut Butter

By Judge Gordon
Don't know whether it is because spring is here or whether it just happens that way, but I do know that the demand for certain delicious but rarely prepared foods increases around May and June. Therefore, a few notes on peanut butter, which is quite timely, because nothing is easier to make delicious dishes from and few sandwich spreads are as popular. I like peanut butter, my family likes peanut butter, and many people who have heard me express my liking for it.

It has always been my contention that men are good cooks, but I am not sure that it is impossible for them to achieve the uniformly high perfection reached by women cooks. Men are the high drivers of cookery; women are the long distance swimmers. Just to take a high dive myself, let me suggest four peanut butter dishes to you. I hope you'll like them.

Peanut Butter Pastry

1 1/2 cups flour 6 tablespoons shortening
1/4 teaspoon salt 3 tablespoons peanut butter
1/2 cup cold water
Mix and sift the flour, baking powder, and salt, and cut in the shortening and peanut butter. Add just enough cold water to hold the mixture together. Roll out the pastry to the thickness of pie crust, and make into small tart shells. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.). Fill with jam or preserves.

Peanut Butter Cakes

1/2 cup butter 3 cups sifted flour
1/2 cup peanut butter 4 teaspoons baking powder
1 cup sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 eggs 1 cup milk
Cream together the fat, peanut butter, and sugar, and add the beaten eggs, and the sifted dry ingredients alternately, with the milk. Add the vanilla. Bake in greased muffin tins in a moderate oven (350° F.) for about 20 minutes.

Peanut Butter Biscuits

2 cups flour 2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup peanut butter 2 tablespoons fat
1/2 cup milk 3 tablespoons peanut butter
Mix and sift dry ingredients and cut in the fat and peanut butter. Turn out onto a floured board, knead lightly, roll, and cut into biscuits. Bake in a hot oven (400° F.) for about 15 minutes.

use and disuse of the limbs of the body. They use the wings much during the day and at night they roost on a perch which they can grasp quite easily. During the migration they associate in countless numbers at certain roosting places. These places may be in trees or wet marshes, they migrate by day. Their wonderful power of flight enables them to escape dangers, and to make long journeys. While they are not distinguished as vocalists, their chirpy twittering notes have a cheerful homelike quality. They usually lay from five to seven eggs, white dotted with reddish brown spots on the larger end.

How Birds Migrate

June is the month of the year when birds stay at home wherever that be. They are busy nest-building, egg-laying, incubating and taking care of the young. This absorbs their time entirely. At this time they exhibit traits shown only during the breeding season. The full development of the bird's year has been reached in June, and in July those hatched early like the Robin and Grackle, are thinking about making the trip south. Those which rear only one brood a year accompanied by their parents now wander about the country and from one locality to another. The Grackles, Redwing Blackbird, Swallows etc. This takes place usually by the 15th of July. The following month the post-breeding takes place. They are less in evidence during molt than at any other time. This may be due to their silence and inactivity, or to their departure for their southern home. After August 15th migration from the north begins, and most birds to be found during the month of August will be found in the marshes. Such birds as the Barn, Tree and Cliff Swallows, Black birds and Red-wings, Blackbirds. While the woods contain Wood Pewees and Red-eyed Vireos. One may spend hours in the woods during the month of August and see mother birds. These birds are still in song and continue until migration takes place.

APPELLATE COURT

AFFIRMS JUDGMENT OF CIRCUIT JUDGE VALLANDINGHAM IN ELAMERE ANNEXATION SUIT—BOONE COUNTY RESIDENTS WILL NOT BECOME TAXPAYERS TO KENTON TOWN

The Kentucky Court of Appeals rendered a decision last Tuesday affirming the judgment of Circuit Judge J. G. Vallandingham in the case of Henrietta Tanner against the Town of Elamere. Judge Vallandingham's decision had been made at the last August term of the Boone Circuit Court.

The suit, which was filed by Attorneys B. H. Riley and John L. Vest on March 24th, 1930, stated that Mrs. Tanner's property had been annexed to the Town of Elamere and that a tax amounted to approximately twenty-three dollars and that subsequently, and upon her refusal to pay same, a penalty amounting to some thirteen dollars had been added.

A number of the other property owners in Nonpartiel Subdivision, a section involved in the annexation, had been interested in the outcome of the suit.

Judge Vallandingham's opinion, which was affirmed by the Appellate Court, brings to an end a controversy that has extended over a period of several years and is especially popular with a number of Boone county citizens who had no desire whatever to become a part of a Kenton county town, especially when it meant additional taxation, already a burden too hard to bear during these trying times.

FRANK L. POWERS, JR., WEDS

Frank L. Powers, Jr., former resident of this section of Boone county, now of Carrollton, was married on June 20 to Miss Elizabeth Tobin, of Harrodsburg, Ky. The groom is well known in Boone county and is a tobacco buyer for the P. Lorillard Company and also operates the Carrollton Tobacco Co., wholesale dealers.

TAYLORSPOUT WAS WINNER

Contrary to the result printed in the Recorder last week the Taylorsport team in the Sunday School League was the winner of the record breaking 20-inning game between Bellevue and that team a week ago last Saturday. The Recorder was of the opinion that the Bellevue team was the winner. We make the correction with apologies to the Taylorsport team for the error.

DRENCH SHEEP

Drenching has become the most important method of ridding the flock of stomach worms. It is not only one of the most effective but is also the least expensive in that 10 cents worth of bluestone or one pound will supply enough material to treat 400 adult sheep. It may thus be considered a matter of industry rather than expense. While drenching may be considered the most practical method of eliminating regular changes of pasture may be considered the most practical method of prevention.

Boone county sheep raisers who are cooperating with county agent H. R. Forkner in a regular drenching schedule are using regularly each month until freezing weather in the fall a drench of four ounces of bluestone to three gallons of water. Four ounces of Black Leaf 40 is added to the above amount every third drenching. An adult sheep receives three to four ounces of the above mixture and a lamb from a half dose down to depending on the size. Where such a plan is followed indications show that the sheep do not suffer the huge loss resulting from intestinal parasites. The purpose of these demonstrations is to prevent the loss that comes regularly in the fall. Remember a stick in time saves from nine to ninety-nine.

CAPONS

Many poultrymen have been asking about caponizing demonstrations. The County Agent will be glad to give in an educational way a number of caponizing demonstrations where sufficient number of birds are included to make the work worth while. Cockerels from one to two pounds are best suited for this work.

Misses Lucille Ryle and Londa Lee Jarrell and Messrs. Frank Rouse and Franklin Maurer motored to Louisville last Sunday.

GOOD GARDENS IN THE COUNTY

Boone county farmers are paying more attention than usual to their gardens this year and as a result the garden prospects are good. One may drive along any road in the county and soon be attracted by a fine appearance of the many farm gardens. A good garden is a money saving item for any family and it looks as though many thousands of dollars will be saved the farmers of Boone this year through the production of good gardens.

Deaths

R. T. RENAKER

R. T. Renaker, passed away Sunday afternoon at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. T. Ammerman, Cynthiana, Ky., but made his home with his brother J. G. Renaker, of Florence, Ky. Funeral services were conducted Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock at the Mt. Zion Methodist church, Renaker, Ky., by Rev. Geo. Traynor, pastor of the Florence M. E. church, after which he was laid to rest in the nearby cemetery.

R. T. Renaker is survived by four brothers, J. G., A. J., Paul and A. P. Renaker, all of Florence, Ky., and three sisters Mrs. J. T. Ammerman, Cynthiana, Ky., Mrs. W. F. Mitchell, Winchester, Ky., and Mrs. Robert Miller, Florence, besides many other relatives and friends.

Funeral Directors Smith-Rees Co. of Cynthiana, Ky., and Philip Taliaferro, of Erlanger, jointly handled the funeral arrangements.

MRS. LENA FRIEDMAN

Mrs. Lena Friedman, aged 71 years passed away Thursday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wallace Rouse, near Union. The remains were taken to the Taliaferro Funeral Home for preparation. Funeral was from the late residence Saturday morning, with requiem high mass at St. Paul church at 8 a. m. by the Rev. E. J. Esch, pastor, after which the remains were taken to St. Mary's cemetery for interment by the side of her husband, Gus Friedman.

Mrs. Friedman is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Wallace Rouse, of the Union neighborhood, with whom she made her home, Mrs. Elizabeth Hinderberger, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Caroline Wirt, of Winter Haven, Fla., besides several grandchildren and many relatives and friends.

The pall-bearers were Joe and Bernard Kneale, Mr. Ruffra, Albert Schweibold, Mike O'Hara and L. W. Scott.

Funeral Director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Everett Light Hickman and little daughter, Patsy, have returned to Burlington after spending a few days with relatives in Cynthiana, Ky.

SCENE OF DEATH OF UNIDENTIFIED "BIKER" THURSDAY MORNING—LOUISVILLE TRUCK DRIVER EXPLAINS DEATH—BURIAL IN COUNTY BURYING GROUND

Highway 42 finally has claimed a life following a series of serious accidents since its opening. Early Thursday morning Sheriff Snyder was notified that a man had been killed by a truck on the Louisville highway near Beaver.

The sheriff went to the scene where he learned that a white man, about 28 years old, had been killed by a motor transportation truck driven by Arnold Sandow, of Louisville.

The driver said that he could not avoid the accident, as the man, who was walking, suddenly stepped from the road side into the path of his lights and before he could bring the truck to a stop he had been run down.

The dead man's clothing bore no marks of identification except that the suit had been purchased from Pogue's in Cincinnati. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of C. Scott Chambers, in Walton, where it was kept until Tuesday of this week.

Since no information had been received at that time the remains were brought to Burlington and interred in the cemetery at the County Infirmary.

SUB-DISTRICTS

TO SELECT THREE TRUSTEES ON FIRST SATURDAY IN JULY—NEW LAW PROVIDES THAT ELECTION OFFICERS WILL BE CHOSEN BY COUNTY BOARD—HOURS OF 1 TO 4 P. M. SET.

Among the many changes made in the state school laws by the last Legislature was an act "providing for the election of three sub-district trustees."

According to the provisions of this act the first election to be held under this law will be conducted on the first Saturday in July, which will be July 2. The officers of the election will be appointed by the County Board of Education and will conduct the election in the various sub-district school buildings by viva voce vote. The election will be held between the hours of 1 and 4 p. m.

The trustees elected will be three in number and shall hold office for one, two and three years each, the number of years to be determined by lot after the vote shall disclose which three candidates shall have received the highest number of votes.

The newly elected trustees shall enter upon the discharge of their duties immediately after the County Board shall have examined, canvassed and certified the returns.

Further particulars in regard to the law may be learned by obtaining a copy of same, or by inquiring at the office of D. H. Norris, Superintendent of Schools, at Burlington.

CORRESPONDENTS NOTICE

Since there will be no mail delivery on Monday, July 4th, our correspondents are requested to mail their communications to this office earlier than usual, if at all possible.

INCREASE IN POSTAGE

On and after July 7 there will be an increase in the rates on all first class mail, excepting "postal cards and private mailing or post cards, and except other first class matter on which the rate of postage under existing law is 1 cent for each ounce or fraction thereof." With the above exceptions the rate will be increased 1 cent for each ounce in addition to the present rate. Application to your postmaster will disclose more minute details.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

What constitutes a winning ball club? Why aren't all-star teams allways on the top? What is the importance of balance, spirit and courage in the make-up of a major league club? In short, why are the Boston Braves, never figured in the National League pennant race before the start of this season, now making a grim and determined fight for the flag? Can the Braves keep up the pace?

Those are some of the important questions that have arisen from the sensational mix-up in the National League this season, a mix-up that has witnessed, and is witnessing a grand struggle between all eight of the clubs. The present situation is almost unique in base ball; and in a large part responsible to the effect which Boston's gallant stand has had on the entire circuit.

Boston and Bill McKenne have proven that a winning ball club needn't be a combination of star players, of sensational performances on the field. There isn't a single outstanding player on the Boston team. There's not a brilliant fielder nor a league-leading batsman. Yet Boston wins its games and is pressing Chicago, another balanced outfit, for the league leadership.

The answer to the puzzle must be separated into parts. Boston's success is a result of balanced ability. It is the result of smart plotting, of courage and confidence. Teamwork wins games for Boston that better clubs with brighter stars.

There are no mediocre players with the Boston Braves. Every one of them is capable, if not sensational. They play together and do not allow petty jealousies to break down the morale of the squad. There are no "prima donnas" to be

TWO STUDENTS

HONORED AT COUNTY COMMEMORATION FRIDAY NIGHT—MISS VIVIAN HOOD AWARDED BOONE MEDAL AND KENNETH ROGERS, OF BELLEVUE, RECEIVES OUTLAND TROPHY

Diplomas were awarded to members of the graduates of common school at the annual commencement exercises conducted here last Friday evening.

Owing to the fact that the school treasury has been very much depleted this year due to a shortage of taxes Supt. D. E. Norris delivered the address to the graduates instead of obtaining the services of a paid speaker. Supt. Norris received many compliments upon his speech.

The Boone medal was presented to Vivian Hood, of Constance, for having obtained the highest grade in the county wide examinations. Miss Hood has proved herself to be an outstanding student during the past two years. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hood.

The American Legion medal was presented by C. L. Cropper, Legion representative, to Kenneth Rogers, of Bellevue, for having obtained the most points in the county tournament. Kenneth is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louvete Rogers and a grandson of B. F. Rogers, for many years a Deputy Assessor in Boone county.

Rev. Harlow Edgar Haas, Boone county Lutheran pastor, delivered the invocation and benediction.

CAMP ERNST OPENS

The first group of 40 boys from the Covington Y. M. C. A. will open camp at Camp Ernst, on Gunpowder Creek, near Burlington, next Sunday afternoon. One group after another, first of boys and then of girls, will follow until school reopens in September. The camp will be under the direction of W. H. Wade, physical director at the Y. M. C. A., who has made minute preparations for the comfort and safety of the youngsters. The camp site was donated by Ex-senator R. P. Ernst several years ago.

J. J. Kirkpatrick, Deputy Circuit Clerk L. C. Weaver, and Judge N. E. Riddell spent from Friday until Monday touring the mountain district of Kentucky. Their trip took them across the border into Virginia and thru twenty-seven counties of Kentucky.

UTOPIA CLUB MEETING

Boone County Utopia Club will meet at Burlington Thursday evening, June 23 at 8 p. m. Miss Lucille Taylor will report on Utopia Club Week at Lexington and the Hebrew group will render a good program. Boone county Utopia Club is composed of a live awake group of leading boys and girls between the ages of 10 and 20 years. The members are interested in the agricultural, home economics, social and recreational life of the county. The club is always glad to have present those who are interested in Utopia activities.

LEXINGTON MAN

LODGED IN JAIL ON LIQUOR CHARGE SATURDAY AFTERNOON—SMALL SON DISCLOSES REAL IDENTITY AT EXAMINING TRIAL—ACTING JUDGE CROPPER FIXES $1,000 BOND.

About 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon Town Marshall Roy Dickerson arrested a man, who gave his name as Jeff Phillips, of Birmingham, Alabama, on a charge of possession of liquor. The man was accompanied by a lad whom he said was his son and both were brought to Burlington.

In the absence of Judge Riddell, C. L. Cropper, acting judge, conducted the examining trial. Upon questioning the son disclosed the correct name of the defendant as Sylvester Wilcher, of Lexington.

Acting Judge Cropper bound Wilcher over to the grand jury under a bond of one thousand dollars, which he was unable to raise. He was remanded to jail and his son was placed on a Lexington bus Sunday morning, after having been re-clothed by Jailer Elmer Kirkpatrick.

The lad had been very shabbily clad when his father was arrested.

Miss Marilyn Dickerson, of Union, was a week-end visitor with relatives in Burlington.

JUNIOR PICNIC

BEING PLANNED FOR FLORENCE FAIR GROUNDS ON JULY 4 TO AFFORD FINE ENTERTAINMENT—BOXING SOUTH, BARS, DANCING AND OTHER FEATURES

Those who are planning a celebration of some kind or another on Independence Day should investigate the good times planned at the Florence Fair Grounds on that day.

The picnic and all-day celebration being sponsored by the Junior Order on that day promises to be exceptionally entertaining. There will be a fine band, good boxing bouts and many other entertainment features.

A splendid orchestra will be on hand for those inclined to be terpsichorean indulgence and Manager Harry Forbes has left nothing undone for the comfort and entertainment of the dancers. He has even gone to the expense of installing a loud speaker for the announcement of the dance numbers, a feature not included in the equipment of many of the most modern dance halls.

W. M. U. NOTES

The W. M. U. of Big Bone Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. K. N. Aylor June 16 and held their monthly meeting. 22 members responded and a number of visitors.

At the noon hour a nice dinner was served followed by business which was opened with scripture reading and prayer by Pastor R. A. Johnson. After business was transacted we had a program of special songs and reading which were enjoyed by all present—indeed inspirational as well as beautiful. We departed hoping to meet with our Publicity chairman Thursday July 14th.

60,000 POUNDS OF WOOL SOLD THROUGH POOL

Sixty thousand pounds of wool was delivered thru the Boone county Wool Pool at Walton, Kentucky, and Petersburg on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. A total of 27,980 pounds were received at Walton on Thursday, 19,519 pounds at Burlington on Friday and 12,500 pounds at Petersburg on Saturday.

The price received was $12.75 per 100 pounds for clear wool and $8.75 per 100 pounds for seconds and rejections. The clip, one of the largest on record for the county brought a total of approximately $700,000. While the price per pound was the lowest in the memory of many of the oldest growers it was above that paid by any other dealers and returned the growers a good margin above what they would have received by selling as individuals. M. Sabel and Sons of Louisville were the purchasers.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Bellevue Baptist church met June 2nd at the church.

Meeting called to order by Miss Anna Cason, President. Opening song "Love to Tell the Story." Bible study by Mrs. Riley. Prayer by the Pastor.

Subject of the lesson was "Christian Education," which was ably discussed by several. The Pastor being present gave us a talk. Closing song "When Baptist School Bells Ring."

Business session. Minutes of last meeting read and approved. Eleven members answered the roll call. Mrs. Josie Riley gave Personal Service report. Alline Brady gave Treasurer's report.

Next meeting will be at the church July 7th. We urge all ladies of the church to come out and meet with us.

Dismissal with prayer by the President.

Bob and Gene, proprietors of Bob and Gene's barbecue, have entered a team in the Boone County League, which was reported to have been re-organized at a meeting held here last Monday night. Bob and Gene's aggregation defeated the Black Sox of Erlanger, at Erlanger, last Sunday afternoon with Joe Brady in the box.

The re-appointment of Postmaster Everett Hickman has been confirmed by the Senate. This will be welcome news to Mr. Hickman's many friends among the patrons of this office.

HUMAN NATURE DOESN'T CHANGE

We hear a good many people remarking that the younger generation has no manners, that the boys and girls of today are rapidly sliding down to perdition and that things were so much better when these complaining individuals themselves were young.

Our belief is strengthened by recently seeing a letter written in 1786 by an English woman who said among other things:

"Our manners become more licentious, our men are indifferent, our women bold and assuming. The pertness of fifteen is allowed to give her opinion on all subjects. She awes into silence her superiors and understanding, for who can wish to hold an argument with a slipshod tongue? But a more serious consideration is the hideous undress of the present day, for to be perfectly fashionable is to be half naked."

In the same letter elderly women were criticized for resorting to cosmetics in the effort to make themselves look younger. We have heard people around here talk about how disgusting it is for a woman old enough to be a grandmother to try to look like a flapper. Regardless of whether it is disgusting or not, our point is that it is nothing new. A hundred and thirty-seven years ago people were saying the same things.

One thing is certain. That is, that each generation has to learn its own way about and find its own way of living. In other words, codes of manners and behavior generally are good only for the generation that subscribes to them. And when we consider that half of the people of the United States are under 20 years old, it seems to us the young folks have about as much right to decide such things for themselves as the older ones have to prescribe for them.

poultry department at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, who represented Kentucky at the conference, said that buying on grade will result in increased incomes to farmers who take care of their flocks and produce quality eggs. He believed grading will so stimulate quality production that eggs from Kentucky and other middle states will be brought into favor on eastern markets.

Sunday School Lesson

JACOB THE AGED FATHER

Genesis 46:1-7; 28-30; 47:1

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

Parash had personally invited Jacob to come and take the journey in the "wagons of Joseph." Our Master Teacher is gracious in giving us aids to faith, for many are still slow of heart to believe, like the two who walked and talked with Jesus on the road to Emmaus. Those who do not believe God are those who simply will not, for the proofs concerning His person and work are abundant throughout the ages. Heart-hunger helps Jacob to become willing to enter upon the toilsome journey to Egypt. There are to be five more years of famine and then the appeal to change residence to another place where food can be found.

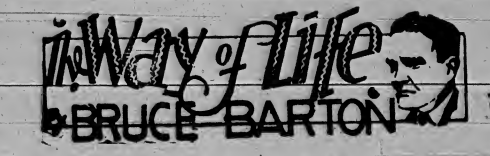

In Hebron was the place of ancestral burial. On this traditional site are the most venerated shrines of the Mohammedans. Care is taken to bar all others but Moslems from visiting this shrine.

All anxiety about the journey to Egypt was removed at Beer-Sheba. There Jacob had further audience with God at the altar of worship. This change of home was in the purpose of Jehovah as we read the promises made to Abraham, Isaac and Jacob. Jacob was a shepherd and he was given a section of land in Goshen which lay east of what is now Cairo and contiguous to the Red Sea. Reuben was sent to announce their coming.

The aged father met the first born son with outburst of thanksgiving. The meeting with Parash was formal indeed, but he extends full courtesy. Read the rest of the narrative to the end of Genesis.

Read the Golden text as found in (Genesis 20:12).

The groundless fear of the brothers is renewed until Joseph assures them that forgiveness has been granted. What is our relationship with God? Read (Psalm 103:12).

SAVING FACE

A friend was telling me about Big Business in China.

No man ever is discharged there, he said. If it becomes necessary to remove an employee the boss arranges to have a friend tip him off. The next morning the doomed man appears in the boss's office.

"My uncle in the most remote province of the Chung River is very ill," he explains. "It is necessary that I should go to attend him."

The boss assumes an expression of distress. "Why... to reach the Chung River and minister to your uncle and then return will require more than two years," he protests.

"Nevertheless, I must go,"

"Noble fellow," says the boss, embracing him. "Do your duty, and though your journey keep you away for years, have no fear. Your place will be kept open for you."

The next morning and every morning thereafter the two meet on the street, but there is no embarrassment, no sense of inferiority on the part of the ex-employee. Face has been saved.

I remember one of the first men for whom I worked in New York, and one of the wisest I have ever known. He called me in one day and said: "I want you to think up some way by which X can be prompted to resign."

I was astonished.

"After he resigns," my boss continued, "I think I can help him to find a more congenial place. But he's no good where he is."

"I always try to be very careful in these cases," he explained. "I don't want it written on my tombstone that I ever dealt a blow to a man's self-confidence."

This employer was almost as wise as the Chinese. As our civilization and our business grows older we all shall learn some of the mature wisdom of these older people. They know there are things in life more important than efficiency and production and quotas and charts.

They know that the human soul is more important, and that all the operations of life should be conducted so as to increase its dignity and self-respect.

Said Mencius, the ancient Chinaman: "The people are of the highest importance; the gods come second; and the sovereign is of lesser weight."

SPRAY WILL CHECK RED SPIDER INJURY

Due to the favorable weather conditions prevailing the past few weeks red spiders have become abundant and the resulting damage to foliage is marred. Of the plants attacked the evergreens have suffered most. Yet ornamental shrubs and even grape vines have been attacked.

Infested foliage shows many pale spots, where the mites have sucked out the sap, thus removing the green from that portion of the leaf. The leaves are webbed on the undersides and those badly infested turn yellow and drop.

The adults of these eight-legged mites are small, being about 1-50 of an inch in length, and the body is reddish in color. One common species feeds on the undersides of the leaves. It also breeds and develops there. A generation is produced about every two weeks during the warm period of the year. The short period of development enables them to increase rapidly.

If evergreens have a "rusty" appearance and are shedding leaves, the department of botany and entomology at the Experiment Station says to spray them with glue. Dissolve 1 and 1/2 pounds of a cheap grade of ground bone glue in boiling water. Then add water to make ten gallons and apply it to the trees with a power sprayer, using at least 150 pounds pressure while making the application. Repeat the treatment six days after the first application, to kill the young spiders escaping in the egg stage. Additional applications should be made as often as necessary because of continual reinfestation. Remember to avoid spraying evergreens in the middle of the day or when the temperature is above 80 degrees, as water alone will sometimes result in injury by scalding at such times. A finely-ground sulfur, one that passes a 300-mesh screen, is also effective in controlling the pests. In fact, it is recommended over all sprays when the temperature is high. Two or three applications at 10-day intervals should be made.

Barren county farmers sowed 125,000 pounds of Korean lespedeza seed; seven farmers sowed alfalfa; and many farmers sowed sweet clover.

URGENT BUYING ON BASIS OF QUALITY

Careful grading of farm products and paying for them on the basis of quality is one of the most valuable services that middlemen can render for agriculture and the consuming public, declares T. B. Price, of the department of markets, and rural finance of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

"Dealers, by buying on a quality basis, help farmers by more nearly compensating them for the extra expense of superior skill required to produce products that are preferred by buyers," said Dr. Price. "In this respect, a policy of buying for quality is more equitable, as it means a better distribution of returns among farmers in accordance with expense and effort in production."

"Buying on a basis of quality also encourages farmers to organize their production more systematically and with greater understanding of market requirements. This means a better adjustment of the amount of the various qualities produced to the demands of ultimate buyers and consumers."

"Dealers or cooperative associations that give due consideration to buying farmers for their products on the basis of quality are thus performing one of the primary functions of an agricultural marketing system by providing the means for full coordination of production and consumption. In so doing, they are rendering a valuable service that is rendered by occasional middlemen who show favoritism among customers, and who buy by count or other short-cut and careless methods."

A PRACTICAL SHORT COURSE IN POULTRY

A practical short course in poultry will be given at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, June 27 to July 1. It has been arranged to afford the busy farmer, poultryman and hatchery operator an opportunity to learn the essential principles in the care of poultry. All the work will be of a practical nature. There are no entrance requirements and the course will be open to all men and women interested in poultry.

Monday, the opening day, will be devoted to flock improvement. Tuesday to sanitation, Wednesday to management, Thursday to breeding and Friday to accredited culling. The board of directors of the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association will meet Wednesday, and on Friday examinations will be given to persons desiring licenses to accredit flocks.

The staff of the College will be assisted by Dr. L. E. Card, of the University of Illinois, and Paul G. Riley, an Indiana poultry raiser.

HONOR EXTENSION WORK IN KENTUCKY

The United States Department of Agriculture has given national recognition to the work which County Agent Joe Hurt and the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, did in developing dairying in Boyd county, Ky. From a place of minor importance, dairying has become a major source of income. Sixty farmers have good herds of 10 or more cows each and 30 good dairy barns have been built. Many farmers are selling high quality whole milk. The Boyd County Dairy Herd Improvement Association is planning to obtain production records on 500 cows.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of W. H. A-S the week of June 27. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

June 27—Sterilizers and water heaters for the dairy, J. B. Kelley.

June 28—Summer management of pullets, J. E. Humphrey.

June 28—Outwitting root-rot tobacco, Russell Hunt.

June 29—Canning hints, Florence Imay.

June 29—Work stock on the farm, W. J. Harris.

June 30—Timely chats with the fruit growers, C. O. Eddy.

July 1—What farm folks are asking, L. C. Brewer.

Elmer Brown, of Provo community in Butler county, raised a litter of pigs to weigh 2,240 pounds when 171 days old.

Poultry, which is Grayson county's principal cash crop, has been bringing farmers approximately $1,000 a day.

Eighteen Lee county farmers are growing sorghum cane under the direction of the county agent.

Ten thousand bushels of potatoes were planted in Harlan county this spring.

TIMELY TOPICS

(By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture)

TOMATOES—Now is the time to begin arranging for the tomatoes with which to wind up the season.

An easy way is to sow seed in groups of 3 or 4, where heads of early cabbage are cut. The spacing of these groups should be 4 feet apart, and the seedlings should be thinned to one plant. The variety should be an early one; remnants from this spring's plantings may be used.

be cleaned up. As cabbage is being cut, the stub, too, should be removed, because the side shoots that grow on the stub harbor cabbage worms. Old bean rows, too, should be removed and burned, as soon as the beans have been picked, or when newer plantings begin producing. If later potatoes are to be planted, it is well to look the spring plantings over, and if even only a few Colorado beetles are found, to apply poison to prevent their increase. Early squash vines are harvested for both the cucumber beetle and the squash bug. As soon as all the good fruits are picked, and when the vines begin to go into a decline, they should be pulled up, rather than hope that more squash may be set later. Thus, the campaign of control for these insects may be centered on the plantings from which pickings are to be expected, and it will be just that much more thorough.

GREENS—The season for mustard and early kale is almost over, but those gardeners who wish to prolong the season for that class of greens may use the comparatively new variety, Tendergreen. It is wise to risk at least one planting, now of Prickly-seeded summer spinach. Except for these two, there will be no summer greens, unless forethought was used to make plantings early of Swiss chard and New Zealand spinach. These continue bearing until frost, almost regardless of how hot and dry the summer is.

CULTIVATION—The normal season of drought is fast approaching, unless this summer is to be much different from those in the past. To conserve such rains as we may have, weeds must be kept in check and the garden surface should be maintained in such a way that there is no "run-off." Cultivation does both, but only the top half-inch of soil should be stirred. Vegetable roots, and most of them lie shallow, should NEVER be disturbed. A wheel hoe or garden plow fitted with scrapers is the best tool to use, for with it it is no job at all to work up the crust that forms after even a light rain and put the surface in readiness to receive the next shower.

CELESTIAL—Those gardeners who are fortunate to have celery plants, or can get them, will set their celery in what remains of June. A wise precaution is to set in a shallow trench, having its direction such that it slopes gently. Set in a trench, the celery can be watered. Set in a trench, the matter of finding soil with which to ridge the row when blanching is to be begun, is made easier. To save watering and trenching a pair of rows may be set in each trench. The varieties of celery to use are Golden Self-blanching, or Easy Blanching, too, if superior quality is desired, and if extreme whiteness is not desired, and if extreme whiteness is not demanded, Giant Pascal is the variety. Pascal stores much better than the easy-blanching sorts, and, trenched for the winter, bleaches quite nicely.

Ten thousand baby chicks were shipped into Rockcastle county, where there is much interest in poultry raising despite low prices.

Henry county 4-H club members are feeding a car load of baby beavers for the annual Louisville fat stock show.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

WHY PEOPLE LOSE CONFIDENCE

Situated as I am, at a health resort, I meet folks from all over our land. I listen to their reasons for leaving the home physician, and find out why many employ quacks. Just to get "stung." Many times I fear that it is our fault that quackery flourishes; WE DRIVE OUR PATRONS AWAY FROM US.

Here are some reasons why the patient left the home doctor, as I take from my notes:

"My home doctor didn't examine me as I thought he ought to."

"My doctor told me there was nothing the matter with me but nerves."

"He just wouldn't do nothing for me but prescribe... an I got tired of that; didn't do me any good."

"He just didn't seem to understand my case."

"After the hard times set in I couldn't keep up my payments, and Doctor just seemed to lose interest...."

"My doctor ain't a liver doctor—and I know it's my liver."

"O, I got to readin' about this doctor that don't operate; he described my case to a dot.... I paid him $250 in advance, but I ain't no better yet; he says it will take a long time."

These are typical answers. I wonder if we honest physicians ever stop to think that it may OUR FAULT that we sometimes lose our patronage?

The meanest patient that you have, Doctor, is entitled to the very best that is in you. If you give him that and he still is disobedient and disobedient, the quicker the quack gets him the better.

PROPOSE PREMIUM FOR QUALITY EGGS

The June number of the U. S. Egg and Poultry Magazine, published by the Institute of American Poultry Industries, contains an announcement of the approval of egg buying grades, adopted at a midwestern states conference in Chicago.

Representatives of agricultural colleges or departments of agriculture in 14 midwestern states and representatives of the large packers and egg buyers, agreed on the establishment of grades whereby farmers producing quality eggs and marketing them often will receive a premium.

Three grades are named, consideration being given to weight and to the condition of the shell, air cell, yolk and white. When the grades are fully enforced, No. 1 eggs must weigh 24 ounces to the dozen, and No. 2 eggs not less than 20 ounces. During this year and next some concessions will be made in regard to the weight of grade No. 1, in order to give farmers an opportunity to improve their flocks.

President Hoover sat beside a radio in the White House and heard himself renominated for a second term. A few minutes later one of his secretaries handed him a telegram from Representative Snell, the convention chairman, officially notifying him of the action. He was obviously pleased with the outcome and promptly placed the emphasis of the campaign to come on the economic situation. He replied with a brief message of acceptance, pledging himself to "labor as I have labored to meet the effects of the world-wide storm." His first move after sending the message of appreciation, was to let the National Committee know that he preferred the election of Everett Sanders of Indiana as chairman of the committee.

The new chairman and the executive committee of the National Committee are expected to come here shortly and map out campaign plans with the President. No definite word escaped the White House on the question, but it is predicted by Mr. Hoover's close political advisers that he would conduct the campaign from there and make few speeches. It was pointed out that this would be in accordance with past custom when Presidents standing for reelection have attended to the duties of their high office and not engaged in far-flung campaign trips or many speeches.

Vice President Curtis received an ovation from Republicans and Democrats alike when news of his renomination was announced in the Senate chamber. Every Senator rose and applauded. Mr. Curtis rose, bowed and soon left the rostrum for his private office, where his friends hurried in to congratulate him. The announcement of the renomination was made by Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, who said: "I have the very great pleasure of announcing that the Republican National Convention in Chicago has just renominated for Vice President our distinguished presiding officer."

Neither the sopping wets nor the Sahara dries are satisfied with the "amphibian" prohibition plank said to have been adopted under pressure of lieutenants of President Hoover by the Republican convention, and although the plank is wetter than would have seemed possible six months ago, the wets seem to be more dissatisfied than the dries. This was the reaction among the members and leaders of the Allied Repeal Council, as they prepared to renew the battle at the Democratic National Convention. In this coming struggle the dries have little hope of victory and the wets confidently expect that, even if they should fail to get a repeal declaration, they will get a plank much wetter than that adopted by the Republicans.

Washington greeted the prohibition plank with brickbats and few bouquets. Democrats in the Senate lost no time in sounding off on the subject soon as the Upper House convened. Numerous statements "razing" the plank were issued. J. J. Shouse, on behalf of the Democratic National Committee, called it "weasel-worded" and blamed it on President Hoover. Senator Tydings, wet Democrat of Maryland, derided the plank in a Senate speech. "This isn't a plank—it's a collection of splinters," he shouted, shaking a copy of the document. "It's got every type of wood that could be raked up in it, including even some of the sidewalks of New York."

The House passed by an overwhelming viva voce vote, the Fulmer bill authorizing free distribution of 40,000,000 bushels of wheat held by the Grain Stabilization Corporation, and 500,000 bales of cotton of the Cotton Stabilization Corporation, both subsidiaries of the Federal Farm Board. The vote was not indicative of the sentiment of the House, and it came after a parliamentary tangle that for a time upset the members, after Representatives La Guardia of New York and McGugin of Kansas had almost indulged in a fist fight, and after a group of Westerners headed by Representatives Burton of Iowa and Hope of Kansas had made a desperate but futile effort to delay final action. The debate hinged on the provisions of the bill which gave the Red Cross authority to exchange the cotton and wheat for finished products, flour or bread, "or any kind of food," so long as it was done without profit to any mill, organization or other person.

Argument over the veterans' bonus ran intermittently in the Senate. The Finance Committee opened the issue by promptly, but adversely, reporting out the measure the Senate passed to provide $2,000,000,000 for immediate payments of adjusted compensation. Its friends in the Senate held it up one day, but, on motion of Senator James E. Watson, Republican of Indiana, the majority leader, gave it right off way for final decision, defeat being expected confidently.

The installation of veterans of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces on State and Federal owned farm lands as a means of transforming the army into a farflung homemaking movement was proposed by Brig. Gen. D. Glasford. Gen. Glasford said this plan could be extended to take in a vast number of the unemployed. He said: "Land is available and cheap. Through Federal channels large areas are falling under Federal control. The States are acquiring vast tracts through payment of taxes. Instead of remaining idle in Washington camps, these veterans returning to their respective homes should be organized into rural communities. All improvements in their condition will react favorably on commercial, industrial and agricultural interests." He lauded the veterans for their conduct in the Capital. "They have demonstrated their loyalty to the flag. They were heroes in 1918. Today they are without employment, without means of support, homeless and outcast. They can not find work. Surely they are entitled to acquire a decent livelihood."

Two unexpected factors have operated to delay temporarily the progress of the double-barreled relief program Congress hopes to enact before adjournment. The illness of Speaker John N. Garner, and the sudden injection of the proposed bonus legislation in the Senate both served to prevent action on the Wagner bill authorizing $300,000,000 in loans to states passed by the Senate and the Garner-Rainey bill embracing a $2,291,000,000 program for relief and public construction passed by the House.

BICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION IN THE BRITISH EMPIRE

From the far-flung corners of the British Empire, official reports to the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission tell of many ceremonies in connection with the Bicentennial Celebration of the birth of George Washington. From India to the West Indies and from South Africa to Scotland the people living under the folds of the Union Jack have shown their regard for George Washington and their friendliness for the U. S. by taking part in the Bicentennial Celebration.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission has received a request from the Bureau of Social and International Affairs at Melbourne, Australia, for material and information regarding George Washington. The Bureau, which is headed by Herbert Brooks, former commissioner general for Australia to the United States, acts as the central secretariat and organizing force for the international societies in the State of Victoria.

Miss Nora W. Collison, writing for the Australian Bureau says: "Both as a gesture of friendship towards your great country and as an opportunity of valuable educational work among our own people, we strongly feel that the opportunity of joining in the world-wide celebrations, in connection with the Bicentennial is one of which we should take full advantage. We shall deem it a privilege to celebrate as splendidly as lies within our means, the glorious anniversary that your Nation is commemorating."

In the newspapers of Australia widespread attention has been given the Bicentennial Celebration. The Brisbane Courier, commenting on the pride which Virginia must feel as the birthplace of George Washington adds: "Yet George Washington does not belong to Virginia alone, but to the world; and no civilized country, least of all the Commonwealth of Nations, which makes up the British Empire, from which he broke away, is likely to let so notable an event pass without paying a worthy tribute to this king of men."

The Daily Telegraph, Sydney, telling of plans for the Celebration as outlined by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission says: "After all, George Washington was the step-father (shall we say) of Australia, as well as the father of his country. Australia would not have been settled when it was but for the success of the American Revolution."

The Advertiser, Adelaide, in an editorial entitled "Washington's Bicentenary" pays high tribute to the first President of the United States and remarks many of his achievements. The value of his services in the formulation of the Constitution is recognized and particular attention is called to the fact that Australia's own constitution is largely based on the American instrument.

In New Zealand the U. S. consul at Auckland, W. F. Boyle, and Mrs. Boyle gave a luncheon as a feature of the Bicentennial Celebration. The guests included the archbishop of New Zealand and Mrs. Averil, Lady Sinclair-Lockhart, Sir Alexander and Lady Herdman, the mayor of Auckland and Mrs. Hutehinson, representatives of Government departments, members of the consular corps, and other prominent residents of the city. Mayor Hutehinson and Consul Boyle were the speakers.

The Bicentennial is not passing unnoticed in India, for in Calcutta the Bengal George Washington Memorial Society has been organized to observe the event. The society cabled President Hoover regarding its activities and extending greetings to the American people.

Professor Benoy Kumar Sarkar, general secretary of the Bengal George Washington Society, has published a booklet in Bengali on Washington as a Bicentennial feature. Several Calcutta newspapers have carried articles and editorials on George Washington of a highly complimentary nature. Of these an editorial in the Advance, from which the following is quoted, is typical: "Great a patriot as he was, Washington was still greater as a man who found his delight in serving humanity and the country. Duty was the watchword of his life."

In Edinburgh, Scotland, the U. S. colony held a celebration in the Royal Arch Halls which was attended by many Scottish friends.

The United States consul, Austin C. Brady, and Mrs. Brady received the guests among whom were the Lady Provost of Edinburgh, Lady Whitson, Professor J. Young Simpson, honorary president of the Edinburgh American Club, and Edward M. Campbell, president of the Edinburgh branch of the English-Speaking Union.

Ceremonies were held in Pretoria, Union of South Africa, in which a tree was planted to the memory of George Washington in Burgers Park. The mayor of Pretoria, Mrs. M. C. Malherbe, expressed the good will held by the people of South Africa for their American friends and announced that the Ulster Road in the city was being renamed George Washington Boulevard. Following the tree-planting ceremony, the secretary of the American Legation, Ernest L. Ives, and Mrs. Ives entertained at their residence. Among those who attended were officials and residents of Pretoria and Johannesburg, members of the consular corps and American residents of the Union.

A similar ceremony was held in Johannesburg when a cedar tree, presented by the mayor D. F. Corlett, was planted in honor of George Washington in Joubert Park by the American consul general, M. K. Moorhead. A reception was also given by Mr. and Mrs. Moorhead which was well attended by officials and residents of South Africa.

The newspapers of the Union gave considerable space to these events and editorials paid tribute to George Washington.

If you once have a taste of the New NuGrape, you always come back for more. It's just that sort of a flavor—a mysterious something, born of plump Concord grapes and sunshine. There is nothing anywhere near like it, with its bouquet of dew-ripened grapes, and its sparkling, dancing life—as of champagne.

Next to impossible to keep the New NuGrape on ice at home—the family sneaks in for "just another bottle," even when a case is purchased at a time. But since Nature and Science brewed it and brought it to its delightful state of appetizing perfection—you can drink as much as you please as often as you please.

There is no substitute for the New NuGrape. Accept none, for it would only mean disappointment. The genuine is sold everywhere for 5¢.

PASTURE MANAGEMENT

The time is nearing when good farmers mow their pastures as one of their practices in proper management. Even with the best grazing, some weeds will be found. The only way to handle them is to cut them down.

Dr. E. N. Fergus, of the Experiment Station, who has done much experimental work with pastures, points out that mowing must be done frequently enough to prevent the weeds seeding. Sometimes one mowing each summer will do; usually one in June and another in September will be required.

Dr. Fergus believes the most harm comes from overgrazing in early spring. This tends to make for thin sods, which in turn permit weeds growth. With lack of moisture in May, many pastures were nipped close, and as a result now have many weeds. They should be mowed this month.

Of course, the real solution of the pasture problem is the maintenance of a fertile soil which supports a thick sod. Heavy grazing depletes fertility, and unless the plant foods are restored the pasture eventually fails.

Proper applications of phosphorus, in all except some bluegrass soils, and of potash and nitrogen, and even lime, are worth the consideration of all farmers who know the value of good pastures. Farm manure increases production and thickens the sod.

As Dr. Fergus points out, pasture is a crop and, like any other crop, it needs its special fertilizing and cultural attention.

NEW TYPE RAIL CARS

Two large American railroads have recently placed orders for pneumatic-tired rail cars made of shot welded stainless steel. These vehicles will doubtless be seen in large numbers on American railroads within the next few years. They cut operating costs from one half to one-third, are fast, comfortable and durable. They are particularly desirable for use on branch line roads.

J. M. Eddins and wife and Joe Walton and family, the latter of Erlanger, spent Sunday at the home of O. S. Eddins and wife.

PAYING FOR QUALITY

Careful grading of farm products and paying for them on the basis of quality is one of the most valuable services that middlemen can render for agriculture and the consuming public, declares Dr. H. B. Price, of the department of markets and rural finance of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

"Dealers, by buying on a quality basis, help farmers by more nearly compensating them for the extra expense of superior skill required to market products that are preferred by buyers," said Dr. Price. "In this respect, a policy of buying for quality is more equitable, as it means a better distribution of returns among farmers in accordance with expense and effort in production."

"Buying on a basis of quality also encourages farmers to organize their production more systematically and with greater understanding of market requirements. This means a better adjustment of the amounts of the various qualities produced to the demands of ultimate buyers and consumers."

"Dealers of co-operative associations that give due consideration to paying farmers for their products on the basis of quality are thus performing one of the primary functions of an agricultural marketing system by providing the means for full co-ordination of production and consumption. In so doing, they are rendering a valuable service both to agriculture and to the consuming public a much more valuable service than that rendered by occasional middlemen who show favoritism among customers, and who buy by count or other short-cut and careless methods."

A shower for Mr. and Mrs. William Greenup was given at the home of Mrs. Bess Rouse last Thursday evening. A number of their friends attended and many useful gifts were received by the young couple. They have requested the Recorder to express their sincere thanks to their many friends.

County Attorney B. H. Riley hopes to be able to attend the National Democratic Convention at Chicago next week, although an accident that occurred several days ago when his small son was bitten by a dog, may deter him. It is to be hoped that the youngster will recover in time for Ben to make the trip.

4-H CLUB TOURS

A number of 4-H community club tours will be held in Boone county in the near future. The plans for these tours are to visit each member of the club. Inspect his project work and discuss methods of community club improvement. A picnic lunch is usually served at the noon hour.

Verona Willing Workers held a successful tour last Thursday in which approximately 25 members were visited. Florence K-L-A-Club will hold a picnic and tour Friday, June 24th. Grant Troop, Blue, 4-H Club will hold a tour and picnic on Wednesday June 29th and New Haven on Thursday June 30th.

VALUE OF SOIL FERTILITY

The Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky cites results obtained at its soil fields over the state as demonstrating possibilities in increasing fertility.

At Mayfield, land treated with ground limestone and phosphate fertilizer produced 37 bushels of wheat to the acre last year, whereas untreated land, though otherwise handled the same, made only 24 bushels.

At Greenville the lime and phosphate treatment resulted in 33 bushels of wheat, compared with 11 bushels where there was no soil treatment.

Land improved with limestone and superphosphate in Laurel county yielded 24 bushels of wheat to the acre, and untreated land produced only two bushels.

Applications of superphosphate and limestone in the corn, wheat and clover rotation at Campbellsville resulted in the production of 37 bushels of wheat to the acre, whereas untreated land alongside it made only 21 bushels.

At the western Kentucky substation at Princeton, on land of limestone origin, the limestone and superphosphate treatment yielded 36 bushels of wheat to the acre, and untreated land 15 bushels. On another part of the farm, where the soil is derived from sandstone, the comparable yields were 19 bushels on treated land and less than one bushel on untreated land.

At all the experimental fields, the phosphate and limestone treatments made a yield of wheat nearly double that of the land not fertilized or limed, being 32 bushels for the treated land and 17 bushels for the untreated land.

BANKERS DAY AT COLLEGE

Officials at the College of Agriculture are making preparations to entertain the Kentucky Bankers Association on Wednesday and in addition to the usual talks and discussions that will take place, the college will portray its work through exhibits of various kinds. The exhibits will be arranged in condensed form in order that their full meaning may be gotten in a brief time. All departments of the College of Agriculture are co-operating in this exhibition to show what is being done in various parts of the state to improve agriculture. The exhibits will be arranged in the new farm engineering building and in tents along the pathway between the judging pavilion and the engineering building. The object of the exhibit is to show the bankers of the state what the college through its extension and home demonstration agents is doing for the farmer and his family. In some counties one line of work is more profitable and interesting while other lines are more profitable in other sections. Many phases of the 4-H Club work will be presented in the exhibits planned by that department and some of the outstanding members and demonstration teams that participated in the recent Junior Week at the university will be present to repeat their work.

The bankers are likely to have a full schedule while in Lexington, but the day they will spend at the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station farm will be one of the most profitable they can spend in this or any other meeting and it is to be hoped that all of them will take full advantage of the opportunities to study the phases of agriculture of greatest importance to the farmers of their respective counties.—Lexington Herald.

This county has been visited by nice showers the past few days.

NEW COAT FOR RICE

We hear much today about the strides scientists have made in the fields of chemistry and machinery. At the same time leading American food scientists have been doing some unusual things. For example, they have learned how to coat rice with cellulose so that it is bared and made into flakes it has the same useful properties as the cellulose which is found in many fruits and vegetables and is so useful in regulating elimination.

A UNIQUE AUDITORIUM

Pittsburgh has the distinction of housing one of the most unique auditoriums in the country. It was dedicated in 1930 to commemorate forty years of happy relations between employers and employees, during which the H. J. Heinz Company has never had the slightest "labor trouble." It is used for a variety of recreational, education and amusement purposes. This structure is an example of sentiment in business. When it was dedicated Howard Heinz said: "As sentiment surely has a place in life, certainly it ought to have a place in business, which is so large a part of life."

KEEP UP WITH NEWS

After many years the radio folk are learning to "keep up with the news." Let a big news event break and the stars of the air are bound to "tie-in" with it in some way or other. An example of this is seen in the manner in which Joe Palooks, a radio champion boxer, will fight Max Schmelling this just about the time Jack Sharkey and Max Schmelling square off in the ring for their championship bout.

BOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

There has been a beautifully illustrated Bible offered as a prize to the person who recites the most Bible verses in Sunday school between now and Christmas.

Also there will be several other prizes given to folks who have striven to recite a large number of verses.

Competition of this sort cannot fail to create a common interest for children as well as adults may enter this, and at closing time it will no doubt be surprising at the amount of work which has been accomplished.

Any teacher's heart would have been gladdened at the commencement exercises held at Burlington, Friday evening.

Achievement of scholastic attainments rewards many teachers for the thoughts time and patience they have rendered their scholars.

Imagine the joy it afforded the parents of the graduation class, to know that at least a part of their child's life had already been creditably spent.

Congratulations to the entire class.

Honors of any kind form a mighty incentive for children.

Parents, teachers and friends should cooperate in trying to induce children to strive for medals or any other honor.

More words could not express the congratulations due to the two children who were awarded special medals.

To Mr. Kenneth Rogers, who received the medal presented by the American Legion for the greatest number of points won in the tournament, we hope he will ever strive to gain the greatest number of points in the great school of life.

To Miss Vivian Hood, the winner of the medal presented by Mr. Arthur Rouse for the highest examination grade, let us hope that she will consider being a scholar for a number of years to come, for we know she will always be a student to whom teachers can point with pride.

Getting back to the Mission, you are indeed welcome to come to every service.

Sunday school at 2:45 each Sunday.

VERONA

Last Sunday June 19th inst., New Bethel church at Verona celebrated the 92nd anniversary of the church. There were in attendance a number of people from the surrounding neighborhood which was a grand success in every particular.

Eight ministers were present and took part. Rev. R. F. DeMolsey, of Walton, acted as moderator, Rev. A. K. Johnson, of near Falmouth, delivered a grand sermon on the "History of the Church" which was listened to with much interest in the forenoon. At the noon hour all were invited to the tables loaded with all the delicacies of the season, for which all did ample justice to the meal, and many baskets full of provisions were left. After the noon hour all assembled in the church, Dr. H. C. Wayman of the First Church of Newport, delivered a very able and instructive sermon of the founding of the church followed by Rev. Oscar Huey, Supt. of the Orphans Home at Louisville.

Rev. Wood, of Erlanger; Rev. J. N. Powers, of Erlanger; Rev. John Akerly, of Corinth; Rev. Tanner, of Florence and his choir led in the singing, which was highly complimented.

The day will long be remembered by those in attendance.

William Colvin, of near Falmouth, a progressive farmer, was killed by lightning last Saturday evening, June 25th. Rev. Politt, of the local M. E. church preached his funeral Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains were interred at Mt. Vernon, Ky.

TO PATRONS OF MAPLE HILL SCHOOL:

Erroneous reports are being circulated in your community about consolidating Maple Hill school. This is being done by a certain individual with no children, but with a personal grievance against me. I always have and expect to continue to stand for the wishes of the patrons and the welfare of the school.

Simplifying Matrimony

THERE are lots of jobs about town for brides, but perhaps the favorite one is to depict the young matron's errors and terrors when she is first confronted with the mysteries of the kitchen. Matrimony undoubtedly owes an enormous debt to the canning industry because this industry has charted for brides the shoals and reefs of cooking now that so much of it is done for them outside the home in spotless canneries by experts who know just how to do it.

In the first place it helps her in marketing. For canned foods are always "fresh" till they are eaten. There is never any spoiled portion which must be thrown away, as is so often the case with so-called fresh fruits and vegetables. There is no call for a bride to examine expertly the food which she purchases in cans. That has been done for her already.

Solves Servant Problem

In the second place the use of canned foods solves to a great extent the servant problem. They can be so quickly prepared and with so little labor that the bride can cook for her family of two and still have lots of time to participate in outside interests.

Finally canned foods are economical. The bride can buy a can of tomatoes for a few cents, she can take advantage of special sales, and she can always be sure that she is getting a good product as the canners insist that the growers for whose products they have contracted should always sow the highest grade of seed.

CINCINNATI ZOO

"A Night on the Rhine," a hilarious burlesque of Cincinnati's famous over-the-Rhine night life in the gay nineties, will be repeated at the opera pavilion at the Cincinnati Zoo, next Sunday night, as the principal feature of another Zoo Revue.

The Zoo Opera Company will present "Norma" and "La Boheme" during the week, the former being offered for the first time, being scheduled on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights; the latter on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

The principal roles in "Norma" will be sung by Anna Lesskaya, Coe Glade, Forrest Lamont and Chase Baranco. It will be the first Cincinnati appearances for Mme. Lesskaya and Baranco. In "La Boheme," the principals will be Myrna Sharlow, Lydia Dozier, Mario Duca, another of this season's new artists; Italo Picchi and Joseph Royer.

Dinner and dancing at the Zoo Clubhouse have become the fashion—a situation expedited by the drastic price reductions inaugurated this season. Harry Wilsey's Orchestra plays the music. The Zoo dancette, Dance in Russland, is more popular than in many seasons. Novelty dance programs are presented by Charles McClure's Russland Steppers.

Free concerts by the Zoo Summer Symphony Orchestra are scheduled for Saturday and Sunday afternoons. Popular attractions for the children include the free Punch and Judy Shows, Kiddieland, the Fun House, merry-go-round and pony track.

A pair of giant ant-eaters, said to be among the rarest animals in captivity, has been added to the Zoo's animal collection. They hail from South America. Only three other zoos in America have such specimens—the New York, Philadelphia and Washington zoos.

Mr. and Mrs. Odis Rouse, of Petersburg, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Porter.

CONSTANCE

There were 81 present at the Bible school of the Church of Christ on June 19. All present stayed for the communion service. The Young People's Class had an attendance of 30. The contest in this class is about even. So come next Sunday—bring your Bible and stay for the entire service. Our evening service was well attended in spite of the hot weather. Next Sunday evening is Young People's night again. We hope the choir will have a special number for us and several young folks will help with the service.

The public is invited to all our services. We are trying to lift up the Christ so that all men might be drawn to Him.

PETERSBURG

The W. M. S. of the Petersburg Baptist church met at the home of Mrs. Mary and Miss Artie Ryle June 10th for an all day meeting. The morning hour was turned over to the Ladies Aid Society and they held a very interesting meeting. At the noon hour a delicious lunch was served. The program in the afternoon was enjoyed by all. Several visitors were welcomed. The Society will be entertained at the home of Mrs. Leland Snyder July 8th.

Publicity Chairman

Gertrude Lang, Student Prince Star, Knows Her Broiled Steaks

Gertrude Lang shows how she makes a round steak "fit for a king" by adding salt, pepper, and sugar as seasoners.

Reveals Trick of Seasoning Which Helps Improve The Flavor

MAYBE it's the depression or maybe they like to cook, but fact, the stars out in Hollywood are all trying to outshine each other in producing culinary masterpieces.

Out on the coast, platinum blonde Jean Harlow does tricks with a bunch of beets and a saucepan that makes even the family cook turn green with envy.

Not to be outdone, Gertrude Lang, Broadway songbird, who stars as "Kathie" in Gotham's revival of the Student Prince, has taken her cookbook in hand and produced a steak that is guaranteed to make the most jaded appetite snap back into life.

"There is nothing really mysterious or difficult about broiling a steak," said Miss Lang. "The reason why so many steaks taste like a piece of old felt hat is because they are seasoned in a better and left to nature and a good strong flame. Seasoning is just as important in meat cookery as it is in vegetables and I believe all amateur cooks should be made to repeat over to themselves a dash of sugar, a pinch of salt and a little pepper at least one thousand times before they approach the kitchen range.

"Salt and pepper are extremely important for their seasoning qualities and the sugar, while used primarily as a seasoner also has added value. When rubbed into steaks it caramelizes, forming a thick brown crust which seals in the juices giving added nutritional value to the meat."

Here is Miss Lang's favorite recipe which looks so good, it's worth trying for dinner tonight.

Broiled Round or Rump Steak

Select a steak cut 1 to 1½ inches thick, rub into it a mixture of 1 teaspoonful each of salt and sugar and ½ teaspoonful of pepper. Brush a hot skillet or broiler with fat and place the steak to cook. Turn now and then until done to your taste, serve on a hot platter, dotting butter over the meat before serving.

Republican Convention Called "Drab and Spineless Affair"

(BY FRED HOLMES)
Washington Cor. for the Boone County Recorder

Chicago, June 18.—To a mere observer, be he Republican or Democrat, wet or dry, believer or unbeliever in the merits of the comparatively recent tariff law, for or against the Administration's policies about depression and other things, favorable or antagonistic to our participation in affairs, the Republican National Convention of 1932, taken all in all, was a drab and spineless affair.

As a matter of fact, it would have been puerile to expect anything else. The formal announcement of what everybody knew anyway can hardly inspire enthusiasm. Pretty soon a dignified body of gentlemen will wait upon Herbert Hoover and advise him, much to his surprise, that he was renominated for the office of President of the U. S. It will take Mr. Hoover just fifteen minutes to express his thanks to the gentlemen for setting his mind at rest with respect to an uncertainty which had been causing him sleepless nights. Mr. Hoover will, out of courtesy, stifle a yawn, but the rest of us, if we listen in, will make no attempt to stifle ours.

A little while after November 8th there will be a meeting of that somewhat obscure body known as the electoral college. It will decide who is to be the next President of the United States. The fact that long before the assembly of that body everyone in this country will know who is going to be the successor of President Hoover does not obviate the apparent necessity for official confirmation. But just about one-thousandth of the one percent of the people will ever know where or when that meeting is held and less than that percentage would go across the street to be "among those present."

The Chicago convention was just about the same sort of gesture. Everyone knew that Herbert Hoover would be renominated as the standard bearer of his party. No one seriously doubted that Charles Curtis would be named as his running mate. The platform, except for the prohibition plank, was a foregone conclusion—and as for the prohibition plank, no one at the Congress Hotel for the past week has doubted what would be its general purport. Which leads me to take your readers into my confidence to the extent of telling them that the exhibition staged at Chicago's Stadium was merely a side-show. The convention was held in Congress Hotel—behind closed doors, as usual. Presidents are picked in what Frank Kent, of the Baltimore Sun, calls a "smoke-filled room," and not in "great open spaces," like the Stadium.

Fifty years ago Keynoteur Dickinson's speech might have dragged a lot of "doubting Thomases" into line. Not so today—and that goes for the keynoteing of the keynoteer who will keynote here on the 27th. On that date the Democratic convention will be held in a "smoke-filled room" in the Congress Hotel, with a side-show at the Stadium to which the public is invited. A keynoteer will mentally observe: "Who wished this thing on me?" All things considered, it may be said that Senator Dickinson "did himself proud," even if, while he was indulging in forensics and platitudes, delegates on the floor told each other how they made that 350 yard No. 8 in three, for a birdie, and in the galleries was seriously debated the respective merits of "auction" and "contract." That was no reflection upon Senator Dickinson. The Democratic keynoteer will get his next week. We might just as well wake up to the fact that keynoteers are as much out of fashion as bustles and side-saddles.

Pretty much everything worth while in the way of business was taken care of at the real convention in the Congress Hotel. But they did get into enough of a jam over there to make necessary the staging of one original feature at the side-show at the Stadium. It seems that at the Congress here was a most decided difference of opinion with respect to the definitions of the words "repal" and "resubmission."

As a result, they passed that buck over to the side-show where the audience began to think that after all they would get their money's worth. To say that Republican leaders were amazed by the size of the side-show vote for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is putting it mildly. Quite frankly, they admit it injects the issue of repeal into the campaign and constitutes an invitation to the Democrats to take advantage of the strong sentiment exhibited here last night. It is their opinion that political expediency if nothing else will dictate a strong repeal plank in the Democratic platform—and obviously they are nervous about the outcome in November.

Even the "repal" vote in the convention did not expect such strong support for Senator Binghams' plank. Hence they are greatly encouraged despite vigorous protests against the plank's approval from Henry Curran, Mrs. Charles H. Babbitt, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, James W. Wadsworth and other leaders of the repeal movement. They recognize that the defeat of the majority plank by the Republican convention by a mere 200 votes emphasizes the strength of their cause. They say the Administration's machine was unable to hold the convention in line. They point to such States as Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Indiana, Michigan and Mississippi, as evidence of this.

As a whole, seventeen States, which control a large electoral vote, were defeated on the repeal issue, but in this defeat the Administration received a severe jolt. There is great political significance in the fact that six Atlantic coast States, four from the Middle West and four from the Far West voted heavily for repeal. These are strongly Republican States, and ordinarily could be expected loyally to support a Republican Administration entering a campaign. The repeal issue has too strong an appeal for the Hoover leaders to counteract.

Anyway, it's who's against who. We'll know more about it next week.

ROCHAMBEAU'S BIRTHDAY

July 1 is a date on which every person in the country who wishes to be regarded as a good American should think for a moment of the noble character who was born on that day 207 years ago. In Lafayette Park, in the city of Washington, facing the White House, stands a statue to this man, and on the base of it are carved the words in which George Washington has nobly recorded the "harmonious friendship" which existed between this man and himself.

This friend of Washington and of America was Jean Baptiste Donatien de Vimeure, Comte de Rochambeau, and it is in view of the classic example of friendship between two exalted souls, as well as for the help that Rochambeau brought to Washington and to America, that every American owes him a thought. And the thought is most appropriate during this year when the entire civilized world is honoring the memory of George Washington. Nothing would have pleased Washington more than this moment of gratitude that we show upon his great ally and comrade in arms.

Every school-child knows the story of the help that came from France at a critical hour in the progress of the Revolution. The patriots, we are told by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission, had become destitute of everything but their magnificent courage and determination. But a nation cannot triumph on valor alone, and the Colonies were without funds, without food and clothing for their soldiers. More than that, five years of war had so disheartened the country that it had little prospect of raising these necessities in time to save itself and its cause.

How the French came to our aid with money and with armed men and ships, in answer to the pleadings of Benjamin Franklin and the eloquence of Lafayette, is familiar to all. The story of it makes one of the noble pages of history. It is the story of nations and of individuals willing and able to rise above considerations of financial or political gains, and uniting to battle side by side for those invisible advantages to progress and to humanity.

The millions of lives, and the thousands of Frenchmen who came to America in their transports and ships of war, made possible Washington's triumph at Yorktown and the winning of American Independence. But even this splendid and effective gesture is but half the story.

The rest of it consists in those graceful and personal acts of consideration and delicacy with which the French placed themselves under Washington's command and made possible that "harmonious friendship" which Washington himself records immortally on the statue of his friend.

It is a fact known chiefly to students of history that Lafayette, deeply wished to be made commander of this French contingent, and it is worth the labor of turning over all the pages of correspondence dealing with the subject for the pleasure of finding how gracefully he yielded the honor and how cheerfully he became a subordinate both to his French chieftain and to General Washington. But Rochambeau was equally fine in placing himself completely at Washington's orders, and in this he was but executing the orders of his superiors.

In France it is not commonly understood, in the first place, what an honor the French conferred upon us in placing Rochambeau at the head of the reinforcements they sent us. The Comte de Rochambeau was a soldier of the first eminence at the time, and had been chosen to head the pick of the French army in the war that was expected with England. To detail him, indeed, to bring the French troops to America was a compliment indeed. And no man could have more becomingly personified this compliment.

Rochambeau was seven years the elder of Washington, and long before the American Revolution distinguished himself in one of France's important wars. A smaller man might have given himself airs on the score of this, especially as America was distinctly the supplicant for this aid from the French. Instead, Rochambeau placed himself and his forces completely at Washington's disposal. Not only that, care was taken to observe every nicety of military courtesy during the campaign. For instance, in the siege of Yorktown, the Americans were given the post of honor at the right of the line; and within these larger acts were countless smaller observances that lifted the course pursued by Rochambeau to the plane of military chivalry.

It goes without saying that Washington completely captivated Rochambeau and all the French officers, and the "harmonious friendship" that sprang up between them was just what Washington's words conveyed. Carved on Rochambeau's statue, they will go on meaning what they say as long as the two nations survive, perpetuating a friendship of two great powers.

Rochambeau lived on to the ripe old age of 82. During the French Revolution he at first sympathized with the struggle for liberty and fought for the cause, but the murderous proclivities of the leaders sickened him. Suspected because of this, he was put in prison and was saved from the guillotine only by the timely death of Robespierre. It was from the hands of the young Napoleon that he received again his rank and estates and was allowed to live out in peace a life of memories every one of which did him honor.

Spring and Summer Breakfasts Should Be Interesting, Varied

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Heinz Food Institute

THE breakfast menu is usually more difficult to vary than that of other meals. It is easy to serve the same foods over and over again, but who wouldn't dread breakfast if they knew that every day they would see at the breakfast table exactly what was there yesterday? Fruits, cereals, breadstuffs and hot dishes should be varied. Be sure to utilize seasonable fruits and change the menu to appeal to appetites of various seasons. Spring and summer breakfasts may be especially interesting for there is a wealth of appropriate foods from which to choose. The following menus furnish interesting, well-balanced breakfasts:

Whole Strawberries with Powdered Sugar
Rice Flakes
Crisp Bacon Surprise Muffins*
Coffee

Sliced Fresh Pineapple
Rice Flake Waffles*
Pure Apple Butter
Coffee
Butter
Syrup

Breakfast Betty*
Spanish Omelet*
Coffee
Hot Rolls

Halves of Cantaloupe
Fluffy Omelet with Tomato Sauce
Whole Wheat Bred Toast
Coffee

(*) Indicates that recipes are given below.

Surprise Muffins: Cream 4 tablespoons sugar, butter, add 4 tablespoons sugar, then 1 egg and beat well. Sift 2 cups flour, 3 teaspoons baking powder and ½ teaspoon salt. Add to first mixture, alternating with 1 cup milk. Put spoonful of batter in greased muffin pan. On this, place teaspoon Apple Butter. Cover with spoonful of batter. Bake in oven 400° F. for 20-25 minutes. Makes 10 large muffins.

Rice Flake Waffles: Mix and sift 1½ cups flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder and ¼ teaspoon salt. Beat yolk of 1 egg thoroughly, add 1½ cups milk, then add to dry ingredients, beating thoroughly. Add 1 tablespoon melted butter and fold in stiffly beaten egg white. Add ½ cup Rice Flakes and bake in a hot waffle iron.

Breakfast Betty: Heat Rice Flakes in oven. Have ready hot applesauce, mashed prunes or apricots, or any other thick fruit sauce. Make a betty in a serving dish by alternating three layers of flakes and two of cooked fruit. Serve warm with cream or fruit juice.

Spanish Omelet: In a skillet cook 1 chopped green pepper and 1 tablespoon chopped onion for five minutes. Add 1 teaspoon chopped onion, 1 egg, ½ cup chopped Olives and 2 tablespoons Chili Sauce. Add 4 beaten eggs seasoned with salt and pepper. Cook until eggs are done, stirring occasionally.

How's that for 33 1/3 cents per person? Here are the recipes for the salad and dessert.

Jellied Apple Lime Salad: Dissolve one package time gelatin in one cup boiling water. Add contents of one 11-ounce can applesauce, pour into mold, and chill. Turn out onto six lettuce leaves, and top with six tablespoons mayonnaise.

Black Cherry Cobbler: Mix one tablespoon sugar and one tablespoon flour, add boiling cherry syrup from half a No. 3 1/2 can pit black cherries, and cook until creamy. Add one tablespoon lemon juice, one tablespoon butter and the half can of cherries, halved or quartered. Pour into a buttered baking dish. Make a biscuit dough of three-fourths cup flour, one and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one and one-half tablespoons shortening, one-fourth cup milk, and two-thirds cup this cream. Drop by spoonfuls on top of the fruit. Bake in a hot oven, 45', for about fifteen minutes. Serve warm with cream.

OUTDOOR BICENTENNIAL FEATURES

Although Bicentennial Celebrations in all sections of the country have been featured since the opening on February 22 of the nine-month observance of the George Washington Bicentennial, indications are that the summer months will bring the fullest participation yet enjoyed. Information to this effect is received from the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

George Washington plays and outdoor pageants are now being rehearsed as part of graduation exercises of thousands of schools and colleges. Farmers' picnics are taking on a distinctly patriotic tinge. When the circus comes to town, George Washington on a milk white charger will be in the parade. From one end of the country to the other, gardens will burst into bloom with Colonial flowers and red, white and blue blossoms in honor of the Father of His Country.

George Washington drama is playing a major role in the activities for the summer. The Play and Pageant Department of the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission has issued more than 150,000 copies of plays and pageants featuring the life and times of George Washington. These have been circulated upon request. Printed programs verifying the production of these plays and pageants in almost every city in the country are now being received at Commission Headquarters. A large percentage of the schools have pledged themselves to re-enact Washington events from commencement and graduation exercises. Fourth of July and Flag Day celebrations invariably include one or more Washington dramatizations. Communities are planning, even now, as far ahead as Armistice Day and Thanksgiving Day with special emphasis being placed on plays and pageants.

Summer camps, circuses, chauntas, conventions, stock companies, little theatres, and dozens of other organizations are including dramatic epochs in the life of George Washington for the entertainment of their summer public.

The American Farm Bureau Federation has been active in stimulating interest in rural George Washington picnics for the Fourth of July. A definite plan has been worked out and the program which has been vigorously pushed by State, County and community farm bureau units, is now under way with hundreds of picnics definitely scheduled for this important date.

County fairs, stock shows, rodeos and agriculture exhibitions will all contain Bicentennial Celebration features.

MILIONS FOR RELIEF

The relief measure passed by the senate makes millions available, in the form of relief, to states which desire to borrow money to meet needs.

As Kentucky is limited by the state constitution from borrowing more than half a million dollars, although this limitation has been respected more in the breach than in the observance, funds made available to this state will be in the form of "advance" rather than loans.

A number of other states had restrictions similar to that in the Kentucky constitution. For this reason the bill included a provision that those states that were prohibited from borrowing from the federal government could receive "advance" based on necessity.

Although Kentucky would be entitled to $6,388,731 under the senate bill, Harry E. Bullock, chairman of the state welfare committee is of the opinion that a million dollars will meet the state's needs. This gives some evidence of how well Kentucky is faring in comparison with other states because even the large sums made available will not be sufficient to meet the needs of numbers of the states.—Lexington Herald.

THE NEWSPAPER CRITIC

When you hear a man finding fault with the local newspaper, open it up and ten to one you will find he hasn't an advertisement in it; five to one he never gives it a job of printing; two to one that if he is a subscriber he is a delinquent one; even odds he never does anything to help the publisher to run a good newspaper, and forty to one he is the most eager to see the paper when it comes out and borrows his neighbors before they get to read it.

This county has been visited by some fine rains the past week. Some sections of the county were badly in need of rain to finish setting their tobacco.

Three Washington county farmers are experimenting with cerealia lepezea, a new crop for that county.

WALK ON THE DEPRESSION

Get the depression by the forefoot and give it a good dressing.

Plant a late garden and hoe your corn and raise what you eat and do not buy on credit. Set the alarm clock, step quick, cut the hay, fatten a hog and a beef for next winter and let the depression go to thunder. Pay your debts with what money you get and stay close to the old home and it will stick close to you.

Most people are responsible for their own bad luck and no family able to work need steal, beg or go hungry.

But if they sleep while the bean beetle and the weeds get their gardens and crops they need expect nothing but hard luck. This is a land of plenty to those who are not dead ones. It just takes a little pep and hustle and old mother earth will grow plenty for those who really try.

Stick close to your work and let the depression go to thunder.—Owen County Democrat.

AFTER FIFTY YEARS OF STRUGGLE

The financial breakdown causing the present depression has broken many a millionaire who had spent his life amassing a fortune, one of whom was Samuel Insull, the great public utility magnate, who recently resigned as president of several of his companies after he had become practically a bankrupt after trying to pull them through. He will probably go back to Europe where fifty years ago he began life at $125 per day. It is said that three of his companies will pension him for an amount of $18,000 per year and that he will be able to live in peace the remainder of his life.

The past panic has broke thousands of rich men who today must start again for a livelihood.

After all a little farm paid for and a contented family brings the most joy out of life.

Panics may come and panics may go but the fellow owning his own land can raise his own living if he is content to live within his income.

CONDITION OF PASTURE AFFECTS WATER SUPPLY

The cheapest milk is made from good pasture. If we could have an abundance of good pasture from late spring to early fall it would make a lot of difference in our feed costs. We can have better pasture than we have put up with in the past but we will have to do something about getting it.

Many of our so-called pastures are starved almost to death. Then, too, they are grazed without rhyme or reason concerning the needs of growing plants. It has been repeatedly demonstrated in many sections of the country that pastures will respond profitably to fertilization and controlled grazing.

DAIRY FACTS

Milking a cow three times a day increases her milk flow according to the results of experiments.

One inquiring farmer recently put a water meter on his drinking cups and found that the cows used about a gallon of water in producing three pints of milk and the heaviest producers consumed as much as 15 gallons of water a day.

Don't put cows on freshly irrigated pastures, and on pastures that are wet from natural precipitation or heavy dews.

Fences should be repaired to keep the cows on the home farm and not to exclude neighbors' bulls. These should be kept in strongly built bull pens.

After the grass becomes better developed it is possible to do away with grain feeding without any serious effects during the period of time when there is abundance of grass.

Don't fail to read the advertisement of a personal property of Elmer Kelly next Saturday. Sale starts at 1 o'clock.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so let's forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

Practical Menus That Will Take Family's Meals Out of the Rut

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON,
Director, Home Food Institute

It is pleasant, when a little weary of planning meals, to allow someone else to take over the task for a few days. If possible to take a short vacation, leaving household duties to someone else, we are most fortunate. The majority of women, however, cannot do this; and when entirely out of ideas, the best course is to consult a well-written cook book, or look over food articles in your favorite newspaper. These menus will be found most practical, and they will take your meals out of the rut.

Veal Pot Pie with Dumplings* Fresh Cucumber Relish
Jellied Beet and Celery Salad
Whole Wheat Bread Quince Jelly
Chilled Fruit Cup

Beefsteak, German Style* Baked or Creamed Onions
Baked Potatoes Mixed Fruit Salad
Fig Pudding with Ice Cream, Coffee

Cream of Tomato Soup with Crackers
Platter of Tuna Fish Salad with garnish of Hard Cooked Eggs and Fresh Cucumber Pickle Slices
Hot Rolls Grape Jelly

* Strawberry Shortcake, Coffee

(*) Indicates that recipes are given below.

Veal Pot Pie with Dumplings: In a kettle containing 1 1/2 quarts boiling water, place 2 lbs. shoulder veal and 1 onion, and simmer for 1 hour or more. Add salt and pepper to season and 1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce. Add 2 cups diced potatoes and cook until they are nearly done. Add 1/4 cup Tomato Ketchup. Thicken, using 3 tablespoons flour, softened in 1/4 cup cold water. Place dumplings on top of meat, cover closely and steam for 12 minutes. Be sure the dumplings rest on the meat, and cannot sink into the liquid, as this will cause dumplings to be heavy. If one wishes to have a sauce to serve, part of the liquid may be removed before putting the dumplings into the kettle.

Beefsteak, German Style: Cut Sirloin Steak 1/2 inch thick. Cut in rectangular pieces about 2 by 4 inches. Lay one slice of bacon on each piece of steak, 1/4 Genuine Dill Pickle on bacon, roll up and secure with toothpick. Sear in a hot skillet. Place in casserole, pour over sauce made of 1/2 cup water and 1 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce. Bake for 45 minutes in moderate oven. Thicken sauce remaining in pan.

Printed dimity, lawn, eyelid embroidered batiste, fine voile, plain and embroidered organdie, wide-wale pique, are among the cotton materials used for the new evening dresses.

Organdies, voiles and other sheer materials are sometimes made over silk slips but are often made separately so that the dresses, themselves may be laundered separately. When the idea first started there were cotton dresses of the most formal sort, but at present most women regard chiffon and other silk sheer fabrics as more appropriate for formal wear, choosing cottons for the informal, practical sort of summer evening dress.

Pure white is perhaps the most usual choice—but slight pastels—especially shades of pink or peach—are close seconds, with pale blue, Nile green and mauve occasionally represented.

It is possible to make very inexpensive cotton evening dresses. The success of the new fashion is in the new note of crispness which cotton gives to the summer evening wardrobe.

Reds Are Different Type

The Cincinnati Reds represent the other extreme in major league baseball, but also manage to rank as an extremely good ball club. There are stars on the Reds' club, and there are mediocre players. The lack of balance so far has explained Cincinnati's inconsistent showing. But there is tremendous power in the Cincinnati line-up that can't be ignored and when it is sufficiently harnessed and directed will surely make the Reds a pennant contender. The team suffered a serious slump recently but is now on the way up once more and it is extremely doubtful whether the club will again sink so low.

As we said last week, the temporary loss of Chick Harley and El Johnson could not have come at a more inopportune time and was partly responsible for the team's slump. The club has been playing under most discouraging conditions all season, enough to break the morale of the players, but has nevertheless borne up well under the strain. The team has just as much spirit and courage as Bill McKechnie's Braves and possesses a punch that Boston cannot assemble. That goes for every other club in the league also. During those recent sorry days, the courage and pep of Leo Rurocher, Babe Herman and Ernie Lombardi stood out as the guiding principle behind the Reds' playing. Now, with the club fully recovered the entire team is expected to share the winning spirit.

Reds Return June 26

The Reds return to their home lot on Sunday, June 26 after a long sojourn along the Eastern Seaboard and it's a good bet that the home-town fans will be glad to have them back again. The Reds play the much improved Pittsburgh Pirates in the Sunday game and also on Monday, June 27. On Tuesday and Wednesday, June 28 and 29, the St. Louis Cards are at Redland Field for a two-game series. That announcement probably causes many of the fans to groan aloud with anguish after the way the Cardinals have treated the Reds so far, but the worm is bound to turn and perhaps the team will pick this occasion to emulate him. The system of securing reserved seats inaugurated some weeks ago by President Sidney Well has become very popular with the out-of-town fans. Seats can be reserved at all Western Union Telegraph offices in all cities.

Golf Open In Progress

150 of the greatest golfers in the United States are playing in the National Open Championship at the Fresh Meadows Country Club, Flushing, Long Island, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 23, 24 and 25. This event is the American golf classic and is worth approximately $50,000 to the winner if he happens to be a professional. The prize money is figured at $20,000 and the rest forthcoming from paid "endorsements" and the like which always fall into the lap of the Open Champ. A half dozen players from this area are entered, including Otto Haeckbarth, Cincinnati; Leonard Schmutte, Lima, O.; Johnny Florio, Columbus, O.; Art Smith, Covington, Ky.; Johnny Fischer, Cincinnati; and Eph Collins, Cincinnati. Oddly enough, there are only 10 amateurs in the field of 150 and three of these, Florio, Fischer and Collins qualified from this district.

Dizzy Dean Quits

You've got to hand it to Dizzy Dean, the talkative young twirler with the St. Louis Cardinals. Dizzy has the happy faculty of keeping his name in print by periodically releasing caustic comments on the subject of the Cardinal management. His latest is a flat refusal to remain with the club any longer because Gabby Street the manager refuses to let him pitch except on Sundays; and because Branch Rickey, owner of the club, only pays Dizzy $3,000 a year.

As a matter of fact, when Dean announced last week that he draws only $3,000 a season it was a real news item and certainly added one more bit of evidence to the fact that the Cardinal management "chisel" the players. If Dean is worth only that amount, a lot of other pitchers in the league are getting away with murder. Dean can't be blamed if he rebels against a salary like that when less capable pitchers are drawing a great deal more. It would serve the St. Louis management right if Dean declines to return to the club and by doing so further weaken the Cardinal chances for another pennant. This "penny-wise" policy doesn't always pay. Dean has already stated that he would very much like to be with the Cincinnati Reds where the players are treated with consideration. That happens to be a fundamental policy with President Sidney Well and is one of the reasons why the Red chieftain is extremely popular with both the players and the fans.

CONSTANCE

Mr. William Warner and family attended the wedding of their niece Miss Jessie Seibert and Mr. Edward Seibert at Winton Place Saturday, June 18th. Their many friends wish to congratulate them.

THE MT. ZION EAGLES

The Rainbow Unit of the Mt. Zion Eagles had their last meeting May 3rd.

The first unit have their towels finished, and their holders started. The next thing will be a head-band and apron.

SPECIALIST INSPECTS ORCHARDS

Mr. W. W. Magill, field agent in Horticulture from the College of Agriculture made a short inspection trip to a number of orchards in Boone county last Wednesday. A variable crop of apples, practically no peaches and a fair crop of berries and grapes were found. Apple scab was found to be bad in all sections visited. Mr. Magill is of the opinion that the soil weather which delayed the time between the prepink spray and the next or petal fall spray allowed the scab spores to infect the fruit at a time when the sprays normally gave control. He bases his theory on the fact that the few men who followed a new spray recommended the past few years in which Bordeaux was used as a full bloom spray had no scab or very little on those varieties sprayed.

Peach trees suffered from the late severe freezing weather, heavy crop of leaf curl and heavy crop of fruit produced last year. Mr. Magill recommends that these trees be heavily nitrated with from two to four pounds of ammonium sulphate or nitrate of soda per acre, cultivated and in some cases cut back or dehorned this coming winter. These practices will help produce strong vigorous fruit buds that can stand more severe conditions and produce a better set of fruit next spring.

The grape crop offers splendid possibilities for Boone county. Regular sprays of 3-4-50 Bordeaux and 1 1/2 pounds of arsenate of lead are being used in the demonstrations to produce clean high quality fruit. Home mixed Bordeaux has certain advantages on ready or commercial mixed Bordeaux. A few growers desiring to purchase the ground blue-stone received the wrong material from their merchant. Blue-stone whether in powder or crystals should have a good blue color. Care should be taken that no mistake has been made.

OF HARVEST HOME TEAM AGAIN TURNS IN STELLAR EFFORT— HEAVY HITTERS OF WEST SIDE HOTEL ARE 'PUTTY IN THE HANDS' OF BIG GEORGE BOEHLER—GAME AGAIN NEXT SUNDAY

Harvest Home came out on top in a pitcher's battle Sunday in which Boehler led the hard hitting West Side Hotel boys down with 3 hits, and although his support was ragged he had enough on the ball to beat down in the pinches and coasted in for his second win in as many starts.

Snyder led the team at bat with 3 hits, one of which was a double, while Hartman connected for a triple and made a back handed catch of a liner for the feature catch of the game.

Next week Carney Service Station from Sandfordtown, will be at Harvest Home park. This is a home club in the Northern Ky. League and this will be the first meeting of these clubs. On their roster are Bud Moreland and Russell Miller, who are well known in Boone county, and in Herzog they have one of the best pitchers in the League and a real battle can be expected.

On Monday July 4th the home boys will leave their park and travel to Ludlow for a single game at 3 p. m. The Ludlow management is putting on several added attractions, and business manager Zimmerman has promised to take his famous jug band to live up things on the Harvest Home bench.

The eleven cow herd of Ben Nichting of near Beaver Lick was the high herd in the Northern Kentucky Herd Improvement Association for May. The herd averaged 778 pounds of milk and 39.2 pounds of fat for the month which returned a net price (less hauling) of $12.90 per cow. The association sponsors the use of economical production methods and not just high production goals. Mr. Nichting is feeding his cows a good balanced ration winter and summer, using good purebred bulls, culling closely, and has so planned the freshening of his cows that there is no surplus milk during the summer months. It would indicate that those dairymen with vision who are making their dairy operations conform to market conditions rather than make market conditions conform to their operations are in a much more stable position at the present time.

Henry Robinson, an industrious colored man, who lives near town on the Petersburg pike, reports that his wife presented him with a fine pair of twins last week. TWO GAMES ON FOURTH

The Burlington Baptists will play two games here on Independence Day with the Warsaw church team as their opponents.

One game will be in the morning at 10:00 o'clock, while the afternoon game will start at 2:00 o'clock.

The batteries have not yet been announced for these games, but it is certain that both games will be hotly contested. The Warsaw team defeated the locals when they met here several weeks ago in a league game. The Burlington boys will be out for revenge.

Mrs. Ida Belsly is visiting Dr. and Mrs. S. B. Nunnelle at their beautiful home in the Bullittsville-Hebron neighborhood.

Mr. Newton Sullivan, Sr., is reported very ill this week. Martin Williamson is watching at his bedside. Mr. Sullivan is in a very weakened condition and is not expected to recover.

Bobby Rouse, son of A. B. Rouse, Ralph and Bruce Fulton, and Wayne Stegner, all of Erlanger, were camping on Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Rouse's Sleepy Hollow Farm, west of Burlington, last week.

Mrs. Lillie Youell, of Hebron, spent the past week in the Burlington community. Her visit was divided between Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Kelly and Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Rouse.

The regular church service hour at the M. E. church last Sunday evening was devoted to a Children's Day program, which was enjoyed by a fair sized audience.

PROJECT WORK

SHOWS SPLENDID RESULTS, ACCORDING TO COUNTY AGENT, WHO IS TOURING ELEVEN CLUBS DURING JUNE AND JULY—FEW MEMBERS ARE DELINQUENT IN KEEPING RECORDS

4-H Project work is being visited in community club tours in practically every one of the 11 community clubs in the county during June and July according to county agent H. R. Forkner. The members of the clubs are meeting in the morning and visiting each other as many members of the club as possible during the day inspecting his project and his records. A few members are found on these tours who are not keeping their records up to date but the majority are not only keeping their project work up to 4-H standards, but are keeping up to date, accurate and reliable business records on their work.

A member of Florence X. L. All 4-H club on last Friday showed that his sixty chick project had cost him exactly 23 cents per chick and that his chicks averaged 2 1/2 pounds per chick. This made a gross cost of 64 cents per pound which would mean a fair profit if sold on the market.

Another member of the club presented his record book on his tobacco project. The record showed the exact number of hours labor required for breaking and preparing the seed bed, the planting and cultivation of the crop and cost and amount of fertilizer used up to date. His tobacco project presented the best looking prospect in his community. A few rows left unfertilized to show the difference in practices gave a good lesson in soil fertility.

The keeping of accurate business records is one of the most important means for the formation of business habit in club work. It will show the strong and weak points in agricultural practice and where the inflow and leaks come from. We are all creatures of habit. We plow corn, milk cows, eat and keep business records at certain times in most cases from a matter of habit. The building of proper habit is one of the most important problems of training. The parents are urged to cooperate with the local 4-H Club leaders in the training of members in more efficient agriculture, home economics and business habits. The members in turn will be of greater service to their club, their community and their country.

GAS TANKS

AT TRYING FILLING STATION CATCH FIRE AS ELECTRIC PUMP EXPLODES—LIQUID FIRE COVERS CONCRETE HIGHWAY UNTIL EXTING- TISHED BY ERLANGER FIRE DEPARTMENT

Traffic was halted for a time late last Wednesday at the filling station of W. L. Tryling, of Florence, when one of his gasoline pumps exploded causing burning gasoline to flow over the concrete highway.

An attendant, Charles Higgins, was filling the auto tank of Joe Berkshire, when an adjoining pump suddenly exploded and ignited the fuel in three pumps. Higgins was slightly burned.

Fire Chief Andrew Scheben, of Erlanger, was called and the Erlanger Fire Department succeeded in extinguishing the blaze in a comparatively short time.

A definite figure on the damage has not been estimated.

Congressman Fred M. Vinson will deliver a radio address over the Coast-to-Coast radio network of the National Broadcasting Company, Wednesday July 6th, at 7 o'clock Eastern Standard Time (6 o'clock Central Standard Time) upon the subject of the double taxation burden.

Recently, Congressman Vinson introduced a resolution in the House looking toward the study, investigation and lessening of the double taxation burden. He was appointed chairman of the Committee which will make this study and investigation and report its findings and conclusions to Congress in December. Friends of Congressman Vinson point to this recognition of his work with pleasure.

Congressman Vinson will deliver this radio address over Station WRC-Washington, D. C., at the invitation of the American Taxpayers' League, who are interested in the lessening of the tax burden upon the American people. Mr. Vinson may also be heard over stations WJZ New York, N. Y.

EX-GOVERNOR

OF OHIO TO ADDRESS FOURTH OF JULY GATHERING AT RISING SUN—MYERS Y. COOPER, OF CINCINNATI, HAS BEEN SE- LECTED BY COMMITTEE

The stage is all set over in the good old town of Rising Sun, county of Ohio, state of Indiana, for the biggest Fourth of July celebration ever held in that neck o' the woods.

Early in the morning an air bomb will send out a thunderous message, reminding all that the great day has finally arrived. A second bomb at 10 a. m., will announce that the floats and other features which are to make up the big parade are being formed in line on West Main street. It is a certainty that there will be more than a half hundred handsome floats in the parade.

The day's program will open at 10 a. m., when the Rising Sun High School band will give a concert on the court house lawn, where a large band stand has been erected. The parade will move promptly at 10:30 a. m.

The afternoon program will begin at 2 p. m. John L. Wessler, county superintendent of schools, will be the presiding officer. Judge William D. Ricketts will deliver the address of welcome.

In the matter of providing a snack for the day the executive committee "did itself proud" when it succeeded in securing Myers Y. Cooper, ex-governor of Ohio, to serve in that capacity. The appearance of this notable gentleman will be the magnet which will attract hundreds of folks from far and near. Ex-Governor Cooper will be heard at 2:30 p. m.

The afternoon program will also include patriotic selections by the band, several numbers by a double quartet and other features.

Those planning to attend are reminded that there is abundant accommodations for all who may wish to bring their dinner baskets and enjoy their luncheon in true picnic style. Running ice water, in a never-ending supply, will be on tap on the court house lawn all day.

An invitation is extended by the executive committee to the public in general to honor the memory of George Washington by attending the big bi-centennial celebration at Rising Sun.

CHURCH CONVENTION

The convention of the Christian churches of Boone county will meet at the Florence Christian church at Florence, Ky., on Wednesday July 6th, 1932, at 9:15 (E. S. T.). Everybody invited.

Secretary.

PHILLIPS-STOTT

The marriage of Miss Mary Phillips and Gaines Allen Stott, of Petersburg, came as a complete surprise to their friends in both the Burlington and Petersburg communities.

They were married last Saturday afternoon at Newport and were accompanied to the altar by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hickman. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Stott, of Petersburg, and the bride is a daughter of Mrs. Blanche Phillips, of Burlington, and a member of the graduating class of the present year.

She was a star member of the Burlington High School basketball team while in high school and is very popular here.

WOMAN'S CLUB

The Boone County Woman's Club met Thursday afternoon June 16th at the home of Mesdames Susie and Ava Lou Walton. The following program was given:

Scripture reading, 12th chapter of Ecclesiastes read by Mrs. Susie Walton.

Song by the Club—My Wonderful Dream.

Duet—"When They Ring Those Golden Bells" by Mrs. Anna Huey and Mrs. Neva Seebree.

Trip to Florida—Miss Pearl Botts, History of the Flag—Mrs. Ida Easton.

The Eldorado of the Spice, Hunter—Mrs. Eliza Voshell.

Serve for on Unemployment—Mrs. Lulu Huey.

The Genesis of Protestantism—Mrs. Avalon Walton.

Duet, "Sail On" by Mrs. Anna Huey and Mrs. Neva Seebree.

This completed the program. The hostess served delicious refreshments.

Those present enjoyed the occasion very much. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Lulu Huey.

MEETING OF BOONE COUNTY UTOPIA CLUB HELD AT BURLINGTON THURSDAY NIGHT— TOUR AND PICNIC PLANNED FOR JULY 19

Thirty young men and women of Burlington, Florence, Hebron and Petersburg communities attended the Boone County Utopia Club No. 2 meeting held at Burlington last Thursday evening. Three new members Misses Shirley Aylor, Eva Mae Grant and Alice Kathryn Tupman were taken into the club.

Miss Edith Lacy, field agent in Home Economics from the College of Agriculture met with the girls and discussed plans for advancement in the Utopia Home Economics projects. County Agent H. R. Forkner met with the boys and discussed the purpose of the various agricultural demonstrations that are being conducted in the county.

A tour and picnic was planned for the July meeting scheduled for July 19th. Plans were made for the visiting of the project members in the fohenoan and a picnic following the tour in the afternoon. The following members Grace Maddox, Archmarie Lucas, Frances Renaker, Alice Hafer, Geo. Wohrley, Kathryn Faurer, Wilton Stephens, Helen Grant and Kirtley McWethy were put on the arrangements committee for the next meeting.

BOONE HAS CANDIDATE

Kentucky was very much in the limelight during the early days of the convention at Chicago what with Senator Barkley acquitting himself so nobly and J. P. Shouse a prominent contender for the Permanent Chairmanship. But to cap it all Boone countians learned thru a daily news dispatch that Mrs. John C. Greenway, National Committee woman from Arizona and a possible contender for the Vice Presidency, was a former Kentuckian and whose birthplace was Boone county. Will someone kindly send the editor some information on Mrs. Greenway?

LOCAL MEN

VISIT PROMINENT STOCKMEN OF CARROLL AND GALLATIN COUNTIES IN SEARCH OF PURE BRED Sires—REPRESENTS PROGRESSIVE MOVE TOWARD FURTHER IMPROVEMENT

Mr. Robert Youell, Robert Chambers, Ben Nichting, T. W. Rice, H. R. Forkner county agent and Clarence Nordwick, tester N. Ky. D. H. I. A. visited the dairy herds of Senator Perry Gaines of Carrollton and Jas. McDaniels of Warsaw last Tuesday in search of two young bulls suitable for the Boone county Bull Association.

While some good dairy animals were inspected no purchases were made and plans were made for inspecting a number of leading herds in Ohio in the near future. The members of the association are attempting to locate herd bulls of strong production pedigrees, strong individuality and backed with good breeding.

The herd bulls of the association will be used two years by each member and then exchanged for another animal in the association. When ever an animal does not show marked improvement of his daughters over their dams he will be discarded and a new animal secured by the association. This move represents one of the most progressive movements in recent years to improve the already good quality of dairy animals in Boone county.

INSECT CONTROL INFORMATION

Aphis or plant lice are causing considerable injury to a good many shrubs and plants around the farm home at the present time. These insects do not eat but suck their food from the plant. They are best controlled by a contact kill spray. Black Leaf 40 nicotine sulfate is one of the best contact sprays. From three-fourths to one teaspoon of Black Leaf 40 to a gallon of water with enough laundry soap added to make the mixture soapy sprayed directly on the life will give good control. Spray as often as necessary and in case not all lice are killed the first time and the plants are not burned by the spray slightly more of the Black Leaf 40 may be used for a second spray. Evergreen is another good commercial spray on the market. Pyrethrum should also be good.

BLIGHT

Blight affects practically all plants. Evergreens may be affected with either blight or red spider. Red spider is controlled by a contact kill. Blight is best controlled by a fungicide of which Bordeaux mixture is one of the best. From 2-4-50 to 4-4-40 strength should be used. The weaker strength should be used on tender plants. If made too strong it may burn.

WORMS

Roses, beans, potatoes, tomatoes, and practically all plants are affected by worms and eating insects. These are all controlled by the bean beetle dusts or any good stomach poison. Thorough dusting with one pound calcium arsenate, 7 pounds of parts lime or 1 pound calcium arsenate, 1 pound lime and 4 pounds lime makes a good stomach poison. There are a number of other good stomach poisons on the market.

RAISE FEED FOR HOME USE

Raise plenty of feed for both family and stock for both must be properly fed if they are going to do their best under all conditions. Don't remember one and forget the other.

Now is the time to start your fall garden. Plan to can and store plenty for winter use. The College of Agriculture has some valuable information on canning and storage for winter.

Well and in most cases full fed stock give most profitable returns. Sudan grass may be sown now if there is going to be a shortage of pasture for cattle, hogs or sheep. It may be grazed in most cases two weeks after seeding. The dairy herds of Senator Gaines in Carroll county and James McDaniels of Warsaw were found the past week grazing on Sudan grass seeded river bottom land.

It is not too late to sow soy beans for winter hay. Inoculate seed if sown on ground for the first time. Remember seed properly sown and cared for usually produce a cheap crop than if it was bought matured. We planned supplies from the farm means lower costs of production.

Mrs. E. A. Bershire is quite ill as the Recorder goes to press.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

Misery loves company, so they say. If the Cincinnati Reds feel at all badly over their poor showing on the eastern trip just concluded, they needn't worry too much because they had plenty of company.

In their inability to beat the eastern clubs, The Reds finished their season with a record of having won seven and lost nine. The St. Louis Cardinals won five and lost seven. The Chicago Cubs won six and lost eight. The only western team to come out on top was Pittsburgh with a record of 7 games won and six lost. Looking at matters from an angle, the Reds played as good ball as any of the other contending clubs.

Are the eastern teams stronger than the western outfits? The reason that this last invasion might point that way, but as a matter of fact the two seasons were about evenly matched, each holding two first division berths. Chicago and Boston are the top representatives. The other clubs are huddled together in the standings and a week's play might upset the entire scale. The Reds themselves, now out of their terrible slump, are figured to gradually regain their former lofty position.

It is surprising what a vast difference it makes to a ball club to be playing on foreign fields rather than at home. The landmarks which are so familiar to the players on their home lot and which assist them in batting and fielding are sadly missed when away. Strange fields are not conducive to the best playing, yet the club which wins the pennant must be a good road club. It is the unwritten law of base ball. Frequently certain clubs play seasonally at home but are unable to do a thing abroad and lose out in the race.

It isn't always necessary for a club to amass a huge winning percentage on the road to win the pennant. It must play better than 500 ball, however, and must smash the opposition at home. So far this year, the Reds have succeeded in doing neither. The team has played fair ball at home and has simply been annihilated on the road. Naturally there was no possibility of remaining at the top or near the top of the league with that brand of ball. The situation becomes all the more complicated when one considers the fact that the Reds are an aggregation of smart, veteran players accustomed to all and playing conditions and environments.

Stars such as Babe Herman, Chick Hafey, Ernie Lombardi, Leo Durocher, Wally Gibert, George Grantham and Taylor Douthitt are at home on any field, having played them all many times. Just why these men have not performed better is one of those many mysteries of the game that defy explanation. Our own opinion tends to the belief that it has taken and will take a little while for these players to organize themselves into a team rather than remain an assortment of individual stars.

It must be remembered that President Sidney Weil, in his gallant attempt to bring a real team to Cincinnati, was obliged to gather his players from every possible source. The result was an assortment of stars who had a lesson to learn in "teamwork." Their individual efforts carried the club along during the early days of the season, but the now-famous slump was due

WE HOPE HE IS RIGHT
Charles G. Dawes, retiring from public after nearly fifteen years of service which began with the War, included the reorganization of Germany's finances, a term as Vice-President of the United States, Ambassador to Great Britain, and culminated with the presidency of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, says that the nation has reached the turning point in the depression.

Mr. Dawes, who was and is a successful banker as well as a statesman, ought to know what he is talking about. He does not hold out any glittering promises to the foolish folk who still believe that the end of the depression will be heralded by the over-night resumption of

LET'S DEFLATE HOKUM
In 1865 it was proposed to John Stuart Mill that he should run for Parliament.

He answered that he was willing to do so, provided the voters understood he would not make any election speeches or put up one-cent, and that, if elected, he would support such national issues as appealed to his best judgment and do nothing for the local interests of his district.

He says in his autobiography that "a well known literary man was heard to say that the Almighty Himself would have no chance of being elected on such a program."

Nevertheless, Mills' candidacy made remarkable progress, and just before the election he agreed to appear at a few meetings in order to answer questions.

In one of his earlier books he had made the remark that the "working class, though differing from those of some other countries, in being ashamed of lying, are yet generally liars."

Some opponent put this on a placard and at a meeting of working men Mill was asked whether he had written and published it. He promptly answered: "I did."

What followed is so remarkable that I quote it verbatim:

"BUSINESS" VS. HEALTH
It is sometimes interesting to just sit up and take notice. It seems that the Health Department—or something like that—has recently issued a bulletin from Washington which suggested that our people eat less meat during the heated season, since meat is a heat-producing food, and is not needed in so great quantity in summer. All of which would seem to be very good advice for our normally heavy feeders. Whether the suggestion was timely or even necessary, is another question: let us pass up the enormous expense to the people, of the voluminous public documents issued, many of which are light worth their immense cost; because any man or woman with any sense knows that we do not need heavy, heat-producing food in hot weather.

But the department issuing the bulletins got results that they had not visualized; the Packers and vendors of the succulent steak and the toothsome pork chop raised up like a nest of bumble-bees! The bulletin did immense harm to the meat-packing industry; the government was deliberately trying to do one of its finest infants! Protests popped up instantly.

So many tempests in tea-pots nowadays. About all the harm that is in such bulletins is in the big

PICNIC PROVENDER

Many and Convenient
The supply of ready-prepared foods is nowadays endless, and one has only to select. And the convenience lies not only in their readiness but in their adaptability to all ages and tastes. With evaporated milk and puréed vegetables, for instance, the youngest members of the picnic party may be going on their first affair of this sort and be well and safely fed.

The sandwich spreads, all ready to put on the bread, offer liver, ham, tongue and mixed meats, a variety calculated to enable the hostess to appeal to all tastes. Or, if she knows that some of her guests have a liking for sea foods, there are crabmeat, lobster paste and sardines.

There are sweets galore in cans, including candies, and all of the hot dishes can be heated in their own containers which can subsequently be thrown away, or else buried, as no decent person wants to leave any litter on a pretty picnic ground.

Sandwiches Are the Backbone
But sandwiches, after all, are apt to be the backbone of a picnic, so we're suggesting a few tasty ones here. The first is a—

Sardine Sandwich: Bone and mash one can sardines. Mix with one tablespoon chopped ripe olives, one tablespoon lemon juice, two tablespoons chopped pickled beets, and three table-

MILLION DOLLARS FROM STRAWBERRIES
The College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in its June notes on the agricultural situation, says that strawberries brought about $1,000,000 into Kentucky this year. Sales of berries exceeded expectations. One thousand and six hundred loads were moved out, compared to early estimates of 600 to 700 car loads. Shipments began on May 10 with prices around $4 a crate for the best berries. Prices dropped to $3 by May 23 and then to $2 or below by the close of the season. Many growers picked 150 or more crates to the acre, and the average yield was about 80 crates, compared to 40 crates last year.

Several counties shipped their first strawberries this year. In Ohio county, 193 acres furnished 30 car loads of berries, and brought approximately $30,000. Strawberries are a new commercial crop in that county, largely as a result of the work of County Agent M. P. Nichols.

Seven car loads also were shipped from Pulaski county, where an effort is being made to develop commercial strawberry growing.

THE LAMB CROP
Boone county lambs are now going to market in some volume and are bringing in very good money when compared to other farm products. In what other manner could a farmer sell his pasture, feed capital and labor and get a greater return for it than through lambs. Those are the things that the farmer must sell if he is to carry on and he who can sell them to the best advantage is generally ahead of the crowd. (The same applies to the selling of soil, labor, capital and equipment through tobacco.)

Lambs bring new money into the community or territory. They bring money to the farmer, truckman and the market service people including bankers, stock yards companies, commission men, etc., all of which is money coming principally from the East. The amount of money, and the proportion of the actual value of the lamb, which the farmer received depends on the quality and weight of the lambs and his efficiency in marketing them or seeing that they are properly marketed. He should market his lambs where he feels that he can get the highest net dollar thru an honest and efficient marketing service.

There is, as usual, considerable difference between the price of

CHILDHOOD AND EDUCATION OF MOSES
Exodus 2:1-10; Acts 7:19-29 Golden Text: Proverbs 22:4
By Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

The birth of Moses marks an epoch in human history. In strange ways does God call men and women to places of leadership and great responsibility. With this child of slave parents floating among the reeds in the little basket there was little to suggest the great leader of Israel and law-giver of all generations. How vain was Pharaoh's strategy! Like the Herod of a later day all his planning went for naught. He thought by his cruel edict to blot out a generation of Hebrew children, yet the choicest flower of them all is preserved; he thought by the use of Egypt's mighty power to destroy all aspiration and hope, but his own daughter becomes the instrument of defeating his plans.

What men were the forces thru which the plans of one of the most powerful monarchs of ancient history were overthrown? (1) Moses had a Godly inheritance. His mother, Jochabel (Exodus 6:20) was a woman of faith and, perhaps influenced by the story of God's deliverance of Noah, prepared the miniature ark to protect her own boy. In the midst of many dangers she took such precaution as she knew, then committed her child to God's care. Moses' parents refused to yield to fear either of the heartless Pharaoh (Exodus 11:23) or the lurking perils of the Nile, but rested calmly in the faith that God would deliver. (2) Moses in a marvelously providential way received his early training from his mother, being restored to her care for a time by the daughter of Pharaoh. (3) Moses had in early life come into a vital religious experience of his own and he could clearly see that no amount of learning or no crude superstitions such as the Egyptians believed could satisfy the soul or afford a substitute for God's constant presence and guiding hand.

THE BICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION IN POLAND

Poland, the country which gave to the American Revolution the two heroes, Kosciuszko and Pulaski, is celebrating the Two Hundredth Anniversary of George Washington's Birth on a national scale, according to official information received by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

So important is this event considered in Poland that the Polish National Holiday, May 3, was dedicated to the Bicentennial in Warsaw; streets in Warsaw and other cities have been named for George Washington, and the government has issued a commemorative postage stamp in honor of the occasion which features a portrait of George Washington flanked by likenesses of Kosciuszko and Pulaski.

An oak tree was planted and dedicated to George Washington in Paderewski Park in the Polish capital, and a street adjoining the park, expected to be one of Warsaw's most beautiful boulevards, was named George Washington Avenue in the ceremonies held on May 3.

The Bicentennial Celebration in Poland is under the direction of a central committee of which Dr. Ignace Moscicki, President of the Polish Republic, is the honorary head, and Joseph Pilsudski, First Marshal of the Polish army and a hero of the World War, is an honorary member. The active chairman of the committee is Leopold Kotowski, president of the Polish-American Society and the affiliated Polish-American Chamber of Commerce in Warsaw.

A concert hall given by the Polish-American Society in the Europe Hotel, Warsaw, officially opened the Bicentennial Celebration in Poland. Attended by government, diplomatic, and military officials, and prominent Polish and American citizens, the functions was an outstanding event.

DAIRY SITUATION

(From the N. Y. D. H. I. A. Report)

From the statistical report on the dairy situation one should not feel very optimistic about the immediate future for the market of dairy products. However the dairy situation looks just about as good as any other farm enterprise. It is important that dairymen produce milk and butter fat as cheaply as possible. It is also important that a large amount of the feed be produced on the farm. As pastures become less abundant the low producers should be removed from the herd. These animals will not bring much on the beef market, but the loss will probably be less on them if they are sold at this time and not carried thru the winter. When considering the selling of cows as culls one need not be afraid of the supply of cows being depleted, because there were fewer cows culled last winter than for any year since records of culling have been kept. There is also a larger number of heifers than usual being kept for milk production.

TIMELY DAIRY HINTS

1.—The use of fly spray will not increase the amount of milk produced, but will probably keep the cows quieter at milking time. Excessive use of fly spray tends to make the cows body temperature rise.

2.—Due to the presence of so much white clover in most pastures there is more danger from bloat than usual. A pint to a quart of mineral oil depending on the size of the animal given as a drench has proven satisfactory on the Experiment Station herd. In severe cases call a competent veterinarian. Stick the bloated animals only as a last resort.

3.—Do not let the herd sire run with the cows during the summer. Plan now to build a bull pen as soon as the rush season is over. A bull pen is life insurance to the bull as well as the owner and his family.

4.—Do not forget to give the heifers on pasture some salt.

5.—Oats grown for hay should be cut in the early drought stage.

6.—Straw for bedding next winter can usually be purchased cheaper at threshing time than during any other season of the year.

Have We Lost Our Backbone?

By Albert T. Reid

Declaration of Independence

The King has established a direct tyranny. He has refused his Assent to Laws. He has obstructed the Administration of Justice. He has made judges dependent on his will alone. He has kept armies amongst us in times of Peace. He has imposed taxes on us without our consent. He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts and destroyed the lives of our people. He has established a cruel and oppressive trade in the most barbarous slave.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled, do hereby declare that these United States are, and of right ought to be, free and independent States.

We do hereby sever all political connection with Great Britain. We do hereby declare that we are and have been, and we shall be, free and independent States.

We do hereby declare that we are and have been, and we shall be, free and independent States.

We do hereby declare that we are and have been, and we shall be, free and independent States.

Miss Mary Bess Cropper and Rev. F. E. Walker are attending summer school at the University of Cincinnati.

Rev. F. E. Walker reports a very odd creation of nature at the Baptist parsonage. The rear outer wall of the kitchen is almost covered by a dense foliage of vines reaching up to the roof.

Miss Hazel Simms, of Covington, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Pettit.

Friends of Bert Sullivan regret his apparent inability to make very noticeable progress toward recovery. It is to be hoped that Bert soon will be able to be out again.

FISHER BOY ENTRIES CLOSE ON JULY FIRST

Kentucky Boys' Coach Models in $75,000 Competition to be Judged in Cincinnati

Months of painstaking effort on the part of boys throughout Kentucky will be reflected in an exhibition scheduled for July 23 to 25, at the Schenck Hotel, Cincinnati. The exhibit will be made up entirely of their best two-foot models of coaches, famous royal carriages, state entries from Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia. The 17th annual competition of the Fisher Boy's Coach Model Contest, while the exhibit is in progress, each coach will be judged as a basis for the 30 awards to be presented in each of the three classes. These include four prizes of $100 each in gold, two trips to the Fisher Boy's Coach Model Contest in Detroit in August, and 18 special cash awards ranging from $15 to $25.

In addition, the two coaches from each state having the highest scores in each of the Gold's two age groups will be sent to Detroit and re-judged with corresponding entries from all the other states and the seven Ohio boys' coaches. These coaches will be selected in a large envelope and turned over to Mayor Wilson of Cincinnati, to be looked in the city vaults until the final night of the judging, when Mayor Wilson will break the seal and announce the state winners' names. Scholarship winners will be announced during the boys' convention at Detroit in August.

Two Cincinnati men have been appointed to serve with a third judge from the headquarters of the Guild, in scoring the coaches from this section. They are Charles A. Fisher of the Cincinnati Scout organization, and Frank Hoffmeister, well-known teacher of manual training.

Last year's Kentucky boys attending the Guild convention in Detroit were J. L. MacFadden and Edward Wiestler, both of Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryle, of Rabbit Hash, were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. K. W. Ryle last Sunday. During the afternoon they paid the Cincinnati Zoo a short visit.

Record Race Victor Thanks Firestone

Upper left, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., referee of the race, and Edsel Ford, pacemaker on the first lap. Lower, Fred Frame, the winner, and Jerry Houck, riding mechanic; in the car they drove to victory.

Men, automobiles and tires set amazing new records of speed and endurance in this year's 500-mile international race on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Giving a splendid exhibition of cool and steady driving, Fred Frame, veteran of many races, won the event in record-breaking time. With an admiring throng milling around him after his sensational victory, one of the first things Frame did was to send the following telegram to Harvey S. Firestone, pioneer tire manufacturer:

"I want to congratulate you and thank you on the wonderful performance of Firestone tires which helped me win the Indianapolis 500-mile race today without tire trouble, setting a new record of more than 104 miles an hour for the 500 miles."

The race throughout was a remarkable Firestone triumph. Every car to finish was equipped with Firestone tires. The first four broke the former record of 101.13 miles an hour made by Peter De Paolo in 1925. In all the history of the famous motor race there has never been a more severe test of tires and never a finer demonstration of their qualities than was furnished this year. It was the thirteenth consecutive victory for Firestone.

Mr. and Mrs. John Herbstreit and family, Mrs. Mary Robinson, Mr. Henry Jergens and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Jergens motored to Frankfort Sunday and spent a very enjoyable day.

The contest between the young women and the young men is proving to be a close race. Remember the losers have to give the winners a banquet. So get in the race and help your side win.

Bro. Halbert Brown of the Cincinnati Bible Seminary will preach on July 3rd in the absence of the regular pastor, who is directing the music in a three weeks evangelistic meeting with Bro. W. H. Nutter in Wheatland, Indiana.

The regular meetings of the church will continue as before. Prayer meeting Wednesday 8 p. m. Ladies Aid Thursday afternoon. The regular Sunday services with Bible School at 10 a. m. Communion and the church service at 11 a. m.

The ladies of the church very pleasantly surprised the minister and his wife last Thursday afternoon with a shower given at the church basement. A very enjoyable afternoon was spent and a high supply of groceries were presented to the minister. These things are greatly appreciated and the spirit that prompted the giving is appreciated more than anything else. We want to thank all who had any part in the surprise.

THE SPICE IN SPORT

almost entirely to their lack of team play. A club cannot go on winning games indefinitely when the nine men on the field are not co-ordinating their efforts. We believe that the Reds have learned that lesson.

Cincinnati base ball fans are as relieved as the players themselves that the long eastern trip is over. The club is now at home for quite a while and should improve its standing greatly, at the same time resting its sorely-ried spirit for the hot fight to come later in the season. The Reds will play the St. Louis Cards in Cincinnati on Sunday, July 3, celebrating "American Legion Day." This event will attract Legionnaires from all over the Middle West. On July 6th, the team will meet Brooklyn in a double-header at Redland Field, following this big day with single games against the Dodgers on July 7 and 8. The New York Giants are in Cincinnati, July 9, 10, 11 and 12. Reserved seats can be secured at all Western Union Telegraph offices.

It has always been a puzzle to this writer just why heavyweight boxing championships are invariably washed-out affairs. Sound business judgment would seem to demand that the fight fans be given their money's worth in entertainment; but apparently the fight promoters and the fighters themselves don't care whether they beat the public squarely or not.

The recent Schmeling-Sharkey bout is another example of this unconcern for the customer.

Sharkey won the heavy weight title from Schmeling on a decision that wasn't shared by any of the experts gathered at the ringside. It is generally felt that Schmeling won that fight by a substantial margin because he carried the battle to Sharkey all the way, and had his opponent backing into the ropes with every punch. Yet the judges and the referee awarded the verdict to Sharkey.

There is just one basis upon which the judges might have decided in Sharkey's favor; but in this fight Sharkey did not actually give them the reason why he should decide in his favor. If a fighter carries the battle all the way yet takes a beating in so doing, the defensive decision must be based on the tabulation of hits registered. Had Sharkey given Schmeling a beating as he backed around the ring, the decision would have been justified.

Actually, Schmeling not only carried the fight to the "Gob" but also landed most of the punches. Hence, the verdict in Sharkey's favor was silly.

One of these days fight promoters are going to awake to the realization that such exhibitions are seriously hurting the boxing game. The day is rapidly approaching when the fans are going to rebel against paying perfectly good money to see mediocre bouts.

The promoters are smart, they'll do something about it before they lose their customers.

The National League has finally adopted the system of numbering players on the field, following the precedent set last year by the American League clubs. This is a good move and will be welcomed by the base ball fans. Under the new system, it will be possible to identify players easily and quickly on the score card; and the old annoyances of having to inquire of some one the name of a player will not be missed. This is merely another step taken by the major league clubs to create further good-will among the fans. The magnates have finally come to the realization that they cannot interest the great majority of people in the pastime when they deliberately make it difficult for the uninitiated to learn the game.

Apparently, there isn't anything in which women aren't proficient any more. There was a time when the males of the species could find refuge on the golf course; but even there the ladies are coming into their own. The 18 hole finals of the Cincinnati Women's Golf Championship at the Western Hills Country Club in the Queen City last week only too well demonstrated that fact. Mrs. Burt Well, hardly more than a youngster, defeated Miss Martha Kinsey, nationally-known star 2 and 1 for the 1932 title; and in doing so playing a brand of golf that any man might have envied. Drives ranging from 225 to 250 yards were nothing out of the ordinary for Mrs. Well or for Miss Kinsey. Both players shot men's par, hit their ball just as hard as men, fought just as gamely. It's hard to question any more of giving women equal rights—the big problem now is to keep them from grabbing the male's privileges also.

Racketeers and gamblers have long considered as a fertile field for their nefarious operations, but probably no more brazen attempt to intimidate sportsmen has ever been made than the threat reported to the officials of the United States Golf Association and to members of the Fresh Meadow Country Club, Flushing, N. Y., shortly before the start of the National Open last week. Gamblers, seeking to install pari-mutuel betting machines on the course, threatened to damage the expensive greens when permission to do so was refused by officials of the tournament. Of all the ridiculous stunts, the placing of betting machines on a golf course is just about the limit in nerve. The gamblers' idea was to allow the spectators to place bets on the outcome of the tournament, much as betting is conducted at race tracks. Naturally, tournament officials refused to consider the plan and told the gamblers to get out and stay out. The result was a threat to interfere with the play and police reserves were called in to guard the course.

The return of St. Johnson to the Reds' pitching staff was one of the bright spots in the Reding play last week. Johnson, recovered from a recent illness, stepped out in grand style and pitched his club to a victory over Boston, 5 to 3. His services have been sorely needed.

Chick Hafey is also slated to return to the game this week and his heavy hitting should put the Reds right back into the running. President Whitney Well, in discussing Hafey's value to the club the other day, pointed out that had Chick been in the game during that slump, the Reds would have undoubtedly won at least four of the contests lost by a single run. The temporary loss of Johnson and Hafey was typical of the tough breaks which Well has been obliged to face all year. There's no reason to be downhearted however, as Well firmly believes, because the bad luck can't last forever. Some of the other clubs are about due for their share of misfortune too.

"Mt. Borah" Erupts And Comes Out In Opposition To Hoover

(By Fred Holmes)
Washington Cor. for The Boone County Recorder

BULLETIN. 3:00 a. m. (ante mortem) D. W. T. daylight waiting time). The consulting physicians have broadcast the following announcement: The patient, Mr. Capital Washington, shell-shocked week before last, and thought to be convalescent last week due to the injection of the sedative known as Republican National Convention, suffered a relapse this week and had two serious mental spasms. If the Democratic convention at Chicago next week runs true to form and scrapes its way to a suicidal conclusion, there is a chance that the resting patient may recover. On the other hand, should harmony, foresight and dispatch develop, the shock might prove fatal.

One of this week's spasms was caused by another unexpected and violent eruption of Mount Borah; the other by Speaker Garner's display of inconsideration for the patient when he threw another bomb into the citadel of the uncompromising dyes, which at the same time gladdened the hearts of certain gentlemen known as stop-Roosevelt.

Looking over Senator Borah's vivid record, it cannot be found that he ever did thoroughly approve of a Republican platform and panegyrics from him this year were not altogether unexpected. But never have expressions of his disapproval been so emphatic or declarations of his intentions more convincing. It is evident that the Idaho Senator does not think very well of the platform in its entirety, but he leaves no doubt as to his opinion of the wet-dry plank. "I am decidedly and resolutely in opposition of the platform and say now that I shall not be bound by it," he declared.

Such an assertion was not unexpected. But a moment later he thrilled crowded galleries and an extraordinarily attentive Senate, who dwelt on the words pouring from the oratorical lips of the Idaho man, when he arose again slowly, somewhat white of face, to answer Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, favorite son of Illinois for the Democratic presidential nomination, Lewis asked: "Will the Senator from Idaho support President Hoover on this platform?" Borah did not hesitate. "I will not," he said. Dramatically he said it, dramatically he sat down, dramatically the Senate and the galleries took it. Borah looked up to the press gallery. As his gaze was directed there, writers were galvanized into action. Borah had belted, they told the country.

However, none other than an utterly unprincipled wet will challenge one part of Senator Borah's speech. That is the passage wherein he describes the long uphill fight which the dyes were obliged to make to secure the enforcement of State prohibition. He suggests that national prohibition never would have been adopted save for these bitter years of vain lawmaking and disheartening litigation which were ended only by the passage of the Webb-Kenyon act and the upholding of it by the Supreme Court.

The policy invoked is the direct opposite of the doctoring of national control embodied in the Eighteenth Amendment. It is in line with the theory of state rights upon which the wet base their opposition to that huge grant demand in this respect once national prohibition is ended. He is fighting for the right of a State to be wet and he should, in all fairness, stand ready to support any proper amendment needed to protect the right of a State to be dry.

With a definite declaration for repeal of the 18th Amendment as "unsound and unworkable," Speaker John N. Garner broke his silence on campaign issues to become an avowed rather than tacit candidate for the Democratic Presidential nomination. Probably there is no element of surprise in the announcement by Speaker Garner of his receptive candidacy for the presidential nomination. This hat was really thrown into the ring some weeks ago so definitely that he had been given the support of his own State of Texas and also of California. This, he says, was done without his solicitation, and he graciously and frankly adds: "I appreciate the support of my friends and am willing to serve my country and my party to the limit of my capacity."

It is unfortunate, of course, for its correspondent that before these lines are in print predictions and speculations may have been settled, one way or the other. Whether or not the Garner statement will have a bearing upon the "stop Roosevelt" movement at Chicago at this writing remains to be seen. The Speaker and former Governor Smith are the two largest holders of anti-Roosevelt votes as the roll of delegates is now completed. That he sincerely hopes to be the recipient of many other votes than those already pledged to him is to be assumed from the frankness of his announcement. That with this platform and in this spirit of willingness to accept in the Federal service he will be an important factor in the outcome of his party's meeting is assumed. All depends, however, upon whether the Roosevelt strength, which now dominates, will grow after the first ballot, when the complimentary votes for favorite men who have no chance of nomination have been cast.

As is often the case with prohibition, Mr. Garner's stand for repeal creates some strange and contradictory situation with respect to his candidacy. His chief supporter outside of his own State, is William O. McDoo, the arch-apostle of prohibition in the great Democratic schism of 1924. Mr. McDoo is for a referendum, but it is hardly to be believed that he favors the drastic remedy the Speaker is now advocating, and to find him aligned with a repeal candidate is one of the interesting, though not perhaps one of the significant, developments of the current campaign. An even more emphatic contradiction arises in the case of Senator Sheppard, author of the 18th Amendment, who has announced that he will continue to support Mr. Garner for the Presidency.

Wherefore we have the interesting spectacle of the most devoted Congressional adherent of the 18th Amendment standing firmly for a candidate who proposes to wreck the whole business and start over again. Prohibition would seem to have lost none of its power to inspire inconsistencies.

(Taken by The Helm News Service)
President Hoover dramatically turned his attack on the depression once more into the international field, proposing to the powers now conferring at Geneva a program calling for the most drastic reduction of land, air and naval armaments ever advanced formally except for the Soviet Russian proposal of complete abolition. Surviving shrew to reduce the "overwhelming burden of armament which now lies upon the toilers of the world." The President sent instructions to Hugh S. Gibson, Ambassador to Belgium, and also of the American delegation attending the Geneva arms conference, to propose a plan which would cut world armaments down by nearly one-third.

The proposal of President Hoover for a cut of one-third in the treaty number and treaty tonnage of capital ships, of one-fourth in the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers and of one-third in the treaty tonnage of submarines, with the maximum tonnage allowed any nation restricted to 35,000 tons in the latter, would provide absolute tonnage parity in all classes of ships between the U. S. and Great Britain, according to tables compiled by experts. These unofficial calculations showed that the United States and Great Britain would each have 350,000 tons of capital ships, 101,250 tons of aircraft carriers, 254,250 tons of cruisers, 112,500 tons of destroyers and 35,000 tons of submarines.

Republican and Democratic leaders in the capital joined in expressing approval of President Hoover's disarmament plan. A few members of the Senate and House viewed details of the program with disfavor, but in general, the reaction was favorable. William E. Borah, Republican chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said the plan seemed "fair and sound" and hoped it would impress the Geneva conference with the risk of adjourning without adopting some disarmament measure. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader and delegate of the London naval conference of 1930, declared the President's proposal would serve as a test of the value of the Geneva conference. Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, Republican chairman of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, described the program as a sound measure for the relief of overburdened taxpayers and hoped it would be adopted at Geneva.

Though the "bonus army" is apparently losing strength, police officials estimate that 19,000 veterans are still maintaining a fruitless

Baby Beans Any Time

YOU can buy fresh lima beans and stringless beans in the market all year around, but these delicious tiny tender baby lima beans are available for only a very short season once a year. But cheer up! You can get them all year around in cans, picked at just the moment they should be and perfectly preserved. So, in case you rush out and buy a can the instant you read this, here are some recipes for their use:

Portley Lima Beans: Heat the baby lima beans from a No. 2 can for five minutes in their own liquor, then drain. Add four tablespoons butter, two tablespoons lemon juice and two tablespoons minced parsley, and toss until well mixed and the butter melted. Serves six.

Spanish Lima Beans: Dice two long slices bacon, chop one small onion, and fry together. Add one diced canned pimiento and the drained baby lima beans from a No. 2 can. Season to taste with salt and pepper, and pour into a buttered baking dish. Add enough of the bean liquor from the can to moisten (about half a cup), and place in a hot oven until brown on top. Serves six.

In Made Dishes

Lima Beans en Casserole: Mince one small onion and shred one-half a green pepper, and sauté them in one tablespoon fat for five minutes. Add one can of tomato soup and the baby lima beans from a No. 2 can. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Pour into a buttered casserole, and bake thirty minutes in a moderate, 375° oven. Serves six.

vigli of the capital. The District of Columbia has never been equipped to take care of these men. Accordingly, it has been suggested that before adjournment Congress accept responsibility for them. It is difficult to see how Congress can interfere effectively except in one way. Yet its willingness to vote money with which to feed and house the veterans would merely complicate the problem instead of solving it. Such action would immediately stimulate the movement of more men to Washington, the one result least to be desired. It would encourage the present volunteers to hold their ground despite the failure of their demonstration. A better plan, proposed by District officials, is to provide railway transportation to their home States for veterans who are irate of their experience and becoming convinced of the futility of staying longer.

Two railroads offered to transport the bonus "army" home at a special minimum fare. In response to a request by Washington police, the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio set a rate of one cent a mile—less than one-third of the regular fare. Other railroads are considering similar fares. Since no public funds are available, Pelham D. Glasford, superintendent of police, hopes to obtain contributions from the home communities of the thousands of war veterans encamped in the city. He expressed the belief that the offer to rail transportation would induce more former soldiers to leave than were now going by truck.

Stoutly defending the Republican party prohibition plank as "the fairest method possible," James R. Garfield, chairman of the Resolutions Committee which drew the plank at the Chicago convention, denied Senator Borah's accusation that Federal office-holding delegates supported the plan thru political expediency. Mr. Garfield said that great body of delegates was thoroughly conscientious, and that in the New York delegation of the office holders, including Secretary Mills, divided on the question. He regretted he said, that Senator Borah "is unwilling to continue to give his thought and ability toward a constructive forward-looking program."

Will H. Hays, it is said, is attempting to stage a comeback in Republican politics and hopes to be the power behind the throne in this year's campaign. That is what is to be back of the selection of Everett Sanders as chairman of the Republican National Committee. Sanders is a Hays man, brought out in Indiana politics by Hays and made a Congressman by him. President Hoover looking about for a successor of Senator Fess as chairman, naturally considered two ex-chairmen who had conducted successful national campaigns—Hays and former Senator Butler. Hays ran the Harding campaign and Butler the Coolidge campaign. Hays probably would have been made chairman except for the fact that he had been involved in the oil scandal to the extent that he had got several hundred thousand dollars in bonds from Harry Sinclair toward paying the deficit in the Republican campaign fund incurred in the Harding campaign.

Unprecedented commendation for a member of Congress upon the occasion of retirement from that legislative body has been given to Ruth Bryan Owen, as she avoids the "lame duck" status. Having been defeated as party nominee in Florida, she announces that she will resign in advance of the expiration of her term in order to avoid serving beyond election time. The daughter of William Jennings Bryan takes a position of consistency, and offers an example to other defeated candidates.

7,000 FAMILIES BACK TO FARMS IN EASTERN KENTUCKY

A survey made by county agricultural agents and summarized at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, indicates that 7,000 families have returned to the land in 26 mountain counties in Kentucky in the last two years. They have gone back to the land principally from mining camps and industrial centers in other states, where they migrated during times of high wages.

Approximately 75 per cent of these returned families have been used as tenants on any land they could find where buildings were available. The survey states. Twenty per cent moved into homes with relatives, and 5 per cent returned to farms they owned when they left or which they recently have purchased.

Counties reporting a large number of families going back to the farm include Bell, Floyd, Pike, Harlan, Letcher, Knox, Knott, Morgan, Clay, Whitley, Pulaski, Johnson, Rockcastle, Menifee, Wayne, Leslie, Laurel, Mazon and Breathitt.

Those in charge of agricultural extension work at the College of Agriculture said that this influx of families has added materially to the work of county farm agents. Many of the returning families have settled on unproductive land and many of them are poorly equipped to make a living from the soil. County agents and local relief agencies are receiving many calls for assistance.

In southeastern coal counties there has been much discussion of the possibilities of rehabilitating families on the land, the farm agents reported, and committees have been appointed in some counties to consider this matter.

July 5—Jack stock in Kentucky, W. J. Harris.

July 6—Curing burley tobacco, R. A. Hunt.

July 7—Timely chats with the fruit growers, C. O. Eddy.

July 8—What farm folks are asking, L. C. Brewer.

MY TREASURE CHEST

I've a treasure chest of memories. That untold riches could not buy. To me they are a precious wealth. That makes me smile or breathe a sigh.

A deed of kindness, in the past. Remembered as the years pass o'er. A kiss of love from trembling lips. To thrill my heart, to make it soar.

The last sweet word, the dear caress. I'll never hear or feel again. But guarded well, I keep it there. Enriched by years, my pearl of pain.

But there are happy moments too. I bring from out my treasure chest. A baby's face, with eyes of blue. I tightly hold unto my breast.

These jewels rare, that naught can buy. I hoard and keep like miser's gold. I look them over, breathe a sigh. But guard them with a love untold.

Boys Learn Washington's Code Of Life at Valley Forge School

Cadets at Valley Forge Military Academy enjoy hot coffee at the school canteen between periods of duty. In the front Colonel Milton G. Baker, Commandant.

WAYNE, Pa.—In this historic valley, immortalized by the suffering of Washington's Continentals during the winter of 1777-78, two hundred and ninety-three American boys today are learning the principles of American citizenship established by the first President.

The boys, ranging in age from twelve to eighteen, are students at Valley Forge Military Academy, in the heart of the beautiful Pennsylvania terrain over which the Continental Army campaigned against the British. All of them appear to have the same immediate objects in life—to study hard, drill hard and play hard—from the youngest rookie to the strapping all-footer who can chin himself twenty-one times with one hand and expects to graduate this year.

Army life at Valley Forge is a lot different today than it was a century and a half ago, even though reveille is still too early in the morning for Mr. John Soldier. "All the comforts of home" are provided, and work schedules are carefully tailored to fit the different age groups. After a good part of the day in the classrooms and on the parade ground, all the boys turn out for athletics, which has a large place both in the building of character and of body. Diet rules are based on U. S. army regulations with generous allowances being made for the needs of growing youngsters. "Our first diet rule," says Colonel Milton G. Baker, commandant, "is wholesome food, and the second is, 'Of course, many old-fashioned diet bogeys have been exploded in recent years, among them the theories that sugar is bad for boys and that tea and coffee are too stimulating.' "Most of our senior cadets, for instance, like coffee for breakfast and other meals and we believe it is good for them. Many independent scientific investigations have demonstrated that coffee has a tonic effect on the nerves and, as a food auxiliary, materially aids the digestive processes. Its stimulating qualities are well known but, because the stimulation is gentle and has no harmful let-down following it, we believe this to be an added virtue of coffee. The younger boys, as a rule, do not need stimulation—most of them have too much energy for comfort as it is."

DEPRESSION OVERLAYS LIFE

You meet them every day people who have lost their little jobs and who never knew anything else and who were not worth the money they were being paid when the depression came.

People who drifted, who never improved their ability and who have been going around and around since they lost their positions.

People who have nothing to sell the public and but little ability to use in any profession they might undertake. No wonder they are helpless. They are and have been always thoughtless and indolent. Trusting to luck and the Lord to take care of themselves.

Had they spent a few hours each week in studying and improving along some line of usefulness either at home or at night school using intellect and industry they would be in position today to pick up some calling and to be their own boss. The depression will teach millions of people to get busy and do something worth while, to become good and useful citizens instead of parasites on the public.

If you cannot do anything learn to do something, if it is nothing more than a good truck grower, odd job man or expert on some particular thing. Do something and quit whining and laying your troubles on the depression when you alone are mostly to blame.

Almost any day you can see a number of able-bodied young men and women strolling about most any town doing nothing, or worse. Growing up in idleness and ignorance to become in after years depression howlers and warblers of hard luck stories.

Let them learn to do something worth while and be happy.—Owen County Democrat.

HOME MARKETS FOR MANY FARM PRODUCTS

Reports of country merchants to the department of markets and rural finance at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, indicate that farmers in all parts of Kentucky buy considerable quantities of meat, lard, canned vegetables and dry beans. Other farm products, such as eggs, potatoes, onions and cabbage, also are sold to farmers in practically all parts of the state.

A statement made by the department says: "That Kentucky farmers should find it necessary to purchase these products indicates that many of them are not providing for their own needs in accordance with recommended practices. It also indicates that there is a home market for many farm products to supply town people and those farmers or laborers who fall to grow their own supplies."

"If farmers will interview their local merchant many of them will find an opportunity to supply him with some products which he now ships in from other states. Other farm products may take the place of canned goods, and alternative products are numerous. Under present conditions it will often be found desirable to produce some products which in other years were not considered profitable, and thus take advantage of a local market opportunity."

"New and practical methods of growing and storing vegetables of the proper variety may be learned and used by farmers so they may have a salable product during the winter season. Beans are but one of the opportunities in this group. The proper care of poultry so that eggs can be sold when people are anxious to buy them is an opportunity of another kind. Lard and several kinds of meat can be sold to good advantage at certain times of the year. Produce of good quality and well prepared generally meets the local market requirements best. It is not what a farmer lies to sell but what the buyer wants that counts most in any market."

BLAME THE WAD!

Before we jump headlong into another war we should have a better understanding of what it will cost, and who shall pay for it in the end. Day by day it becomes increasingly evident that it is not so much the actual cost of battle that counts as it is the peace time upkeep of war-incurred burdens. Unprecedented outlays for veterans, moratoriums for the vanquished and indulgences to allied debtors may be mentioned as a few of the items which play hob with our economic system. Yet there are more serious considerations. The war induced industry to over-produce. It taught our foreign allies to grow cotton, wheat, etc., to the ruin of America's foreign trade. It developed in the American masses the germ of "easy money" and speculation. It instilled a love for silk shirts and other luxuries. But, above all, it demoralized youth with its inculcation of a desire for "bigger and better thrills" and in other ways bred disrespect for civil law in general. No estimate of war's bill is complete without these items. From the way things have turned out it looks as though the last war was fought "to make the world safe for bankruptcy."—Pathfinder.

WHITE SNAKEROOT KILLS LIVESTOCK

Many farmers examine their grazing lands early in the summer for white snakeroot, which is one of the noxious weeds that cause losses among livestock nearly every summer, especially in July and August. Stock often are tempted to eat snakeroot from the fact that it remains green after grass dries up in late summer and fall.

White snakeroot is sometimes known as richweed, as it thrives in woods and other highly fertile land. A description of the weed sent out by the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, says that from a snake-like root, a slender and usually profusely branched stem grows up from one to five feet high. Leaves are set opposite, and are 3 to 5 inches long, ovate, thin, pointed, rounded or abruptly narrowed at the base, and toothed. Each leaf has three main veins which extend from the base and give off branches. White flowers appear in clusters in late summer.

Raising the weed causes trouble and general confusion which may lead to the death of the animal. The first effects are drooping head and ears, loss of appetite, and thirst, followed by lack of muscular control. The pulse and breathing may become slow, the eyes glassy, followed by coma and death, with or without convulsions.

Milk cows while giving milk may be without symptoms of poisoning but their milk may carry the poison to persons or animals taking it.

White snakeroot poisons cattle, sheep and horses, but hogs are usually immune to it.

DRENCH LATE LAMBS IS MILLER'S ADVICE

Lambs to be sold after July 1 should be treated for stomach worms, advises Richard C. Miller, of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. Early lambs usually go to market before stomach worms affect them much, but late lambs are almost certain to suffer from worms unless kept on clean pasture and treated periodically, he declares.

A one per cent solution of bluestone given in the form of a drench is a satisfactory treatment for worms. A combination of bluestone and nicotine sulphate is sometimes used, and excellent results can be had with tetraethylethylene administered in capsule form. The cost of the last named treatment is its only disadvantage.

In most cases, under Kentucky conditions, it is a good management practice to treat the ewe flock monthly throughout the grazing season. Exception is made only where the flock is small in proportion to the acreage or where the farmer practices a system of pasture rotation sufficient to keep the flock continually on clean pasture.

Farmers inexperienced in the treating of sheep for stomach worms should consult their county agent and arrange a demonstration at which all flock owners in the neighborhood could gather to learn how to administer the drench.

Martin county farmers have doubled their 1931 acreage of soybeans. Seventy-five farmers sowed korean lespedeza.

One thousand and eighty bushels of soybean seed were sold in Letcher county.

Nine Grayson county farmers are building poultry laying houses 20 by 50 feet in size.

Twenty-two Powell county farmers cooperated in the purchase of a car load of Virginia Brown soy bean seed.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so lets forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

The Family Garden

(By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture)

The fall garden has several aims. Primarily it is designed to provide the crops for winter use, but if the original garden plan, that was made early in the spring, does not arrange for vegetables to last until the frost comes, the fall garden may be made to make that oversight good. Thus, besides beets, carrots, turnips, late cabbage, and late greens, the fall garden may include late beans, tomatoes and sweet corn.

BEETS AND CARROTS—Beets and carrots may be discussed together because their culture is identical. Both need well-prepared seed beds; both, fertilized with well-rotted manure amended with a complete fertilizer whose percentage of potash is high. Many analyses would serve, but the easily-obtainable 3-8-6 or 4-8-6 will do nicely. Fertilizer should be sown where the row is to be, at the rate of one pound to 25 feet of row, and well mixed with the soil. The rate of sowing is about 3 seed per inch, and the seedlings should be thinned to 3 inches for the beets, and 1½ inches for the carrots. If the weather is dry a light ridge may be drawn over the seed, but this should be raked off when the seed has begun to sprout. One ounce of beet seed sows 50 feet; for carrots, one ounce of seed will be needed for 100 feet of row. The beet variety to use is Detroit Dark Red; the carrot, Chantenay. Sowing time is now. Beets and carrots may follow early greens, early beans, and possibly early cabbage.

TOMATOES—Although tomatoes do not properly belong in a specifically fall garden, yet, because of their having possibly been overlooked, this note is inserted. If transplants of about 4 weeks old are obtainable, these may be set now, in the row of peas just now bearing its last picking, but if no such plants may be had, tomatoes may be started now with a fair hope of yielding fruit before the frost cuts them down. Groups of 3 or 4 seeds may be sown at proper spacing in the row of peas just finishing, and the seedlings thinned to one. An early variety, for example, Bonny Best, should be used, except in gardens where the tomato wilt disease is present, in which case Marglobe should be substituted.

BEANS—If the original plan did not include continued plantings every two weeks, it is well to begin planning that arrangement. Best to use are the stringless sorts, Stringless Greenpod, or Full Measure.

Mrs. Lucien Stephens and Misses Lena and Hallie Stephens called on Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Ryle Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Seebree entertained relatives from California Saturday.

DOWNY WOODPECKER

Downy Woodpecker (Empidonax pubescens) length 5 1/2 inches. Our smallest woodpecker, spotted with black and white. Dark bars on the outer tail feathers distinguish it from the similarly colored but larger hairy woodpecker. Woodland orchards, and the shade groves of lawns are alike frequented by this, the smallest and most familiar of our woodpeckers. Sometimes he attracts ones attention by an industrious tap, tap, tapping as he patiently digs out a grub or larva. Again he greets us with a business-like peck. Like other woodpeckers in the spring he beats a rolling tattoo on a resonant branch, sounding a rattle. He is a very sociable bird and when the gay summer visitors have returned to their summer homes and the wind whistles drearily thru the leafless trees, he joins the chickadees and Nuthatches, and during the winter they remain close friends and companions. He has several characteristic notes, and like his cousin the hairy woodpecker, sounds his tattoo that reverberates from hillside to hillside, the crowing woodpecker. The downy is very tame and will allow a very close approach before he will fly.

They remain in the orchards and open woods all summer, and in winter often come to the window sill in places where they are fed, as many people are in the habit of doing now. Their food as does nearly all the woodpeckers consists of entirely insects, grubs larvae and some of the worst foe of orchard and woodland. He has been well equipped by nature with a chisel shaped bill that can dig out both dead and living wood. In the examination of 700 stomachs of this bird (says Chapman) they contained 76 insect and 24 per cent vegetable matter. The animal food consists of beetles that bore into timber or burrow under the bark. Caterpillars consist of 16 per cent of their food and include many especially harmful species. They eat grasshopper eggs too. The vegetable food of the downy woodpecker consists of small fruit and seeds, mostly wild species. It is this bird that distributes seeds of the poison ivy, or poison oak, along fence posts which is the only fault the farmer can find of this bird. He makes a hole in the dead limb or body of a tree for a nest. Both male and female work on the excavation until it is finished. Here the mother bird lays from four to six white eggs on the bare wood about the middle of May they hatch.

The Downy Woodpecker is very interesting and attractive. He can be found almost every where and in the very roughest kinds of weather, he has plenty of feathers and comfortable wings to keep him warm, along with the amount of exercise he gets helps to keep him warm in severe weather. He is the huskiest and most energetic feeder in the woods. He works away all winter on tree trunks and branches with his tireless, red-tagged hammer-head at the rate of 50 pecks per minute. His color scheme is black and white excepting the little patch of red on top of his head, with the broad bars on the wings makes him very conspicuous.

How Birds Migrate

The migration of birds northward and back again, spring and autumn, across countries of the temperate zone is one of the deep and fascinating mysteries of nature. Many species make these voyages through the upper air entirely during the night, sometimes through the darkness in one flight from sundown to sunrise, is both a surprise and a wonder. The Whip-poorwill and "Whip-will's" widow are among those that travel by night. The Wood Warblers do this too. It is strange too, that the ones that choose the night without exceptions for the journey are the very smallest in size and those most delicately formed. Any sunlit morning in October one may find in countless numbers, the little Wood Warblers of which there are a great variety roosting in the top of trees waiting for night-fall to resume their journey south. Here they rest and feed all day. The writer has seen as many as a dozen species congregating—regalating themselves with watchful eyes and constant hopping from limb to limb, chasing some insect that they found in this special kind of tree alone. It is a difficult matter to detect their presence even with a good spy-glass to help. A little musical chirp usually gives assurance of their presence amidst the autumnal silence, yet it takes sharp and patient searching among the foliage to locate one. They have a long, laborious flight straight as an arrow to their southern winter home. They are guided by natural instinct, given them by their Creator. They are arrayed in colors so much like those of autumnal colors, that they may rest undiscovered and in peace, and the Warblers possess tints very much like the tints of the frost-touched leaves. So baffling are these harmonies of color, not only with this species, but many others of entirely different tints adapted also to the trees requested by them that those charming songsters, even when they are with us in very large numbers are as a matter of fact, seen by so few people that in a general way they are practically unknown. The reason that they travel by night is that it requires daylight for them to procure food and that travel by night is safer. Their appetites are very prodigious. The darkness keeps them safe from attacks by hawks. The true swallow travels only from sunrise until sunset. They start on their annual trip southward earlier than most other birds, often gathering in great flocks, by the middle of August and begin that flight soon after.

Many larger species migrate at night in addition to smaller species. They are divided into three great flights. Those that leave about the middle of September and comprising those most sensitive to the chilly winds of winter from the north; and the time that the ducks and geese make the trip. It is said that the great mass of migratory birds this side of the Mississippi come east and follow the Atlantic coast line as they journey, most of them going down thru a belt within 100 miles of it. They usually keep at an altitude of probably 300 to 500 feet in flying, and if there be no moon, or the night be stormy, they meet with sad disaster by the way. Many of these birds live around the lofty circles of flaming lamps of the light houses. They have wrought run to the birds of passage every year. Sometimes as many as 150 dead or dying birds are found upon the pavements below on a single morning, and records have been kept of them that runs up into the thousands, and many different varieties, and especially—the Wood Warblers. Going thru the air at a great speed as fast as 100 miles an hour, the sudden blaze of light across their path at the tower blinds them so that they fall to see the solid structure in the midst and dash against it. Many of the collection of stuffed birds seen in the Academy of Natural Science, has been secured in this way from the wayfarers that perish in this manner, some very rare species being among them. The tiny and exquisite brilliant Redstart, Parula Warbler, Ruby-crowned and Golden-crowned Knights are among the number that are gathered each year from the same sad harvest. Many of them pass unharmed as the space occupied by lighted towers is comparatively small when one remembers that such a broad path of a hundred miles are often covered by these itinerants of the night.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

We were very glad to have Bro. Tucker with us Thursday evening to lead the service.

Folks at the Mission have missed Bro. Joe Millson at services this week. His absence has been due to the fact that he was running the bus for an accident caused by the other bus being out of order.

Everyone who was unable to attend the Saturday evening prayer service at the Fogel home certainly missed a wonderful meeting.

We were much impressed with this home, for as one drives up to it, a spacious lawn invites us to rest beneath a shady tree.

One cannot help but think of the many times this family must commune with God as they go about the large farm working. We entered the house from a large porch, being greeted on the outside by Mr. Fogel and just as we entered the living room there Mrs. Fogel awaited us with a smile telling us the home was ours, and to be sure to enjoy it.

The Mission musical society led by Mr. Joe Klaserer, played several selections.

Bro. Alfred Perry led the song service, also gave a good testimony then too, he told of the contest being held at the Mission Sunday school.

Bro. Marsh of Pike Street, Covington, led us in prayer, after which he gave us a fine talk.

The specials rendered were delightful. The Millson sisters first sang, "We Will Rise and Shine," accompanied by the mandolin.

Scripture verses were read by Bro. James Tucker who used as a theme for some remarks "Let not your heart be troubled."

"He's a wonderful Saviour to Me" sang by Miss Grace Peeno and the Millson sisters accompanied by the Hood sisters on the violin and piano was greatly appreciated.

"Who doesn't enjoy fond memories?" There is a certainty that Bro. Fogel does, for he told us of the many times different memories enter his mind for which he is truly thankful.

Another beautiful song was sung by Miss Grace Peeno and Miss Evelyn Millson while the violin and piano music harmonized with it very beautifully.

Mrs. Fogel's testimony could easily have been termed "Blessings" while Mrs. Perry's might rightly have been named "Thankfulness."

A poem "One year to Live" was read which caused us to say to ourselves, "well if I had but one year to live I would choose to live it in a Christian home."

Poets listen to this announcement.

Thursday evening June 20 the Hodge Brothers will be at the Mission to furnish us with special music and singing.

Tell your friends to come and see these folks and hear their music. Remember the regular Sunday services, Sabbath School 2:45, also preaching at 7:45.

Bro. James Tucker begins a trip meeting at Burlington June 30th, 1934. It will be well worth your time to attend any of these services you can.

TWO CANDIDATES

IN RACE FOR CONGRESSIONAL NOMINATION—BRENT SPENCE BEARS RENOMINATION AT HANDS OF FIFTH (OLD SIXTH) DISTRICT DEMOCRATS—RICH AND NORTHUTT WILL OPPOSE INCUMBENT

The date for declarations for congressional nominations on the Democratic ticket closed last week with but two candidates in the field.

The present Congressman, the Honorable Brent Spence, is in the race for re-nomination. Mr. Spence still is in Washington attending to his official duties and, according to a recent communication, may not be able to leave his post to push his campaign very intensively. However, Congress may adjourn in time for him to make a short campaign before the primary election on August 4th.

Mr. Spence, it will be recalled, made his first try for Congress in a primary against the Hon. Orle Ware in which he was unsuccessful. In 1928 he was first nominated, but went down in the Hoover landslide, losing to Hon. Lincoln Newhall. He was elected in 1930 for his first term, which he will complete on next March 4th.

Friends of Mr. Spence insist that in view of his numerous unsuccessful efforts to land the seat and his record in Congress for the first term that he should be re-nominated and elected. There is no discounting the fact that Mr. Spence is a gentleman of the highest type and a thoroughly capable and honest statesman.

The second candidate in the field is Attorney Richard Northutt, of Covington. Mr. Northutt is a fine gentleman and has made a good record in Kenton county legal circles since he was admitted to practice there several years ago.

Mr. Northutt is a graduate of Boone High School at Burlington and completed his law course at the University of Kentucky before being admitted to practice.

Mr. Northutt bases his claim for the congressional seat upon an unblemished Democratic record and many other points which he sets out in his announcement on other pages of this issue. He will appreciate your reading his platform thoroughly and giving his candidacy your careful consideration.

WILLIAM CRONNELL

William Cronnell, aged 67 years, passed away Sunday at his home in Union, Ky., after a few days illness.

The remains were immediately removed to the Tallaferris Funeral Home in Erlanger, where services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. R. D. Martin, pastor of the Erlanger Baptist church, after which he was laid to rest in Highland cemetery by the side of his brother Tom, who preceded him to the grave some 15 years.

The pall bearers were Chas. Davis, J. C. Platt and William and Edward Davis.

He is survived by one brother Harry Cronnell of Union, Ky., several cousins and a host of friends.

The following guests were entertained at a bridge party given by Mrs. Geo. A. Porter last Wednesday afternoon: Mrs. Harold Conner, Miss Alice Walton, of Erlanger, Mrs. C. L. Cropper, Miss Mary Bess Cropper, Miss Sarah Cropper, Mrs. J. K. Cropper, Mrs. A. H. Jones, Mrs. L. T. Utz, Mrs. D. R. Blythe, Mrs. Everett Light Hickman, Mrs. Davis Gaines, Mrs. Myrtle Offutt, Mrs. Lallie Eddins, Mrs. John M. Lassing, Jr., Mrs. John M. Lassing, Sr., and Mrs. G. W. Tolin. Mrs. L. T. Utz was the winner of the first prize and Mrs. Garrett Tolin second. Delicious refreshments were served.

Rain interfered with the scheduled double header here with Warsaw on Independence day. It was necessary to postpone the morning game, although the afternoon was played. The home team defeated the visitors by the shut-out route, the score being 5-0. Ray Hickman did the twirling for the locals.

Next Saturday, July 9th, the Baptists will play the Bellevue Baptists in a church league game on the home grounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. G. Smith, Mrs. Josie Maurer and Mrs. Bess Kelly attended the ordination services at the Bellevue Baptist church last Sunday.

EASTERN STAR MEETING

The local Eastern Star chapter will hold its regular monthly meeting Thursday night. All members are urged to attend. Mrs. Alice Yelton, worthy Matron, will preside.

CAMP DATES

FOR 4-H CLUBS ARE MOVED UP AT REQUEST OF STATE CLUB DEPARTMENT—NECESSITATES CHANGES IN DATES OF TWO COUNTY MEETINGS

North Kentucky 4-H Club Camp dates have been moved up to July the 18th to the 22nd according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. The changes were necessary thru the request of the State 4-H Club Department and means that camp will be held one week sooner than was previously planned. The changes in dates means the postponement of two county meetings and other 4-H events previously planned for this week.

North Kentucky District 4-H Camp will be held at Alexandria Fair Grounds next week after next. All North Kentucky 4-H Club members who have their project work up-to-date are eligible to attend. The fees are $1.00 enrollment fee and $1.50 worth of food which can be brought from home. The camp begins with the enrollment on Monday the 18th and the evening services and closes with the awarding of honors to outstanding campers on Friday morning the 22nd. A good agricultural, home economics, handicraft and recreational program has been planned. A bus from Burlington has been chartered to carry Boone county members to and from camp.

All 4-H Club members are urged to notify the members and leaders of their clubs of the changes in dates for the district camp and the postponement of other 4-H county events scheduled for the week of the 18th. The 4-H county events previously planned for this week will be held on the same week dates during the week of August 15th.

ARRESTED FOR SEINING

Three men, who gave their names as Lewis, Dan, and Porter Yelton, of Erlanger, were arrested on Gunpowder creek by Game Warden E. M. Johnson Saturday evening about seven o'clock. They were charged with using an illegal seine, which was said to have measured 15 feet by 5 feet. They appeared before County Judge N. E. Riddell Tuesday morning and the case was continued until July 16th.

Mr. and Mrs. Joel Gray entertained a score or more of relatives and friends from Cincinnati at their beautiful country home near Burlington on the Fourth.

Dr. and Mrs. Raymond Cropper, and little son, Billie, of Winchester, spent the Fourth holiday season with their mother, Mrs. Lorena Cropper. They returned Wednesday after a very delightful visit.

THREE LEGS

ALL THAT NATURE PROVIDES FOR COLT, RECENTLY BORN ON FARM OF HARMON JONES, OF BEAVER—OWNER HAS BEEN APPROACHED WITH OFFERS TO EXHIBIT FREAK

The depression is admittedly affecting almost every walk of life, but it is reported by Harmon Jones, of Beaver Lick, that he have reached even into the works of nature.

About a month ago there arrived on his farm a draft colt with only three legs. The colt, he said, was perfectly healthy in every other way. Although one fore leg is "all there" and perfectly formed, the other is "minus."

Mr. Jones says that the unfortunate animal gets around very well, but that it can operate a rapid gait much more easily than it can slowly.

He says that he has not resolved what to do with the colt, although he has been approached in regard to exhibiting it at several of the county fairs.

Mrs. M. A. Yelton and Miss Virginia Yelton attended the Eastern Star inspection meeting at Walton on last Thursday evening.

HARVEST HOME

CONTINUES TO WIN WITH DOUBLE VICTORY SUNDAY AND MONDAY—CARNEY SERVICE STATION AND LUDLOW ARE RECENT VICTIMS

Behind Braun's good pitching Harvest Home broke loose on a batting streak Sunday and defeated Carney's Service Station for their fifth straight winner.

The home boys cracked out sixteen hits and drove Herzog out of the box in six innings while Braun held the visitors to seven scattered hits and they were unable to score until the ninth.

Hartman drove out a three bagger while Braun and Ross cashed in for two bases.

Next Sunday finds Gold Medal Oils at Harvest Home for their second visit and the home boys are out for revenge as Gold Medal handed them a defeat by a two to one score in their first game.

Cliff Born, the star left hander will pitch for Gold Medals while either Braun or Boehler will start for the home boys.

HARVEST HOME WINS AT LUDLOW

Harvest Home broke loose on another batting streak Monday, getting 15 hits and came out on top at Ludlow by the score of 5 to 3.

Boehler gave the Ludlow boys 9 hits but kept them scattered. Snyder made the feature catch of the game in a one-hand stop of a hard hit grounder, while lying flat on the ground and then making a perfect throw to the plate, cutting a batting rally short.

Hartman again led the team at bat, getting 3 out of 3 and also putting up a classy game in the field.

Ludlow's out field made several nice catches and it was Pieschel's fine support that kept the score down.

TEACHERS EXAMINATION

County Superintendent D. H. Norris announces that the last teachers examination of the year will be held in Burlington on Thursday and Friday, July 14 and 15.

LARGEST GROWER

OF POTATOES SAID TO BE CHAS. HEMPFING, JR., OF NEAR TAYLORSFORT—SETS GOAL AT 300 BUSHELS PER ACRE FOR 24 ACRE FIELD

Mr. Charles Hempfing, Jr., of Taylorsfort, can boast of being the largest potato grower in Boone county. He is raising 34 acres of early potatoes in rows that are each approximately one half mile long. He is not only the largest grower but is one of the most scientific in his practices using rotated legume sods turned under, certified seed, seed treatment, heavy application of fertilizers, deep seed planting and shallow cultivation and regular applications of Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead sprays for the control of blight, flea beetles, leaf hoppers and other insects together with the use of efficient machinery.

Charley is a firm believer that the acreage must be large enough to make the use of efficient machinery profitable. He uses the best in planting machinery, digging machinery and spraying equipment. He recently purchased a new spray outfit that will spray eight rows at one time supplying three nozzles to the row and a spray pressure of from 400 to 600 pounds. His regular spray is 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture and arsenate of lead. He is one of the Boone county potato growing enthusiasts who have set their first goal at 300 bushels per acre which is approximately four times the average yield for the state.

Since our last issue we have learned that Mrs. Isabella Greenway, the lady who proved such an outstanding figure in the recent Democratic convention, was born near Bellevue in the old Dinmore homestead. Mrs. Greenway was a niece of Miss Julia Dinmore, and is well known by citizens of the Bellevue community. She was educated in New York and became acquainted with the Roosevelt family, with whom she became very intimate. She married Geo. John Greenway, of Arizona, where she has made her home since. We wish to thank our many informants of the identity of Mrs. Greenway, who is such a prominent national figure.

A saddle horse belonging to Mrs. Harold Conner was exhibited in the show ring at the Junior Order picnic at Florence on July 4th and brought home the second premium. The winner of the first prize was owned by Bert Rich, of Covington. Elbert Clore handled the local horse in the ring.

The Hebron Lodge No. 757 F. & A. M. will confer the Master's degree in their hall on Saturday night, July 9. All members of Boone county lodges are cordially invited to attend the meeting.

A number of friends and relatives from Covington and Erlanger, were Fourth of July guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Stephenson at their home near Limaburg.

Harold Gaines and family, of Sanders, Gallatin county, were enjoying the Fourth with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gaines, of the Petersburg pike.

Mrs. D. R. Blythe, Mrs. John M. Botts and Mrs. Josie Maurer, of Burlington, attended the Christian church held at Florence on Wednesday of this week.

SUFFERING ENDS

FOR NEWTON SULLIVAN, SR., AT ADVANCED AGE OF 85—TWO SONS, TWO DAUGHTERS AND WIDOW ARE SURVIVORS—FUNERAL SERVICES CONDUCTED AT OLD HOMESTEAD TUESDAY

At the advanced age of 85 years, six months and six days Newton Sullivan, Sr., passed away at the old Sullivan homestead on the Petersburg pike last Sunday, July 3.

The deceased was one of the most venerable patriarchs of this entire community and always was regarded as one of our most valued and respected citizens. He was loved and admired by everyone and to our knowledge never knew the meaning of a personal enemy. He was a steadfast friend and an honored and respected neighbor.

For the past fourteen years Mr. Sullivan has been a patient sufferer from a protracted and painful illness. His suffering at times was intense. All that medical aid and patient and untiring attention from his faithful wife could do was done to alleviate his pain. However, his rugged constitution finally yielded to the ravages of suffering and he answered the final summons on the date above named.

Mr. Sullivan was born on December 27, 1846. In early life he was married to Nancy Jane Jarrell and to this union were born five children. One daughter died in infancy, but the following four survive his death: Mrs. R. J. Akin, Mrs. Ed. Easton, Cassius and Newton Sullivan, Jr. His first wife, a devoted companion and mother, died March 28, 1898. On December 11, 1907, he was married to Mrs. Annabelle Ryle, who survives his death.

In September, 1929, he united with the Burlington Baptist church under the ministry of Rev. S. W. Adams. The funeral services were conducted at the home by Rev. F. E. Walker, pastor of that church, Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, after which the remains were interred on the family lot in the I. O. O. F. cemetery. C. Scott Chambers was in charge of the funeral arrangements. The pall-bearers were Wilford, Earl and Millard Sullivan, Roscoe Akin, Herman Wingate and Edward Easton.

J. B. Arvin has been quite ill at his home here for the past week.

Dr. L. H. Crisler and wife and son, Hebert Crisler, and wife, were Covington visitors at the home of Dr. Crisler's son-in-law, Robt. Clore, in Burlington July 4th.

CONFERENCE

OF OFFICIALS WITH J. L. DONALDSON, HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER, BRINGS FAVORABLE NEWS TO RESIDENTS ALONG WALTON-VERONA ROAD — TO JOIN WITH HIGHWAY NO. 42.

N. E. Riddell, County Judge of Boone county, B. H. Riley, County Attorney, and O. K. Whitson, J. L. Hamilton, Grover Ransom and Walter Renaker of Verona, and E. E. Fry, W. B. Johnson and Jno. L. Vest, of Walton, went to Carrollton on Monday of this week and had a conference with Hon. J. L. Donaldson, of the Kentucky Highway Commission, with reference to the surfacing of the road from Walton through Verona to the Gallatin county line.

It is the present purpose of the Commission to make this a high type road from Walton through Verona to some point in U. S. Highway No. 42, the exact location to be located by survey, and for this reason no surfacing of the present construction will be done this year, but those who conferred with Mr. Donaldson, were well pleased with the idea that when constructed the road will be of a high type, either concrete, Kentucky Asphalt, or Topeka Mix.

HIGHWAYMAN SHOTS WHEN SAYS HE HAS NO MONEY—OTHERS IN CAR ARE UNABLE TO GIVE CLUE TO IDENTITY OF ROBBERS OR CAR

That Louisville Highway No. 42 is becoming accustomed to tragedy, or at least regular accidents of some description, was further evidenced when possibly the most enormous of all these late happenings was enacted about one mile from Union around 9:30 o'clock Tuesday night.

Allen Heath, 62 years old, of 625 Isabella Street, Newport, Ky., a coal dealer, was shot and killed when he told a bandit, who had forced the car in which he was riding from the road, that he had no money. The story was related by Albert Ungerbuehler, 4806 Kirby road, Cincinnati, the driver of the car, and Mrs. Rachel Pfeiffer, 130 E. Second street, Newport. They said that the car of the hold-up man got away before they were able to obtain a description of the bandit who held them up. Neither were they able to give a description of the other members of the group, which they said accompanied him.

When questioned by Sheriff Herbert Snyder and Coroner Harry F. Donnelly, of Kenton county, they were unable to give a description of the car as they said that its lights were turned off when it ran them to the ditch and it was stopped out of the range of their lights when the gunman alighted and demanded "what was the matter with your lights."

Coming closer to the car he pushed a revolver into Ungerbuehler's face and demanded his money. Ungerbuehler said that he handed over $18 and that Heath said he had no money. The bandit promptly shot Heath without further warning. Ungerbuehler related.

The bullet entered just below Heath's eye and he was dead upon arrival at St. Elizabeth Hospital, where Ungerbuehler rushed him immediately after the shooting.

The party had left Newport Tuesday morning to go to Rising Sun to collect some outstanding bills and had crossed the river somewhere below Rising Sun. They had intended, they said, to stop at Erlanger to collect a bill there.

SERVICES AT HOPEFUL
Holy Communion service will be observed next Sunday, July 10, at the Hopeful Lutheran church at 11 o'clock Eastern time.

W. B. Arnold, of Bellevue, was a very pleasant caller at the Recorder office last Monday morning. He was one of the interested readers of the Recorder, who was giving us some information on Mrs. Isabella Greenway, of Arizona, a native of Boone county.

A. H. Jones is recovering from a recent illness. However, "Pete" selected a very opportune time to get "under the weather," as his vacation still is on and the patrons of his mail route are being very efficiently served by Mrs. Pearl Hughes.

A surprise chicken dinner was tendered Mrs. Harlow Edgar Haas, wife of the Lutheran pastor, on Tuesday of this week. The dinner was given by the Ladies Aid Society in observance of her birthday.

Miss Pink Cowen, who has been spending a few weeks with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Furnish and family, of Golden Pond, Ky., returned to Burlington last Saturday.

The newly organized Epworth League of the local M. E. church entertained its members with a lawn party in the spacious yard of Judge N. E. Riddell last Thursday evening. The League desires to express its thanks to Judge Riddell for his courtesy.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fenton and Mr. and Mrs. Bascom Fenton and family, all of Cincinnati, were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Berkshire and son, Rex.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sullivan and family of the East Bend road, entertained the young folks of the community with a lawn party at their home last Saturday night. All reported a fine evening.

ELECT NORTHCUTT TO CONGRESS

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY ELECTION
SATURDAY AUGUST 6, 1932

RICHARD C. NORTHCUTT

AN ABL E MAN FOR A BIG JOB
WITH A MIND THAT RECOGNIZES THE VITAL ISSUES FACING THE UNITED STATES TODAY!

Economic Recovery

Our present serious and unhappy economic condition is due mainly to two things: A governmental policy for and finally by big business, that has gathered the bulk of the wealth into the hands of the few while impoverishing the farmer, laborer and small business man; and, the increased ability to produce through labor saving devices, without a corresponding reduction in the hours of labor.

Thus, the purchasing power of the great mass of consumers has been impaired and with millions of unemployed, has been altogether destroyed. The demand for the farmer's produce has in this manner been seriously curtailed, and his purchasing power in turn reduced. Upon the power of the laboring masses and the farmers to purchase, depends the business of the merchant, the banker and so on back to the manufacturer and the producer of raw materials.

Whatever aids one of these groups will benefit the other. The logical starting place to correct this condition would be to enact a law to reduce the working day and the working week without a corresponding decrease in wages and if I were elected to Congress, I would, as soon as possible, urge passage of such a law.

The farmer should be further aided by placing within his reach loans at low interest so that he would not be required to throw his produce upon a weak market in order to live.

He should have the encouragement of the Federal Government in the control and marketing of his produce.

Certainly our Federal Government should be as fair to the farmer, the greatest industry, as it is to the international banker. If a moratorium on Government loans to foreign countries is extended so that the great financial interests of private bankers may collect their loans, it would not be unfair to ask a moratorium on Federal farm loans in order to prevent further wrecking of this great industry.

In short, there should be more action and less empty promises for the farmer and the laboring masses and consequently, all of us.

Employment Insurance

I would urge employment insurance in fact as well as in theory. Practically every State with the exception of possibly two, has workmen's compensation insurance, through which a man receives a portion of his salary while kept from his work by injuries whether or not he may be at fault. Then why should not a man when kept away from his work through unemployment which is no fault of his own, be secured in at least a portion of his salary through similar or some proper employment or insurance? People should not be discharged from their employment by the millions without concern for the security of their homes and the welfare of their families. The present condition in the homes of millions of the unemployed will bear me out in this principle.

I would urge old age insurance or pension. The most conservative capitalist will admit that no person in the United States should be permitted to starve. We all agree that there must be help from some source. It usually comes from only those who are willing whether or not they are able.

Prohibition

Although the question of what and how we shall drink may not be as important as whether we shall eat, it nevertheless is a problem that cannot be ignored. However sincere we may be in our wet or dry attitude, we are forced to recognize that the Eighteenth Amendment as it now exists is responsible for conditions repugnant to every good citizen. Chief among the evils resulting from it are the racketeer, the bootlegger and the gangster who have become dangerously powerful and their influence over weak politicians. The Government is losing a rich source of taxation and the farmer is losing a splendid market for a good portion of his grain. At any rate, the people of the United States should have the opportunity as soon as it is possible to say by majority whether or not they desire to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

Government Economy

I would urge the abolition of overlapping government agencies; the placing of relatives of Senators and Congressmen on the government payroll; and the appropriation of enormous sums of money in the interest of big business.

Public utilities, and particularly the great power companies should be carefully regulated, and watered stock absolutely prohibited.

Where private capital is not available for public utilities or private ownership is not satisfied with a fair and reasonable return upon them as an investment the public should own and control them through the government. Returns of 300 to 11,000% on these investments wrong from consumers whose wages average not more than $15. to $30. a week is unjust.

Armament

About 77% (minimum) of all government revenue is expended for wars, past, present and to come. A sincere effort on the part of this country would, perhaps, obtain disarmament and an escape from the greatest, most horrible and useless burden imposed on mankind. It costs more than Sixty Billion Dollars for the United States' participation in a great and useless wholesale slaughter of men. This country boasts of its sterling leadership and many other endeavors but is frank to admit its failure in leading the world to peace and disarmament.

Bonus

Inflation is urged by many economic experts to relieve the present economic distress. If inflation is a remedy there is not a better plan than to pay the World War Veterans their adjusted compensation. While discharging an honest obligation, money would be placed in circulation for the immediate purchase of food, clothing, rents, medical bills, building and loans dues, insurance, etc. Money paid them would find its way into immediate circulation, relieve many from the pinch of poverty and aid business in general. The scary theory that it would wreck the credit of this country is propaganda coming from large financial interests. If Two Billion Dollars would wreck the credit of the United States, we should have been wrecked years ago thru our gift of money, billions of dollars, to foreign countries.

Campaign Expenses

In late years the fashion has been towards expenditure of great sums of money to obtain a seat in Congress. Sometimes the money spent in the election has warranted the charge that the office was bought and a few have been unseated for this atrocious practice. One who obtains a seat in Congress in this manner is justly looked upon with suspicion. I would not, if I could, spend any considerable sum to procure nomination or election.

Fair Wage Return For Labor

In the name of common justice, there must be a fair distribution of the profits from labor, the farmer and the laborer, the primary producers must have a greater share in the wealth they create.

The situation created by the unfair distribution of wealth long fostered and encouraged by the Republican party has brought this country to a pass where violent revolution is discussed and freely predicted in places. But there is a better way to compel justice, that is revolution by ballot.

Congress is now about equally divided between those elected in the interest of industry and big business and those who are willing to represent all the people. You must say by your vote which you prefer. Your continued rebellious agitation will absolutely be of no avail unless you take time enough to study candidates for public office and vote to your own interest and the interest of your neighbor. It only takes a small fraction of a day to exercise this right, and so long you permit yourself to be mis-guided by propaganda and pet prejudices, just so long you will be wondering why we have bread lines, employment agencies and unemployed. Study your candidate, go to the polls and vote your conviction uninfluenced by anyone.

ALLIANCE RECORDS ACHIEVEMENTS

About three months ago, the Farmers Alliance of Hebron began to take steps to prevail upon the State Highway Department to complete the State Highway from Constance to Petersburg, the reconstruction of which was begun about four years ago but was never completed. As a result of the persistent and vigilant efforts of the Alliance, it is now apparent that the work of reconstruction by the Highway Department will be begun within ten days, and the road for its entire length, from Ludlow to Petersburg, will be completed about September 1. When this is done, it will be one of the great highways of Northern Kentucky, and will attract thousands of tourists. It will be the most picturesque and scenic road about Cincinnati. It will be of great benefit to the people in the northern part of the county as well as to many who live in Dearborn, Ohio, and adjoining counties in Indiana, some of whom now use it because it is the shortest and most direct route for them to Cincinnati. It will be the second most travelled highway in the county.

When the road from Hebron to Limburg is taken over by the State Highway Department and made a State Highway, a project which the Alliance is now striving to have accomplished by July 1, 1933, the State Highway from Ludlow to Petersburg will serve more people in Boone county than any other Highway in the county. It will be the main and most direct outlet for practically all of the people in the Northern and Western part of the county to Cincinnati. If the Alliance never did anything except to prevail upon the State Highway Department to complete this Highway, it will have rendered the county a great service.

The Farmers Alliance is a strong advocate of more roads and better roads at a less cost per mile for construction and maintenance. If there were a number of strong, active and vigilant locals of the Alliance in each county, working under the supervision and in close touch with a State organization that was wide awake, the Alliance could wield a tremendous power and influence in aiding the State Highway Department in building and maintaining a greater mileage of better roads with the same amount of money which is now expended for that purpose by the Department. As Patrick Henry said in his celebrated speech before the Virginia Assembly that fired the colonists to revolt against the unjust tax laws of the English government, "A consummation devoutly to be wished."

The Alliance believes and advocates that good roads are an indispensable requisite to a successful farming community. They bring the farmer and the consumer closer together. They attract the final consumer, the man whom the farmer is after, out in the open country and to the farmer's door, where the farmer can meet him face to face and have an opportunity to sell him many of his farm products, and get from the consumer one hundred cents of his dollar instead of ten or fifteen cents; which the farmer is now receiving. It thereby brings about a condition where the farmer is furnished a real home market for much that he has to sell. By such means the farmer in his endeavor to sell a considerable portion of his perishable products, escapes that great horde of busy-body meddlers who infest our City Halls, and don't know beans from barley, but who, under the guise of and in the inappropriate name of good City government, seek to tell the farmer how to raise, prepare, and sell his products, and whose special business seems to be to impose fees, taxes, and licenses on the farmer in the City market, and prevent him by rules, regulations, and restrictions and what-not, from meeting the consumer who is anxious to meet him and buy his products and pay him one hundred cents of his dollar.

The good road contracts the tourists and those who love the open country, many of whom are seeking a desirable place in the country, accessible to the city, where they may establish a home. Good roads are the veins and arteries of commerce. It is along them that the life blood of the nation flows.

About a month ago, a committee was appointed of the Hebron Local, to find out what can be done to better the telephone service in the country. Many of the lines have been allowed, because of neglect and inattention, to become greatly out of repair, and thereby rendering telephonic communications at times difficult or impossible. The officials of the Company were aware of the greatly impaired service by reason of many of the lines being badly in need of repair, but pleaded that they had been prevented by reason of a great decline in revenue and a lack of funds, from carrying out their program of rebuilding many of the lines. They promised, however, to repair the lines which were greatly in need of repair. Since a committee met with the officials, some of the lines have been repaired, especially the lines used by the various members of the committee.

The Alliance, at its last meeting at Hebron, decided, in order to increase the scope of the activities of the Telephone Company in repairing the lines, to increase the number on the committee by placing one man on each line on the committee. If any one who is a member of the Alliance is on a bad telephone line and wants it repaired, he had better get busy and get to be a committeeman of the Alliance.

The officials of the Company called the attention of the committee to the fact that numerous complaints have been made that certain persons on each line persisted in listening to conversations of others, and that certain other persons persisted in indulging in long telephone conversations that were not of any benefit to either party engaged in the conversation, thereby denying to those who desired to use the telephone for necessary and urgent purposes the right to use it. They said that if these conditions continue they would be compelled to establish a separate line for those who persisted in listening to the conversation of others, and that the long talkers will be charged an excess charge of probably two cents per minute for each minute of conversation longer than five minutes. They said that this rule, if enforced, might serve a double purpose because of the length of some conversations on the telephone by certain individuals, they would be able to greatly increase their revenue and thereby establish a fund with which to give better telephone service. They asked for the cooperation of the Alliance in enforcing these rules, if they be found necessary, in the interest of better telephone service.

The Hebron Local decided to take action to establish a County organization. A committee composed of Liston Hempfling, Earl Walton, M. L. Aylor, E. J. Aylor and W. H. Rucker was chosen to represent the Local in visiting the other Locals, with a view to formulating plans for establishing a county organization. This action is a step in the right direction, because it enables the various Locals to act in concert for a common purpose; lays the foundation for increasing the sphere of the Alliance's influence, and enables it to prepare for a big Fall and Winter campaign in order to become a more powerful and potent factor in an attempt to solve certain difficult problems, the solution of which will be for the benefit of all. It will enable the Alliance to stimulate greater interest in its cause at a time of the year when the nights are short and the farmer's ardor for the cause is naturally dampened by long, weary hours of excessive labor in the hot summer sun.

The Hebron Local will meet on the second Saturday night of July. Please be there and have your name placed upon the roll of membership, if you are not already a member.

VETERINARIAN SAYS SANITATION GREATEST PROBLEM

Dr. T. P. Polk, field Veterinarian from the College of Agriculture was in Boone county on last Tuesday visiting demonstrations with a number of veterinary demonstrations in which the College is cooperating. He says that sanitation for prevention and not a cure is the greatest livestock problem today.

During the past fifty years little attention has been paid to live stock sanitation and the result of infestation of old fields and the bringing in of new diseases that have gained wide foot hold before any attempt was made to check them means that greater care and understanding must be secured in the future if our livestock operations are to be successful and profitable. He complimented the Boone County Clean Chick Program and the regular monthly drenching in the sheep program.

An understanding of the life cycle of the parasitic organisms must be gained before one can successfully combat parasites. Rather than weekly or monthly changes of pasture for sheep in control of intestinal worms he recommended a yearly change in a three to four year rotation or a plan similar to that followed in the Clean Chick Program. In that such a program is not always practical, the next best method is regular drenchings.

Receives Degree Cum Laude

Mr. Edwin Hater Walton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Walton, Hebron, graduated from Transylvania University Lexington, Ky. cum laude, having completed the requirements for a liberal art degree in three and one-half years.

Mr. Walton was a member of the Alpha Lambda Tau fraternity and during his junior and senior years was president of that organization. During his school career he took an active part in social and athletic activities. As a member of the junior faculty of the College Walton assisted in both chemistry and sociology. He is a former graduate of the Hebron High School.

Miss Maple Moore, Miss Eunie Merrell, of Lexington, and Miss Ruth Kelly, spent the week-end with Miss Nell H. Martin.

Frankfort, Ky., July 2.—When a clerk in the office of State Auditor Dan Talbott detected that Sheriff Lee Combs, of Breathitt county, was entitled to collect from the state expenses for transporting prisoners 4,495 miles instead of 7,005, as his claim specified, attention was focused upon the rigid scrutiny with which all claims presented to the Auditor for payment are examined. The sheriff is entitled to compensation of 10 cents a mile in transporting prisoners. The saving to the state as the claim was reduced when found defective was $251.00.

The questioned claim was submitted to Nat B. Sewell, State Inspector and Examiner, who commended the clerk for detecting the irregular claim and advised the State Auditor that the mileage claimed was excessive.

It is estimated that approximately $50,000.00 has been saved the state since January as result of the minute examination to which claims are subjected. The largest saving has been in jury fees as Circuit Judges' attention has been called to excess jury claims as result of impaneling an excessive number of jurors.

Auditor Talbott has inaugurated the plan of requiring a sworn statement as to the accuracy of all expense accounts. A new law, which recently became effective, requires that a copy of expense accounts and state payrolls be sent to the State Inspector and Examiner when sent to the Auditor. The double check is regarded as an increased safeguard against questionable claims.

Clerks in the Auditor's Office have been instructed to check each claim submitted for payment, item by item, regardless of the fact that it may bear the endorsement of a department head. The result of this policy, inaugurated the first of the year, has been to curtail expense accounts and effect a substantial saving.

In regard to the claim of the Breathitt County Sheriff Mr. Sewell's comment was as follows:

"Even a casual examination of the sheriff's claim discloses glaringly excessive charges. It is admitted that some of our corrections are approximations, but we have earnestly endeavored to be fair with the claimant and have given him the benefit of any and all doubts. Some of the items included in the account are brazenly inaccurate. For instance, the charge for 130 miles traveling from Jackson to Talliga and return is so excessive as to establish prima facie evidence of an effort on the part of the claimant to profit financially at the expense of the state."

AN HONEST PLATFORM

The Democratic platform adopted at the national convention is commendably concise and explicit. It is unique not only in its brevity but in its clarity. It is a specific declaration on vital national issues. It is in marked contrast with the Republican platform, which sought to conceal than reveal its attitude.

The platform definitely commits the party to a program designed to ameliorate the economic ills which are the results of an accumulation of years of maladministration and inept Republican leadership. It reveals a courageous grappling with the critical situation for which there is vital need of remedial measures.

Instead of the Republican generalized pledge of economy in government the Democratic platform explicitly pledges a reduction of 25 per cent in expenditures of the federal government. A "competitive tariff for revenue only," such as will readjust the towering tariff walls that have alienated many of our best foreign customers, is pledged in unmistakable terms.

Federal loans to states are promised, to be expended in assuaging the suffering of millions who are the cruel victims of unemployment, superinduced by that defective system of government which has been regnant the last twelve years, in which special concessions have been granted those of sufficient wealth and influence to procure them.

The refinancing of farm mortgages in order to avert the tragic spectacle of dispossessing thousands of farmers of their homes is promised. Assurance is given that every constitutional measure will be employed to aid farmers to get cost of production.

Relief for depositors in the thousands of farmers of their homes is promised. Assurance is given that every constitutional measure will be employed to aid farmers to get cost of production.

Relief for depositors in the thousands of banks that have been forced to close as the tragic aftermath of a period of governmental and economic folly is pledged.

Abandonment of the "noble experiment," which has proved to be an ignoble folly, is advocated in language as clear as the Republican plank on prohibition was ambiguous.

It is an honest platform which scorns to angle for votes with deceptive declarations. Its commitments are not susceptible of double interpretation, nor does it equivocate on or evade the vital issues of a campaign the outcome of which will project its influence so far in the future as to influence the history of this nation fifty years hence.

4-H PICNICS POSTPONED

The Boone county 4-H picnic planned to be held at Split Rock on Wednesday July 20th to August 18th has been postponed on account of the changes in dates of the North Kentucky 4-H Club Camp. The New Haven Boosters and Verona Willing Workers picnic scheduled for Mud Lick on Thursday July 21st has also been changed and will be held Thursday, August 18th. Each 4-H member is urged to notify the other members of his club of these changes.

4-H Camp plans which were to be supplied part of the program at the above events will be supplied all community club leaders of the county at an early date. Further instructions can be secured at the County Agent's office. All members who have their project and record books up to date will be eligible to attend camp.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

The writer of this item has received no news from "The Hodge Brothers" concerning their absence from the Mission Thursday evening.

It is our sincere hope that sickness or misfortune was not the cause, but that some other unavoidable matter prevented their visit with us.

However we were delighted to welcome Bro. Hitchcock.

Due to the fact that every minute of his time is taken up in carrying on God's work, this was his first visit to the Mission since he gave the lectures.

Our song service seemed much more spirited than usual due to the large crowd.

Everyone enjoyed the special duet "When Love Shines In," sung by Mrs. Mary Layton and Miss Evelyn Millson.

Interesting indeed was the message brought to us by Bro. Hitchcock.

The theme of his message was "Sin" which he talked about from many angles leaving with us much greater understanding than we had heretofore.

Strange as it may seem there is no Japanese word for "Sin" so all missionary workers must invent one which will take its place, and at the same time be explainable to all.

Bro. Hitchcock's straightforward sincere way of explaining the Scripture made everyone realize what a great influence he must have while working in foreign lands.

A very beneficial message was delivered by Bro. Tucker Sunday evening.

Tuesday evening a large group of friends were entertained by Miss Evelyn Millson, the occasion being her birthday.

The guests all left at a late hour wishing them many happy birthdays to come.

Some one has suggested that during the summer weather at least, we change our Sunday school service to an evening hour followed by church service.

The Sunday school service will begin at 6:15, this will no doubt give many folks an opportunity to come early and enjoy both services.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so lets forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

ANSWERS CALL

OF HIGH COMMISSIONER AFTER LONG AND PAINFUL ILLNESS—LEFTY SPRAGUE PASSED AWAY IN NEWPORT SUNDAY—BURIAL AT PETERSBURG TUESDAY AFTERNOON

The One High Commissioner has recalled Lefty Sprague. He was let out on option May 18, 1926. He "made good" in the minor circuit to which he was assigned by the High Commissioner and so he was recalled last Sunday afternoon when he received the fatal stroke at the home of a relative in Newport. In our humble opinion Lefty will make good in the higher realm, just as he made good in his minor assignment.

We trust that the above allegory will not be treated in the spirit of sacrilege. Clifford (Lefty) Sprague was a baseball player—indeed a fine one—and we make the above comparison because of his connection with the national game. It is an honorable pastime and Lefty Sprague was a credit to it, to himself as a player, and to his family and friends.

It was on May 18, 1906, that Clifford Sprague was born at Taylorsport. Last Sunday, at the home of a relative, Ralph White, in Newport, he died. He had been a patient sufferer there since his return from Davenport, Iowa, where he became very ill several weeks ago.

As most every reader of the Recorder knows Lefty Sprague had gone to Davenport as a baseball pitcher in the spring of 1931. He had made good from the start of that season and had returned there last spring full of hope and justly confident that he would be able to carve for himself a future as a diamond luminary. And Lefty was not the only one who entertained that belief. He had friends and relatives who hoped for it and still others who believed it just as firmly as some others hoped.

On October 18, 1930, just after finishing a very successful season with the Burlington club in the Boone County League, he was married to Nelva Shinkle, of Petersburg. To this happy union a daughter was born in August, 1931. Primarily it was for these two loved ones that Lefty strove to succeed.

But, reverting to the terms of the allegory, Lefty was "recalled" and so it is that he has doffed the base ball spangles for the spotless robes of a higher strata in the spiritual scheme of things.

Two brothers, Owen and John Henry, one sister, Mrs. Harold Smith, his mother, his widow and little daughter survive to mourn the loss of Lefty. Beside these immediate relatives there is a host of other kin and close friends. Lefty had been a member of the Taylorsport Christian church since 1923 and it was Rev. Buck, a minister of that faith from Cincinnati, who delivered the funeral sermon from the Petersburg Baptist church Tuesday afternoon. The remains were interred in the Petersburg cemetery.

Six former baseball friends served as pall-bearers: Joe Brady, Ben Zimmer, Charles Ruth, Leslie Ryle, Leslie Wagner, of Independence, and Joe Aylor. A number of other baseball friends and associates acted as honorary pall-bearers.

The following marriage licenses were issued by County Clerk A. G. McMullen during the month of June:

Brown Roberts, 19, Hebron, Irene Kimberlin, 17, Verona.

James A. Davenport, 26, Harlan, Ky., Marie E. Gruber, 26, Harlan, Ky.

Clyde A. Laysele, 39, Grand Rapids, Michigan, Ethel S. Buckle, 30, St. Paul, Minn.

William Greenup, 21, Burlington, Ky., Elaine Deckerson, 18, Burlington.

Chas. Kennedy, 22, Alma Lawson, 18, both of Cincinnati.

Charles C. Arbogast, 47, Christianburg, Ohio, Sylvia McIntuff, 43, Middletown, Ohio.

Dwight Gibson, 27, Dayton, Ohio, Vesta Dettling, 22, Darke county, Ohio.

Walter G. Puthoff, 23, Maude Collins Lockwood, 23, both of Lawrenceburg, Ind.

LOCAL TEAM WINS

The Burlington Baptists base ball team in the Boone County Church League defeated the strong Bellevue Baptists in a league game here last Saturday afternoon by a score of 5-1. Alkin was in the box for the Burlington club, while Black was on the hill for Bellevue. Next Saturday, July 16, the Walton team will visit Burlington.

STAR STUDENT

MISS VIVIAN HOOD

The above photo is that of Miss Vivian Hood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hood, of Constance. Miss Hood's exploits as a student have been printed before in these columns and are familiar to all of our readers. She was returned the winner in statewide contests last fall and this spring won the Rouse Medal in county competition.

RICHARD N. HEAD

Richard N. Head, aged 74 years, passed away Wednesday night, at his home in Union, Ky., after a long illness. Funeral services were conducted Saturday at 10:30 a. m., at the Union Baptist church, of which he was a member and Deacon, by the Rev. Victor Stephenson, of Dayton, Ky., after which he was laid to rest in the Union cemetery.

Mr. Head is survived by his widow, Mrs. Laura Head, one son Jas. and one grandson Clinton Head, besides one sister Mrs. Granville Rouse, of Chicago, and a host of other relatives and friends.

The pall-bearers were Jule and "Cum" Bristow, J. A. Huey, J. T. Bristow, Willie Smith and Volney Dickerson.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

During the warm weather the local Baptist church has arranged for out door services each Sunday evening. Chairs will be placed in the spacious side yard of the church and they promise plenty of seating room. You are cordially invited to attend all of their services.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Stott, of Petersburg, were Sunday guests of Ray Hickman and wife here.

DRAWING

FOR FIRST ROUND OF ELIMINATION SERIES BRING ROSEDALE TO HARVEST HOME—COMPLIMENTARY PASSES WILL NOT BE HONORED DURING ELIMINATION

In the drawing for the first round of the elimination series held Monday night Harvest Home drew Rosedale A. C. for the first game next Sunday, and as all road teams have signed several new players for the series the home club can count on plenty of opposition for these games.

Fischer or Beeke will take the mound for Rosedale A. C. with Rucker on the receiving end, while Boehler and Shearer will form the battery for the home club.

Harvest Home has won 7 straight games now and are out for their 8th winner next Sunday.

The officials of the club regret to announce that the league has ruled that no complimentary passes can be honored during the elimination series. This ruling was eliminated about by the road clubs who are playing on a percentage basis and brings about a situation over which the home club has no control.

The series will be three losses and out with home clubs meeting road clubs until all road clubs are eliminated.

CRANWELL

WILL BE RETURNED TO BURLINGTON FOR TRIAL—SHERIFF GOES TO NEW YORK TO BRING BACK PROVIDENT STORES PROMOTER — WAS INDICTED AT APRIL TERM, 1927.

Sheriff Herbert Snyder left Sunday evening for New York city, where he expected to take into custody L. R. Cranwell for return to Boone county, to answer criminal charges preferred against him here by the grand jury in April, 1927.

The charges grew out of the stock selling exploits of Cranwell in connection with the Provident Stores, incorporated, in the fall of 1926. Cranwell started stores in Walton, Burlington and Florence, as well as several in Ohio. It is said.

One indictment charges that he sold stock in said store system without having made the proper application with the State Commissioner of Securities. The other indictment charges that Cranwell feloniously obtained certain valuable stocks from Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Tanner, of Florence, and unlawfully and feloniously disposed of them and converted the money to his own use. The stocks were said to have been valued at approximately $18,000.00.

About a year ago he was arrested in New York on a similar charge. Upon notification from New York authorities that he was about to be released there authorities here obtained extradition papers from the Governors of Kentucky and New York.

He will be tried here at the approaching August term of Circuit Court.

"NO MEN ADMITTED"

The title of the play to be given by the Burlington F. T. A. has proved to be very misleading. "No Men Admitted" does not mean to the auditorium, but does mean they will not be admitted behind the scenes. The committee desires that it be made perfectly plain that all men will be more than welcome thru the door of admission. The adult price will be only 20 cents. The cast of characters is made up entirely of women and will be found in other columns of this issue.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

When convalescent Chick Hafey, batting champion of the National League in 1931 and the star of the Cincinnati Reds this year, stepped to the plate in the ninth inning of the Cincinnati-Brooklyn final game of a double-header last week, he received one of the greatest ovations ever accorded a ball player on that field. It was Hafey's first appearance in the Redleg line-up since May 31 and the fans certainly proved that they were glad to see him. Hafey batted for Leo Durocher in that inning and lined a tremendous drive to left-center that carried almost to the wall but was taken by Frederick, Dodger center fielder, after a hard run. That sock showed that Hafey, altho weak and underweight from his recent illness, has lost none of his power at the bat.

With Hafey back in the game, as he expects to be some time this week, the Cincinnati Reds should show a definite upward trend. Even the prospect of Hafey's return has spurred the players, as evidenced by their feat of taking three straight from St. Louis and then battling Brooklyn right down to the finish. It is interesting to note that the Reds have recovered their famed batting punch at last. Five of the Red regulars are batting 300 or better, Lombardi, Hafey, Herman, Grantham, and Crabtree. Red Lucas, the twirler, is also well over the .300 mark. Wally Roettger and Harvey Hendrick are nearing that figure.

Babe Herman and Ernie Lombardi, the giant Red catcher, are certainly providing a new attraction for Cincinnati fans in their home-run hitting. It's been a long time since any member of the Reds dis-

NEW TYPE

OF DANGEROUS HIGHWAY PEST DISCOVERED AT FLORENCE SUNDAY — USES FIRE AND KNIFE ON ERLANGER MAN AFTER COLLISION—OFFENDER UNIDENTIFIED

One of the most dangerous pests on the highway is the well known hit-skip motorist. However, witness of an accident which occurred on the Dixie Highway near Goodridge Drive last Sunday afternoon are willing to testify that there is one kind of motorist still more dangerous. This type is the hit-flat variety.

John Brewer, of Erlanger, is better able to testify to the above theory than anyone else since last Sunday afternoon. As he was driving his ice cream truck northward on the highway he collided with a roadster, bearing no license plates, and driven by a man whose name officers have been unable to learn.

As soon as the accident occurred Brewer alighted from his car to see what damage had been done. The unknown driver at once started an argument and struck at Brewer with his fist. Brewer dodged, but came right back and knocked his adversary down, whereupon the unidentified motorist came with a knife and made a pass at Brewer. Brewer, however, got by with only a small scratch.

At this juncture someone called Deputy Sheriff Cotton, who rushed to the scene, where he arrived just after the scrappy individual had left. Efforts to learn anything further about his identity have proved unavailing, according to authorities at Burlington.

Harold Conner, local Greyhound magnet, arrived here Saturday night from West Jefferson, Ohio, where he had been racing his hounds for several days following the closing of the track at Akron, where he had great success. He will return to Akron within a few days to prepare for the re-opening of the track there on August 1st.

Last Sunday about 25 members of the Berry Station M. E. church attended services at the local M. E. church. Rev. Politt, pastor of the Burlington church, formerly was pastor at Berry.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ryle dined with Mr. and Mrs. Mark Cook at their home on Camp Ernst road last Sunday.

Unlabeled himself by circuit-driving, Herman has hit 11 homers so far this year and Lombardi has whacked nine. George Grantham has hit four. Roettger three, all in a single week. Harvey Hendrick has two to his credit, and Asbjorn, Crabtree and Hafey one each.

Many of the fans are wondering at the surprising change in Chick Hafey's style of hitting. Formerly, Hafey was considered a long hitter, especially proficient at banging triples and home runs. This year the veteran has concentrated more on place-hitting. If anything, the change has made him even more valuable. Before Hafey became ill, he was batting .357 with only one home run to his credit and only three triples in 51 hits.

The United States will enter the 1932 Olympic Games at Los Angeles on July 30 in a much better position than did the team of 1928, which showed poorly abroad. In that year the Americans won only one individual event, Ray Barbuti capturing the 400 meter race. This time there may be a different story. The United States will be represented by a number of star performers, including Topolino, the 100 meters flash, Frank Wycoff, Bob Kissel, also sprinters; Ben Eastman in the quarter and half mile events; Gene Venzke in the mile and Percy Board in the hurdles, Leo Sexton and Herman Brax will carry the Stars and Stripes into the shotput competition and may win. Geo. Spitz will compete in the high jump. This aggregation should improve on the 1928 record of the American team.

ARM BROKEN

John R. Boyce, of near Florence, who does the catching for Bob and Gene's base ball team, suffered a very painful injury in a very odd way late Monday afternoon. When he attempted to throw a ball in practice he snapped a bone in his right arm just above the elbow. He was removed to St. Elizabeth Hospital, where it was necessary to bind the bone together with silver wire in order to set it properly.

SUB-DISTRICT TRUSTEES

At the election held in the various sub-districts under the new school law the following trustees were elected to act in conjunction with the county board of education:

Burlington—L. C. Weaver, Earl Smith and A. H. Jones.
Bellevue—Lee R. McNeely, Louise Rogers and Leslie Ryle.
Constance—Oliver Kottmyer, Geo. Lancaster and John Dolwick.
Maple Hill—Cecil Williams, H. M. Clure and Lavine Stephens.
Garrison—Chas. Setters, D. R. Kittle and Wilbur Rice.
Florence—Lewis Houston, G. D. Huffman, and L. T. Utz.
Taylorsport—Earl Morehead, William Beacom and Miles Berry.
Hebron—O. C. Hafer, George B. Yates, and Luther Rouse.
New Haven—Harry Moore, E. R. Rivard and B. H. Ryle.
North Bend—John Green, Ernest Hodges and Luke Holt.
Hamilton—L. R. Miller, B. C. Kirtley and Kenneth Aylor.
Mt. Zion—No election but the following were appointed: Robert Woodward, Elmer Carpenter and Otis Biddle.

The North Kentucky Baptist Young Peoples Union held its regular monthly meeting at the Big Bone Baptist church Tuesday night. Rev. Spahr, of Crescent Springs, was the speaker of the evening. Preceding the meeting a basket dinner was enjoyed by the members. A silver loving cup was presented to the Grant Baptist church for the largest attendance, having sent 30 members of a total membership of 31. The local Baptist church was on hand with 18 members. The next meeting will be held at Grant on Tuesday August 16th.

UTOPIA CLUB TOUR

Boone County Utopia Club No. 2 will hold a tour and picnic on next Tuesday, July 19th. The tour will be to inspect the project developments of its members. Each member of the club if possible will be visited during the day.

The tour will start at 9 o'clock a. m. central standard time from Myers Garage in Florence and will finish up with a rally and picnic at the farm of Mr. Hubert Conner of near Hebron. The event is expected to show some good work being done by Utopians.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Westaby, of Covington, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Laura Martin and family.

FURLONG HOME

WILL BE SOLD AT AUCTION ON SATURDAY, JULY 23—PERSONAL PROPERTY, INCLUDING ANTIQUES, ALSO WILL BE SOLD—THOROUGH JOB OF FUMIGATING COMPLETED

Judge J. M. Lassing, executor of the estate of Miss Mary Furlong, deceased, is making minute preparations for the sale of her personal and real property here on Saturday, July 23.

Under the direction of Dr. M. A. Yelton, local health officer, he has carefully and thoroughly fumigated the house and all contents. In order to be sure that the job was done right the Judge re-fumigated, although the first process probably was sufficient.

The sale will start at 9 o'clock on July 23 and will continue until all of the property has been sold. The real estate consists of approximately two acres of land, and the dwelling located just across the street from the residence of County Clerk A. G. McMullen on Jefferson street. The land will be divided into three tracts and offered both separately and as a whole. The bid or bids providing the greatest amount of money will be accepted.

William Phillips, of Cincinnati, was visiting friends in Burlington Sunday afternoon.

SUDDEN DEATH

OF MRS. VIRGINIA KELLY SHOCKS FRIENDS AND RELATIVES EARLY TUESDAY MORNING—OCCUMBS TO SEVERE ATTACK OF CONVULSIONS LIVES BUT FEW HOURS—FUNERAL AT BURLINGTON THURSDAY

This entire community was aroused and sorely grieved at the news of the death of Mrs. Virginia Clore Kelly, which occurred early Tuesday morning at the home of her father, L. T. Clore. Her death was one of the most sudden and unexpected that has occurred in this vicinity for several years.

She had come to Burlington from her home in Elmers for a short visit with her father and sister and retired Monday night with no forewarning whatsoever of a severe attack of convulsions which came upon her some time after she went to bed. Dr. Gladys L. Rouse, of Florence, her regular physician, was called to her bedside and later Dr. Rouse called in Dr. M. A. Yelton.

Nothing, however, could be done to save her and she died during the early morning hours. The remains were taken to her home Tuesday by Funeral Director C. Scott Chambers where they will remain until returned to Burlington for burial. Funeral services will be conducted from the Baptist church here Thursday afternoon at 2:30 slow time.

Virginia Clore Kelly was the wife of Wilbur Kelly, who survives her. She also is survived by her father L. T. Clore, one sister, Kathryn Clore, and Robert Clore, a brother. Besides these five step-children and numerous other near relatives are left to mourn this sudden loss.

Virginia Clore was born and reared in this community, where she was well known, loved and respected. Prior to her marriage to Wilbur Kelly she had spent her life since graduation as a school teacher. She occupied positions in several different Boone county schools and was very successful in all capacities.

The Recorder joins with friends of this family in extending to the bereaved ones our sincerest sympathy.

LESS MILK SOLD

Mr. Walter Garnett, secretary of the F. O. Milk Producers reported at the meeting of the Hebron Local of the Farmers Alliance last Saturday night that there was less milk being shipped into Cincinnati than was at the same time last year. He also reported that there was less consumption of milk in the city.

The above report brings a ray of hope to the dairyman who is in the dairy business to stay and realizes that the present situation may not change in a year. The ray of hope is that the huge surplus of milk may sooner or later be worked off the market. When there is no longer a surplus maybe the price of whole milk to the dairyman will rise to where he can at least realize the cost of production.

August is usually a low month in milk production. Dairyman at the same time are warned to study their cows closely and plan to carry thru the winter only the best cows in their herds. Fewer cows but better cows should be the goal of Boone county dairymen. Special emphasis should be put on better cows. Cull close and give the remaining cows better care.

PROTECT GRAPES

Prohibition or no prohibition, no crop—no money, warm wet weather of the past 2 weeks has been ideal conditions for black rot in grapes and other fungous diseases to develop. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture is the most practical method of control and producing high quality fruit.

Black rot has been hitting both home and commercial vineyards hard recently. Growers desiring sound and high quality fruit should begin spraying with 3-4-50 Bordeaux immediately. The Linotype operator of the Boone County Recorder recently informed the County Agent that he had worn the above formula down so this spray has done a lot of good and has a lot of more good to do, so it is being re-posted. Further information on the above work may be secured at the County Agent's office.

CHANGING THE CONSTITUTION

The conventions are over and the Presidential campaign of 1932 is under way. By the time the spell-binders of both parties have begun to get into action it may be that people will get all excited over such important issues as tax reduction and government economy, and a lot of the other things which both parties endorse in different language in their platforms. But so far as we can see the situation from this point in time and space, about the only action of the conventions that the general run of people are interested at the moment, outside of the personalities of the candidates, is whether the Democrats or the Republicans have the better plan for letting the people vote on prohibition.

As long as there is so much talk and excitement in various parts of the country about this question, it is probably just as well to take steps to find out whether the people of the United States, or any considerable majority of them, want to change the dry laws or not. We don't see how anybody can take exception to that proposition. No matter how ardently dry an individual may be, if the overwhelming majority of them are against prohibition, it seems to us that it is of the very essence of Americanism to accept a verdict of the majority. And the same goes for the citizen of wet inclinations. As long as there is a widespread belief that the prohibition law does not reflect the dominant national sentiment of today, there will always be bitter feelings until the facts are brought out.

The only way to bring them out is by means that both parties propose, that of submitting an amendment to conventions called in the different states solely for the purpose of considering a change and so giving every voter a chance to vote for either wet or dry delegates as he prefers.

Our hope is that, if and when these conventions shall have acted upon the proposed change in the Constitution, everybody concerned will be content to prove his Americanism by abiding by the result.

A TICKET THAT DESERVES TO TRIUMPH

That presidential ticket which was chosen by the Democratic national convention in which the administrative ability of Franklin D. Roosevelt was supplemented by the legislative genius of John N. Garner augurs well for success of the party in the November election. It is a ticket that will win because it deserves to triumph.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, governor of New York, was commissioned by the Democratic convention to lead the party in the presidential election. His selection by so impressive a vote on the fourth ballot was a fortunate development. In resulted in selection of a great American, a gifted statesman, to lead the party in the most important campaign in recent years. It averted possibility of a deadlocked convention in which discord and bitterness would have been accentuated.

It has been amazing the way in which the attractive personality of Roosevelt has captured the imagination of the American people. Three-fourths of the states in the union, every section of the nation, sent delegates to the convention pledged to his support. He more nearly represents the popular choice of Democrats of the nation than any nominee that has been designated in recent years.

While in some instances political leaders were reluctant to line up with Roosevelt, there swept through the rank and file of the party a surging tidal wave of Roosevelt approval. It was a spontaneous expression of public confidence in a new, courageous leader such as is unique in American politics. To have stopped Roosevelt would have been to circumvent the will of so vast a number of Democrats as to make it difficult to rally untidely behind the candidacy of a "dark horse."

There may be those whose disappointment will drive them to desert the party or withhold support of the ticket. Yet the injury sustained as result of such defection will be infinitesimal compared with the dissatisfaction which would have resulted from defeat of this man who is enthroned in the affections of the masses of the Democratic party.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is preeminently qualified for the great responsibility delegated to him by the convention of his party. Although born and bred a statesman, he is essentially a man of the common people as has been constantly revealed by his sympathies and his philosophy of statecraft. The years of public service he has demonstrated superior abilities as an administrator and executive. His record reveals that he seeks to accord big business and industry every consideration which may be extended without impinging upon the welfare of the people. Yet his great heart is attuned to the heart throb of humanity.

He is as conservative as the constitution, yet is the most sanely progressive statesman of his day. He has the audacity and courage to apply new remedies in an endeavor to solve unprecedented difficulties after old remedies have proved ineffective. Yet sound common sense, a practical understanding of public needs ever guides his incisive intellect to its conclusions. He is the Savonarola of the century. He will be recognized by millions of disheartened and despondent people as the leader of vision and ability which they have long hoped would appear to lead from the morass of bad government and the wilderness of economic chaos.

John N. Garner's selection as the vice-presidential nominee makes for a perfectly balanced ticket. The speaker of the house of representatives is a genius in the legislative branch of government. As a member of the house of representatives for thirty years he has disclosed rare qualities of statesmanship. As minority leader he attracted nationwide attention by his astute generalship.

When a Democratic majority came into power in the house John Garner was elected speaker. As majority leader, with enlarged responsibilities, he disclosed even greater wisdom and ability as he blended his knowledge of statecraft and his gift as a legislative leader.

Selection of Speaker Garner as the vice-presidential nominee admirably supplements the superb executive abilities of Franklin D. Roosevelt. When they shall have been inaugurated as president and vice-president Mr. Roosevelt will have as his close associate the best qualified man in America to advise with him on matters of legislation, the most capable assistant obtainable in securing enactment of the progressive legislative program which is outlined in the Democratic platform.

Height of Eloquence

True eloquence consists in saying all that is necessary, and nothing but what is necessary.—La Rochefoucauld.

Human Failing

We are always striving for things forbidden, and coveting those denied us.—Ovid.

SPEAKING OF SNAKE-BITE—

I enjoyed a short fishing trip on the Ouse River some time ago. This stream, in its course, which winds among the Ouse Hills of Missouri, is most fascinating in its setting of rugged beauty. The dwellers in the neighborhood were primitive and physicians were evidently few and far between; the simple folk had learned to do their "doctoring" themselves.

A lad of twelve visited our camp often. He was barefoot, bare for a soiled rag that partly covered a flaming-red ankle and heel. He limped a bit painfully, but said he didn't mind it much; the member was swollen quite a bit.

"What's the matter with your foot—stone bruise?" he asked.

"Nope... snake-bite," he replied indifferently.

"What sort of snake?" I inquired.

"Copperhead. Lots of 'em in the brush and rocks here."

"What did the doctor do to you when you were bitten? Did he give you serum?"

"Never had no doctor; anybody can cure snake-bite with 'curochrome.' He exhibited plain contempt, I thought, when he heard the suggestion of a doctor for a little thing like the bite of a copperhead! One of the most deadly venomous of serpents!

There's nothing that fills me with horror more than the bite of a rattlesnake or copperhead. I'm sure if I were ever a victim, I would die before they ever cranked the Ford to get a doctor! Yet here was a very young man without a particle of fear; he would have dreaded a bee-sting worse.

In the event of snake-bite, cord the limb above and phone for your doctor—quick. You've done your duty at least.

OPPORTUNITY AT THE DOOR

It is a pleasing idea that Opportunity knocks at every man's door. Some day maybe a bright-minded historian with a turn for use of conspicuous language will contend that Opportunity in the year of grace 1932 was whamming away at the door of the American people with a sledgehammer. And though every last individual in the country possessed of a grain of common sense recognized the knock, the combined wisdom of the whole bunch, including politicians, statesmen, economists, financiers, educators and the professional givers of advice seemed unable to get the door open.

What are some of the evidences Opportunity offers for identification? Well, as everyone knows, there has been a decided slowing down in buying on the part of the average man and family for the past three years. During that period there must have been a vast amount of wearing out and obsolescence going on in the goods in every-day use. A list like that of a tariff schedule would be required merely to name, the classes of things that must have been disappearing, becoming useless or undesirable.

Meanwhile, immense ingenuity has been exercised to provide new and tempting things for replacements. The automobiles of today are vastly better than ever. Comparable units are offered for much less money and they should be selling beyond all records of the past. Radios are marvelously improved in tone quality and in every desirable feature and no American home should be without a radio in these modern days.

In a recent radio address Fred W. Sargent, speaking of the auspices of the American Taxpayers' League said: "We hear much about the old frontiers having passed forever and that there is now no new territory to develop such as rescued the country from previous panics. The truth is that we are standing on the verge of the greatest frontier of all—the frontier of inadequate comforts, conveniences and luxuries for the great masses of our people, and all this in the midst of plenty. What we need is to re-establish faith and courage and credit."—Lexington Herald.

GOOD CARE MEANS POULTRY PROFITS

Following a clean chick program, which reduced losses of the baby chicks to a minimum, and feeding home-grown and home-mixed rations, enabled Henry county farmers this year to raise chickens to a weight of 2 pounds at a cost equal to the selling price of one pound.

County Agent H. D. Rice and J. E. Humphrey, of the College of Agriculture, presented figures on the cost of raising chicks at a recent meeting of 50 Henry county farm men and women.

Ninety-four percent of the 3,132 chicks hatched or purchased on nine farms were raised to the age of 12 weeks at an average cost of 16 cents each. Mrs. John Ellegood raised 93 per cent of the 399 chicks hatched on her farm. At the end of 12 weeks she had sold 122 cockers for $71, which left her a profit of $15 and 230 pullets and cockers.

Mrs. Elva Carr 13 weeks after her chicks were hatched had sold 155 cockers for enough to pay half of her total expenses, and had 612 birds still on hand.

BOARDING

About fifteen years ago there was a typhoid epidemic in a certain city, which baffled the health authorities. Children were stricken in widely separated neighborhoods. The water supply was all right; so was the milk and so were the general sanitary conditions. Yet new cases continued to develop.

Finally the mystery was solved. A doctor discovered a domestic servant who was a "carrier" of typhoid. Though perfectly well herself, she took the disease with her wherever she went. She became nationally famous under the name of "Typhoid Mary."

Times like the present produce a lot of male "Typhoid Marys." The germs they carry are rumors and fears. One of them came to see me last October when things were looking very bad.

Shaking his head dolefully, he suggested that I ought to have some money tucked away in gold.

I blew up and rained all over him. I said: "My bank is strong and liquid. It will be solvent unless the United States is insolvent. And if things get to a point where Uncle Sam is busted, then what good will gold be, do you think? Do you imagine for one moment that, in a period of general chaos, the mass of people would deal tenderly with those who had helped to bring on the crisis by hiding gold?"

My general attitude in this whole situation has been as follows:

1. I pay little attention to the market quotations on good bonds, preferred or common stocks. Either they are worth a lot more than their current prices or they are worth nothing. I neither care there is nothing I can do about it.

2. If the worst were to happen I have enough egoism to believe that I can make a living and provide for my family under any sort of government or any sort of conditions.

3. I keep a white horse and ride him every day. If we have a social upset you will find me right at the head of the people's parade on my white horse. And the first place we shall head for will be the homes of the hoarders.

Some day, in the not far distant future, we will shall have to look back on this period and wonder at the record we made. And when my youngster climbs on my knee and says, "Dad, what did you do in the panic?" I don't want to have to answer: "I was smart and yellow, sonny. I hoarded gold."

NEW INDUSTRIES FOR OLD

It begins to look as if we would see a lot of new things coming into general use before long. Big business organizations, who are not afraid that depression is going to last forever but who are getting ready for the upturn by preparing by preparing to put new commodities on the market, are giving hints of some of the things we may expect.

First in importance among these it seems to us, will be the new type of individual dwelling house. Engineers, architects and technical men of all kinds have been talking a great deal about the excessive cost and the perishable nature of most houses. Now a big company has been formed in Chicago to manufacture houses in such a way that they can be readily erected anywhere with a minimum of labor. This is something different, we understand, from the "ready-cut" frame houses that have been on the market for years. The new houses will have steel frames and pressed steel outer walls, with flat roofs and many windows, and will be equipped with electric refrigeration, heating units and everything complete, at around $3,500 for a six-room house. It will take only four days to put up one of these houses, and if the owner wants a bigger one he can "trade in" the old one as he would an automobile. And after the first payment there will be only one mortgage, which can be paid off at around $30 a month.

Another new industry of which we have seen several announcements is that of devices for "air conditioning" homes and offices and shops. This scheme of keeping the temperature and moisture the same, winter and summer, and providing clean, fresh air all the time, works well on a large scale, so there seems to be no reason why it shouldn't work well on a one-room or one-house scale.

From Detroit we hear of something revolutionary in automobile design and construction which is expected to come out this Summer, a new type of light-weight, low-cost, high-speed car with bigger balloons—tires than we have seen yet.

It looks to us as if the men who are big enough and smart enough to make money and keep it are not worrying about whether business will come back or not. They know it is coming back and they are getting ready.

FEW LIVE STOCK OWNERS ASKED FOR GOVERNMENT LOANS

Lexington, Ky., July 10.—Comparatively few Kentucky livestock farmers for government loans this year, according to information which the St. Louis loan office sent to the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

For example, out of 1,000 applicants only 18 were dairymen owning 11 cows or more, and only 17 applicants per 1,000 had poultry flocks in excess of 100 hens.

Two hundred and twenty-six farmers per 1,000 applicants for loans owned no milk cows, 387 owned only one cow, and 397 owned two to five cows each, 42 owned 6 to 10 cows, and 18 owned 11 cows or more.

Six hundred and seventy-eight persons no beef cattle, 302 owned one to three head, 46 owned 4 to 10 head, and only 14 owned 11 or more cattle.

Four hundred and seventy-eight persons per 1,000 applicants owned no hogs, 152 owned only one hog each, 207 owned two to five hogs, 81 owned 6 to 10 hogs and only 82 owned 11 or more hogs.

Nine hundred and twenty-three farmers per 1,000 applicants for loans owned no sheep; 20 owned one to five head, 30 owned 6 to 20 head, 24 owned 21 to 100, and three owned 100 or more.

One hundred and one persons per 1,000 applicants owned no chickens, 89 owned from one to 10 chickens, 418 owned from 11 to 30, 375 from 31 to 100, and 17, 100 or more.

One hundred and fifty-eight persons per 1,000 applicants for loans owned no horses or mules, 219 owned only one, 395 owned two each, 191 two to five, and 37 owned six or more head of work stock.

NATIONAL MEETING ATTRACTS MANY TO STATE UNIVERSITY

The 27th annual convention of the American Dairy Science Association at the University of Kentucky attracted approximately 300 persons from 31 states. In addition to attending the convention for three days, the visitors toured much of the state. Buses took the entire delegation to 10 of the more prominent horse farms, while the women in the party spent one day at Shakertown, Harrodsburg and Danville and another day at Berea College.

Many problems of the dairy industry were discussed by some of the most noted scientists of the country. Samples of Kentucky dairy products were judged, and the dairy herd and equipment at the Experiment Station inspected by the visitors. Foreign countries represented included Canada and Russia.

Poultrymen Discuss Problems

Forty-five men and women from 24 counties in the state attended a week's short course in poultry at the Experiment Station. Among the speakers were Dr. L. E. Card of the University of Illinois and Paul G. Riley, an Indiana poultry farmer. Flock improvement, sanitation, management, breeding, culling and other subjects were discussed at length.

The board of directors of the Kentucky Poultry Improvement Association meeting in Lexington the same week, elected Strauter Harney, of Paris, president; D. D. Slade, of Lexington, vice-president, and re-elected Mrs. W. M. Stamper, of Lexington, secretary-treasurer. The board voted to begin the certification of turkeys, as a means of improving the quality of the turkeys produced in this state.

12 SUMMER CAMPS FOR JUNIOR CLUBS

Two thousand or more 4-H club boys and girls will be given a week of education and recreation in 12 district camps to be held over the state from July 18 to August 13, under the direction of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Each camp will accommodate 150 to 200 boys and girls from six to 10 counties. Instruction will be given in agriculture and home economics, handicraft, nature study, music, dramatics and health. The State Y. M. C. A. will cooperate with the 4-H club department of the College of Agriculture in furnishing the instruction and entertainment for this week of outing for farm boys and girls.

Camps will be held at Alexandria, Bardonia, Blue Lick, Carter, Cave, Elkton, Eminence, Fulton, Lancaster, Lexington, London, Owensboro and Quicksand.

error Roosevelt there is presented for President a man who has disclosed rare genius as an executive. He is a courageous and cool-headed leader. His progressive thought is sanely seasoned with common sense. He is a leader to whom the American people will turn with confidence after prolonged disappointment because of the bungling leadership of the Republican party in a period of adversity.

"The selection of John N. Garner, of Texas, Speaker of the House of Representatives, was a judicious choice," Governor Laffoon said. "The Democratic party is fortunate in that Mr. Garner was willing to relinquish the speakership to accept the responsibility of becoming the running-mate of Roosevelt. He brings to the ticket the accumulated knowledge of thirty years in the legislative branch of government. His knowledge of the practical phases of law making will make him an invaluable counselor to the next president.

Satisfaction was expressed by Governor Laffoon over the fact that Kentucky had participated so effectively in selection of the national ticket. He said there was no doubt that Roosevelt was the popular choice of Kentucky Democrats, and that he believed they would immediately see the wisdom of selecting Garner for the Vice-Presidential nominee.

"With this ticket, composed of the foremost American statesmen, I have no doubt that Kentucky will welcome with enthusiasm an opportunity to record an impressive Democratic majority in the November election." Gov. Laffoon called upon all Democrats to rally to the ticket and give that support which it merits.

Frankfort, Ky., July 12.—In an effort to avoid state expenditures running in excess of income State Auditor J. Dan Talbott said that he would decline to pay state bills which exceed the reduced budget approved by Gov. Laffoon.

Careful check is to be maintained on various funds in order to prevent expenditures from them exceeding the sum available under the budget. A thorough investigation of the financial affairs of all state departments is to be made within the month.

When departments enter into contract to make an expenditure they are required to file with the Auditor a memorandum of the obligation outstanding. This information is used to prevent any department contracting to pay sums that exceed the money which has been providing off it.

A CONVENTION ORATOR WRITES HOME TO HIS WIFE

Dear Mama:

Well, Emma, than whom there is no more splendid specimen of American womanhood, no finer wife, no more courageous mother in these glorious United States, it is my proud privilege to take my pen in hand to write you a few lines.

I yield to no man in my admiration for the splendid metropolises of Chicago but I say to you without fear of contradiction that my devotion and loyalty to my home city remain as unmovable as the Rock of Gibraltar; and despite the unchallenged beauty of the women of the Middle-West, my deepest admiration continues to be allotted unsparingly to the little woman who is the most inspiring character in the pages of history—my own peerless wife.

As I sit here amid the splendors of this modern hotel my thoughts are swept back to the humble cottage over which, to my great good fortune, you so efficiently preside. In it there dwells the spirit upon which rest the foundations of the Republic.

I arrived here safe and sound, thanks to the unparalleled efficiency of the railroads with which this great Nation is blessed, and I am now ensconced in a room of simplicity but impressive beauty. Immediately upon arriving I ordered a steak, and I am but paying an honorarium to these unquenchable captains of industry, the American meat purveyors, when I state, as a reborn American citizen, that from the sparkling waters of the Golden Gate to the windswept coasts of Maine no better beef ever appeased the appetite of mortal man. A few more words and I am done.

I then attended a caucus of the boys and came back to the hotel, but could not resign myself to the arms of Morphew with a sense of duty done until I had written a letter to one of God's noblewomen and the flower of my native State. I refer to none other than the little lady whose husband it is my proud distinction to be. And I stand by that statement. Bear with me for a few more moments.

Do not worry, peerless creature. I am ever with you, and neither time nor tide, storm nor gale, shall interfere with my speedy return to your arms which are second to none in all broad reaches of this grand country.

I extend to you again assurances of a husbandly affection unsurpassed by that of Washington or Jefferson, by Jackson or Cleveland, by Grant or Woodrow Wilson.

ABNER P. SWAMPSCOTT.

P. S.—I can't send you the $4 for which you ask, but I have the matter under advisement, and you may be assured of such action as the dictates of my conscience inspire in this troubled hour in American history.

SOAK LAWN WHEN IT NEEDS WATER

Do not water the lawn until the grass really needs it, and then give it a good soaking, says M. R. Elliott of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in discussing summer care of the lawn.

Then wait a week or 10 days before applying water again. This is better than sprinkling the lawn with a little water every day or so. Thorough soaking permits the plant foods in the soil to go into a solution which the grass roots can use, whereas a little water does not create this condition and does little or no good.

Mr. Elliott advises adjusting the mower in summer so as to cut the grass $3\frac{1}{2}$ inches above the ground. The grass should be cut high from about June 15 to Sept. 15. He does not advise allowing the grass to go to seed, but believes it better to top the grass, dig out the weeds and sow seed where weeds are removed.

Where the lawn is cut regularly it is well to leave the clippings on the ground. They sink around the grass stems and conserve moisture by forming a mulch.

Lawn fertilizers should be applied in early spring or late summer, rather than in mid-summer.

The Triumph of Beverage Perfection

The New NuGrape

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

MADE WITH WELCH'S GRAPE JUICE

From Maine to California millions are enjoying today the supreme achievement of the makers of NuGrape. Truly this is a gala day in the history of beverage making. It marks the final victory of science over the ancient King of all Fruit Juices—King Grape Juice!

After years of expensive research our labors are rewarded. Our laboratory working in conjunction with the Welch Grape Juice Company, has produced a New NuGrape . . . A delicious, carbonated beverage deriving its entire flavor and color from Welch's Grape Juice.

Never before has there been a drink like this introduced to the American public. The New NuGrape has a smooth, fresh piquancy of flavor—a delightful, bracing tartness about it that only the flavor of grape juice can give.

Try your first bottle today and if you don't think it's better than any artificial grape drink you ever tasted—write us, enclosing crown and we'll gladly refund you the small purchase price. Make sure though you get the genuine. The New NuGrape is now on sale everywhere for 5¢.

FARMER GREATEST PEOPLE

The Farmer is the bulwark of the nation. Socrates and old Greek philosopher said: "The fate of any nation lies close to its agriculture." Today the farmer with his back to the wall is putting up a Stonewall Jackson front.

The Boone county farmer today is more interested in the improvement of agriculture, is more interested in his farm home and is putting up a more brave and a harder fight to win than he did in the so called boom years of 1928 and 1929. These facts will be a surprise of many farmers and others as well.

The average farmer today will take more time to study more efficient methods of agriculture and will use more energy and thought to put these practices in force. The farm home looks better, the farm family is more interested in the farm, the farm boy is more interested in better crops and better care of farm equipment and all in all presents in appearance a more wholesome farm and home life.

The Revolutionary War was won on courage and not superior military forces. What farmer in trying times will not display more courage when he knows that the sons who are working beside him are watching his ever step and not thinking of city employment and that his family is counting on the success of his crops and not their success at a social event. The German Empire was brought together at a trying time only when outside forces threatened destruction.

We might repeat, "The fate of any nation lies close to its agriculture," or, "The success of agriculture lies close to the farm home." Some one said, "We like the depression," others say we like prosperity but one thing certain agriculture and the nation needs wholesome farm homes.

CAMP LIST FURNISHED

Boone county 4-H Club members thru their community club leaders were supplied the first part of this week with a complete list of equipment to bring to North Kentucky District 4-H Club Camp to be held at Alexandria this coming week according to County Agent H. R. Forkner.

Each member and leader will bring the following equipment: work and play clothes, pillow, sheet, empty straw tick (straw will be provided), wash pan, soap, towel, tooth brush, comb, knife, fork, spoon, tin plate, tin cup, note book, pencil, scissors for girls, hammer and saw for the boys, and any additional athletic or musical equipment that the members may wish to bring. The expenses of camp will include $1.00 enrollment fee and $1.50 worth of food to be brought from home. The food to be brought from home and the values of the foods which the member may not have are as follows: 1 pound sliced ham, 20c 2 dozen eggs 30c, 1 dozen ripe tomatoes 15c, 1 live chicken from 2 to 3 pounds, 40c, 1 dozen apples 10c, 1 gallon of string beans 10c, 1 pint of jam or preserves 10c, 1 gallon of potatoes 15c 12 young beets 10c and 1 head of cabbage 5c. The member may bring all or any part of the food list.

The members will leave from Burlington and near by points Monday morning by bus and private cars and will return Friday morning. Members will also bring their supper meal will be the first one served in camp.

Between 125 and 150 boys and girls from Boone, Kenton, Campbell, Grant and Gallatin counties are expected to attend camp. The instruction will be in charge of the county and home demonstration agents of the above counties and will deal chiefly with Northern Kentucky agricultural and home economics problems.

BEAN BEETLE CONTROL

A MAJOR PROBLEM

Mexican Bean Beetle control is proving a major problem among home garden and commercial garden growers of beans at the present time according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. The beetles are particularly bad this year probably due to the mild winter. Most growers again were caught napping in that they were busy with other work and the beetles got practically an uncontrollable start before any attention was paid to the pest.

The bean beetle with a little work and proper precaution can easily be controlled to the point where the destruction done is not a factor in production. This means starting control measures in time and thorough dusting or spraying with proper material. Confidence and desire along with a little work are the major factors necessary. This means starting in time often before the larvae or young beetles appear. Many growers are not controlling the beetle first because they don't want to and second because it forms a timely subject to talk about.

Contrary to what many folks prophesied a few years ago the beetle appears here to stay for a while. Many growers are not equipped with suitable equipment to make proper dusting or spraying a desirable job. It will pay for years to come for these growers who can afford it to buy a good dusting or spraying outfit that is known to do a good job of work and is large enough for the size to be grown. The county agent's office can supply valuable information on beetle control to those growers who request same. The late crop of beans will probably not be affected by these pests so bad due to greater attention paid to the timely and proper application of control measures.

The Boone County Board of Education has purchased two Dodge chassis for use in transporting children to the various consolidated schools. Earl Aylor, of Hebron, made the sale.

Beresford C. Watson, who lives with Rev. H. E. Haas, was happy to learn from a note in British Columbia, South America, of the marriage of his sister, Miss Gladys C. Watson.

A telegram was received by Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Berkshire, of Petersburg, Tuesday July 12th, telling of the arrival early that day of Lonnie Ann at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Herbert Woodruff. This is the second child in the Woodruff family, both being daughters.

Judge J. M. Lassing returned here Thursday to spend the summer and fall months. The Judge his hosts of friends in Boone county will be glad to know, appears to be standing the rigors of life well and appears to be as active and able as ever.

CHECKING UP ON SPORTS

MEETING CALLED THURSDAY NIGHT

Unable to secure players that are eligible to play in the Sunday School League the Warsaw team notified President Haas that they will not be able to have a team in the League. But in order that the League can have an even number of teams so that no team will have a bye they are willing to get a team of ineligible players to play out last Saturday. If the other teams of the League are willing, President Haas has called a meeting to be held at the Florence Building & Loan Association room at C. W. Myers Garage Thursday night July 14th, at 8 o'clock (fast time) to see if it is satisfactory to the teams of the League. Every manager or representative is urged to be present so this matter can have a close attention.

So teams be sure and have your manager and representative there Thursday night July 14th, at 8 o'clock (fast time).

HARVEST HOME WINS SEVEN STRAIGHT GAMES

Harvest Home won over Gold Medal Oils in the last game of the regular schedule and finished in a tie with Ludlow for second place with seven wins and three losses.

Boehler pitched his usual steady game and Gold Medal Oils did not get an earned run.

DeMolsey, a new addition to the outfield drove out a nice double while Hartman made several nice plays in the field.

Harvest Home enters the elimination series as one of the favored teams as they now have met and defeated every club in the league except H. E. of Covington. The series will be three games and out, the final standing of the regular schedule is as follows:

HERE AND THERE

Mr. and Mrs. Wes Christina returned to their home in Indianapolis Sunday after a few days visit with the latter's sister Mrs. Nellie Ryle and with Roy Ryle and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Walton and daughter Corinne and Chas. Craig and family attended the all day meeting at Big Bone Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Aylor, of McVine, spent Sunday with Mrs. Aylor's parents Z. T. Stephens and wife.

Joe Stephens and wife were Sunday guests at Orville Kelly's.

Mrs. Mary Williamson had as week-end guests her father E. R. Scott of Covington, and her sister Mrs. Katie West and son Colbert of Indianapolis.

The trustee election at Maple Hill seemed to excite the Rabbit Hash politicians more than the Chicago convention. Nevertheless the election passed off quietly. Cecil Williamson receiving the maximum and Albert Moore the minimum number of votes.

The news of the death of Mrs. Wilbur Kelly this morning was a grievous shock to her friends here who extend their sympathy to the bereaved family.

Mrs. Stella Stephens and brother Russell went to Aurora Tuesday to visit their mother Mrs. Mayne Stephens who is quite ill.

Henry North, of Aurora, passed thru here Monday with undertaker Williams enroute to the East Bend cemetery to make arrangements for the burial of Mrs. North's aged aunt who died Monday at Aurora.

Sara Betty Ryle of East Bend, is visiting her cousin Anna Bell Ryle of Norwood, Ohio.

Miss Carolyn Trapp has a position in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Lottie Rowland, who is with her daughter Mrs. Mary Batchelor, was quite ill last week.

R. M. Wilson is on the sick list.

There will be an all day meeting and basket dinner at East Bend M. E. church next Sunday July 17th.

Geo. Shinkle and family were visiting their daughter Mrs. Jack Rogers of near Bellevue, Sunday.

On a pane of glass in the residence now being remodeled by Sheriff Snyder, and known as the old Preston property, are inscribed the following names: "Robert F. Coleman, John Coleman and J. G. As we go to press the condition of Mrs. W. A. Pettit, who has been confined to her bed for several days, is much improved.

Representatives from all of the Locals of the Farmers Alliance will meet in Burlington at 7:30 (slow time), Saturday evening, July 30, for the purpose of forming a County organization. Each Local is requested to send at least five delegates. Everyone is invited and urged to attend the meeting.

When a County organization is perfected, the work of the Alliance can be consolidated and a definite program for future action can be prepared.

Mr. Hubert Conner, the County Representative of the Co-operative Pure Milk Producers, was instructed by the Hebron Local to invite President Cox, Manager Schmidt, and Mr. Harke of The Co-operative Pure Milk Association to attend a meeting of the milk producers of Boone County in the near future.

Mr. W. R. Garnett, County Representative of the K. I. O. Milk Producers, was instructed to invite Mr. Sudwell, President of the K. I. O. Milk Producers Association, and Mr. Hooge, the President of the Independent Dealers, to attend the meeting.

The purpose of this meeting is to find out what, if any, plans they have prepared or contemplate preparing, to reduce the cost of distributing milk so that the milk producer can receive a larger share of the consumer's dollar than he is now receiving. Under present conditions the retail price is 10c per quart for milk. The average producer receives about 1 1/4c per quart, net, for his milk; the milk wagon driver from 4 1/2c to 5c per quart for delivering the milk, with all equipment furnished to him free of cost, and the dealer the balance. This condition is indefensible and intolerable. It is not fair to the producer or to the consumer. It must be remedied. The producer should receive at least 50% of the wholesale and retail price at which milk is sold.

According to the latest and best data obtainable, it costs the producer about 3 3/4c per quart to produce milk, without any pay for his labor. He is entitled to pay for his labor and a fair profit. He is now receiving 2c a quart less for his milk than the cost of production, without any pay for his labor. Such a system of distribution is absolutely unfair. It cannot be justified from any standpoint.

As soon as arrangements can be made for this meeting, it will be advertised. Everyone is urged to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fowler and daughter, of Hebron, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fowler.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

An old fashioned tent meeting is being held at Burlington by Brother James Tucker.

You will find "The Gospel Trio" from Covington and other visitors there each evening.

There could be no pleasanter way of spending a summer evening than by being seated under this cool tent listening to the word of God. The Mission Musical Society journeyed to the tent meeting Saturday night.

The specials for the evening included "The Church in the Wilderness" played by the "Hood Sisters" on piano and violin, a duet "Christ is King" sung by Mrs. Mary Layton and Miss Evelyn Millison, also a very beautiful selection by the "Gospel Trio."

Everything seemed to fit in splendidly with Bro. Tucker's fine message.

Prizes for the Bible Verse Contest at the Mission are well worth striving for, the first prize being a large beautifully illustrated Bible.

Who could use spare moments to better advantage than by committing Bible verses to memory.

It seems as though some folks are always passing along a good idea, for instance the good talk which Bro. Fogel gave the other evening bade us remember to be thankful to God for every blessing we have.

In counting our blessings it would be well to remember our true friends and the comfort they leave with us.

Let me remind all the readers that a welcome awaits you at the Mission any time you are able to come.

Mrs. Russell Fryman and young son, of Cynthia, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hickman and family.

Dr. J. H. Walton, of Saylor Park, and his brother, Roswell Walton, of Chicago, were visiting Mrs. Harold Conner here Monday.

Miss Frances Maurer, daughter of Capt. Maurer and wife, of Louisville, spent the past week with relatives in Burlington and Bellevue.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

"HEAT STROKE"

In all accidents, I have found the ounce of prevention to be worth many pounds of cure; the best time to look the garage securely a before the car is stolen.

Heat Stroke—being overheated until we succumb—is a most unfortunate accident. Of course the results of such a thing, depend on the strength and "resistance" of the victim, the condition of heart, liver, kidneys and other vital organs, as well as the age of the patient, and the extent of degree of overheating.

The accident may occur in the hay-field, at the bench in the shop, or in the canning factory, in the super-heated retail store, in fact anywhere that the heat may be overpowering and the toll too exacting for the worker. It is only proper here for me to touch the subject in a general, yet practical way.

Symptoms—of course collapse of the bodily energy. The pupils of the eyes may be dilated, indicating brain-weakness; the pulse rapid, the breathing deep at first. Severe forms soon develop shallow breathing, with irregular and feeble pulse, and the pupils may become contracted, with mental aberration. Involuntary evacuations may occur, with muscular twitchings, cold sweat, and even convulsions—depending on the severity of the heat-stroke.

First Aid—remove the patient to the coolest place available, where the air circulates freely; open the clothing; give plenty of cool—noticed—water, if the patient will accept it. Notice that, in extreme cases of collapse, the temperature falls below normal, and cold sweat occurs—the appearance of a fatal issue; it then becomes necessary to apply warmth to the body. The attendants should do everything possible to turn matters "about face." That is safe to do always. Call the Doctor.

BRUCE BARTON

ALWAYS—SOMETHING HAPPENS

A man whose son graduated from college in June was asking what I thought about a post graduate course in the Harvard Business School.

"I don't assume any school can teach a boy to succeed," he said. "What I want is to have my son learn something about the history of business."

He proceeded to illustrate from his own experience. Until 1904 he was a newspaper reporter, but that year he took a job with the manufacturing concern of which he is now the head.

In 1907, when he was just beginning to get under way, along came a panic.

"We cleared away the wreckage and started again," he said, "but in 1910 there was a strike which tied up our plants, destroyed part of our property and disrupted our trade."

"Suddenly the war, and the slump was transformed into a boom! But don't imagine the boom was any picnic. To be sure, the orders rolled in from every side, but prices of raw material sky-rocketed, our capital was limited, and I wore out my shoes and got grey headed borrowing money from one bank to pay back another."

"Then the war ended, and we took an awful beating in our inventory. Then the 1920-22 depression. Then another boom."

"And now this."

"It would be advantageous to my boy, I believe, if he were familiar with this sequence of events, if he knew the ups and downs not only of modern business but of business through the ages. Maybe he would come into life without the illusion which has handicapped so many of us—that there is any such thing as 'normal' in the sense of permanently settled conditions and uninterrupted progress."

I thought these were very wise remarks.

As far back as I can remember I have been hoping and planning for a time when I should be "comfortably fixed." At first I thought if I could ever accumulate $200,000 in good safe bonds I'd have an income of $1,000 a year and then I could look out with philosophic calm upon the follies of the world. The only progress I have made during the past three years has been in health. I try to ride horse back more, swim more, play more golf, and keep generally tough and supple. I'm quite sure that as long as I live I shall have to keep hustling—that just about the time I get everything fixed something will happen.

Sunday School Lesson

THE PASSOVER

Exodus 12:21-28

Golden Text: I Cor. 5:7

One of the first impressions which will come to the reverent student of the Bible is the unity of the Book. It has one theme from beginning to end: Redemption. There is no subject which is prominent in the New Testament which is not foreshadowed in the Old.

The Passover is an Old Testament version of what becomes the central truth of the New Testament—God's plan of Salvation. As one looks closely at the narrative each word is charged with spiritual meaning; the whole Gospel story is mirrored in a few verses. Egypt is a clear type of the world of sin, and Israel a type of unsaved men and women. The passover lamb is a wonderful type of Christ, while the sprinkled blood speaks of His atoning sacrifice. That this is the true method of interpretation is shown by our Golden Text, "For Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us," also by such passages as: "Now all these things happened unto you for examples (types)" I Cor. 10:11.

The deepest spiritual lesson, of course, is that which concerns the result of simple obedience to God's saving plan. Those individuals or families of Israel, who took God at His word and evidenced their faith by seeking the shelter of the blood sprinkled door, were infallibly secure, good or bad, wise or ignorant, strong or weak, rich or poor, bond or free.

The truth taught in this lesson lies at the heart of all that the Bible teaches. The one who apprehends its meaning and unmeasured efflu-

TEN TIMES BIGGEST CIRCUS HERE SOON

RINGLING BROS AND BARNUM & BAILEY OFFERS STUNNING PROGRAM OF WORLD NOVELTIES AND MAMMOTH MENAGERIE

GIGANTIC FREE HORSE FAIR

The world's largest circus, traveling on our trains of double-length steel railroad cars, with 1800 people, 50 elephants, 1009 menagerie animals and 700 horses will exhibit in Cincinnati Tuesday July 19, and throughout this section plans are perfecting for the attendance of every man, woman and child—so it seems—at one of the performances. Everybody wishes to see the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey Circus this year, and it is a foregone conclusion that the world's largest tent, seating 1000 persons, will be filled to the last chair afternoon and night. Seven rings and stages and the hippodrome track, to say nothing of the vast maze of aerial and wire display rigging, will be filled by the earth's foremost acrobatic talent—eight hundred acknowledged kings and queens of daring, grace, skill and incredible agility. One hundred clowns will project ten times that number of mirth waves. Countless new foreign features and innovations new to America are introduced on the gigantic program of the Greatest Show on Earth this year.

By popular demand, a tribe of monster-mouthed Ubangi Savages from Africa's darkest depths are presented in the main performances.

A herd of the largest and tallest giraffes in captivity; 20 zebras and the same number of camels, two rhinoceroses and the seven herds of elephants will be seen in the huge menagerie tent, where 1000 rare wild animals pace to and fro in ornate dens and cages.

Throughout circus day the three gigantic tented stables of the Ringling Bros and Barnum & Bailey organization will be open to the public free of charge. Here lovers of fine horses may view at random hundreds of the world's most beautiful thoroughbreds. Perfect specimens of almost every known strain will be found in the big show's great free horse fair which also includes a congress of tiny stethand ponies to delight the little folks.

Mr. Rector Keeps Cool

GEORGE RECTOR

GEORGE RECTOR is one of that group of almost legendary figures "who made Broadway Broadway," for it was at Rector's in the golden days before the War that the notables of New York gathered to eat and drink and be gay. Mr. Rector, as active and scintillating as ever, loves to recall the time when contract bridge was merely whist and an after-theatre supper consisted of seven courses instead of a bowl of lettuce and three soda crackers. Strangely enough, one of Rector's most famous beverages was, and still is, an extremely legal drink—Frosted Coffee. Here is his recipe:

1 quart strong coffee
1 cup cream
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1/2 cup powdered sugar
Chill freshly-made cust. Add the sugar, cream, and half the ice cream. Shake or stir until thoroughly blended. Pour into glasses containing crushed ice, topping each with a spoonful of ice cream.

Mrs. Dean Barrett of Price Hill, Cincinnati, is the guest of Miss Mamie P. Burdett.

Rev. Benjamin Andrew, of Fort Thomas, was the dinner guest Sunday night of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Brivette.

Miss Mamie Glenn Mangum returned to her home in Covington Saturday after a week's visit with her aunt Mrs. Balle K. Hicks.

Rev. Victor Stephenson and Mrs. Stephenson of Dayton, Ky., spent Saturday with Mrs. R. N. Nead.

CINCINNATI ZOO

"Alice in Wonderland" will be presented at the Cincinnati Zoo opera pavilion Sunday night, July 17, as the principal program attraction of the day. It will serve to commemorate the Lewis Carroll centenary. The music is by Edgar Stillman-Kelley. Mollie Halstead will appear as Alice, grown-up. Paul Bachelor is in charge of the production, and also will interpret one of the leading parts. Eleanor Doyle will do the role of Peter Rabbit. Another feature of the program will be a ballet interpretation of Richard Strauss's famous tone poem, "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks."

"Il Trovatore" and "Mignon" will be the operas to be presented at the Zoo next week. "Il Trovatore" will be given on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights, with a cast featuring Myrna Sharlow, Ruth Sharlow, Furell Hannon, Giuseppe Martino-Rossi and Rolo Pirelli. The cast of "Mignon" to be given Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights, includes Ruth Sharlow, in the title role; Anna Gail Campbell, Helen Cronin, Edward Mollitor, Rolo Pirelli and Giuseppe Cavendish.

Popular selections will be featured on the program for the free afternoon concerts to be given Saturday and Sunday afternoons by the Zoo Summer Symphony Orchestra. Helene Mangold, popular contralto, will be featured as vocal soloist with the orchestra at the concert July 23 and 24. She also will be heard at the Clubhouse the same evenings as soloist with Harry Williams' Orchestra.

Clubhouse patrons have been enthusiastic in their commendation of the dinner-dance music provided by the Willsey Organization. The Zoo dancin', "Dance in Russland," also is popular for "jittery" dancing and Charles McClure's Russian Steppers present new program features there almost nightly.

Amusements especially for the children include the free Funneh and Judy shows, Kiddieland, the Fun House, merry-go-round and pony track.

The ant-eaters continue to be one of the big attractions at the Zoo.

THE GOOD WILL 4-H CLUB

Our club met July 8th at 1:30, our regular time. We are ready to start on our dresses. We had several visitors with us at our meeting. We are sorry we won't get to go to Split Rock the 20th of this month on our picnic. Our next meeting will be the 22nd of July at 1:30.

Why buy any SECOND-CHOICE Tire when FIRST-CHOICE costs no more?

Right now you car-owners are "aitting pretty" . . . You can buy more safe, comfortable, trouble-free mileage for a dollar than in any previous summer . . . You don't have to put up with second-choice tires for reasons of economy, because first-choice tires cost you no more! . . . Goodyear Tires—the kind we sell—are first-choice here; throughout the state, throughout the nation, by more than 2 to 1. . . They outsell all others not because of any trick guarantees, or phony inducements, or special deals, but simply because they give people the biggest money's worth, and people know it! . . . Don't be argued out of the benefits to be had from the leading tires and our service.

TIMELY GARDEN NOTES
(By John S. Gardner College of Agriculture)

THE MEXICAN BEAN BEETLE

Judging from the appearance of beans in all parts of the state, the bean beetle seems to have outwitted quite a few gardeners. An enterprising insect in the past, it has shown extraordinary acumen this year. The cool weather in the early part of the season delayed its emergence from winter hiding enough to make possible the maturing of an almost complete crop of beans before any signs of the insect were seen. The hope that there would be no bean beetles this year has however been destroyed for they are here in full force.

At the risk of seeming tedious, only this much will be said here, that it is wise to begin now to protect young plantings of beans with dust or spray as recommended in a circular prepared by the State Entomologist, who will be glad to supply a copy to any person who will address him at the Experiment Station, Lexington. Old plantings of beans, badly infested, are usually not worth attempting to save, but as soon as they can be abandoned for later plantings, they should be pulled and piled, then saturated with kerosene and burned.

The Harlequin Cabbage Bug

This insect, galli marked in orange and black, and shaped like the stink bug (frequently mislabeled "chinch-bug"), has done severe damage to early cabbage. It causes injury by sucking the juices from the leaves, thus delaying heading.

and in fact preventing it entirely if the attack comes early. Tobacco extract, the ordinary control for sucking insects, is not effective against the armored adults, but fortunately the early stage of the harlequin cabbage bug is soft-bodied, and spraying with a tobacco preparation suffices to control it. Early cabbage in past saving, but those persons who have started late cabbage will do well to keep close with for harlequin bug eggs, prepared to spray when they hatch. The eggs are easily identified by their orange and black coloration in symmetrical designs. They will be found on the undersides of the leaves. Cabbage stubs should be removed when the heads are cut, to get rid of breeding places. This, by the way, is advisable, too, to make the control of the cabbage worms on late cabbage easier.

Bordeaux Mixture

Casual observation of Bordeaux-sprayed early potatoes yields the interesting data that 1932 was a year in which to spray. Increases of from 30 per cent to 60 per cent are already apparent, and sprayed potato vines are still quite green. Growers of late potatoes will be wise in making preparation to spray with Bordeaux. Three sprayings are recommended, though five are better. The first should be given when the plants are from 3 to 6 inches tall; the rest, at two-week intervals. The strength to use may be either 4-4-50 or 5-5-50. Directions for making and using Bordeaux mixture will be sent to any persons who make request of the writer, addressed at the Kentucky Experiment Station, at Lexington.

Each of these administrative bodies has received implicit instructions from the governor that economical operations of the agencies entrusted to their care is expected. They have a specific mandate to infuse increased efficiency into the departments delegated to their supervision, to make them of the greatest public service at the least possible expense to the commonwealth. These have been the dominant motives in the mind of the governor as he has chosen those who are to compose the appointive boards. The superior type of citizenship which he has called to the service of the state in these important capacities is such as to guarantee a faithful rendition of a superior quality of service to the citizenship.

COLLEGE TELLS HOW TO MAKE COTTAGE CHEESE

The use of more cottage cheese is urged by the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, because it is a good wholesome food, and in order to consume more milk, of which there is a surplus this time. The College gives the following directions for making cottage cheese.

Select skim milk of good flavor, if possible. Set at a temperature of 70 to 75 degrees until it sours, which may be 30 hours. The addition of a half of a cup of clean flavored sour milk per gallon will hasten the souring. When clabbered, test to see if it is ready to cut by inserting a finger and crooking the finger when removing. If the curd breaks cleanly it is ready to cut. Cut in pieces about two inches square. Stir gently with large spoon, being careful not to break the curd into small particles.

Place the vessel containing the clabbered milk in a larger vessel containing water at about 120 to 130 degrees, and heat the cheese to 100 degrees, stirring gently in the meantime. Maintain the temperature at 100 degrees for 30 minutes, stirring gently at intervals. This process hastens the removal of the whey from the curd.

Pour off the excess whey at the end of 30 minutes and wash the curd with about the same amount of cold water. This will remove some of the acid and the cheese will not taste so sour. Pour off the excess water, place the cheese in a cheese cloth or bag to drain. Do not drain all of the water off, as this will make the cheese too dry. When sufficiently drained, remove the cheese to a dish and work to an even mixture with a spoon. Add salt to suit the taste. A little cream will improve the taste. If it is desired to keep the cheese for a short while, place it in a glass or earthenware vessel and keep it as cool as possible.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

NEW PURE SEED LAW IN EFFECT JULY 1

The new Kentucky pure seed law, passed by the last legislature, went into effect July 1. It requires that tags be attached to all lots of seed sold, giving the name and address of the vendor, place where the seed was grown, and a laboratory analysis showing the percentage of pure seed, results of test for germination, and the approximate number of noxious weed seed per ounce.

The Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky has control of the enforcement of the law. Tags may be procured from Prof. W. A. Price. They may be made in private laboratories or in such places as the vendors of seeds may select.

A survey showed that more than $100,000 left Monroe county last year for products that should have been produced on the farms of the county.

Knott county has its largest and best soybean acreage. Inoculation of the seed, heavy seeding and the use of limestone and phosphate are given as reasons.

Garrard county alfalfa cut 1 1/2 to 2 tons to the acre at the second cutting. There are more than 1,000 acres in the county.

William and Jay Blackburn of Dry Ridge, Grant county, are growing eight acres of tomatoes.

The Calloway county tobacco acreage is less than half of the acreage of last year.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so let's forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

Preparation of the budget of 1934 to go to Congress in December will begin at once, and if the administration's aims are accomplished, this will be the first balanced budget since that of 1930, when there was a surplus of $183,769,000. Economy will probably be practiced to an even greater degree in the new budget than in that for 1933. After the surplus of 1930 came a deficit of $202,718,000 in 1931 and $2,288,000,000 in 1932. For the current year it is difficult to predict what will happen. Should the foreign governments which owe us fail to make full payment, a not unlikely development, and should further appropriations be made, the budget would be considerably more out of balance.

The temporary fold-up of the Geneva Disarmament Conference means the end of American participation in any kind of disarmament proceedings for this year at least. State Department officials attempted to put an optimistic color to the decision to adjourn, but Secretary of State Stimson admitted that the American delegation would return to the United States. Since the Congressional appropriation for the conference is nearly exhausted and since there is not the remotest possibility of additional appropriations, this means that an American delegation cannot return if and when the conference reconvenes.

Differences over the unemployment relief bill flared into open conflict between President Hoover and Speaker Garner, Democratic nominee for the Vice Presidency. Speaker Garner took the floor of the House to receive an ovation from the Democrats when he asked their support in what he termed a battle against "class legislation" desired by the President. The President objected to the provision in the bill, insisted upon by the Speaker, which widens the basis of loans to be made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and later in a statement of his position declared unequivocally that he would not agree to the policy of lending money "to individuals, private corporations, partnerships, States and municipalities on any conceivable kind of security for every purpose." The measure would make the Reconstruction Corporation "the most gigantic banking and pawnbroking business in all history," the President asserted.

President Hoover submitted to Congress a supplemental estimate for $100,000 to be spent in returning as many of the 14,000 "bonus marchers" encamped here as might indicate a willingness to go home. The Senate has already passed such a resolution and the House Ways and Means Committee reported the measure favorably. The resolution authorizes the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs to buy tickets for the marchers at reduced rates and to allow 75 cents daily for subsistence while the men are enroute. Such advances would be regarded as loans to the veterans, but would bear no interest and be deducted from their bonus certificates when they become due.

The idea that "Al" Smith would bolt has existed only in the minds of people remote from active politics. It has never been in the minds of politicians. The nominating of Roosevelt was done strictly according to Hoyle as Hoyle applies to the game of politics. Smith and Smith's friends in the convention would have used the same tactics. In fact, they tried to. The quicker action of McAdoo, Hearst and Garner beat the Smith people to it. If the story is ever fully told, it may appear that the California and Texas trio beat Smith by greater expertise in manipulating the long-distance telephone from Chicago to Washington and from Chicago to California.

While prohibition will play its big part in the coming campaign, there are plenty of wets in the country who realize that the economic issues are important. There are plenty of voters who are liberal on the prohibition question who do not intend to become radical on the other issues. If Gov. Roosevelt and Speaker Garner select what seems to them to be the easiest path to political preferment by advancing the radical cause in economic issues, they are going to lose some of these wet votes.

Heralded as a revolutionary contribution to safety at sea, an automatic depth-finder that warns of hidden shoals on the ocean's floor while a vessel is proceeding at full speed has been perfected by the Coast and Geodetic Survey. It was announced at the Department of Commerce. The device known as the "fathometer," was designed by an expert of the Survey Bureau. Intended primarily as a navigational aid in determining a vessel's course in heavy weather, tests have shown the new depth finder to be of great value in averting grounding of ships during fog. Capable of taking soundings at the unprecedented rate of four per second, the contrivance keeps the master of a ship constantly advised of the depth of water beneath the keel. Survey officials have been experimenting with the fathometer for more than a year. During that time they have received several reports from skippers that the invention has saved their ships from running aground.

Thousands of correspondents flocked all about the three-cent stamp innovation of the government, ignoring passage of the revenue bill by their representatives. In Congress, the reiterated warnings of the Postoffice Department and the columns of newspaper space announcing the change. As a result, the "short-paid" boxes at the general postoffices over the country were well filled as the mail of the first day under the new postal rates poured in. The increase in first-class letter postage from 2 to 3 cents an ounce went into effect April 6th.

BANKERS INSPECT THE WORK OF COLLEGE AND EXPERIMENT STATION

Bankers attending the annual meeting of the Kentucky Bankers' Association at Lexington inspected the work of the College of Agriculture and Experiment Station at the state university.

Exhibits arranged in the agricultural engineering building and in tents showed some of the activities of these institutions in the interests of improving the agriculture of the state. They pictured what is being done to encourage the building up of soil fertility; to promote higher acre yields thru better cultivation of the best land; how profits may be increased by controlling tobacco diseases and giving attention to curing, grading and marketing; what the use of better seeds and controlling weeds may mean; how limestone, marl and fertilizers result in improved crops and better profits; what the production of high quality lambs is meaning to the state; how good cows return more profits in dairying; what control of livestock diseases mean; the work of county and home agents, etc., etc.

The exhibits brought-out work being done to encourage farmers to produce more vegetables, fruit, meat, dairy and poultry products and other food for their own use. Stress is being placed on gardens and canning.

Four-H club boys and girls entertained the bankers with music and demonstrations. Speakers at a meeting held in the livestock pavilion on the Experiment Station farm included Dr. W. O. Thompson, president emeritus of Ohio State University; President Frank L. McVey of the University of Kentucky; J. N. Kehoe of Maysville and John Skain of Lexington.

"COUNTY AGENT BRINGS PROSPERITY"

Under the heading, "County Agent Brings Prosperity," The Courier-Journal recently said editorially:

"A writer in the June bulletin of the Agricultural Commission of the American Journal Association, in pleading the cause of the farmer, urges the retention of county agricultural agents, makes no mistake when he denounces these individuals 'an important and indispensable factor' in the process of recovery. Obviously he is correct. The advanced knowledge and constant effort of the county agent should make him invaluable to any group of farmers."

"Take the case of McCracken county. The average production of strawberries, possibly that county's premier crop, has been from 45 to 50 crates an acre until 1932. This year the yield leaped to 80 crates an acre. One phenomenal plot reported by Ben Niles, secretary of the Kentucky State Horticultural Society, yielded 500 crates on two acres, and possibly there were other extraordinary instances, but the average was almost twice as high as heretofore."

A search for the reason leads directly to County Agent W. C. Johnstone. For years he has labored with the strawberry growers to improve their crop and increase their yield through a proper selection of plants and preparation of the ground in advance. He succeeded in teaching the growers the value of fertilizing through growing successive crops of legumes and turning them under. The Princeton agricultural substitution gets its best results with sweet clover. Then, after bringing about soil preparation, Mr. Johnstone urged that care be taken to set out clean plants from sections free from the destructive crown borer. This pest has weakened and finally killed millions of plants in McCracken county, but this year the county was practically free from it.

"McCracken's strawberry crop was worth $750,000 to the growers this year. Because of quality, it is probable that the growers will average around $2 a crate for their berries. Twenty thousand pickers spent their money in the stores of Paducah and the adjoining county seat towns. Business boomed. There are probably other Johnstones in other counties, doing just as good a job though not with such spectacular success. At any rate, McCracken can testify to the value of county agents."

NO MORE BUREAUS

If for no other reason, the banking and stock market reforms recommended by Professor Ripley, of Harvard University, should be rejected because they involve the creation of another federal bureau with its army of jobholders and large appropriation. Not until there has been a general weeding out of bureaus in Washington should Congress consider bringing another in to the world.

Professor Ripley's pet bureaucratic idea would serve no useful purpose. Why establish a separate bureau for receiving and filing quarterly financial reports of corporations for the protection of the public when such reports are already filed with the stock exchanges? There is no excuse for investing in the dark.

Newspapers keep their readers constantly informed of the condition and operations of all corporations whose securities are listed on the exchanges and neither the shaky nor the shady can long conceal the facts from the press.

Is an investor, who will not even go to the trouble of consulting his banker, likely to go to a federal bureau for advice? Several states maintain securities bureaus for the protection of their citizens, who rarely avail themselves of their facilities and frequently evade them to the enrichment of wildcat stock promoters.

Not even a separate bureau for every investor in the land would make a nation bad-investment-proof. The most cautious will bite at 8 per cent without seeing the hook.—Lexington Herald.

GRAVES FAMILY

The founder of the Kentucky branch of the Graves family, was John Graves, born in Virginia, December 19, 1737, (son of Jno. Graves and wife, Susan (Dickens) Graves, of Virginia. He was married to Ann Rice (daughter of Wm. and Sarah Rice of Culpepper County, Va., Nov. 30, 1760. Ann Rice was born Nov. 21, 1741, in Virginia, died in Boone County, Ky., Dec. 8, 1825.

John Graves and wife removed from Culpepper County Va., (now Madison county, to Boone county, Ky., in 1797. Their entire family of children and grandchildren came with them or removed soon afterwards. They came down the Ohio river in small boats landing on the Kentucky side at North Bend, opposite the place where William Henry Harrison later made his home. Cincinnati was only a military post at that time.

Mr. Graves was a man of tall slender form, upright in his dealings and of a strong fervent religious character.

(Reference History of Bullittsburg Baptist church by Rev. James A. Kirtley, says that in June 1800, during a revival, John Graves, "father of the Elder Absalom Graves, the honored ancestor of a numerous posterity, joined the church."

John and Ann (Rice) Graves had twelve children, all married and all had children except two. The older children married in Culpepper county Va., the others married in Kentucky as follows: (1) Sarah married Edmund Garnett in Culpepper county, Va., (2) Wm. married in Va., Peggy White, daughter of John and Polly White, (3) Susan married George Gaines in Culpepper county, Va., (4) John married first Hannah Cave of Woodford county, Ky., daughter of Rev. Richard Cave a Baptist clergyman. After the death of John Graves married Elizabeth, widow of his brother Stephen, (5) Absalom Graves married Felicia White, sister of Peggy White, wife of his brother William (6) Ann Graves married Rev. Daniel James in Virginia, died in Boone county, Ky., (7) Joseph married Malinda Watts (8) James wife's name unknown (who can give it?—N. L. L.) (9) Edward married Nancy Willis (daughter of John and Jane Willis) died in Boone county, Ky., (10) Stephen married Elizabeth—her surname wanted, (11) Jeremiah married Elizabeth Kelley, daughter of

COUNTY REFUSES TO ACCEPT ITS OWN CHECKS

A certain party who holds an official position, whose name is not given herewith for reasons which might embarrass him, was fined in Judge Mullins' Court this week, the fine totaling $100. Said party tendered two county checks totaling $100 to pay the fine. The court refused to accept the checks and this citizen, whose infraction of the law was a minor one, was forced to secure the money elsewhere. To what a state have we come under our present form of government when a county will not cash, or accept, its own checks in payment of a fine?—Grant County News.

William and Nancy Kelley, (12) Reuben, name of wife missing.

John Graves was of the sixth generation from Capt. Thos. Graves who came to America from London in 1607. This record is copied from the family genealogy and is correct to the best of my knowledge.

A vote of thanks is extended to M. E. S. for her interesting and valuable notes. She is a native of Boone county, Ky., but now resides in Missouri. She is a descendant of John Graves and keeps in touch with Boone county friends through the Recorder. It is hoped that others will be as generous and send in their pioneer notes to N. Louise Lodge care Boone County Recorder, Burlington, Ky.

"SECOND-CROP" POTATOES (By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture)

A few weeks ago the "July" potato was discussed, and the distinction made that "July" potatoes are any of the several varieties whose seed can be kept in good condition in a common cellar. "Second-crop" potatoes are not the same as "July" potatoes, in that they are of early varieties, the seed kept on cold storage. Generally, the variety is Irish Cobbler, though Early Ohio and Bliss Triumph are sometimes used.

As everybody knows, potatoes are a cool-weather crop. Thus adroitness on the part of the grower of late potatoes is needed to time the getting of the tubers when the weath is relatively cool, for that is the critical period for the crop. If the weather is unduly warm and the ground dry, few tubers set; conversely, in cool wet soil, they set freely. Cobblers mature a crop in about 12 weeks. The object of the grower accordingly is to plant his "second-crop" potatoes late enough to escape the hottest weather, but still early enough for the crop to ripen before killing frost comes. Obviously, the frost date cannot be forecast, but from long experience a fairly proper planting date has been established. This is July 10-15 for northern Kentucky, July 15-25 for the Bluegrass, July 25-August 5 for the Louisville district, and July 25 to August 10 for the rest of the state.

Because rains are usually few at this season, it behooves the gardener so to manage his land that whatever spring moisture there may be is absorbed and conserved. This he may accomplish by frequent harrowing and dragging. At the same time, weeds are discouraged, and, by the time the crop is planted, weeds are no longer a factor. Usually, the program is plowing about May 15, followed immediately by disking and dragging. A month later should come a second disking and dragging; in two weeks again, again, in two or three weeks, and perhaps again, but leaving off the drag, prior to planting, else a drenching shower may leave the ground to wet that planting may have to be delayed.

Fertilizer.—For the late crop, less nitrogen is needed than for the spring crop, but fertilizer should be used. A good analysis is 3-8-6, as against 4-8-6 or 5-10-5 for the early potatoes. The fertilizer should always be used below the seed, and at the rate of one pound to 25 feet of row. Planting should be deep, but covering shallow. A furrow four inches deep and seed-covering of 2 inches, are recommended.

The seed should be of certified grade if possible, and it should be given treatment for scab and scurf. Those who wish it, may secure full directions for giving this treatment from the writer.

Cultivation should be shallow, and the soil surface should be kept level. If potatoes are planted at the depth just given, no riding even to keep the forming tubers from the light and air, will be needed.

Pests.—There may be a few Colorado beetles; their control with arsenate is so simple as not to need further elaboration. More serious are the fleabeetles and the leafhoppers, but they may be controlled by giving sprayings of 4-4-50 or 5-5-50 Bordeaux mixture, the first when the plants are all up, and two more at intervals of two weeks. A rounded tablespoonful of calcium arsenate in each gallon of Bordeaux, added when Colorado beetles are seen, will take care of them. Bordeaux performs other functions besides controlling the insects just named. It delays the blight, and even in seasons when no blight is present, it serves as a tonic to the plants, offsetting low vigor and unthriftness that results from excessively hot dry weather, at least, to some extent.

A discussion about making Bordeaux appeared in these columns some time ago, but full directions will be mailed on request.

The strawberry crown borer has been found in Jefferson county, and the county agent is recommending rotation of land to prevent further injury.

A total of $1,300 has been raised for premiums and expenses of the 4-H district fair to be held at Lexington August 23-24.

Korvan lespedeza, a new crop, is doing well in Breathitt county and attracting attention of farmers.

Miss Phyllis Methven, of Middletown, Ohio, spent last week with her aunt, Mrs. Henry Siekman, of near Burlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siekman had as guests for several days last week, Mr. and Mrs. Urban Wahoff and daughter, of Price Hill, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Marce Riddell enjoyed a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Walton Dempsey, at Erlanger, last week.

Dr. M. J. Crouch and Harry Connel, of Union, were Burlington visitors last Thursday afternoon.

Edgar Berkshire celebrated his 76th birthday Saturday, July 9th, by indulging in his favorite pastime—to wit: fishing in old Woolper creek. Not only was it his own birthday, but his wedding anniversary and the birthday of his son, Rex, as well. However, he would disclose the age of his son. Whether or not Rex would divulge the fact we do not know.

Dr. M. A. Yelton reports a case of diptheria, something very unusual for this season of the year. It is at the home of A. M. Hoskins, whose small daughter is the patient. Mr. Hoskins lives on the Frank Crigler farm in the Pt. Pleasant neighborhood.

Miss Helen Berkshire is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Ida Thompson, in Cincinnati.

Misses Geraldine and Jo Ann Yelton, little daughters of Dr. and Mrs. M. A. Yelton, spent a few days last week with their uncle Henry Hunt and family in Covington.

A call meeting of the local Eastern Star chapter was held in the lodge hall over the Peoples Deposit Bank Tuesday night.

A Children's Day program will be given at the Baptist church here Sunday, July 24. The program will take place at the eleven o'clock hour and each class is expected to contribute two numbers to the program.

Miss Kate Kirkpatrick, of Cincinnati, spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Lavinia Kirkpatrick and family here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tanner and son, Robert, of Florence, were calling on Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Conner Monday evening.

About 55 ladies of varying ages enjoyed an old fashioned dance in the hall over Conner's restaurant last Thursday night. No men were admitted except the musicians, L. A. Conner, H. D. THE SPICE IN SPORT

It's an old tradition in major league base ball that the club which is in first place on July 4 will win the pennant. Pittsburgh and New York fans are hoping that this is so. The New York Yankees are leading the American League by six games and the Pirates are now well in front of Boston in the senior loop. The Pirates have continued to play amazing base ball, whipping the New York Giants three games out of four in their Gotham series. The team has won 13 of its last 15 games, scoring 85 runs to only 60 for the opposition and making 182 hits to 138 for the other clubs. Seven of the Pirates' 13 victories have been by a single run margin, three of them going extra innings. Steve Swenson is the team's leading hurler, with nine wins in eleven starts.

Boxing continues to give the public a good laugh with its crazy antics. The Sharkey-Schmeling decision was good for a hearty hee-haw early in the month, and now the fight seems to provide another by announcing that there will be no more radio broadcasts of fights except by "expert" announcers. By "expert" the fight commissioners have made it clear that they don't mean Graham McNamee or any of the others who announced the Sharkey-Schmeling affair over the national chains. All because the announcers gave the impression during the round-by-round description that Schmeling was winning, whereas the august judges decided that Sharkey was the winner. The main point behind the action of the boxing commissioners is that they do not want anyone to disagree with them even when they are wrong. Everyone knows that Schmeling won the fight, but the commissioners are still trying to fool the public. After this, we suggest that all fight announcers consult the referee between rounds to ascertain the opinion of the judges before hazarding an opinion over the air. In fact, why not allow the judges to do the broadcasting?

The Cincinnati Reds are now on the home lot for quite a stay, for which situation the players give thanks. They need the rest and quiet which home life gives them after a long, tiresome journey on the road. The Reds schedule includes a double-header with the Boston Braves, second-placers, at Redland Field, Sunday, July 17th. The complete schedule: July 13, 14, 15 and 16—Philadelphia at Cincinnati; July 17* and 20—Boston at Cincinnati; July 22, 23, and 24—St. Louis at Cincinnati; July 25—Washington Senators at Cincinnati (Exhibition game). *Sunday double-header.

Cincinnatians are sorely disappointed at the failure of the United States Golf Association to include Johnny Fischer, National Intercollegiate titlist and second amateur in the National Open, on the American Walker Cup team which will compete for International Golf honors against England in the East in September. The U. S. G. A. recognized the youthful Cincinnati as a candidate, but finally decided that Fischer is not quite ready for that brand of competition. With that reasoning, we cannot agree. The Walker Cup team includes four youngsters, George Dunlap, Jr., of Princeton; Billy Howell, Washington and Lee; Charles Beaver of Los Angeles; and Jack Westland, Chicago. Fischer defeated Howell in the finals of the intercollegiate at Hot Springs, Virginia, two weeks ago. That win certainly places him above Howell; and his showing in the Open, in our opinion, easily rates him as second amateur in the United States.

Does the depression make you want to fight? The reason we ask is to ascertain, if possible, why there have been more uprisings on the major league base ball fields this year than in previous seasons. The latest of the public exhibition was stages between Bill Dickey, star back stop of the New York Yanks and Carl Reynolds, outfielder of the Washington Senators. Dickey hit Reynolds on the jaw, discharging a fracture that will keep Reynolds out of the game for at least six weeks. The American League subsequently dished out a sock on the jaw to Dickey, suspending him indefinitely. Conservative fans will say that this sort of brawling on the field isn't good for the reputation of the pastime; but we have a sneaking suspicion such episodes, of not carried too far, actually brighten up the sport and arouse added interest. Base ball and brotherly love simply don't go together. The combative spirit in base ball, typically American, is the prime factor in making it America's national pastime.

Waite Hoyt, whom even the oldest base ball fans will remember as a great pitcher, is back in the major league again, this time with the New York Giants. The veteran appears to be going strong for the New Yorkers, proving that a man may be down but not necessarily out. Hoyt failed with the Detroit Tigers last year and moved on to the Athletics. He won for Connie Mack, even pitching one of the World Series games. Then Philadelphia released him and he showed up this spring in a Brooklyn uniform. For a time, Hoyt did well but was finally given his release. Now Bill Terry, manager of the Giants, has signed him.

Red Lucas, the Reds' crack right-hander, has now walloped every club in the National League at least once, being the only pitcher on the team to do so. Lucas has won nine games, three from Chicago and one each from New York, Brooklyn, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Boston and Philadelphia. Lucas has lost eight games, some of them by the toughest breaks. He has allowed a fraction over 7.9 hits a game, has passed 19 batters and struck out 42. He is batting .350, with 28 hits out of 80 trips to the plate. Any club in the league would be glad to have the "Redhead" pitching for it.

Four home runs in a game is something to hand down to your grandchildren, but at the rate Buzz Arlett of the Baltimore Orioles is going, his grandchildren, if any, will become bored listening to Buzz recite his fence-busting exploits. Twice this year Arlett has hit four homers in a single game, the second occasion surpassing the first when Arlett made five in a single day. The fifth came in the second game of a double-header. It never occurred to us before that slapping home runs become monotonous.

Is it possible that the Reds have finally broken away from the jinx that has beset them in all St. Louis games during the past few seasons? It's too early to predict that, but the recent series between the Reds and Cards was certainly a joy. The Reds won three in a row, not including a 13 inning tie in St. Louis that was called on account of darkness. The first game was played in Cincinnati, the Reds winning after a luscious inning in which Crabtripes. The final score was kooky ten, Hendrick and Lombardi all hit triples. The final score was 4 to 2. Then the Reds hopped on the Cards in the first game of a double header at St. Louis the following day and tied the second. On the last day the Reds decided to do the job right while they were about it, and hammered the Cards for 12 runs, seven in the first inning.

CHIROPRACTORS

OF NORTHERN KENTUCKY MEET AT HOME OF SQUIRE B. C. KIRLEY, EAST BEND—VISITORS PRESENT FROM OHIO, INDIANA AND KENTUCKY

The annual meeting of the Northern Kentucky chiropractors was held Sunday, July 17, at the home of Squire B. C. Kirley, in the East Bend community. Squire Kirley's son Dr. W. H. Kirley, is a practitioner at Florence.

There were about fifty guests from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky at the meeting, which was in the nature of an all day picnic with a splendid dinner spread at the noon hour.

The business session was held in the morning, which was presided over by Dr. McCauley, of Florence, who is president of the organization.

The principal speaker of the day was Thomas Dunn, member of the Kentucky Legislature. Dr. Lillard Marshall, member of the State Board of Chiropractors, also was on the program.

FARMERS ALLIANCE

AT BURLINGTON

On Saturday evening, July 30, at 7:30 (Slow Time) the Farmers Alliance will meet at Burlington for the purpose of forming a County organization. Each local is requested to send at least five delegates. Everyone who is interested in the cause of a better deal for the farmers and dairymen is invited to be present. If anyone has anything to say to better the farmer's lot in life, he has a special invitation to attend the meeting and say his say. If you have any good ideas, bring them along and tell the Alliance about them. The Alliance wants good ideas. You won't be expected to make a speech. Offer the man who says the least says the best.

When a County organization is formed, the work of the Alliance will be consolidated, and it will be in a much better position to solve the many problems that need to be solved to better the farmer's position in life.

Some people become discouraged because they think that every problem should be solved within a few months, and they are not able to wait. They lose faith and hope and want to give up the fight. Let us remember that the work of the Alliance is a work of years. It is a long, hard pull, and a fight every step of the way. It takes courage, grit, patience, and a determination to win. We have a big start on a long, hard road. Let us push on. We are slowly but surely getting bigger every day, stronger every day, more powerful and influential every day, and a better fighting organization every day. We should be proud of what we have done. We have much more to do. Let us keep up the good work. Let us be on our journey. With an ever increasing devotion to our cause and a greater courage, the road will not seem so long and so weary.

Let us remember it took ten long years of agitation and struggle after Patrick Henry lighted the fires of the Revolution by his world renowned speech before the first shot was fired on the field of Lexington, in April, 1775.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnett Tolin returned to Burlington Friday after having spent a very pleasant vacation at Norfolk, Virginia. Mrs. Tolin suffered a very painful ankle sprain just as they were ready to leave on the return trip, which detracted much from the pleasure of the trip.

Miss Helen Berkshire has returned to Burlington after having enjoyed a ten day visit with her grandmother, Mrs. Ida Thompson, in Cincinnati. Miss Mellicent Berkshire is there this week.

Mrs. Miranda Cotton, of Verona, is visiting her son W. B. Cotton and family, here this week.

Raymond Poole, Burlington's capable tonsorial artist and most entertaining mimic, was in Dayton, Ohio, the first of the week.

Miss Hattie Creel, of Florence, is the very pleasant guest of W. P. Beemon and wife.

Mrs. Kate Boutwell and two daughters, of Covington, spent a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. Marco Riddell Monday evening.

BOO MILK MEETING

At a special meeting of the Farmers Alliance at Hebron last Saturday night, arrangements were made for a big milk meeting in the auditorium of the Hebron School House, Friday evening, July 20th, at 7:30 (slow time).

Mr. Bidwell, President of the Kentucky, Indiana, and Ohio Milk Producers Association, and Mr. Harry Harkins, President of the French Bros. Bauer Company, the largest subsidiary of the Co-Operative Pure Milk Association, will be present and address the meeting.

The purpose of this meeting is to find out what steps have been taken by the dealers toward reducing the cost of distribution, so that the milk producer can get a much larger part of the consumer's dollar than he is now getting. The producer wants something in addition to a red tax and a check that will but little more than pay the 3c postage for sending it, if it were sent by mail.

It takes more money, more labor, and more brains to produce 100 gallons of milk than it does to distribute the milk after it is produced. Let us stop and think, and it won't hurt us to stop and think. It takes a good, big farm of fairly fertile land, well equipped, thirty-four good cows, the labor of at least three capable and industrious men, working seven twelve-hour days each week, to produce sufficient milk to keep one milk wagon driver busy for eight hours per day, six days out of each week.

For this forty-eight hours per week job the milk wagon driver, without any cost or expense to himself, receives approximately $48.00. The milk producer, on the other hand, receives at present prices about $21.00 for the same milk, which required two hundred and sixteen hours labor to produce, at an expense, (according to the report of the recent investigation made by the Ohio Experimental Station), of $39.00, not including any compensation for the two hundred and sixteen hours labor. The milk dealer, in a big way that the milk producer, who gets the same milk, approximately $56.00. Is it any wonder that the milk producer is troubled? He has a right to howl. He is entitled to at least 50 per cent of the gross price at which the milk is sold, instead of about 12 1/2 per cent which he is now receiving. The Alliance wants this meeting to be a big success. It must be put on with a boom, a whiz, and a bang. Every man and his family must be Hebron bound the evening of the 20th. The Alliance wants to demonstrate in a big way that the milk producer is entitled to a far better deal than he is now receiving.

This meeting is only a preliminary step in the arduous struggle to get a square deal for the milk producer, and a better price for milk, to a monster meeting which will be held in the near future at some central point, probably in Cincinnati. At this meeting every milk producer in Northern Ky., Southwest Ohio, and Southeastern Indiana will be invited and urged to attend. It will not take much urging, however, to get them there.

In the meantime, let us prepare for the big meeting at Hebron. Everyone interested in the production of milk must come. You must talk about the meeting to everyone you see. Urge your friends and neighbors to attend. If you don't see them send word to them. If you have friends living in other counties, write to them and urge them to come. Tell them to bring their families. Do your part. Let us make this the biggest meeting of its kind ever held in Boone county. It will mean much for the good of all.

We have a big hall and a big parking space for automobiles, and are going to have a big crowd. Don't forget the time and place. Friday evening, July 29, 7:30 o'clock slow time, Hebron, Boone County, Kentucky, on the Covington and Petersburg Highway.

Come early and get a good seat. We are going to have a packed house.

Mrs. John Holbrook and family and David Williamson spent Sunday with Mrs. Alma Wilson and family, of Covington. Miss Martha Wilson returned with them for a few days visit.

Last Friday afternoon a number of boys from the Covington Y. M. C. A., who are enjoying their vacation at Camp Ernst on Gunpowder creek, paid the Recorder office a pleasant call. It was in the nature of an inspection trip, as many of the boys never had seen printing machinery in operation.

R. E. Berkshire and family visited the Ringling Bros.-Barnum and Bailey circus at Cincinnati Tuesday. It certainly was a great show.

DETECTIVES

FROM COVINGTON VISIT BOONE COUNTY IN EFFORT TO GAIN INFORMATION ON SLAYING OF MYRON SMITH IN COVINGTON—MURDERED MAN BURNED WEDNESDAY AT UNION

Detectives John Drees and James Higgins, of Covington, were court house visitors Tuesday morning. They were in Boone county investigating the death of Myron C. Smith, who was lying a corpse at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Smith, near Union.

Smith was shot down at his home in Covington early Monday morning, when three men entered his home with the apparent purpose in mind of "getting him." One of the men demanded that he "stick 'em up" and immediately shot him thru the lung. He was rushed to a hospital where he died soon after.

It was reported here Wednesday that the men had been identified, although that report was not confirmed.

Smith was buried at Union Wednesday afternoon.

SUCCESSFUL BIDDERS

Successful bidders for the painting of the court house and the jail were announced this week. Fred Thornton, of near Hebron, was awarded the contract for the painting of the court house at his bid of $135.00. The successful bidder on the jail contract was Courtney Kelly, of Burlington, at $36.00. Work will begin on both jobs as soon as possible.

W. T. Light, of Cincinnati, spent the week-end with his sister, Mrs. Everett Hickman.

Mrs. Alice Snyder is gradually improving from a sudden illness. She became ill late Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. H. E. Conner has been visiting her father, Dr. J. H. Walton and wife, at Saylor Park, O., since Sunday of last week.

Misses Virginia and Loreta Hubbard, of Muncie, Indiana, spent from Wednesday until Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Manley Ryle in Burlington.

Many of Burlington's citizens sought respite from the intense heat in Gunpowder creek and the Ohio river at Aurora beach Sunday afternoon.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

The baseball team that is beaten is the club that admits it is beaten, that acts that way and plays the brand of ball calculated to clinch the fact. By that criterion, there isn't a beaten club in the National League this year. Between Pittsburgh, the league leaders, and Cincinnati who is fighting desperately to move out of last place, there is a difference of 12 games. In the American League, the first and last clubs are separated by thirty-six games.

Pittsburgh continues to lead the League, although handicapped by the temporary loss of Paul and Lloyd Waner and Pie Traynor. The Pirates are a bare nothing in front of Chicago, who in turn is barely ahead of Boston. And so on, down to the Reds who can throw the race into an even greater turmoil by a single slip.

Fans thru-out the country are looking to Cincinnati for fireworks during the next few weeks, and the Reds very possibly may oblige. If the Reds should stage their expected come-back at this time, it would definitely insure the greatest National League pennant drive in the history of the pastime.

Chick Hefey, the Reds' star performer, is ready to return to the line-up and therein lies a tale that is causing the other clubs in the circuit no little anxiety. Unquestionably, the loss of Hefey was the prime factor in the Cincinnati club's drop and his return should cause a corresponding upward trend.

Long illness hasn't deprived Hefey of any of his batting prowess, as evidenced by his stick work as a pinch-hitter in recent games. Al-

SHERIFF

RETURNS FROM NEW YORK WITHOUT CRANWELL—OFFICER OBTAINS NECESSARY PAPERS FROM GOVERNOR'S OFFICE, BUT IS THWARTED BY CITY GOVERNMENT

Sheriff Herbert Snyder returned to Burlington last Thursday afternoon from New York, where he had gone to return L. R. Cranwell, accused here on two felony charges. The sheriff, however, returned minus the prisoner. Mr. Snyder had obtained the necessary extradition papers from Governor Ruby LaFollette and made the journey all the way to Albany to obtain the same papers from Governor Roosevelt.

While Governor Roosevelt was absent on a yachting trip, Lieutenant Governor Lehman readily granted the extradition. But when the Boone county officer arrived in New York city the city officials refused to give up their charge, offering as the reason that the proceeding witnesses in Boone county would be required to come to New York to identify Cranwell.

The Recorder has no information as to what the final disposition of the case will be, insofar as the local end is concerned, but the fact remains that Cranwell still is being held in New York.

It also is a tough break for the sheriff, as the law does not provide for his expenses when he fails to return the prisoner. The state would have paid his expenses had he been able to bring Cranwell back.

Winning their second straight game the Burlington Baptists defeated Walton last Saturday afternoon in a Sunday School League game. Roscoe Akin was in the box for the locals, while Brown did the menial duty for Walton. Next Saturday the home team takes on the Bellevue Christians and they hope to improve their standing at the expense of the visitors. The Burlington team, however, has no managers, still entertain hopes of winning the pennant.

M. L. Riddell, who operates a very active filling station in Burlington, has been nursing a very painful injury to a wen on the back of his head for the past week.

On account of the extreme heat and the fact that some necessary repairs are being made at the Corner Restaurant there will not be an old time dance there Saturday night of this week.

CORNERCACKERS MEET

The Cornercackers 4-H Club of boys and girls met Friday afternoon at the school house together with Mr. H. J. Foraker, the County Agent, and two leaders, Mrs. W. E. Zimmer and Mrs. Henry Kottmeyer. Each one gave a report on their project work, which was very satisfactory. Mr. Foraker made a talk on going to camp at Alexandria, and quite a few are planning to go. The meeting adjourned by each one repeating the club pledge.

Deaths

MRS. DORA UTZ

Mrs. Dora Utz, aged 58 years, passed away Wednesday at her home near Limaburg after an illness of several weeks. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Hopeful Lutheran church by the Rev. Harlow Haas, pastor, after which she was laid to rest in the nearby cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, Wm. N. Utz, four sons, James Harold, Leonard, and Russell, three daughters Fannie Utz, Mrs. Rachel Rhinehart, Mrs. Susie Eggleston, her mother, Mrs. Sara Brown, three sisters Misses Katie and Annie Brown and Mrs. Harve Tanner, two brothers Robert and James Brown, all of Boone county.

The pall-bearers were Fred and Geo. Heil, Chester Tanner, Willie Waters, Alonzo Beemon and O. R. Rust.

Funeral Director Philip Talliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

OBITUARY

For three generations the sound of the anvil could be heard at the village blacksmith.

No more will pieces of iron be bent by John W. Kiserer who was born at Constance, Ky., December 1, 1886, baptised in St. Boniface Roman Catholic church, Ludlow, Ky., being sponsored by Frank Kiserer.

He was married to Minnie Oringeburg July 3, 1908 at Versailles, Indiana.

Unto them were born seven children, two daughters and five sons.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, two daughters, five sons, his father, mother, two brothers and many other relatives and friends.

After a lingering illness he died Monday July 11, 1932 at 6 p. m., at the age of 45 years, 6 months and 11 days.

Mr. Kiserer was well known both in Boone and Kenton counties. Many were the chats folks would have with him as they waited for a horse to become shod or other repairs on various farm implements.

Not only was Mr. Kiserer a successful blacksmith, farm work too seemed to fall to his lot, so his host of friends shall miss seeing him slowly wending his way across the corn fields.

Often we shall recall the sight of him with one of his tiny sons patiently answering many boyish questions.

He will be sadly missed by all who knew him, but the final summons comes to each of us from which we cannot be called back.

A FRIEND

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cropper, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Lassing, Jr., and children spent Tuesday at Coney Island, is being Covington Day.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Bodker and Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Schirall, of Newport, were guests of F. A. Hall and wife last Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Greenup are spending the week with Mrs. Greenup's parents, John Dickerson and wife, at Union.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shearer, after spending a month in Florida, have returned to their home in Newport. They were in Burlington Friday evening for a few hours visit with Mrs. Shearer's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hall.

Mrs. Sally Williamson is spending a few days with her son, Grant and family, near Limaburg.

Attorney W. H. Rucker, of Constance and Cincinnati, was a Burlington visitor last Thursday afternoon.

Misses Marolyn and Johnnie Dickerson and Alma Stephens, all of Union, were calling on friends in Burlington Wednesday afternoon.

GIRLS CAMP

TO BE OPENED NEAR VALLEY VIEW ON JULY 27—MISS MARY BESS CROPPER, BOONE COUNTY GIRL, TO BE ONE OF COUNSELORS

On July 27th the Kentucky Committee of the Young Women's Christian Association will open Camp Daniel Boone, near Valley View, Kentucky to girls of Kentucky and surrounding states for two ten day periods. The camp program will be directed by Miss Lillie V. Cronwell, executive secretary and Miss Mary Helen Ferce, office manager. Miss Mary Bess Cropper of Burlington will be a counselor for the dramatics group.

Instruction in beginning and advance swimming and Red Cross life saving will be given by Miss Marjorie LaFollette, former physical education director at the Ashland Y. W. C. A. Miss LaFollette will be assisted by Misses Henrietta Bohmer, Louisville; Ann Elliott and Clara Margaret Fort, Frankfort; Hilda Franz, Russell; Anne Morrison, Owensboro; Alma Mae Workman, Kenova, West Virginia.

Camp Daniel Boone will offer an all round camp program including tennis, boating, hiking, archery, base ball, folk, clog and tap dancing, nature study, dramatics and handicraft. Counselors include Misses Louise Talbot, Lexington; Margaret Sheegog, Hazard; Alline Bierman, Louisville; Mary Bess Cropper, Burlington; Ann Easley, Nicholasville; Elma Taylor, Morning View; Nellie Frank Hays, Berea; Susan Yankey, Campbellsville; Elizabeth Gragg, Pineville; Mrs. Nina S. Taylor, Greenville and Mrs. Elvaine Nickell, Nicholasville, camp nurse.

All communications concerning Camp Daniel Boone should be addressed to Lillie V. Cronwell, 306 West Broadway, Louisville, Ky., or Miss Mary Bess Cropper, Burlington.

CINCINNATI ZOO

Two of the most popular operas in the repertoire of the Cincinnati Zoo Opera Company are scheduled for presentation during the week starting next Monday, July 25. "The Magic Flute," Mozart's opera, which was the sensational success of the present season when produced several weeks ago, will be repeated Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. The cast will include Amiri Galli-Campi, coloratura soprano; Leola Turner, Helen OrNSTein, Lydia Dوزير, Ruth Lewis, Oscar Colcalre, Herbert Gould, Giuseppe Cavadore, James Wolfe and Leonard Treash.

"Madame Butterfly," the heart-touching opera, is scheduled for Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday nights. Hizi Koyke, internationally famous Japanese prima donna who has invariably scored a sensation in the role of Cho-Cho-San, will again be heard in that sympathetic part. Helen OrNSTein will appear as Suzuki, and Forrest Lamont as Pinkerton. Other principals in the cast will be Giuseppe Cavadore, Joseph Royer and Natale Cervi. Isaac Van Grove will conduct both attractions.

Another of the popular Zoo Revues will be presented on Sunday night at popular prices. The Zoo Summer Symphony Orchestra will continue its series of Saturday and Sunday afternoon concerts with popular programs, under the direction of Reuben Lawson.

Helene Mangold, contralto, will be featured as vocal soloist with Harry Willsey's Orchestra at the Clubhouse, both Saturday and Sunday nights. New dance hits are included in the program that Willsey promises on these occasions. Dancing will continue until one o'clock on both evenings, while on other nights during the week it will continue until 12. At Dance in Russian, the Zoo dancer, Charles McClure's Russian Steps present novel dance programs every night except Monday.

The many free picnic tables at the Zoo make it possible for visitors to bring their own lunch baskets and enjoy a repast under the beautiful trees. In addition to the many strange animals, birds and reptiles, the Zoo offers many attractions in the way of entertainments for both children and adults, including the free Punch and Judy Shows, Kiedelland, with its seven fun devices; the Fun House, the Merry-go-round and the Pony Track.

For Congress

We are authorized to announce RICHARD C. NORTHCUTT As a candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket from the Fifth (Old Sixth) Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic primary Saturday, Aug. 6, 1932.

A WAVE OF PROTEST

Business men, manufacturers, property owners of every class and kind are joining in the wave of protest against increasing Government expenditures and mounting taxes. Marshall Field & Company, the largest department store in the world, we believe, have issued a circular to their wholesale customers in which they point that while, last year, Federal, State and local taxes took almost 22 cents out of every dollar of private income, the proportion will be higher this year because of the greatly reduced income.

Expenses have not been reduced; they have been increased. According to the Field tabulation since 1927 our Federal costs have increased 63 per cent, from $1,944,000,000 to $3,195,100,000 a year. And as this is written Congress is still in session and is likely to spend another couple of billion of tax money, though where it is to come nobody knows. This is all wrong. It is time to call a halt. We see only one way to do that, and that is to make econ-only the watchword of the coming campaign. No man should be supported for election to any office in which he will have anything to say about taxation or the spending of tax money who will not pledge himself to reduce expenses and taxes, even if by doing so he loses a few votes when he comes up for reelection.

We think that nine-tenths of Governmental extravagance is due to the desire of legislators to please groups and individuals whose votes they desire. It is nothing short of robbery, in our opinion, for a man in public office to impose taxes upon one class of the public in order to spend the money for the benefit of another class, whose votes he hopes, will perpetuate him in power. It is time to stop.

A NEW WAY TO PAY OLD DEBTS

We have been interested in the proposal sponsored by John Perry that the United States might accept whiskey, wine and cordials from the European nations which owe us money, in settlement of the war debts. If the United States should repeal the 18th Amendment, making the sale of intoxicants legal again, there could be no objection on legal grounds to the importation of British whiskey wines, Italian cordials and Cuban rum; and the merit of Mr. Perry's project is that these are commodities which we do not produce and of which there is a considerable supply on hand in America.

To be sure, the Perry plan involves the Federal Government going into the liquor business. We feel certain, however, that if the people of the United States are going to repeal the Prohibition amendment they will set up some sort of control in place of the old-time saloon system, and that will mean that Uncle Sam must either sell liquor himself or delegate it to some agency under governmental control. We shall know by November, perhaps soon, whether we are "going wet" again or not. And if we are, why shouldn't we stock up with foreign wines and liquors while our own breweries and distilleries are getting into shape to replenish the domestic supply?

The experience, as we shall find, is typical of all Israel's journeyings. When they were willing to obey the word of God and go forward as the pillar of cloud led the way, their foes were always subdued. Nothing could exceed the discomfiture of these Egyptians who, with their chariot wheels removed, sank to death in the depths of the sea. The cloud which lightened the way of Israel was darkness to the pursuing host.

At the ball meeting of the Boone county Sunday School League held at Florence last Thursday night with all the teams of the League present except one, that being Bellevue (C), several new rules were made and will go into effect at once.

Warsaw, unable to get ball players that were eligible to play in the league, asked if they might play out the schedule in order that no team would draw a bye.

It was voted on by all teams present that they could finish out the schedule only as an exhibition team, and that all teams must play when their time comes. Any team failing to play them will have one game taken from their standing.

Following are the new rules made by the managers of the Sunday School League:

- 1.-Any team failing to play Warsaw will have one game that they have won taken from their standing.
- 2.-That all games must start exactly at 2:30 o'clock.
- 3.-That every game played in the League must have one new base ball and one old one can be picked by the Umpire or manager.
- 4.-That any player who plays base ball on or after the last Sunday in July will be eliminated from the League for the rest of the season.

HARVEST HOME WINNER OVER

ROSEDALE

In a well played game Harvest Home won over Rosedale last Sunday. Boehler holding the visiting team to 3 hits and only one man reached second base. He rained 15 men, and as the home boys drove out 11 hits he coasted to an easy winner.

The home boys are looking better each game and they have now run their winning streak to 8 straight games and the fans have every reason to believe the home team will be in the finals of the elimination series. The brand of ball the boys are now playing deserves far better support than they have been getting as they undoubtedly have one of the best teams ever to represent Boone county, and every fan should come out and give them a boost.

For next Sunday the opposing team will be the hard hitting Latonia Merchants who in their last league game defeated Ludlow, and a real battle can be expected. Johnny Fischer or Bill Modler will twirl for Latonia with Richter catching, while Boehler and Shearer will perform the heavy work for the home team.

On August 6th the Harvest Home ball club will give a picnic at Harvest Home grounds for the benefit of the club. The best of music has been secured and a real evening of pleasure can be had by attending.

We hope to see our fans out to the ball game Saturday afternoon. We boys play Warsaw and we need your support to play as we should. The Live Wire Class is glad to

Wear Summer Appetites Whetted By Plate Meals; Save Steps, Too

By JOSEPHINE SIMON
Dietician, Dietetic Food Institute

PLATE meals interest every woman who wishes to reduce the labor of summer meal preparation. All the food for the main course is placed on the luncheon or dinner plate before taking it to the table, thus saving many steps and reducing the number of dishes used. Plate meals, attractively arranged, have a greater appeal to weary summer appetites than large serving dishes of food. The luncheon menu suggested below is most attractive and practical for a summer guest luncheon. All the preparation except assembling, may be done in advance of the guests' arrival.

Luncheon Plate* Hot Biscuit or Buttered Rolls
Date Fluff with Whipped Cream

(* Indicated that recipes are given below.)

Luncheon Plate: On each luncheon plate arrange five crisp lettuce leaves of uniform size. Place leaves so that stem ends meet in the center as do as resemble petals. In one lettuce leaf arrange a serving of meat or fish salad. In another a chilled deviled egg, in the third a mound of Preserved Sweet Midget Gherkins, in the next chilled cucumber of tomato and slices of cucumber topped with a spoonful Roquefort cheese dressing, and in the final one a mound of Spanish Queen or Ripe Mission Olives.

Tuna Fish Salad: Place 1 7-oz. can white tuna fish in a sieve and pour hot water over it to remove oil. Chili and flake, being careful to leave in good sized pieces. Add 1 cup diced celery, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, pepper to taste, and Mayonnaise Salad Dressing to moisten. Chill before serving.

Deviled Egg Salad: Cut 4 hard cooked eggs in half lengthwise. Mash yolks, season with salt, pepper, butter, Prepared Mustard and Pure Vinegar. Mince potted ham may be added if desired. Refill the whites, sprinkle lightly with paprika, and serve two halves in a nest of crisp lettuce.

Roquefort Cheese Dressing: Cream 1 package (1 1/2 oz.) Roquefort Cheese with 1/2 package (1 1/2 oz.) soft white cream cheese, and blend with 4 tablespoons Mayonnaise. Chill and serve. Serves 4.

Date Fluff with Whipped Cream: Beat yolks of 3 eggs and add to 1 cup crushed Rice Flakes, 1 cup sugar, 1/2 cup chopped nuts, 1 cup chopped dates, which have been thoroughly mixed. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour in buttered loaf pan and bake in a moderately hot oven (375° F.) 45 minutes. Crumble and pile in sherbet glasses. Serve with whipped cream or Lemon Sauce. May be served hot or cold. Serves 6.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

BITES AND STINGS

Summer is the time to look out for biting and stinging insects. An author, friend of mine, mentions the mosquito and the bed-bug as the chief offenders. I shall not discuss the latter; he is taboo in our set this year. I confess I have grown rusty in my clinical data on the bed-bug.

But the mosquito—the malaria-carrier, you know. The more bites the more malaria. Keep out of his way. A strong solution of camphor with twenty drops of carbolic acid to the ounce is a good lotion for mosquito-bites; wet cloths with the solution and leave in contact with the stings.

The poison—almost a venom—of hornets, wasps and bees, is believed to be acid in nature; hence an alkali is the logical antidote. A bottle of aqua ammonia should be at hand. It is applied freely when kept in the medicine-closet for needed. Coarse "bayonets" may be left in the wound, bear in mind. Get them out before the medicine is depended upon.

If a wasp-sting just chanced to enter a vein of the victim, as in case of a child, serious symptoms may be caused, and even deaths have been reported from them. The nests of these insects should be searched for, and destroyed. I know of nothing more agonizing for the moment than the sting of a hornet. They are plentiful in wooded districts in our country. Remember your ammonia solution.

I have seen quite a fever arise from bee-stings—in fact, my last adventure with the little honey-makers was a case in point; I went to bed for several hours, aching all over, with temperature 103. I had had over a dozen bee-wounds before armistice was declared. We are never too old to learn, it seems.

Sunday School Lesson

RED SEA DELIVERANCE

Lesson Text: Exodus 14:10-16, 21, 22.

Golden Text: Exodus 15:12

The experience of God's saving power in a life does not mean that the conflict with sin is at an end. It explains why so many Christians fall in the hour of crisis. Here are two million former slaves, each one of whom had experienced in a marvelous way God's delivering power. They had found peace and security at a time when all Egypt was plunged in sorrow and tears, and yet, even with the memory of this mighty Passover miracle, they are so soon in a panic of fear and distrust. With the Red Sea before them and the nursing Egyptian behind, they complained bitterly to God and to Moses. Thus often in the presence of physical, financial, or other peril do we forget that God is not limited in resources and is equal to our every need.

Faith is paralyzed by fear. Faith is undermined when, like Israel, we dwell upon the difficulties before us, substituting reason for dependence upon God. While the sound of the chariot wheels of the Egyptians draws nearer and nearer and the fear of Israel reaches despair, the most unexpected of all things take place. Unable to turn back because of the pursuing host, hemmed in by mountains on either side, lo! the Red Sea opens, a God-given highway stretches before them; so that the slow moving host of men, women, children, and beasts of burden may pass over unharmed and

Campfire Dinner in Quiet Dell Proves Hot Weather Relaxation

By JOSEPHINE GIBSON
Director, Boone Park Hotel

It has been said that we do not camp to "rough it" but rather to smooth it. Relaxation that comes from an expedition into the open and a meal cooked over a glowing fire in a quiet spot, smooths wrinkles from tired minds. Men and children particularly enjoy this type of recreation and cooking over a campfire saves work at home. The following menus are for substantial camp meals that appeal to appetites whetted by hours in the open.

Hot Steak Sandwiches with Onion and Chili Sauce*
Oven Baked Beans or Corn on the Cob
Fresh Cucumber Pickles Cup Cakes with Peanut Butter Frosting*
Fruit

Peanut Butter, Chili Sauce and Broiled Bacon Sandwiches* or Cheese and Broiled Bacon Sandwiches with Prepared Mustard*
Sandwich Relish Sandwiches
Deviled Eggs or Potato and Egg Salad
Sliced Tomatoes Potato Chips Genuine Dill Pickles
Watermelon Filled Sugar Cookies
Coffee

(* Indicates that recipes are given below.

Hot Steak Sandwiches with Onion and Chili Sauce: Take fresh buttered rolls from home, having each wrapped in waxed paper. Over the campfire, broil the steak, cut into strips, in a corn paper or on a long handled fork. During the broiling, season well with salt, pepper and Worcestershire Sauce. Place the steak in the buttered roll and in each sandwich place a slice of onion, one of Sweet Dill Pickle, and Chili Sauce.

Cup Cakes with Peanut Butter Frosting: Any good recipe may be used for the cup cakes. Frost them with the following Peanut Butter Frosting: To 3 tablespoons Peanut Butter add 2 tablespoons strong cold coffee, 1 tablespoon cream or top milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla and enough powdered sugar to make the proper consistency to spread (about 1 1/2 cups). Spread on cakes that have been cooled, allow the frosting to set, and then wrap in waxed paper in a box.

Peanut Butter, Chili Sauce and Broiled Bacon Sandwiches: Mix 1/2 cup Peanut Butter with 4 tablespoons Chili Sauce and spread on buttered rolls or on buttered whole wheat bread. Wrap and take to the picnic. Over the campfire, broil each and place several slices in each sandwich.

Cheese and Broiled Bacon Sandwiches with Prepared Mustard: Wrap a very thin slice of bacon around a 1-inch cube of American Brick Cheese, and fasten the bacon in place with a toothpick. Place on end of long fork or sharp stick and hold over the campfire until the bacon is crisp and cheese slightly melted. Place in rolls spread with Mustard Butter, prepared by combining 1/2 cup butter creamed with 2 tablespoons Prepared Mustard.

nothing like a good slug-out to enliven proceedings every now and then, and the "A" and the Indians certainly provided one. The final score was 15 to 17 in favor of the Athletics, the game going 18 innings and lasting four hours and five minutes, the longest game in eleven years in the American League. The winners made 28 hits, the losers 33 hits. Fox, of Philadelphia, hit three homers, and Averill of Cleveland, chalked up one. Johnny Burnett, of the Indians set a new record when he collected nine hits in eleven trips to the plate. A new record for the most runs scored in a single inning was also established. In the seventh frame, Philadelphia scored seven runs and Cleveland came right back in their half of the stanza to score it. Rommel won the game for the Athletics after twirling 17 innings.

Reds Are At Home

The Cincinnati Reds wind up a long home stay this week with a series against the champion St. Louis Cardinals and an exhibition game with the Washington Senators of the American League. On Saturday, July 23, the Reds and Cardinals clash at Redland Field in a single game. On Sunday, July 24, the clubs will stage a double-header. The Senators play at Redland on Monday, July 25. Sunday's double-header will be a real attraction. The Reds walloped their "ins" soundly in a recent series and will have to do it again to prove to the fans that the club is really cured of losing to the Cardinals.

S. O. S. For Hafez

President Well of the Reds has just released some interesting statistical data on the effect which the loss of Chick Hafez has had on the club. Of 324 games played in the National League to date, 99 have been decided by a single run. Of this number, the Reds have been involved in 33, or nearly a third of all the close contests played in the league. The Reds have won only 11 while losing 22. Had Hafez been in the line-up, Well contends, the club would very likely have turned that record about to make it read: won 22, lost 11. Of the truth of that contention there can be no doubt—Hafez can make a vast difference in the Reds.

Bean-Ballers are Out

American League pitchers with a reputation as "bean-ballers" are going to have a tough time dusting off batsmen from now on. That dangerous and unsportsmanlike practice has been banned by the League. Violations will be penalized by the removal of the offending twirler from the game. A second offense will draw a ten-day suspension and a third offense will merit a 30 days suspension. The established practice of unnerving batters by deliberately pitching at their heads has long been one of the few unsportsmanlike acts tolerated in major league baseball. Several accidents have occurred and serious injuries resulted from batters being hit in the head by pitched balls, often thrown intentionally. The bean-ball has been used time and again by veteran pitchers who aren't accustomed to big League pitching.

Dickey Loses Argument

Bill Dickey, New York Yankee catcher who engaged in a fist-fight with a opposing player several days ago, has been fined $1,000 and suspended for 30 days by the American League, despite protests from the New York management. Apparently the league officials are determined to put a stop to fighting on the ball field and will not countenance further activities along that line. Dickey expected to be "let off" lightly but instead received the most severe penalty that has been given any ball player this year.

A Good Suggestion

A suggestion has been made to officials of the United States Golf Association that the National Open Championship be played over a four-day period rather than in three days as is the present arrangement. The suggestion is a good one and should be acted upon. Certainly, there is no particular reason for forcing the contestants to labor thru two rounds on the final day. The tourney is played late in June when the weather is extremely hot and those finals rounds represent a serious physical trial. Relieved of the necessity of playing 36 holes on the final day, the stars would very likely play better golf.

Columbus Gets Excited

The Columbus team of the American Association last week appointed a new manager, Bill Southworth of the Rochester Red Wings, to replace Harry "Nemo" Leibold, pilot of the Columbus Senators since 1926. The sudden drop of the club and evidences of dissension led to the move. Columbus lost six games in a row and during a series at St. Paul, the players openly showed their hostility to Leibold. Since it is much cheaper to get a new manager than a new team, Leibold had to go. At that, he probably wasn't reluctant to leave since the Senators appear to be on their way down hill.

Poland Wins

You've got to admire Stella Walsh, famous woman runner, for her determination to combine her prowess on the cinder track with the important business of earning a living. Miss Walsh was originally scheduled to compete in the Olympic Games at Los Angeles as a representative of the U. S. On July 1, however, her position in the office of the New York Central Railroad was abolished and she was left without work. Miss Walsh, who is still a citizen of Poland, immediately announced that the Polish legation at Washington has offered her a position there, presumably on the condition that she race for Poland. The star accepted, and announced that she would enter the Olympics as a Polish competitor. This announcement created consternation among the American officials, and the Cleveland public recreation department promptly offered her a job there if she would reconsider. Miss Walsh deliberated but finally refused when she learned that Olympic amateurs cannot be in the employ of public recreation departments, such employment constituting an infringement of the amateur standing. So Stella Walsh will race for Poland late this month at Los Angeles.

Helen Is Undecided

Helen Wills Moody, national women's tennis champion, may not defend her title at Forest Hills, New York this year, and if she does not, a wide-open fight for the crown can be expected. Helen is in Europe at present and like the life over there so well that she may not come back in time to compete. Be that as it may, the other feminine stars are delighted to hear it because it means that anyone has a chance, is cop the championship. A tennis championship without the great Helen, however, is something like a cart without a horse—there's no one to lead the way.

SEWING CIRCLE

The girls sewing circle of the Corneracker 4-H Club met last Tuesday afternoon at Mrs. Henry Kottmyer. They are about finishing with their last article of sewing. Some of them are planning to attend camp at Alexandria. The last sewing meeting will be July 26th.

NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sullivan, of Menzies Hill, Inc., request that as many of the Sullivan family of Boone county to meet with them at their home on Sunday July 30th, in honor of their son who will be at home from the Navy at that time. Everyone bring a small lunch.

AT CLUB CAMP

Donald Kirkpatrick, Harold Kelly, Clora and Joseph Rouse are delegates from the Burlington Blue Ribbon Club to the 4-H Club Camp at Alexandria this week. We are hoping that they will return with much valuable information on club work for us.

LUCILLE RYLE, Club Reporter

Mrs. Beckham Courtney, of Oelatin county, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Lester McBe. Mrs. Courtney formerly lived in Burlington while her husband was employed in the construction of the Burlington-Bellevue pike.

BOYS AND GIRLS, AND ELEVEN ADULT LEADERS ENJOY 4-H CLUB CAMP AT ALEXANDRIA SIX COUNTY AGENTS AND THREE CLUB WORKERS ATTEND.

The North Kentucky 4-H Club Camp held at Alexandria the past week was reported by members and leaders who have attended previous camps as one of the best held to date. A total of 99 boys and girls, 11 adult leaders, six Northern Kentucky county and home agents and three 4-H Club workers took part in the event.

Boone county was represented by 22 members, two adult leaders and the county agent. All Boone county members took part in the full camp program winning many special camp honors. Mr. Allen Kenyon of the North Champion 4-H Club was awarded the 4-H Silver medal for outstanding work. Miss Mary Lou Yelton of the Silver Leaders 4-H Club, Mr. Leon Ryle of the True Blue 4-H Club and Mr. Melvin Kenyon of the Corncracker 4-H Club were awarded the star camper honors.

Each member of camp was put thru the standard Y. M. C. A. athletic test and those members attaining scores considered outstanding were athletic honors. Miss Jane Taylor of the X-L-All 4-H Club scored almost a perfect score and was awarded the highest camp honors in this work. Miss Ruth Kottmyer and Miss Bessie Reeves of the Corncracker 4-H Club also won special honors among the girls in this event. Mr. Melvin Kenyon of the Corncracker 4-H Club scored the highest place among all the boys of the camp. He was followed closely by Lloyd Kelley Jones of the Silver Leaders 4-H Club and Leon Ryle of the True Blue 4-H Club.

Those Boone county members to attend camp were Miss Mary Lou Yelton, Wallace Aylor and Lloyd Kelley Jones of the Silver Leaders 4-H Club, Messrs. Harold Kelley, Clore, Joseph Rouse and Donald Kirkpatrick of the Blue Ribbon 4-H Club, Mr. Leon Ryle of the True Blue 4-H Club, Mr. Allen Kenyon of the North Champion 4-H Club, Miss Jane Taylor and Messrs. Mickey McCauley, Gregory Resser, Duane Resser and Clifford Baurer of the X-L-All 4-H Club, Mr. Melvin Kenyon, Richard Kottmyer, Earl Reeves, James Hartness, Bessie Reeves, Virginia Peeno and Ruth Kottmyer of the Corncracker 4-H Club and Lawrence Kendall of the Waltonians 4-H Club. Miss Lucille Taylor adult leader of the X-L-All 4-H Club and Mrs. Henry Kottmyer adult leader of the Corncracker 4-H Club attended the camp full time as second and third year camp leaders respectively.

The 4-H Club members and the county agent wish to thank Miss Taylor and Mrs. Kottmyer for their splendid leadership and Supt. D. H. Norris, the Boone County School Board, Mrs. J. L. Jones, Jr., and Mr. Henry Kottmyer for their splendid cooperation in the transportation of members to and from camp.

Mrs. Myrtle Charles and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Brush, Mr. Evans Jenkins of Dayton, O. spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Aylor. Miss Velma Phillips returned home with her aunt for a week's visit.

The Furlong property, which was exposed at auction last Saturday by J. M. Lassing, Executor, brought very satisfactory prices, considering general conditions. Many articles of personal property, however, sold very cheaply, although the real estate brought $2,200.00. A piano, particularly, sold for a "song," so to speak, when it fetched but one dollar. Calvin Cress, local blacksmith, purchased a sewing machine for twenty-five cents and later found 18 cents in a drawer.

Miss Alice Walton, of Erlanger, spent one day last week with Mrs. Harold Conner.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hickman, Ray Hickman and family, of Florence, spent last Sunday with relatives at North Star, Ohio.

BLUE RIBBONS MEET
The Burlington Blue Ribbon Sewing girls met Friday, July 22 with three members present.

We have started our last article and are getting along fine.

Vera McClure, Sec'y.

WILL RETURN

Dr. J. B. Snipper, Optometrist, who was associated with F. Pieper the Jeweler for more than eleven years, will again return to F. Pieper, 216 Madison Ave. On and after August first, where he will have full charge of the Optical Department, and will be more than glad to render his high class service as he has during the last eighteen years.

INSPECT EXPERIMENT STATION FIELDS

County Agent H. R. Forkner in company with a number of other northern and central Kentucky agents have made plans for the inspection of experimental fields on the Experiment Station farm at Lexington on next Friday.

The Kentucky Experiment Station has for a number of years been doing some outstanding experimental work on tobacco and Red clover strains have been developed that are highly resistant to wilt, crown rot, fungous diseases and other diseases that in most sections made this formerly leading Kentucky legume crop unprofitable. If a number of demonstrations in Boone county planned for next year show that these strains are as well adapted to the county as they are on the Experiment Station farm the growing of this important roughage and soil building crop will be greatly increased.

CO-OPERATION URGED

Harvest Home Base Ball Club will give a Big Benefit Dance at Harvest Home Grounds Thursday night, August 4th, 1932.

As committee of this big dance and good time I am requesting all good friends and lovers of good base ball to help this big time over financially for the benefit of continuance of base ball in Boone county and management of our first Boone County Club can come thru and win Northern Ky. Championship through the elimination games. We intend to have lots of entertainment, good music, cats and refreshments. Besides several added attractions. One special will be Zimmerman's Club House Jug Orchestra that's making such hits everywhere. Also we are going to give away a ton of coal and other attractions.

General admission 25c. Dancing 50c including admission.

Tickets can be had from management or any ball player.

Again I am asking your cooperation with this.

BEN E. ZIMMER, Chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. (Jack) Sandford, of Glendale, Arizona, are spending a few days with relatives in Boone county and Indiana. Jack formerly was a valued citizen of Burlington, where he still has a host of friends.

Reports from Murray, Kentucky, where Prof. C. C. Lamb has been confined in hospital for approximately two months are not very encouraging over his progress. Step on it, "Sheep," and get out of there!

Mr. and Mrs. Ramey Graff, of Florence, were calling on Mrs. Alice Snyder here Saturday evening. Mrs. Graff formerly was Miss Helen Gaines, daughter of C. L. Gaines and wife, of Florence.

CAR STOLEN

FROM COLLINS & VEST GARAGE AT WALTON FRIDAY NIGHT—THIEF ALSO APPROPRIATES BLANK BILLS OF SALE AND RUBBER SIGNATURE STAMP

Last Friday night a thief entered the garage of Collins & Vest in Walton and stole a new 1932 Chevrolet Sedan, a radio and several other minor articles. The loss was observed by a mechanic, who opened the garage on Saturday morning.

No signs of any breaking of windows or doors was observed, which led authorities to believe that the robber entered the large doors by means of a skeleton key.

Sheriff Snyder was informed of the robbery at once and he is endeavoring to obtain some clue that will lead to the recovery of the stolen property and arrest of the thief.

The thief was apparently a very clever one as he obtained several bills of sale from the desk and the rubber signature stamp of Mr. Collins, so that he might issue his own bill of sale and thereby obtain a license for the car.

UTOPIA TOUR

TAKES AGRICULTURAL FIELD AGENT TO HOMES OF EIGHTEEN MEMBERS—PICNIC OUTING AND, TWO HOUR SWIMMING PARTY ENJOYED AT HOME OF HUBERT CONNER

Eighteen Utopia Club members were visited by Boone County Utopia Club members in a tour held by the Club last Tuesday, July 19th. Mr. Carl Jones, field agent from the College of Agriculture assisted in the inspection of the work and records of the members tobacco, poultry, landscape gardening and room improvement projects.

The project work being carried by members showed considerable development in agriculture and home economics when the short time that Utopia Club work has been under way is considered. Mr. Wilford Seikman is successfully growing approximately one acre of Latham raspberries cultivated and staked according to recommendations. Mr. Kirtley McWehly raised 217 bushels of potatoes on his acre project last year receiving an average of 207 bushels per acre this year on the same ground. Grant Maddox, Wilton Stephens, B. C. Stephenson and George Whorley are carrying on their second or more and Wm. Cox, Robert Hafer and Lloyd Siekman their first years work in complete farm accounts. The members are also making good progress in their room improvement, landscape gardening, household budgeting, tobacco and other Utopia projects.

A picnic outing and a two hour swimming party followed at the farm of Hubert Conner in the afternoon. Refreshments served by Mrs. Conner at this time were very greatly enjoyed by all attending.

Misses Martha Blythe and Londa Lee Jarrell spent last Friday night at the home of Miss Mildred Anderson, of the East Bend road.

Miss Wilma Cotton spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Stott in Petersburg.

Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Love, of Petersburg, are celebrating the arrival of their daughter at their home since July 22.

At the regular hour for church service last Sunday morning the various classes of the Sunday school presented a musical program. Each class rendered a number, either vocal or instrumental.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

Dizzy heights do not a downfall make, nor winning teams a deficit. How's that for a proverb to fit the times? We dedicate it to the Pittsburgh Pirates, first in the National League pennant race at this writing. The Pirates have ably demonstrated the fact that all you have to do to make money in a major league base ball is produce a winning team. Isn't that simple?

Six weeks ago there weren't enough base ball fans in Pittsburgh to make up one table of bridge. At that time the Pirates were resting comfortably in seventh place with no immediate prospects of moving up. Interest was not only low in Smoky Town, it was dead. None of the other league clubs liked to play there because they were never sure of making even expenses on the trip.

Now, however, the Pennsylvania Village is all a-hum instead of a-bum, and any excursion into Forbes Field is likely to produce lots of what it takes to run ball clubs. The Pittsburgh fans are wildly excited and are entertaining pennant hopes with reckless abandon.

Somehow, or other, we can't quite see the Pirates as the National League champions; but far be it from us to spread disillusionment. At a time like this. The Pittsburghers unquestionably have a great team with such players as Paul and Lloyd Waner, Pie Traynor and others. The pitching staff is doing admirable work, far better than was expected. George Gibson, the manager, knows how to handle his men.

Still and all, there is Chicago, Boston and St. Louis to be considered. In fact, the fans had better

AYLOR FAMILY

KNOWS ANNUAL RE-UNION AT HOME OF E. J. AYLOR LAST SUNDAY—ONE BROTHER, LEWIS, ONLY ABSENTEE—J. A. RIDDELL, OLDEST GUEST PRESENT

The annual reunion of the family of the late Jameson Aylor was held at the home of E. J. Aylor, near Hebron, last Sunday, when about 48 guests were present. Every member of the family was present, except one brother, Lewis, of Ludlow, who was unable to attend for business reasons. The family consisted of seven boys and two girls.

An old fashioned basket dinner was served at the noon hour. In the afternoon a base ball game was played with the women being lined up against the men. We regret that we do not have the box score of this game. Later in the afternoon ice cream was served.

James A. Ridwell, who is in his nineteenth year, was the oldest guest present, it is said.

JAMES F. MURRAY

James F. Murray, aged 79 years, passed away Saturday morning at his home in Florence, Ky., after having been in bad health for several months. He was born in Canada. Three sisters and a brother preceded him to the grave several years ago and he has no relatives surviving.

He was baptized in infancy in the Presbyterian church. His mother, father, three sisters and one brother preceded him to the grave several years ago. He being the last member of the Murray family.

Mr. Murray will be greatly missed in the town of Florence as an honorable, honest and upright citizen. For many, many years he had been in the hardware business and was noted for his upright dealing with his customers.

The pall-bearers were Jno. Delaunay, C. F. Blanton, Frank Bowers, Louis Houston, J. G. Renaker and Mr. McKibben.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Harlow Haas at the Tallaford Funeral Home in Erlanger, after which he was laid to rest in the family lot in the Florence cemetery.

Prof. J. A. Cawood and son, of Crescent Springs, paid a short visit to Burlington Thursday afternoon, calling on Mr. and Mrs. Marce Ridwell.

figure on Brooklyn, Cincinnati, New York and Philadelphia also. It's a tight race and anything can happen. The Cubs are right behind Pittsburgh, waiting for Gibson's men to take the expected tumble. Boston is patiently waiting for both Pittsburgh and Chicago to do the Humpty-Dumpty act. Any one of the other clubs may be in at the kill.

And speaking of the kill, this race reminds us of nothing so much as the antics of a pack of wolves on the trail of Little Eva. Heaven help the team that falters—the rest of the pack will be on top of it in an instant.

Reds Go East

Our own Redlegs, after a trying time at Redland Field during the past few weeks, have departed for the wild and woolly East where they will try to recoup their fallen fortunes. Our bet is that the team returns home in a far better condition; and we base that contention on no better evidence than the fact that there is a limit to everything, including tough luck. Unless President Sidney Wehl was born unlucky there's hope.

Oddly enough, Cincinnati fans are not so disappointed with the Reds as they are sympathetic with Sidney Wehl. Any town can tolerate a losing ball club, but sportsmen hate to see another sportsman take it on the chin. If the present position of the club was due to Wehl's mistakes as a club owner, the fans would quickly turn against the Cincinnati magnate. But Wehl has done everything possible to build his club into a contending outfit, has risked financial disaster, risked

HEBRON 4-H CLUB TOUR

The North Champion 4-H Club of Hebron will hold a tour of each of its members on Thursday, August 4th. Plans are to visit as many of the project members as possible and to check up on project work and records. Each member will bring a picnic lunch which will be eaten at the noon hour.

MILLS-BARLOW

Mr. and Mrs. John Walter Mills announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their youngest daughter Louise Rebecca to Ralph Edward Barlow, of Union, Ky.

The above announcement has been received with much pleasure by the many friends of this young couple in Boone county.

Miss Mills' home though in Alabama has spent the greater part of her girlhood in Union. She is as lovely as beautiful and with her charming manner has endeared herself to all who knew her here.

Mr. Barlow is the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie R. Barlow of Union and is associated with his father in a most successful business there. He has grown up in this county, and is very popular in both business and social circles. He has a host of friends who will be delighted to know that he intends to make his home in Union after he is married.

Already this young couple have been thrown into a round of social activities which will not be concluded until the middle of August when the bride-to-be leaves for her home to make final preparations for her wedding which will take place Tuesday, September twelfth, at the home of her parents.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

Brother Joe Millson and family were greatly missed at the regular service Thursday evening.

However, we were very glad to have Sister Weimann and a group of her friends with us.

Our song service was led by Bro. Clarence Carson and Mrs. Weimann.

After a number of good testimonies were heard the Scripture lesson and a short message were brought to us by Sister Weimann. An invitation to a social meeting to be held August 6th, 1932, has been extended by Mrs. Hazel Kennedy.

The members of the Mission Musical Society are requested to bring their musical instruments.

Don't let the intense heat keep you away from Sunday school, for it is now held in the evening, after the last hot rays of the sun have hidden in the west. Come and worship with us.

FOOD PROJECT TO MEET

The members of the food project of the Blue Ribbon 4-H Club will meet at the home of Lucille Ryle, near Idlewild, Thursday of this week. All are urged to be present.

LONDA LEE JARRELL

Mr. and Mrs. Lamar Congleton and family, of the Petersburg pike, spent last Sunday with Jailer Elmer Kirkpatrick and family.

Miss Velma Phillips, of near Burlington, is spending a few days with relatives at Dayton, Ohio.

BARN BURNS

ON FARM OF W. L. GAINES NEAR WALTON—NO STOCK IN BARN, NEIGHBORS SAVING FARMING IMPLEMENTS—INSURANCE COVERS LOSS

A horse barn and two small sheds, located on a farm belonging to W. L. Gaines two miles north of Walton, were burned to the ground Monday night about nine o'clock.

There was no live stock in the barn at the time, although it contained a number of farming implements. However, neighbors arrived in time to save the latter. The origin of the fire has not been determined.

The loss was covered by insurance in the Boone County Farmers Mutual Insurance Company.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rogers, of Bellevue, left Tuesday morning for New York City, where they will spend a few days with their son, George, who is an attorney there.

Mr. Jess Current, William Taylor and daughter, of Covington, were week-end guests of G. C. Jarrell and wife.

GYPSY VILLAGE

LOCATED AT FLORENCE FINE GROUNDS—CITY WITHIN A CITY—IS FINISHED OVER BY MAYOR HARRY FORBES

A new town has been started in Boone county. But, oddly enough, it is within the corporate limits of another. Over at Florence within the fair grounds enclosure there are approximately 150 gypsies encamped. They are well equipped with tents for sleeping, tents for cooking and all necessary camping paraphernalia. Manager Harry Forbes is "mayor" and so far as is known no investigations have been conducted into his conduct of the affairs of the gypsy village. It is indeed an interesting spectacle and well worth one time to pay the new formed city a visit.

FARM ACCOUNT BOOKS—TO BE CHECKED

Twenty-one Boone county farm account cooperators will be called on next Monday and Tuesday, August 1st and 2nd by Mr. E. E. Proctor, field agent from the College of Agriculture and the county agent. Those keeping complete records last year will receive a statistical comparative analysis on their farm business and those who are keeping records for the first time will receive help in bringing their books up to date.

Complete farm accounts, keeping made easy thru the use of the Kentucky Farm Account Book, furnishes the most accurate complete business record on the farm business. Each cooperator is visited twice each year and assisted in his farm account problem.

DISTRICT 4-H CLUB SHOW

The second District 4-H Club Show will be held at the Trotting Horse Breeders Association grounds at Lexington on August the 23rd and 24th. This is the only district show of its kind held in the U. S. All exhibits will be made by 4-H Club members for the several hundred dollars in prizes being offered. Boone county 4-H Club members are urged to make plans to exhibit their products at this exhibit. The county agent will make plans for the transportation of the exhibits.

SALT WORTH $120 PER TON

One pound of salt compared with no salt in hog feeding is worth three bushels of corn according to Grady Sellards, field agent in hog production from the College of Agriculture in a visit to a number of Boone county hog feeding demonstrations on Wednesday, July 13th. Three bushels of corn at the present price of 40 cents per bushel would make a pound of salt worth $120.

A hundred pounds of tankage compared with no tankage is worth 7 bushels of corn or $2.80 per 100 pounds when compared on the above basis.

The following named persons spent the day Sunday July 24th, 1932, with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Sullivan at Moores Hill, Ind. Everyone took lunch with them and enjoyed the day very much:

Mrs. Mollie B. Corson, Mrs. Anna S. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Akin, of Rising Sun, Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Sullivan, Mr. Mrs. Elmer Sullivan and daughter Marjorie Lee, Mr. Lewis Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Sullivan, son Millard Edward and daughter Shirley Mae, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McMullen, Mrs. Chas. Beemon, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Akin, daughter Elva, son Roscoe and his friend Zelma Lee Stephens, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barnes and son Clifford Lee, of Burlington, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Akin, Kenneth and Lloya Bruce, Mrs. M. E. McWehly, Helen Fay, Alfred Eugene and Alice Pearl, Miss Nelle Musselman, Dayton, Ky.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hall, daughter Myrtle, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Wetzel, Mr. and Mrs. Loren Wetzel and son Junior, of Moores Hill, Miss Dorothy Warner of Lawrenceburg, Chas. Kenneth Sullivan, of Chicago.

Miss Lucille Ryle spent Friday night in Burlington with Manley Ryle and family.

Miss Elizabeth Holbrook is enjoying a short visit with Mrs. Alma Wilson, in Covington.

Miss Jessie Lambert, of Covington, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer and family, of East Bend road.

The Family Garden

THE FALL GARDEN

By John E. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

A few weeks ago, that part of the fall garden was discussed that needed starting then; this article takes up the list of vegetables to be sown from now on. It includes greens and salads, turnips and radishes.

GREENS AND SALADS—Because fall greens and salads are in season occupied by a previous crop, soil preparation is simple, especially if early potatoes in the crop they follow. Generally, all that is needed is smoothing the soil with a rake. If the replaced crop was early cabbage, or beans or sweet corn it is advisable to work the soil with a hoe or a potato hook.

Fertilization is likewise simple, for usually enough plant food is left; it is, however, not bad practice to spread a light coat of manure to assure nitrogen, for leaf crops need nitrogen.

The greens include spinach, kale and turnips. The varieties are, respectively, King of Denmark, Siberian and Seven Top, King of Denmark spinach is recommended because of its hardiness; Siberian kale, likewise.

August 1 is the sowing time, the kale may be started as late as September 15. As for spinach it is well to sow 30-foot rows at intervals of 2 weeks, up to October 1. One ounce of spinach sows 50 feet; one ounce of the others, 100 feet.

Fall greens are usually sown broadcast, but, better, is to sow them in rows from 15 to 24 inches apart so that if the plant lice come, as they usually do, spraying with tobacco extract may be done. Fair measure of control of plant lice may be had by sprinkling crumbled trash tobacco among the seedlings at the rate of five pounds to 100 feet of row, or five pounds over a space of 300 square feet, when the seed is sown broadcast.

The salads are Chinese cabbage, endive and lettuce. There are two ways of raising them. One is to sow the seed in rows, 30 seed to a foot and thin the seedlings to a stand of 18 inches for Chinese cabbage, and 8 inches for the others. The other method is to raise the seedlings in a special seedbed, setting them in the garden when they are about 6 weeks old. Sowing time is August 1.

Plant lice may be controlled as just described except for Chinese cabbage. It should be closely watched, and if the lice come, sprayed with tobacco extract.

All the foregoing are subject to attack by cabbage worms and other leaf-eaters. Although their control is applying arsenicals, this is dangerous practice. Non-poisonous dusts or sprays, as for example pyrethrum, should be used, instead.

Chinese cabbage may be kept for a month or two in a cool, moist cellar; it does not bear burying or "pitting" well. Lettuce and endive may be had until after Thanksgiving, set in a glass-covered cold-frame. Varieties are Won Bok Chinese cabbage; White Curled endive; Wonderful head lettuce, and Grand Rapids or Simpson leaf lettuce.

TURNIPS AND RADISHES—The same cultural methods as for these. So does insect control. All that remains is to enumerate varieties. These are Purple Top Globe turnips and Chinese (rose or white) winter radishes, although the remnants of seed left from the spring planting may be used. Turnips may be stored in a moist cool cellar, or they may be buried, for winter use; so may the radishes if the Chinese varieties have been used.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to publicly thank all who came to help us in our recent trouble. The suddenness of Virginia's passing on to a better world left very little opportunity for our friends and neighbors to do the many things that they would so gladly have done.

Our gratitude we express at this time to Dr. Gladys L. Rouse who did everything as a friend and physician to save and keep her with us. To Chambers and Grubbs who efficiently conducted the funeral, to the choir selections rendered, to the pall-bearers and for the beautiful floral pieces, we express our appreciation and the consoling words of Rev. Miller has somewhat lessened our sorrow and gave us courage to carry on.

WILBUR D. KELLY AND FAMILY

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Gaines, of Atlanta, Ga., are visiting relatives in Boone county this week.

The newly organized Y. W. A. of the local Baptist church held its regular meeting last Friday afternoon with about 25 guests present.

The Bullittsburg Y. W. A. was present and rendered a fine program. Mrs. M. M. Hoilday, young peoples leader of the North Kentucky District, was the principal speaker. After the business session the W. M. U. served a delicious lunch.

Approximately 41 girls have registered for the opening of the girls session at the Y. M. C. A. camp on Gunpowder creek near Burlington. The girls took charge Wednesday of this week the boys periods all having been closed. Unless further registrations come in the camp will close on August 3rd.

Mrs. Ida Thompson and grandson, Overton Thompson of Cincinnati, were Sunday afternoon callers at the home of R. E. Berkshire and family Sunday.

Don't forget the base ball picnic at the Harvest Home grounds on Saturday, August 6th. It will be given for the benefit of the Harvest Home base ball club.

Arthur Delph, well known denizen of Woolper Creek, was in the county seat on business for a short time last Friday. A family familiar with the Woolper neighborhood knows where the old Delph homestead is located. Arthur ekes out a comfortable living from diversified employment. He is an accomplished auto mechanic, good blacksmith and farmer. We even recall when Arthur took a turn at base ball with more or less indifferent results.

Fifth Sunday church services will be held at Hopeful near Sunday at 11:30 A. M. and at Hebron Lutheran at 8:30 P. M., (Eastern time).

Congressman Brent Spence, of Ft. Thomas, lost little time in getting in touch with his Boone county friends after his return from Washington. He made Burlington a hurried call last Thursday afternoon and expressed his unbounded confidence that he would be re-nominated and re-elected to the post he now holds. Mr. Spence brought us the first news of the court decision which pronounced that the congressional candidates would run at large, instead of by districts as formerly.

Burwell Neal, of St. Petersburg, Florida, was calling on the Lassing family here last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Neal formerly hailed from Dry Ridge, but at present is engaged in the insurance business with C. H. Lassing and Company, of St. Petersburg.

Local News

The Pilgrim Holiness church closed their revival services in the North section of town Sunday night after a three week's meeting. They will be at Union Friday, August 5, for a few days meeting. They cordially invite everyone in that section to attend their meeting.

R. W. Tanner, of Erlanger, was in Burlington on business last Saturday morning.

Ray Hickman, who has been employed at the Fair Store for several years, is taking his vacation this week.

Otis Rouse and family, of Petersburg, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Porter.

Mrs. Lillian Presser spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Nick Webster of the Bellevue pike.

C. F. Blankenbaker, one of Boone county's most prominent and progressive farmers and bankers, was a Burlington business visitor Monday afternoon.

Sheriff Herbert Snyder and wife moved Monday from the Eddins property to the home he recently remodeled and which he purchased from Elmer Kelly.

Miss Elizabeth Thornton, of Evansville, Indiana, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Cason and family of the East Bend road.

Prof. Marshall Hearin and wife, of Clay, Kentucky, are spending a few days with Mrs. Pearl Hughes and sons of Burlington.

Mrs. A. B. Oldham, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., is enjoying a visit with her father, J. W. Goodridge, and wife, and niece, Miss Kathryn

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of W. H. A-S the week of August 1, 1932. The program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

August 1—Poultry pointers for August, Stanley Caton. Activities of Utopia club members, C. W. Jones.

TYPHOID FEVER WARNING

Typoid fever was the subject of a warning issued yesterday by Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer. While there is no serious epidemic of this disease anywhere in the State at present, many new cases of typhoid fever are being reported each week to the State Department from various sections of the Commonwealth. The heavy rains of the past few weeks, with resultant disposal of filth of all kinds in or about sources of water supplies, are likely to be a predisposing factor in increasing the incidence of the disease at this time. In view of these facts and of the further fact that typhoid is apt to be spread in mid-summer and the early fall, it is urged that every possible precaution be taken to prevent further spread of the disease.

Every case of typhoid, it is pointed out, comes from swallowing the germs, or seeds, of the disease, and such germs come from just one source. This source is the waste matter—the bowel and kidney discharges—of the human beings who are sick with the disease or else are "carriers" of the germs. "Carriers" are persons who, although not sick with the disease themselves, have typhoid germs growing in their bodies.

When human wastes coming from typhoid cases or from "carriers" are not properly disposed of, they are apt to get into, says Dr. McCormack, water, milk and other foods, and, through such agencies, be transmitted to well persons. Water is usually infected by sewage or surface drainage; while milk and other foods are liable to be infected by fingers or by flies contaminated with typhoid germs. If all waste from human bodies, it is pointed out, could be ways so placed that it would be inaccessible to flies or could not be carried by human fingers, or get into sources of drinking water or into milk supplies or other foods, typhoid fever would soon become an extinct disease.

Typoid fever, while one of the most dreaded, is also one of the easiest to control and obliterate of all the communicable diseases. Its prevention, in the opinion of Dr. McCormack, may be largely summed up in one word—"cleanliness." And by "cleanliness" is meant not only clean foods, especially milk, and clean water, but also cleanliness of person and surroundings. Typhoid fever has always prevailed where cleanliness is neglected and diminished in proportions as cleanliness has been intelligently observed.

The following are the precautions against typhoid urged by Dr. McCormack:

1. Drink only water which has been pronounced safe by the health officials.
2. If the water supply is polluted or there is any doubt about its purity, boil all water used for drinking, for bathing, for washing hands and face and for washing uncooked foods and vegetables. Chlorination will also render water safe; ask your health officer as to the proper method of doing this.
3. Scald dishes and tableware.
4. Partake only of milk and milk products above suspicion or that have been pasteurized.
5. Every householder should immediately see to the cleaning up of his premises, getting rid of filth, manure, and other breeding places for flies and making all privies fly-proof and sanitary.
6. All homes, especially the kitchen, dining room and sick-room, should be carefully screened against flies, which are constant carriers of filth germs.
7. All cisterns, wells and springs should be protected from surface drainage.
8. Avoid bathing and swimming in open and unprotected waters, since most of these are heavily contaminated with germs of filth-borne diseases.
9. Always observe the simple precaution of washing the hands before eating and of keeping the fingers and other unnecessary objects from the mouth and nose.
10. Every person who cannot be assured of safe food and drink or who is necessarily exposed to unsanitary conditions, should be immunized against typhoid fever by means of typhoid vaccine. The State Board of Health manufactures this vaccine in its own laboratory and furnishes it free to health departments and practicing physicians. The inoculation is harmless and, when completed, furnishes immunity for two or three years. The State Board of Health is now urging the people of Kentucky immediately to consult their family physicians for protection.

Dr. McCormack urges that the family physician be promptly called when any member of the family develops a continued and continuing fever or evidences any other symptom of typhoid. In this way, an early diagnosis may be made, proper medical care given and instructions in preventing the spread of the disease received. Furthermore, the physician in attendance can then report the case to the Health Department, which, in turn, will cooperate with both the family and the physician in preventing and controlling the spread of the disease.

Twelve Meade county farmers grew strawberries this year with highly satisfactory results. They set eight acres of Aroma berries in 1931, at the suggestion of County Agent Ray Hopper, who advised them regarding cultural methods. B. Hardesty, the only farmer to keep records, reported returns of $132 from an acre of berries, with $20 in expenses for slips and crates.

Rudy Hendon, a Calloway county farmer, received $181 an acre from two acres of tobacco grown in the two-acre project conducted by County Agent C. O. Dickey, last year. Seven tons of manure and 385 pounds of superphosphate were applied to the acre, and 185 pounds of 4-11-5 fertilizer per acre used in the row. Six and a half acres of tobacco grown by Mr. Hendon, treated with seven tons of manure per acre, and 300 pounds of superphosphate in the row per acre, returned $90 per acre.

Seventy-four men and women and 26 county and home agents from 20 counties attended a 4-H club leaders conference at the Western Kentucky Experiment Station at Princeton June 28-30. The program consisted of demonstrations in the best methods of carrying on 4-H club work, including the organization of clubs, conducting club meetings, recreational programs, music, etc. Twenty-three thousand farm boys and girls in 90 counties are members of 4-H clubs.

Forty McCracken county farmers cooperated in purchasing cans and other equipment to can their dewberry crops, after the price of fresh berries dropped to an unprofitable point. Strawberries and raspberries brought substantial profits to farmers in the Purchase counties.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so lets forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

HARVEST HOME WINS SECOND GAME OF ELIMINATION SERIES

Latoria Merchants went down before the big bats of Harvest Home Sunday in a game marred by errors. The visitors having no less than 7 errors while the home boys had 4 misplays.

Braun led the hitting attack with a single triple and home run in five times at bat, while Shearer drove out a single and double.

Bobby Ross was the fielding star with several nice stops and also having an unassisted double play. J. Cahill made a diving catch, robbing Dudgeon of a hit.

In the third round next Sunday Harvest Home will meet West Side Hotel, classed as the best traveling club in the circuit, and the home boys are out for revenge, as it was this team that gave them their only real defeat of the season. Chick Caldwell, who was with Louisville earlier in the season will take the mound for the visitors, while Boehler will again be the starter for the home team.

As an added attraction the management has secured a parachute leap to be made from an airplane. Anyone desiring to ride in the plane can do so at a very reasonable rate before game time.

Do not forget the picnic at Harvest Home grounds Thursday evening August 6th for the benefit of the Harvest Home club.

ed the humiliation of defeat, and still continued to fight his own way thru a series of misfortunes that haven't been matched in base ball history.

Hafey Out Again

Just when it looked like Chick Hafey, the Reds' star left-fielder, was going to return to the game and bolster the Cincinnatians, the extreme heat arrived and shoved Hafey back into the sick list again. It was a severe blow to the club. At present Hafey is resting in Canada, regaining his strength. He hopes to rejoin the team in the East, this week and assist in the whirlwind finish. The loss of Hafey has not only cost the team a great deal in spirit, but also a sizeable amount in cash. Club officials have estimated that the financial loss has been about $130,000 to date. It is reported that the club paid St. Louis approximately $50,000 for the star whose services they have not been able to use. Since Hafey has been out of the line-up, the Reds have won 16 and lost 30 games, 15 of these by a single run.

Lots of Squabbles

Last week was official Squabble Week in the world of sports, with golf and tennis claiming the spotlight. At Louisville, Ky., officials of the National Public Links Golf Championship had a tough time ironing out difficulties between themselves and members of the New York team. The New Yorkers were informed before the start of play that their expense would be paid for only five days. The players immediately packed up and started for home, their amateur dignity offended. Matters were finally straightened out, however, but not before the press had a great deal of publicity thru the press. It is, indeed, a strange sight to see amateurs, supposedly impervious to money, argue over a day's expenses. In New York, tennis players started the same kind of argument, and again the public was treated to the sight of amateurs haggling over cash. Mind you, we're not saying the boys who were wrong. We merely control that such episodes effectively "show up" the amateur code for what it really is. Officials of the Seabright Lawn Tennis and Cricket Club informed the players that expenses of eliminated players would not be paid. The players immediately refused to play, contending that they attracted the admissions and therefore should receive some of the money.

What we want to know is, just exactly what is the difference between an amateur and a professional? Be Careful, Gene! We always suspected that politics and boxing go well together. It's always a good precaution to take a few lessons in the many art of self-defense before going into politics because you never know who's going to tackle you in a dark place and grab your votes. James Farley, chairman of the New York State Boxing Commission, recently piloted Franklin Delano Roosevelt into the Democratic nomination for President and proved that politics and fighting make strange but effective bedfellows. Now comes the news that Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, is slated to succeed Farley on the Boxing Commission. Tunney, it is said, has the support of Farley, Roosevelt, John Curry of Tammany Hall and others. How about running Jack Dempsey on a third-party ticket?

Sets New Record

The international speedboat record has gone back to England, and as far as we're concerned, it can stay there. Kaye Don, noted British speed demon, set a new mark of 119.81 miles per hour at Loch Lomond, Scotland last week, thereby beating the old mark held by Gar Wood of the U. S. Just what great advantage accrues to the human race by such exploits is hard to say. For most of us, a trip in a speedboat at 119 miles an hour would be anything but joyous; and we certainly would never think of going to Europe in that fashion even if the trip were possible. Like trans-atlantic airplane flights, it's all very beautiful, but it doesn't mean anything!

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bell, of Louisville, are spending a few days with J. B. Arvin and wife.

COUNTY WIDE

ORGANIZATION PERFECTED BY BOONE COUNTY FARMERS AT MEETING AT BURLINGTON LAST SATURDAY NIGHT—TEMPORARY OFFICERS NAMED

A large crowd attended the meeting of the Farmers Alliance at Burlington last Saturday night.

A Constitution and By-Laws was adopted for a county organization, and temporary officers to serve until the first of October were elected. Mr. E. J. Aylor, of Hebron, was elected President; Mr. Sam Sleet, of White Haven, was elected Vice-President; and Harold Crigger, of Burlington, was elected Secretary and Treasurer.

Mr. Al Rogers of Bellevue called the attention of the farmers to the fact that most farm land is assessed for considerably more than it is worth, and urged that the farmer insist on fixing his own value upon his own land for taxation purposes, and not let the tax assessor fix it for him. This is the only means by which the farmer can hope, under present conditions, to get a reduction in taxes.

The farmer is paying too much taxes. He is entitled to a big reduction. He has the right to put his own valuation on the tax list. If he puts the value too high, he cannot complain about high taxes, unless the Commissioner and the Board of Equalization raise the assessed valuation above his own valuation.

The Constitution and By-Laws adopted will be published at a later date.

FARM RECORDS SHOW MORE MONEY EARNED

Forty-two Boone, Kenton and Campbell county farms on which complete Farm Account Records have been kept during the past five years earned 1.2 per cent more in 1931 than in 1930. These farms returned an average of 4.4 per cent in 1932 and 3.4 per cent in 1930 on the total investment.

Mr. R. E. Proctor, field agent in farm management from the College of Agriculture assisted county agent, H. R. Forkner on Monday and Tuesday of this week in supplying to those farmers keeping complete records a statistical analysis of their farm business. The analysis compared their enterprises with the average of the 42 farmers keeping records the past year, the average of the ten most profitable farms and the average of the ten least profitable farms. The total capital investment of the ten highest, the ten lowest and the average of the 42 farms was practically the same being $13,825.00 per farm. The big difference was in the individual earnings of the farms which varied from $2024.00 net earning for the highest to a loss of $1630.00 for the lowest.

Control of expenses and more efficient crop and livestock production practices were the strong factors on the more profitable farms. The higher net income of 1931 was secured not from greater receipts but thru a lower cost of production. The keeping of complete farm account records combined with the comparison analysis supplied each cooperator by the College of Agriculture gives the farmer an accurate index for the studying of the strong and weak points of his farm business. By correcting the weak points in the farm organization the farm business can be put on a more profitable basis.

50 CERTIFICATES ISSUED

More than 50 12th street Market Applications have been supplied by Boone county truck crop growers by County Agent H. R. Forkner for the selling of their crops on the Cincinnati market. Last year 78 Boone county farmers secured applications. There have been more applications to date than were made at this time last year.

The 12th street market in Cincinnati is reserved as a farmers market and all growers selling on this market must secure applications signed by the county agent. The growers using this market have reported they are well pleased with the prices received with the other market locations.

C. L. Cropper was back on the job at the Peoples Deposit Bank Monday after a two weeks vacation. G. S. Kelly, a fellow employee, now is enjoying his annual two weeks respite from the arduous task of "checking and double checking."

A SURPRISE BIRTHDAY DINNER

Miss Gladys Webster, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. Webster, of Walton Route 1, was greatly surprised Sunday when a party of relatives and friends gathered at her home with a basket dinner to celebrate her 14th birthday. Quite a number were present. All brought well filled baskets which were greatly enjoyed. In the afternoon games were played. Many pretty and useful presents were received. All left wishing Gladys many more happy birthdays.

INTERESTING EXPERIMENTS

A number of interesting crop experiments are to be seen on the Kentucky Experiment Station farm. The County Agent in visiting the farm the past week studied some of the following experiments which indicate the results given.

Crop rotation with use of legumes so as to keep a growing crop on the land at all times has given greater increased yields than has heavy application of manure.

Grasses growing with legumes seem to be more efficient in the holding of the nitrogen collected by the legume bacteria than where legumes are grown alone.

Soy beans over a period of years in rotation decrease yields where clover increase yields of corn. Orchard grass in the second rotation than has soy beans.

Certain strains of Kentucky Red clover remain good stands where others die out the first year.

Two tons of lime per acre is all the lime that is needed for the growing of clovers on any Kentucky soils. Excessive applications applied just before tobacco decreases the yield and quality. If applied just before the small grain or clover increases the yield of these crops.

Practically all moose in tobacco is due to careless handling of the plants in the plant bed.

A large number of root rot resistant varieties and wilt resistant varieties of tobacco are being developed and studied.

Cross bred and selfed strains of corn have been developed which out yield old strains and which have various colored and shaped stalks.

Corn stalks and cotton seed meal have been found to supply heat over a longer period of time for a hot bed than does manure.

TOURING SCOTLAND

We have at hand a post card from London, England, telling of a recently completed tour of Scotland by the Rev. Edgar DeWitt Jones, of Detroit, Michigan. Dr. Jones occupied the pulpit in one of the historic churches of Glasgow during his journey. He states in his message that he motored a distance of 800 miles in Scotland.

CHICKEN SUPPER

There will be a chicken supper at Hopeful church Saturday, August 13th. The price will be fifty cents, including ice cream and home-made cake.

Next Saturday will find the leading Hughes Chapel team in the Boone County S. S. League at Burlington for a crucial game. The Burlington team has visions of dislodging the H. C. boys from the top rung and eventually landing themselves. At any rate it should be a good game.

Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. Atwood have been visiting L. C. Weaver and family for the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Atwood have been handling circulation contests in North Carolina this summer.

J. M. Eddins is improving the property he recently purchased from the Furlong estate by the erection of a front porch. When completed this will improve the appearance of the property immensely.

Franklin Frazier of the Upper Tygart 4-H club in Carter county is fattening 70 capons.

The new dance hall at Conner's lunch room has been repainted and the floor sanded until it affords a splendid dancing surface. A large crowd enjoyed the evening there last Saturday. Both modern and old fashioned square dances are indulged in and the Conner corner is growing in popularity.

Clifton Roberts, of Covington, spent a few hours on local tennis courts last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Bess Rouse spent the past week-end with relatives in Cincinnati.

Mrs. C. H. Bridgewater and son James, of Akron, Ohio, are visiting Mrs. Bridgewater's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Fowler.

IMPROVEMENT

IN CONDITION OF G. C. LAMB RECORDED IN LETTERS RECEIVED BY EDITOR THIS WEEK—POPULAR SCHOOL TEACHER CONVALESCING AFTER ILLNESS OF 13 WEEKS

To say that we were pleased to receive a letter from G. C. Lamb this week doesn't come close to expressing our real feelings. It had been reported, and reliably so, that he might not recover and certainly that he would not be able to assume his post as assistant principal of the local high school this fall. His letter, however, sets at rest any doubt about his being on hand at the opening of the school season.

Mr. Lamb has been ill for eighteen weeks, first being stricken just before the end of the school term last spring. He was in bed here 14 days before going home and soon after his arrival there he had his tonsils removed. Shortly after that he was operated upon for appendicitis, which resulted in numerous complications and set-backs.

For several days after the major operation his life was despaired of by attending physicians. However, he weathered the storm and has been sitting up for the past week. He states in his letter that he feels fine and is certain that he will be in fairly fine fettle when the first of September rolls around.

The catalogs for the North Kentucky Fair are about off the press and will be ready for distribution by the first of the week. Contrary to some reports the board is preparing for a good fair. They are extremely liberal with their premiums in view of the economic conditions and deserve commendation for their spirit in going ahead with the fair this year in the face of such difficulties as they no doubt will encounter. That they will receive the same generous support from the local fair going public is conceded.

Court decisions delayed the copy for the ballots for next Saturday's primary so long that the Recorder printing force has been forced to work day and night this week to get them out on time. Since the North Kentucky Fair catalogs were in the shop at the same time it has about made all of us ready for a ride to Lakeland. We hope that the readers of the Recorder will pardon a shortage of news this week.

Mrs. G. C. Jarrell is visiting relatives in Cynthiana, Ky.

LOCAL CHAPTER

OF EASTERN STAR LODGE CONDUCTS ANNUAL INSPECTION WEDNESDAY OF LAST WEEK—TWO GRAND OFFICERS ATTEND

Four Star Chapter, No. 387 O. E. S. held its annual inspection Wednesday evening, July 27, at the Masonic Hall in the Peoples Bank Building, Burlington. Mrs. Mae Bauer, Deputy Grand Matron acted as inspector officer.

The chapter was honored to have as guests two Grand Officers, Mrs. Minnie K. Rouse, who is, Grand Conduress of the Grand Chapter of Kentucky, and Mrs. Opal Harrison, Grand Chaplain. Mrs. Dixie Hill Worthy Matron, of Bristol Chapter Erlanger, was present as were visitors from Ludlow, Walton and Bellevue Chapters.

SOME PUMPKIN!

L. R. Barlow tells the champion pumpkin story of the age. He says that last fall Stanley Rich brought him two pumpkins. At Christmas time they made one of them into pies and the other laid around his store all winter and summer. Part of the time it would be on a cracker barrel, the next day on the floor behind the stove. In other words the pumpkin was manhandled and maltreated shamefully. But it weathered the storm manfully and last week appeared to be in such good condition that it met the fate of its predecessor and was made into pies. Mighty few pumpkins live to be a year old.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Cowen, of Wyoming, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Lou Brink and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jacob, of Chicago, Illinois, were Saturday afternoon callers at the home of Mrs. Laura Martin.

Dr. L. C. Cowen and wife, of Riley, Ind., Indiana, spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Laura Martin and Miss Pink Cowen.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Aylor, of Door Knob Ridge, entertained the following guests last Sunday, it being Mr. Aylor's birthday: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kirby and family, Miss Elizabeth Kirby and William Phillips, all of Cincinnati.

A. H. Jones and family spent Sunday at a summer resort near Madison, Indiana.

E. E. Fry and Tom Roberts, of Walton, were in Burlington last Friday afternoon.

ATTEND CONVENTION

Those from Boone county who attended the state American Legion convention at Middleboro last week were: L. T. Ute, R. W. Tanner, J. P. Brothers, James Pettit, Robert Eastman and O. R. Russ.

The convention adjourned last Wednesday with the election of officers and the naming of Overbrook as the site for the convention next year.

Carter B. Blamper, Beattyville attorney, was named as State Commander. He succeeds Bacon R. Moore, of Harrodsburg.

West Side Hotel went down Sunday before Harvest Home in the third of the elimination series in one of the best games of the season.

Harvest Home was out hit 7 to 5 but managed to bunch 3 hits with two walks in the fourth for four runs which was sufficient for their tenth straight winner.

Red Robinson, pinch hitting for Aylor in the fourth drove out a triple in the same inning.

Bobby Ross again put up a classy game at short, handling no less than eight chances, several of which were difficult.

One of the best crowds of the season was out Sunday and the rooting of the loyal fans is giving the home boys much encouragement.

500 PEOPLE

ATTEND MAMMOTH MILK MEETING AT HEBRON FRIDAY EVENING—EASTERS AND BELLWELL MAKE INTERESTING TALKS—ANOTHER SUCH GATHERING SCHEDULED FOR NEXT FUTURE

About five hundred people attended the milk meeting at Hebron last Friday evening, which had been arranged for by the Farmers Alliance. Mr. Stowell, President of the K. I. O. and Mr. Hartke of the Co-operative Pure Milk Association, gave two very instructive and interesting addresses pertaining to the outlook for better prices for milk to the producer. The meeting had been called for the purpose of finding out what steps the dealer was taking to reduce the cost of distribution, so that the producer could get a much larger share of the consumer's dollar than he is now receiving.

The answer to this most important question was not satisfactory to the producer. Hard times and too many cows does not answer the question. Hard times should hit the price everyone receives in producing and distributing milk alike, but it has not. The burden of the reduction in the wholesale and retail price of milk has been borne entirely by the producer.

It is difficult to understand why the producer should receive a net of about 6 cents a gallon for Class I milk when the consumer pays 40c a gallon for the same milk. Before the war, the retail price of milk was about 40 cents per gallon, and the producer received a net of about 16c a gallon for the same milk. Why the difference? The answer is that the dealer and the milk wagon driver are hogging the consumer's dollar.

It takes more brains, more money, and more labor to produce a thousand gallons of milk than it takes to distribute it to the consumer after it is produced. The producer is entitled to at least 30 per cent of every dollar paid by the consumer for milk. He must get that. The dealer and the milk wagon driver must cut their share. If they are not willing to do it voluntarily, they must be made to do it.

It is evident that the Alliance is on the right road, and is the only organization for the betterment of the milk producer and for higher prices to the producer that is on the right road. The Alliance insists upon a strong fighting union of all milk producers and farmers for the purpose of demanding a much larger part of the price paid by the consumer. This demand must be made, and it must be made and backed by the force of the united front of every farmer and dairyman. Every dairyman, every stock raiser, every truck gardener, and every tobacco raiser should join the Alliance at once. If this is done, and it must be done, the farmer will get a better price for milk and a better price for his produce, unless the economic conditions grow worse and the retail price of milk and other farm products drop. It is not probable that general business conditions will grow materially worse, as there appear to be many signs that indicate more employment, more business, higher commodity prices, and a better day within the next six months.

It is probable that another big milk meeting will be held in the near future. It is only by meetings and by publicity that the farmer can be aroused to the need of organizing and standing together in demanding a better price for his products.

BLACK ROT IN GRAPES

Black rot in grapes is destroying most of the home vineyard crops in the county at the present time. This fungous disease is usually easily controlled by one or more applications of 3-4-50 Bordeaux spray.

UTOPIA MEMBER RECEIVES $189.85 FROM RASPBERRIES

Mr. Wilford Stekman of Burlington, R. D. 1, a Boone County Utopia Club No. 2 member sold 63 crates of Latham raspberries from his one half acre project for an average of $3.01 per crate or a total of $189.83. His berries were cultivated according to the hill system and the berries produced were both large and of high quality.

Rev. J. W. Campbell, pastor of the Bullittsville Baptist church, was a Burlington visitor Thursday morning.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

Salty old Kenesaw Mountain M'Lands, he of the battered felt hat and meditative pose who guides the destinies of base ball as High Commissioner, is probably offering a prayer of thanks nightly for the miraculous stroke of good fortune, financially speaking, that has favored major league base ball in this year of depression.

While incomes crumple, businesses rock from the impact of financial ouchs, and "professions" starve, base ball continues to operate on a paying and profitable basis in the big leagues; and therein lies a tale of a great "break." Gather around.

At the close of the 1931 base ball season, professional base ball was definitely in a bad-way. St. Louis had won the pennant again in the National League and by doing so boxed in fans there they had finished last. Base ball followers were good and tired of the Cardinals. In the same way, Philadelphia in the American League had long since worn out its "welcome" in parks around the circuit.

Worse still, the losing clubs had lost so badly that their own fans had given them up for lost. Chicago and New York made money in the National League; and New York, Washington and Philadelphia showed a profit in the American. All the other clubs, however, tottered on the brink of a tankful of red ink.

What base ball needed was a tonic—a couple of thrilling pennant races that would upset the dope and cause the fans to rush into the parks. That tonic had to be administered quickly, too, or something awful was going to happen to Landis' proteges. The difficulty lay in the fact that nothing could be done about it—any revival simply had to happen of its own free will and accord.

Well, it happened and major league base ball has been saved, for the time being at least. St. Louis and Philadelphia are out of the race for the pennants this year. The Yankees are on top by a substantial margin in the American, but Cleveland has rushed into second place and promises a real fight.

Washington is right up there also, with Philadelphia, St. Louis and Detroit close behind. The change has been even more remarkable in the National League. The Cards are no better than fifth. New York is seventh. Chicago, the greatest base ball town in either league, is second and drawing tremendous crowds. Pittsburgh, never figured as a contender, is first and Boston and Philadelphia third and fourth. In other words, the clubs that needed financial bolstering have stepped and and cured themselves.

Is it no wonder that Landis, anticipating the job of saving major league base ball from financial ruin is tickled silly at the turn of events?

It's UP to the Reds

Money matters in the National League would be hunky-dory if New York and Cincinnati were not so far down in the pennant race. There is apparently no hope for the Giants, who simply are without a winning team. The Gotham fans have rebelled and the club is losing money hand over fist. It's a different story with Cincinnati however.

The Family Garden

A HOUSE CELLAR STORAGE ROOM

By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture

Many gardeners will bury their cabbages and root crops for the winter, and this method commends itself in the event nothing better can be done. Better, however, is a cool house cellar, but the difficulty often lies in keeping it cool enough because of the house-heating plant. The way out is to partition off a room so constructed as to be little affected by the temperature of the rest of the cellar, and so arranged that ventilation can be given. Such a structure presents few difficulties to build.

A corner of the cellar should be chosen, one in which there is a window to the outside. The floor, if earthen, should be leveled, and the timbers that are to serve as the base of the walls laid to enclose a square, 10 feet on a side, for example. It may be wise to pour a concrete foundation, if there is danger of water in the cellar.

On the base timber, 2 by 4 studs are erected, 2 feet apart, secured below, and to the joists of the floor above. After having made the framing for a door, the studs should be covered inside and outside, with sheathing, which may consist of 55 and ends of lumber. Nails should be tacked to make neat joints, so that the air enclosed between the studs may serve as "dead-air spaces" for insulation. On the sheathing tack a layer of heavy building paper, or 5 or 6 thicknesses of newspaper, further to serve as insulation, and then apply the finish. Tongue-and-groove flooring or siding may be used, so may fibre-board, or even vertical planking with the joints striped.

The door should be of the same construction, and the edges should be beveled and padded, so that it may be closed air-tight.

We come now to the construction of the ventilating device. From the window, remove two panes of glass and replace them with wood or tin, and cut two openings, round or square, depending on the type of "ventilator" construction chosen. Each of these openings should have the same area, in square inches, as that of the floor of the room, in square feet. On the outside of one opening and pointing up, attach an elbow of furnace pipe, or of wood, and on it erect a length of pipe, or a wooden extension, 2 feet long. This is the stack to draw off warm air from the storage. In the other opening mount a similar elbow, and point down, attach a tube of wood or of masonry to reach to within 6 inches of the floor. Through this, cool air will fall with the outside.

The "ventilator" is operated as follows. We may suppose that the room is filled with potatoes or some other "cool" crop, and that the season is early fall, when the days are still warm, but the nights cool. The problem is one of bridging over the warm hours, and it is solved by opening both vents at "bandown," but closing them early in the morning. Later, when severe temperatures occur, it may be advisable to open the vents at midday to collect enough warm air to carry the crops safely through the night. The optimum temperature for the "cool" crops is 40 degrees.

In the event the "warm" crops are to be stored, a temperature of 55 degrees must be maintained. For this time, while the day temperature is still that high or above, it is necessary only to admit outside air by opening both vents, but the temperature should be checked frequently with a good thermometer, hung about 4 feet from the floor. Later, provision must be made for means to heat and dry the air of the storage. A small stove, even an oil stove, should be set at or near the bottom of the air intake and whenever the temperature falls below 50, or whenever the air is unduly moist, as indicated by condensation on the sweet potatoes, or squashes in storage, the fire should be started, and the vents opened at least partly. With the temperature at 50, and the condensation gone, the fire may be stopped and if the type of wall construction just described has been followed, the temperature can be held perhaps for days at a time. But, the thermometer should be continuously consulted.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so lets forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

FARMERS TO SEE
FRUIT TESTS AT PRINCETON FARM

Persons visiting the Western Kentucky Experiment Substation at Princeton at the annual field day meeting August 12th will see several fruit growing experiments which show possibilities in the production of strawberries, raspberries, apples, peaches and other fruit in this region.

Tests indicate that maximum strawberry yields can be obtained simply by applying limestone and phosphate and then seeding the land to sweet clover for one year, followed by strawberries. The use of additional fertilizers did not increase the yield, indicating that sweet clover was sufficient in itself, where lime and phosphate had been applied. Other tests are being made to determine the best age and type of strawberry plant to set, and with early and late runners.

A half-acre of Latham raspberries is being used to determine the number of canes to have per hill, the amount of pruning for best results, kinds of fertilizers to use, etc.

There are two peach orchards on the state farm. One is being used to find the best soil management, such as legumes, cover crop cultivation, and various different treatments. The other peach orchard is in tight silt soil, requiring tile drainage.

Five acres of apples are being treated in three ways. One plot is cultivated, with rye as a winter cover crop. Another part of the orchard is in permanent sweet clover, and still another part is bareground. The trees have done well in all three plots.

Melvin Jones, Union's leading real estate broker, was in Burlington shaking up business Monday.

The Lion Tamers, a colored team from Cincinnati, will play at Bellevue next Saturday afternoon. Several weeks ago this team played at Bellevue and was rained out. The Bellevue management is expecting a good turnout of fandom for this game.

Next week is August circuit court and it appears that there will be a great deal of activity before the week is out.

For Congress

We are authorized to announce
RICHARD C. NORTHCUTT
As a candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket from the Fifth (Old Sixth) Congressional District, subject to the action of the Democratic primary Saturday, Aug. 6, 1932.

-IN LATE AFTERNOON-

It was very late in the afternoon in Galliee. The dozen men who had walked all day over the dusty roads were hot and tired. The sight of a village was very cheering, as they looked down on it from the top of a little hill. Their leader sent two members of the party ahead to arrange for accommodations, while he and the others sat down by the roadside to wait.

After a bit the messengers were seen returning, and even at a distance it was apparent that something unpleasant had occurred. Their cheeks were flushed and their voices angry. Breathlessly they told it—the people in the village had refused to receive them, had given them blunt notice to seek shelter somewhere else.

The indignation of the messengers communicated itself to the others. This back-woods village refuse to entertain their master—it was unthinkable. He was a famous public character. He had healed sick people and given freely to the poor. In the capital city crowds had followed him.

"Lord, these people are insufferable," one of them cried. "Let us call down fire from Heaven and consume them." The others joined in enthusiasm. Fire from Heaven—that was the ideal. Make them smart for their boorishness! Show them that they can't affront us with impunity! Come, Lord, the fire—

There are times when nothing a man can say is nearly so powerful as saying nothing. Every executive knows that instinctively. To argue brings him down to the level of those with whom he argues; silence convicts them of their folly; they wish they had not spoken so quickly; they wonder what he thinks. The lips of Jesus lightened; his fine features showed the strain of the preceding weeks. He needed that night's rest, but he said not a word. Quietly he gathered up his garments and started on, his outraged companions following. It is easy to imagine his keen disappointment—

...Would they never catch a true vision of what he was about? Down the hot road they trailed after him, awed by his silence, vaguely conscious that they had failed again to measure up. In the mind of Jesus the thing was too small for comment.

"And they went to another village."

Eighteen hundred years later an important man left the White House in Washington for the President, with a letter from the Secretary of War. In a very few minutes he was back in the White House again bursting with indignation. The President looked up in mild surprise. "Did you give the message to Stanton?" he asked.

"Yes, and he tore it up," exclaimed the outraged citizen, "and what's more, sir, he said you are a fool."

"Did Stanton call me that?" he asked. "He did sir, and repeated it." "Well," said the President, with a dry laugh, "I reckon it must be true then, because Stanton is generally right."

The angry gentleman waited for the storm to break, but nothing happened. Abraham Lincoln turned quietly to his desk and went on with his work.

The Boone county wool pool sold 20,000 pounds of wool, at average prices ranging from $2.75 to $3.25.

This club is capable of winning, as evidenced by its rough treatment of the ambitious Phillies last week, and should it make that anticipated spurt, the club's coffers would bulge with deserved profit. At present, the Redlegs are on the road, touring the Eastern cities. A credible performance on this trip will bring the Redland fans to their feet, yelling. A credible showing will quickly elevate the Reds into a pennant contender.

No Bean Ballers Here

There may be so many "bean ball" pitchers in the American League that it is necessary to legislate against the practice; but there certainly isn't any such tendency in the National. So say the umpires who conferred with President John Heydler in New York last week. The umpires agreed that no ruling would be necessary on the "bean ball." Several new rules did result from the meeting, however. Henceforth, catchers will not wear so much "armor" around the legs. The umpires stated that their observations led them to believe that such protection encouraged the back-stops to deliberately block base-runners coming into home. Another ruling gives the base-runners two bases on a wild throw either from the outfield or on a relay to the infield when the throw goes into the players' dugouts. Also, when a batter misses the third strike and the ball goes past the catcher and sticks in the umpire's mask or protector, the batter will be given one base.

This latter ruling may seem a strange one, but was necessitated by an actual occurrence on the field. At the time there was no ruling to cover the play. Actually, very few pitched balls ever touch the umpire. Sometimes, however, either a pitched or a batted ball strikes the umpire, much to the delight of the fans who feel that the "big bum" had it coming to him. Verily, take all in all, an umpire's lot is not a happy one.

Sh! Blame it on the Depression

Apparently, the joke is on Cincinnati. When Queen City sports officials persuaded the Olympic Games swimming committee to schedule the swimming tryouts at Coney Island, they expected a great deal of favorable publicity to result. Actually, the Olympic stars who swam in Cincinnati have rushed out to California to report that of all the "blinky, blank" places, Cincinnati is the worst! It seems that the stars arrived in Los Angeles in none too good condition after their overland journey. They promptly blamed it on the intense heat which they encountered in Cincy and furthermore, criticised the heat of the water, which, they said, weakened them. That's gratitude for you.

Down go the Averages

Next to his Mother, a ball player loves his batting average best. On the strength or weakness of his clubbing usually depends the amount of salary he will draw the following year. Thus, July was a sad month for the Cincinnati Reds. Eight of the regulars lost ground, while only five bettered their marks for the month previous. Ernie Lombardi dropped from .354 to .339. Babe Herman slipped from .341 to .322. Red Lucas lost 18 points to drop to .303. Gilbert, Asby, Manion and Douthitt also slumped. Those who increased their averages slightly were Grantham, Roetiger, Crabtree and Durocher.

For the entertainment of those who like figures and statistics, the following items are noted. Five million voters will cast their first ballot in November. A mother 116 years old, and her son, aged 89, are granted a state pension in New Jersey. The population of Japan has doubled in 60 years. A Pennsylvania man has found a turtle carrying a date carved 71 years ago on its shell. Travel by airplane has increased 130 per cent in six months. A Canadian has picked up a bottle containing a distress message flung into the sea 34 years in the past.

"The Prince of Wales is practicing golf under an instructor nearly every day this summer," (Newspaper item. Who would wish to be burdened with the cares of state?)

Fulton county alfalfa has been cut three times, returning good yields at each cutting.

CONSTANCE AT HARVEST HOME
Harvest Home will meet Constance in the fourth game of the elimination series next, Sunday in what should be the best game of the season.
Constance has now lost two games and face elimination Sunday, so will be battling with their backs to the wall.
Constance was defeated by Ludlow and B. H. B. by the margin of one run and have one of the best balanced clubs in the league with the scrappy manager Joe Murphy at the helm.

Harvest Home has put in several practice games this week in preparation for this game.
On Friday evening Harvest Home will meet Bob and Oene's team in a twilight game to start at 6.30 p. m., at Elmore ball park.
This game will be played as a benefit for a player who has broken his arm in action and all proceeds will go for this player's family. Admission will be 10 cents.
Recorder Want Ada Fay.

W. T. Perry, of the Perry Printing Company, Cincinnati, was a special caller at the Recorder office Tuesday evening. Mr. Perry is well known in Boone county church circles, being the Secretary-Treasurer of the North Bend Baptist Association. He is a resident of Covington.
Rev. Sleete, of Covington, will begin a series of meetings at Bullittsburg Baptist church August 6th. Everybody invited.

THE BOONE COUNTY RECORD

"THE CROSSROADS NEWSPAPER"

VOLUME 57

Established 1875

BURLINGTON, KENTUCKY, THURSDAY AUGUST 31, 1933

THIRTEEN

PROVES UNDOING OF HARVEST HOME IN CONSTANCE SETTO LAST SUNDAY—BOEHLER LOSES FIRST GAME SINCE JOINING LOCAL TEAM—PROTEST IS FILED BY LOSERS—CONSTANCE TO RETURN TO HARVEST HOME PARK AGAIN NEXT SUNDAY

Wandering across a bleak waste Boone county base ball devotees might have found an oasis last Sunday had they had the foresight to invest a quarter at the Harvest Home base ball park. At that, many of them, sensing something far out of the ordinary, dug down for the necessary two bits and there they were—gazing at a fine base ball game, saturated with diamond thrills, technical arguments, other kinds of fusses and what have you.

Surfing it to say that they got twenty-five cents worth, no change requested nor "quarter" asked. Now that's a good one, but not nearly so good as this ball game. In order that we may beat some inquiring soul to it we make the bold assertion that the game lasted thirteen innings and the score was 6-2 in favor of the visiting team, two things about a ball game that readers always demand to know. On second thought we might add that the visiting team was Constance, for fear that someone might also want to know that.

While the box score with its fifteen hit total for Constance might not indicate the truth of the statement, nevertheless it must be said that it was a pitchers battle. However, the tiring Boehler allowed four of these in the last inning, while the youthful Ellis, who experienced some little trouble in the earlier innings, permitted but one solitary bingle after the regulation time had been completed. But it must be said for the losing hurler that he was tighter than a hot owl when it came to allowing runs to enter across prior to that dramatic thirteenth.

No less than five times did the invading team push the first man up to first base and, peculiar as it might seem not a run scored in any of these innings. Big George simply would not let them pass. In other words, his game was a master piece until the unlucky thirteenth and, even at that, he might have gotten by had it not been for a ridiculous miff of a pop fly for the second out.

On the other hand Ellis simply breezed after the fifth inning, allowing but three widely scattered hits during the last eight stanzas. In the third he had allowed the Harvest Home hustlers to push one across after striking out the first two batters, when Snyder singled, stole second and was sent across with Braun's single. That was all against him until the ninth when the corpulent Boehler, wielding a wicked mace and flashing unknown speed on the paths, manufactured the tying run all by himself. After one man was gone he slashed out a double, adding the extra sack by a bit of springing. Ralenkotter then smacked a grounder down to Miller at second, who fumbled momentarily, though he recovered in ample time to get his man. But, in the meantime, Boehler, in true Cobb fashion, had taken a long lead off second and dashed all the way home before the Constance infield knew what it was all about.

The first Constance score almost caused a war and in fact did result in a protest being filed, the result of which cannot be announced at this time. The bases were full with one man down in the eighth when Woods, the Constance catcher, drove a sharp line drive which Robinson captured in right. All runners were far off their sacks when the catch was made and the absent minded runner on third neglected the formal procedure of returning to kiss third good bye before setting sail for home. However, the arbiter in charge was tying his shoes and over looked the oversight and allowed the run to count in spite of the additional fact that the runner was trapped off first for a double play instant.

It is reported that the Harvest Home management protested on ground that the runner could not score on account of the fact that a double play was in progress which ended the inning. The umpire ruled that the run should count since the runner crossed the plate before the third put out was made.

BARKLEY

RE-NOMINATED BY TREMENDOUS MAJORITY OVER FORMER SENATOR GEO. B. MARTIN IN DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY—BRENT SPENCE AND J. LINCOLN NEWHALL GAIN PLACES IN CONGRESSIONAL LINE-UPS—JOHN YOUNG BROWN BREAKS SLATE

With the final tabulations almost completed in last Saturday's primary at press time it appears that Senator Alben W. Barkley will defeat former Senator George B. Martin by an overwhelming majority. The last returns received had the Paducah solon's majority well past the 60,000 mark.

In the statewide congressional race it appeared that the so-called slate had gone thru with exception of one man, John Young Brown, of Lexington; apparently having broken into the line-up to "displace" either Finley Hamilton, of London, or Charles Peaslee Farnsley, of Louisville. The last tabulations will be necessary to determine which one of these two will land in the ninth hole.

The other eight will include Fred M. Vinson, Virgil Chapman, A. J. May, W. V. Gregory, Glover H. Cary, Brent Spence, C. R. Carden, and either Hamilton or Farnsley.

The Republican line-up apparently will be: Maurice H. Thatcher, William Lewis, Robert Blackburn, H. H. Smith, B. T. Rountree, George P. Ellison, D. E. McClure, Hugh H. Asher, and J. Lincoln Newhall.

The Boone county vote follows:

EFFORELDA HENSLEY

Mrs. Efforelda Hensley, widow of the late William H. (Tip) Hensley, of Petersburg, passed away at her home in Petersburg last Sunday. She was buried Tuesday in the Petersburg cemetery after the funeral services in the Petersburg Methodist church of which the deceased had been a faithful member.

The deceased was 81 years of age last January and was married to W. H. Hensley in 1871. To this union were born two children, Mrs. D. B. Hoffman, of Petersburg, and Mrs. W. H. Crisler, of Lawrenceburg, Indiana. Both of these survive with two brothers, Senator S. W. Tolin, of Burlington, and Morgan Tolin, of Indianapolis, Indiana. One sister, Mrs. Laura Sebre, of near Burlington, also survives, as well as a number of other relatives.

AUTO CLUB

PLANNING TOUR OVER BOONE COUNTY ROADS—COVINGTON BODY SELECTS COMMITTEE TO COMPLETE ARRANGEMENTS—FISCAL COURT AND HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER TO ACCOMPANY CLUB MEMBERS ON INSPECTION TRIP

The Northern Kentucky Motor Club is planning a tour of the roads connecting Burlington, Hebron, Constance, Petersburg and other points in the near future it was announced at a meeting of the Board of Governors Monday night.

A committee composed of R. E. Culbertson, Russell Swetnam, John Klette, Harry Bosshelman and the Rev. Edward Klossierman, president of the club, was named to make plans for the trip.

Boone county fiscal court members and J. Lyter Donaldson, member of the State Highway Commission, will be invited to accompany the tour it was stated.

SECOND DISTRICT 4-H FAIR

The Second District 4-H Club Fair will be held at Lexington on August 23rd and 24th. All products at this fair will be owned and cared for by 4-H Club members of central, northern and eastern Kentucky. There are several hundred dollars in premium money offered for prize exhibits and the display is expected to be better than the good show of last year.

This is the second District 4-H Club Show to be held in Kentucky and last year was the first of its kind in the United States. Boone county members who have outstanding project work are expected to attend.

D. R. Blythe is remodeling his store and pool room this week. When the changes have been completed it will be so arranged that a separate entrance will be accessible to the store department, which will be in what formerly was the water house room. All shelving and counters will be removed from the main room, which will be devoted to pool tables and confections.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sleeman entertained the following guests last Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Aylor, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Aylor, Jos. Aylor, Miss Blanche Whorley and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Crigler, all of near Hebron.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

Despite the fact that the Olympic Games at Los Angeles are rated "A number one" among all sports during these first weeks of August, major league base ball continues to command the most attention with as surprising a series of happenings as has befallen the national pastime all season.

Olympic Games officials needn't worry about interesting the American sport public in that, Classic everybody is following the exploits of these athletes. But the fact remains that the Games—certainly haven't detracted from the base ball enthusiasm.

During the past few days, Roger Hornsby, manager of the Chicago Cubs, and Art Shires, first sacker of the Boston Braves, have been the center of great commotion. Hornsby has been fired by the Chicago management and Charlie Grimm, first-baseman, appointed in his place. Shires, the famous "Whataban" by his own admission has been ousted by Bill McKeckle.

In one week, two of base ball's most colorful figures have taken it on the chin. For Hornsby, it marks his fourth failure in the big league. The "Rajah" had previously played and managed St. Louis and Boston and had played under John McGraw on the Giants. On each occasion, Hornsby had been dropped "for the good of the team." Plainly, that meant that Hornsby was a bad influence and he has consequently won a reputation for being a trouble-maker.

When Chicago released Hornsby last week, the same old explanation was made—"for the best interest of the team." In this instance, however, it is difficult to see where the star exerted a bad influence. Chicago is well up in the first division

SUICIDE

FOUND IN CONSTANCE CEMETERY BY ED HETTEL AND HENRY MOYER—APPARENTLY HAD BEEN DEAD FOR SEVERAL WEEKS—SIXTY YEAR OLD MAN IS STILL UNIDENTIFIED—WAS HANGING FROM SMALL TREE WITHIN FEW FEET OF GRAVEYARD VAULT

While hunting squirrels Tuesday afternoon of this week Edward Hetzel and Henry Moyer found the body of an unidentified white man hanging to a tree in the Constance cemetery.

Hetzel and Moyer first located a small grip, which contained clothing. Upon looking about they spied the body hanging from a small maple tree just a few feet away. The tree was about three feet from the grave-yard vault. The body was in an advanced state of decomposition and apparently might have been hanging there for almost a month. He appeared to be a man of about sixty years of age.

Esquire Chester L. Tanner, of Florence, was summoned to the scene and he immediately empaneled a jury of investigation. The jury was unable to reach a verdict as to whether it was suicide or murder, but when the body was cut down no marks of violence could be found.

In the pocket of his discarded vest was found a railroad ticket from Cincinnati to Dayton, which had been issued on July 16, 1932. The grip also contained a new shirt and other clothing.

Sheriff Herbert Snyder was called to the scene on the supposition that it might have been murder, but was unable to find any clue to a conclusion.

Attendants at Circuit Court here this week spent their spare moments observing the process of painting the spire atop the "court house cupola. Howard Kirkpatrick, our linotype operator, showed his public spiritedness by purchasing the material for gliding the ball on the spire. "Jake" said he didn't like the idea of making it all white and everyone seems to agree with him since the job is finished.

A. D. Williamson, of the Waterloo neighborhood, dropped in at the Recorder office while attending court here Monday. Mr. Williamson has been a constant subscriber for the Recorder for many long years.

PETERSBURG

TAKEN LEAD FROM HUGHES CHAPEL IN SUNDAY SCHOOL LEAGUE RACE—BURLINGTON HANDS SET BACK TO LEAGUE LEADERS BY 4-0 COUNT—RACE TIGHTENS AND THE CLOSING WEEKS OF SEASON PROMISE A REAL FIGHT.

By virtue of their victory over the Bellevue Baptists last Saturday the Petersburg team went into the lead in the race for the cup in the Boone County Sunday school league. This was made possible by reason of the fact that Hughes Chapel, the league leaders, was handed a 4-0 setback by the Burlington aggregation.

Burlington remains in 3rd place, but within easy striking distance of Hughes Chapel. Akhn pitched a great game for the Burlington lads last week and hopes to repeat next Saturday against Hebron.

The following week Petersburg will play at Burlington when followers of both teams expect a warm battle. The schedule for games, this week appears in other columns of this issue.

Miss Mary Owens and Miss Marie Unglesby, of Price Hill, were Saturday guests of Mrs. Bess Rouse.

BOONE COUNTY HERDS

LEADS ASSOCIATION

The D. H. I. A. herds of Mr. Joel Gray of near Burlington and Mr. Ben Nitching of near Beaver Lick, led the Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Ass'n. herds during June in butter fat production. The purebred Guernsey herds of Mr. Gray produced an average of 785 pounds of milk and 38.0 pounds of fat during the month. The Jersey herd of Mr. Nitching produced an average of 675 pounds of milk and 32.2 pounds of fat during the month.

Beginning next Saturday, August 13th, the Harvest Home Dancers will operate weekly under an entirely new management. Chas. Henderson, of Covington, and Charles McClure, of Ludlow, have assumed charge of this popular dance arena. Their first advertisement will be located in other columns of this issue.

Mrs. W. A. Rourke, with her daughter, Mary, is spending the summer in Omaha. She brings a word of greeting from "Podge" Alloway, who was one of the dependable members of "Pa" Rourke's staff, in the happy days of base ball. Alloway, whose good right arm won many a game for the team, now has a chicken farm at Burlington, Ky., about 15 miles from Covington. He is prosperous, and likes to talk about the days he was making his home here.

Mrs. Ida Houston and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Houston, of Covington, spent a few hours with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Weaver Saturday evening.

FARMERS BANK

BURGLARIZED LAST FRIDAY NIGHT WHEN ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS IN PENNIES IS TAKEN FROM OUTER VAULT—BURGLARS ENTER SIDE WINDOW AND USE NITROGLYCERINE TO BLOW VAULT DOOR

Employing nitroglycerine as an explosive yegmen entered the outer vault of the Farmers Bank at Petersburg last Friday night and robbed the coffers of one hundred dollars in pennies and thirty-five dollars in nicels. A wrist watch belonging to H. A. Rogers, the cashier, also was missing.

Entrance to the bank was gained through a side window. No evidence of any attempt to blow the inner vault was noted by observers who investigated following the robbery.

It has been some twenty-five years since this bank was entered by robbers, who gained entrance by burrowing thru the side wall of the building.

While no clues were found near the scene of the robbery Sheriff Snyder is investigating the case in the hope of uncovering some outside evidence that might lead to the apprehension of the burglars.

TWO WEEKS

APPEARS LIKELY DECISION OF CIRCUIT COURT—COMMONWEALTH CASES TO REQUIRE MAJOR PART OF FIRST WEEK WITH CIVIL TRIALS SET INTO SECOND—JURY REMAINS TWO YEAR VERDICT IN HOBART HOPPERTON CASE

The August term of the Boone Circuit Court convened Monday morning with Judge J. O. Vallandigham on the bench and Commonwealth Attorney Ward Tager and County Attorney S. H. Riley on hand to handle the interests of the state.

A docket that was bedecked with numerous Commonwealth trials, as well as a number of civil cases, faced the court with the apparent necessity of going into next week for several days.

The only trial that had been completed as we go to press was that of the Commonwealth against Hobart Hopperton, charged with robbery of Earl Ackman, of Cincinnati. The jury in this case appeared hopefully hung when they were placed in charge of the sheriff at supper. The case for almost three hours. The vote stood 9 to 3 for conviction at that time. However, after supper they reached a verdict of two years in the penitentiary.

Rogers and Rogers, attorneys for the defense, were preparing a motion and grounds for a new trial as the Recorder went to press. Rev. F. E. Walker, pastor of the local Baptist church, opened the first day's session with prayer, affirming after having been placed in charge of the Grand and Petit juries. O. R. Russ, of Lima, was named the foreman of the grand jury, which was composed of the following men:

Prof. and Mrs. R. V. Lenta, of Constance, have returned from an extended Western tour which took them thru some eighteen states and past many historic and beautiful points of interest in the far West.

They spent most of their time while on the coast at Los Angeles, Pasadena and neighboring cities. During their journey they travelled 8,863 miles and burned 475 gallons of gasoline and 12 gallons of motor oil. They had but four punctures on the entire trip and all were on the left rear wheel.

Mr. and Mrs. Lenta took a straw vote on the presidential race while on their return trip and reported that after interviewing more than a hundred they found one vote for President Hoover. Upon inquiring the reason for this rare individual's stand they learned that he had a five dollar bet that the President would be elected. He said that he believed in backing his money with his vote.

Bedford C. Watson, of Florence, agent for a popular hot spot, paid the Recorder office a call Tuesday. Mr. Watson says that his protest is going like wild fire.

THE CLAN OF ROOSEVELT

One of the most curious illustrations of the fact that most people don't seem to know what is going on in the world is the receipt by Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, widow of the former President, of several hundred letters and telegrams congratulating her upon the nomination of her husband for the Presidency. It seems incredible that there is still anyone in America who does not know that Theo. Roosevelt died in 1919.

There were also a good many thousands who wrote to Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee for President, under the impression that he is a son of the former President. As a matter of fact, his wife is much more closely related to the late Theodore Roosevelt than Franklin D. Roosevelt is. She was the daughter of Theodore Roosevelt's brother, Elliott, and that makes her a first cousin to the present Theodore Roosevelt, Governor-General of the Philippines. One has to go back nearly two hundred years to trace the relationship of Franklin D. Roosevelt to Theodore Roosevelt, but it is there.

The first of the name to settle in America was a Dutch merchant named Nicholas Roosevelt, who came to New York in 1640. In 1742 the two brothers Roosevelt, named Johannus and Josephus. They were great-grandsons of the original Nicholas Roosevelt. One of them was the ancestor of Theo. Roosevelt, and the other of Franklin D. Roosevelt. Their descendants in both lines accumulated wealth and acquired high social position, but none of them was ever active in politics until Theodore Roosevelt, just out of college, was put up by the Republican organization in 1881 for member of the Legislature in New York.

He was supposed to be a safely Democratic district, and surprised everybody by getting himself elected. And Franklin Roosevelt, his distant cousin, made the same kind of a sensational entry into politics in 1910, when he was elected as a Democrat to the New York State Senate from a district which had been regarded as safely Republican.

terously at their games and got into trouble with their parents. And Joseph, the boy who worked in the carpenter shop, was a leader among them.

Sunday School Lesson

By Rev. Charles E. Dunn, D. D.
The Ten Commandments, II Exodus 20:12-13

The final six Commandments in the Decalogue are directed toward society, outlining man's obligation to his fellow.

The fifth Commandment sounds archaic in a day of severe tension between the older and younger generations. Taking unfair advantage of their freedom, children are some times loath to admit that there can be any merit in the idea of their parents' reverence toward one's elders. How refreshing to turn from flippant irreverence toward one's representatives of the "younger set" to that heartfelt veneration of Thomas Carlyle, crying out to his dead mother, "Oh, pious mother, kind, good, brave and truthful soul as I have ever found in this world!"

It seems unnecessary to stress the sixth Commandment. "Thou shalt not kill" in church circles. Yet while Christians very rarely deliberately commit murder, they are a party to those subtle forces that exact their toll in human life. Last year thirty-four thousand persons were killed in the U. S. by motor vehicles. Also, think of those fated for a premature death through undernourishment because of unemployment. Remember, too, the victims of that relic of barbarism, capital punishment. And then call to mind the millions sacrificed on the altar of Mars.

In this age of domestic tension and wrecked homes, due in large measure to unwholesome over-emphasis upon the physical delights of the sex relationship, the protest of the seventh Commandment against adultery is most welcome. We surely need a new conscience concerning marriage, a fresh emphasis upon the necessity of mutual loyalty and forbearance.

The eighth Commandment, condemning stealing, is a reminder that all things belong to God and are held in trust by His children. For one man to take more than his rightful share of goods is to rob God Who is no respecter of persons.

How much we need the warning of the ninth Commandment! Perjury, slander, back-biting, uncharitable judgment are all too common. It is surprising how prone we are to "run down" other folk.

The final Commandment has the approval of our Lord, who once expressed the warning, "Beware of covetousness," and of St. Paul, who laid his finger on the source of our present economic distress when he said, "The love of money is the root of all evil."

HEBRON

Miss Ruble Baker, of Ludlow, is the guest of Miss Alberta Baker. Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crigler and family were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. James Bullock.

This Ace-High Flavor Wins At Any Bridge Luncheon

By Sarah Blackwell
Coffee Service Institute

SUMMER visitors are the inspiration for one party after another with each succeeding business outfitting the home before her to make her party stand out above the rest. Since bridge is so universally the form of entertainment, the hostess must also entertain. For which of us can fail to call our party a success when guests demand our recipes for this or that? Very often the food which makes the party of yesterday is as economical as it is delightful. And it may have been achieved by the simple use of a familiar flavor in a new role.

Coffee, the nation's favorite at the breakfast table, makes a delicious refreshing food beverage and offers us one of the most delightful and unusual flavorings for summer desserts.

Good coffee flavor, for beverage or sweet, begins with careful coffee buying. Choose the blend which suits your own taste and buy it freshly roasted and freshly and correctly ground for your method of making coffee—coarse for pot, medium for percolator, fine for drip. Buy only a week's supply at a time for scientific tests have shown that coffee flavor is a very elusive thing and is lost to the air very rapidly.

In making coffee, careful measurements are important. Use two rounded or four level table-spoons to each measuring cup of water for iced coffee. This quantity is double strength and allows for the dilution caused by the ice when the hot beverage is poured over it and also gives the best coffee flavor for desserts.

My favorite summer party, whether the hostess or guest, is the bridge luncheon with cards following the meal. The hostess has her kitchen worries well off her mind so they, at least, will not be responsible for her tramping her partner's ace, and guests going home to dinner after the party will not have their appetites dulled by late afternoon sweets.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR
JOHN JOSEPH GANES, M.D.

A FRIENDLY CHAT

Our editor and I are trying to give our public the very best service that is in us. We must accept the popular opinion of our effort, whether it be good or bad. It is well sometimes to pause and "check up" on results. In this letter I try to do so from the family doctor's quarter.

That honest boy away up in Vermont, among the grand old maple trees; he likes "Family Doctor," and says so; he says it with some fine maple syrup by parcel-post.

And an Oklahoma reader, who has gained 27 pounds, his last letter explains his neuritis almost abated. And the dear woman over in New Hampshire—in her wheelchair for four years,—it's arthritis. She is improving on common-sense principles. There are so many—one this morning, from California; she is too fat, and asks some questions. All good people, I tell you. I cannot help loving them.

I almost hate to tell you of the ugly-minded crank from Indiana; he bemoans me with every vile word he can lay his tongue to—all because I am a friend to coffee. He even calls me a liar and tells me I am doing it consciously.... seven pages of awful, scurrilous abuse. I hope his tirade made him feel better—and it did me no harm whatever. In my library of nearly 3,000 volumes, and with nearly forty years of practical experience with coffee, I almost know what I am talking about, because I can prove my assertions. There is not a word in this abusive letter that my scrupulous friend can prove; so let him pass.

I do not ask anybody to believe my statements if they prefer not; and I do appreciate many more friends than enemies, as I pass in review among my fellow-creatures. Bless you all!

BOYHOOD BACKGROUND

Many leaders in history have had a superiority to personal resentment and small annoyances which is one of the surest signs of greatness; Jesus infinitely surpassed all. He knew that pettiness brings its own punishment. The law of compensation operates inexorably to reward and afflict us by and through ourselves. The man who is mean is mean only to himself.

The village that refused to admit him required no fire; it was already dealt with. No miracles were performed in that village. No sick were healed; no hungry were fed; no poor received the message of encouragement and inspiration—that was the penalty for its boorishness. As for Jesus, he forgot the incident immediately. He had work to do.

Theology has spoiled the thrill of Jesus' life by assuming that he knew everything from the beginning—that his three years of public work were a kind of dress rehearsal, with no real problems of crisis. What interest would there be in such a life? What inspiration? You who read these lines have your own creed concerning him; I have mine.

Let us forget all creed for the time being, and take the story of Jesus' life just as the simple narratives give it—a poor boy, growing up in a peasant family, working in a carpenter shop; gradually feeling his powers expanding, beginning to have an influence over his neighbors, recruiting a few followers, suffering disappointments and reverses, finally death.

Yet Jesus built so solidly and well that death was only the beginning of his influence! Stripped of all dogma his was the grandest achievement story of all!

If we are criticized for overemphasizing the human side of Jesus' character we shall have the satisfaction of knowing that our overemphasis tends a little to offset the very overemphasis which has been exerted on the other side. Books and books and books have been written about him as the Son of God; surely we have a reverent right to remember that his favorite title for himself was the Son of Man.

Nazareth, where he grew up, was a little town. In the fashionable circles of Jerusalem it was quite the thing to make fun of Nazareth—its crudities of custom and speech, its simplicity of manner. "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" they asked derisively when the report spread that a new prophet had arisen in that country town. The question was regarded as a complete rebuttal of his pretensions.

The Galileans were quite conscious of the city folks' contempt, but they bore it lightly. Life was a cheerful and easy-going affair with them. The sun shone almost every day; the land was fruitful; to make a living was nothing much to work about. There was plenty of time to visit. Families went on picnics in the moonlight and fell in love in the spring. Boys laughed boisterously

CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS

FARMERS ALLIANCE of Boone County Article One

NAME—

The purpose of this Association shall be:

1. To oppose the enactment of all proposed legislation by the nation, and by any state, county or city, and to endeavor to have repealed or amended any legislation already enacted by any law-making body, that is harmful or detrimental to agriculture.

2. To oppose all rules and regulations of any department or branch of any government, whether national, state or city, that impose undue restrictions or burdens upon the sale and marketing of all dairy and farm products by the producers thereof.

3. To demand and to insist upon the passage of any legislation by any lawmaking body, national, state county or city, that will be beneficial to agriculture or any branch thereof.

4. To strive for the reformation of state and local government, so that the cost of operation may be materially reduced.

5. To demand the adoption of a more equitable and just system of taxation, so as to relieve the farmer and the home owner of the excess burden of taxation now being borne by them for the maintenance of local and state government.

6. To seek to have adopted a credit system, better adapted to the needs and requirements of the farmer and dairyman than is now in existence.

7. To render whatever assistance possible to the State Highway Department and to the Fiscal Courts of the various counties, in reducing the cost of building and maintaining the better types of roads, so that a greater mileage may be built and maintained for the same or a lesser amount of money than is now expended for said purpose.

8. To take such steps as is necessary to reduce the cost of distribution of farm and dairy products, by reducing the margin between what the farmer receives for his products and what the final consumer pays for said products, and thereby increase the price of such products to the farmer.

9. To protect and promote the social and economic status and welfare of those engaged in farming and dairying.

ARTICLE THREE

Membership—

Any person, male or female, engaged directly or indirectly in agriculture, shall be eligible to membership upon payment of the initiatory dues fixed by the by-laws.

ARTICLE FOUR

Locals—

Section 1. Any number of persons, not less than twenty, (20), in any neighborhood in the county, shall have the right to form a Local in the community on the ratification and adoption of this Constitution and By-Laws.

Section 2. Each Local shall have the right to adopt a constitution and by-laws for its own government, but the constitution and by-laws adopted by the Local must not be in conflict with any of the provisions of this Constitution and By-Laws.

Section 3. Each Local shall be under the jurisdiction of the county organization, and shall be entitled to a membership in the county organization by electing the number of delegates hereinafter stated to represent the Local in the county organization.

Section 4. Each Local shall meet at least once each month, at a place designated in the by-laws of the Local.

ARTICLE FIVE

Delegates—

Each Local having a membership of less than one hundred, (100), shall be entitled to three (3) delegates to represent it in the county organization. Each Local having a membership of more than one hundred (100), shall have the right to elect, in addition to the three delegates, one additional delegate for each one hundred (100) members in addition to the first one hundred.

Section 2. The delegates shall be elected by each Local to represent the Local in the county organization for the year beginning the following first of October, during any regular meeting of the Local in the month of August or September of each year.

Section 3. The delegates, when they meet for organization on the first Monday of October, shall choose three (3) delegates at large from the county.

Section 4. A majority of the total number of delegates present shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business.

ARTICLE SIX

Time and Place of Meeting—

Section 1. The county organization shall meet in the town of Burlington, at 2:00 P. M., Central Standard Time, on the first Monday of October, January, April, and August of each year.

Section 2. The President of the county organization shall have the right to call a special meeting of the organization upon giving at least three (3) days notice, in advance.

Section 1. Each member of the Association shall pay the initiatory dues of fifty (50) cents, which shall entitle him to membership, and shall pay in addition thereto an annual dues to be hereafter fixed by the by-laws of the county organization.

Section 2. Each Local shall pay to the County Secretary and Treasurer, twenty-five (25) per cent of the initiatory and regular dues collected by it during the year.

ARTICLE EIGHT

Officers—

Section 1. The officers of the county organization shall be the President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, and they shall be elected on the first Monday in October of each year, for a period of one (1) year.

Section 2. The duties of the officers shall be the usual duties incumbent upon officers of similar organizations.

Section 3. The President shall appoint all committees, unless he requests that the committee shall be elected by the members present and voting.

ARTICLE NINE

Adoption and Amendment—

Section 1. This Constitution shall be in full force and effect as soon as it is ratified and approved by all of the Locals.

Section 2. This Constitution may be amended at any regular meeting, but no amendment shall be made except after ten (10) days notice to all of the delegates of the various Locals who compose the county organizations of the proposed amendment to be offered, and the time and place when and where it will be voted upon.

Section 3. The amendment must be approved by a majority vote of the members present and voting of three-fourths (3-4) of the Locals at a regular meeting following its adoption by the county organization.

BY-LAWS

Section One

The annual dues of each member shall be hereafter fixed.

Section Two

It shall be the duty of each Local to collect the annual dues from the members.

Section Three

It shall be the duty of the Secretary and Treasurer of each Local to pay to the County Secretary and Treasurer, the portion due the county organization from the dues collected. It shall be paid upon demand, or at some regular time to be hereafter fixed.

Section Four

Each Local shall have the right, for its own individual needs, to levy an additional sum upon each member.

SOW LESPEDEZA FOR SOIL IMPROVEMENT

A campaign conducted thru the cooperation of community leaders, business men and other interests with the county agent, resulted in 250 Edmonson county farmers sowing 7,000 pounds of Korean lespedeza seed this year and a definite program of soil and pasture improvement thereby launched.

The discontinuance of the asphalt and lumber industries has made farming the principal source of income in the county. Lack of funds to secure lime made most farmers dependent on legumes for soil improvement, lespedeza being the only one which will thrive without lime.

During the winter County Agent J. B. Williams endeavored to interest every community in Korean lespedeza. Elmer Constant, a Brownsville banker, financed the purchase of seed, and C. O. Huddleston and Tom Raymer, Brownsville merchants, weighed out the seed to farmers.

Community leaders assisting in encouraging farmers to sow lespedeza included Geo. McCombs, L. B. Dossey, J. L. Vincent, Eugene Waldays, C. P. Edwards and J. L. Sturgeon.

The lespedeza has done well, and practically every farmer is pleased with the results, according to Mr. Williams, who believes the acreage will be doubled next year and real progress made in improving the productivity of the soil of Edmonson county.

PUREBRED RAMS ARE PROFITABLE

An important problem confronting sheep producers at this time is the selection of rams to produce lambs which are to go to market next year. A visit to any stock yards where lambs are being sold emphasizes the difference between purebred rams and grade and scrub rams. Lambs that top the market are sired by purebreds while those of poorer breeding fill up the lower grades. In spite of this fact, many breed lambs continue to use to market in large numbers.

Experiments conducted at the Kentucky Experiment Station show clearly that purebred rams are profitable. In those experiments, lambs out of grade ewes and by a purebred ram weighed between 70 and 75 pounds at 120 days of age, while lambs out of the same kind of ewes but by a buck of unknown breeding weighed only 64 pounds at the same age. These scrub lambs were narrow, leggy, and shallow-bodied and lacked neatness and symmetry of build. Most important of all, they were not fat, and even though they were fed to the proper market weight, they never did get fat enough to go into the better grades. On the other hand, lambs sired by good purebred rams were shorter of leg, deeper and thicker of body, smooth and symmetrical in their form, and were fat enough to top the market at approximately four months of age.

SAYS PRUNING OF SHRUBS IMPORTANT

Many persons never prune shrubs. Others only cut off the tops. Neither of these methods is satisfactory if one expects to have good looking plants, says N. B. Elliott, of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Shrubs which are never pruned develop into dense masses, with dead wood all through the plants. Cutting off the tops removes much of the bloom-producing growth. The rule for flowering shrubs is to prune just after they have finished blooming. This is a safe rule to follow, but many plants grow out of bounds later in the summer, and it becomes necessary to cut them back.

It may be better to remove two or three of the older stems entirely, cut them off at the ground. This will usually head the plant back as much as desired and at the same time thin out the top. This method of pruning will not injure the bloom for the next season; in fact, it will often encourage additional flowering.

Plants that do not bloom until late in the season should not be pruned until late fall or early spring. Plants grown for their foliage only should be pruned in the spring, as a rule, and kept in condition by occasional light pruning through the growing season.

Most shrubs used in home plantings should have regular pruning. If they are to produce desirable plants. This pruning need not interfere with the bloom, but may make for better flowering if correct-lydone at the proper time.

GOOD MULES SCARCE; BREEDING ADVISED

Sales of horses and mules indicate a growing scarcity of good work stock in Kentucky, according to W. J. Harris of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. Few young and valuable animals have been offered this year. Orders for mule teams have been hard to fill, and when found they sold readily for $300 to $400 per span.

Most of the work horses and mules selling this year have been of poor quality, which points to an approaching exhaustion of available work stock, says Mr. Harris. Prices paid for young mules indicate that first-class work stock is bringing a higher price, in comparison, than any other farm animal made. "We have reached the point where the supply of young, well-broken and well-matched teams does not equal the demand," said Mr. Harris. "There are indications that this demand will increase. Many a farmer who puts up with a slow, inefficient team this year will be compelled to buy in a year or two, and when he will want a sound, active team."

Mr. Harris also expects the demand outside of Kentucky for mules of merit to increase. In view of this situation, he believes that farmers

BIRD A WEEK COLUMN

BROWN THRASHER

Turdus rufo-olivaceus is 11 1/2 inches according to Reed. In color it is a bright reddish brown, below white with black spots. Taken as a whole the song of this thrasher is the most musical and pleasing of any that the writer has ever heard. It is very much like the song of the cat-bird but is rounder, fuller and has none of the grating qualities of the song of that species. They apparently have a song of their own and do not seem to copy that of others. They are one of the most useful and desirable birds that we have. Their song is a bright and cheerful carol, often long continued but always clear and sweet, call, a clear whistled "weeuu." The Brown Thrasher is very lavish with his store of song in the real days of spring, and he is a wise singer too, and may be expected with absolute certainty by the middle of April. He comes along with the chimney swifts and Wrens. Any day after arrival one may find him singing at sunset. Selecting a branch so located that there shall be naught between him and the slanting and level lights of the east or west, he pours forth a rich and varied strain that loses little even by comparison with that of his more aristocratic cousin of the South. His song contains an ecstasy of delight, and when one sees him he presents a beautiful sight, the brilliant yellow of his eyes, the surge of his mottled breast, and the opening and closing of his long slender beak will mark him in a way that you can always distinguish him from other thrushes of the woodland. One finds thru a field grass that his feathers are streaked slate color from the crown of his head to his rump, and that here they change to a cinnamon-brown down to the end of his tail. He is almost as large as the Hermit Thrush and his white breast is conspicuously marked with many rich, even blotches. He is a bird of passing. Up in Canada where he often spends the summer, his music which with us is but a thrilling sweet hint of a real song, develops, it is said, into strains of considerable length and rare entrancing beauty. He is an inhabitant of the undergrowth where he passes much time on the ground foraging among the fallen leaves. Such works as hedgerows, shrubbery, about the borders of woods, scrubby growth, or thickets in dry fields, are alike frequented by the thrasher. Like many thickset-hungry birds, who like to shun observation, he seeks an exposed position when he wishes to sing. He has a favorite perch for morning and evening service which is usually in the upper branches of a tree. He does not like to be watched but likes to give his entire attention to his song. He is an accomplished musician, while his repertoire is limited to one air, he sings it with the richness of the Mockingbird in the manner he executes them. He is a wonderful performer, yet there is a certain consciousness and a lack of spontaneity about it says Chapman which makes it appeal to the mind rather than to the heart. The angles out at dawn, whipping a stream, hears his warble, broken sudden and then taken up in a higher key. It dies away. He pauses and listens when from a bush overhanging the stream a flood of notes expressing every mood from reverie to astonishment. Their nest is usually so concealed that some detective work is needed to locate it, and they will slip out by a roundabout way, the male singing as unconsciously as if he had no cares, but watching all the while for the slightest unfriendly move. During the molt they are very stealthy, slipping through the underbrush to the stream for a bath as if ashamed to be seen in shabby plumage. Their period of song is all too short like the Woodthrasher, only an occasional note is heard after the first of July.

THIRTEEN

ninth, Reynolds singled and scampered over on a tremendous double to deep center by Miller. Harvest Home made a grand hit for the twelfth time in the eleventh after two were out. Hartman dumped a neat punt toward third and beat it out for a single and on the first pitch to Boehler he set sail for second and the ball set sail for Idlewild for George had connected. It looked like curtains for Constance, but Petri, Constance big league center fielder, gathered the drive after a 100 meter dash that dashed the hopes of Harvest Home, at least for the time.

The thirteenth opened auspiciously for the visitors when Grimme singled and Ellis helped his own cause along with a reckless double that he poked over Robinson's head in short flight. With runners on second and third and no one out, Harvest Home fans settled back to watch Boehler pitch out a

FOR A RED HOT SUMMER

FOR a red hot summer, tomato cocktails are a red cool drink. But there are lots of drinks of many other colors that also come out of cans. There are all the fruit juices, for instance—grapefruit, orange, pineapple, elder, grape juice—and sauerkraut and the groups from canned fruits which are used in many combination drinks.

So here are a bevy of beverages from cans which will make your summer thirst, save your time and energy, and taste all the better to you because they're so easy to concoct. Tomato juice is delicious, of course, just as it comes from the can, but let's start with a couple of good recipes for serving it in combination with other ingredients.

Sparkling Tomato Beverage: Add the juice of one lemon, one tablespoon sugar and salt to taste to the contents of two 10-ounce cans of tomato juice, and have very cold. Add one-half pint, ice cold, of your favorite carbonated water, and serve at once in small glass cups. This makes six cups.

Tomato Cocktail: Mix together two and one-half cups (twenty ounces) tomato juice, two teaspoons malt vinegar, one and one-half teaspoons salt, one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ten drops tobacco sauce and two teaspoons lemon juice. Chill, and serve in cocktail glasses. Serves six.

Early Morning Drink Tomato juice "as is" is an excellent morning drink. If you want to fuss it up a little for an extra special thirst, try this: Tomato and Ginger Ale Pick-Me-Up: Add one tablespoon sugar, the juice of one lemon and a few grains of salt to the contents of one 9 1/2-ounce can of tomato juice, and chill over night. Also chill one-half pint ginger ale over night. In the morning combine the two, and serve at once. This makes four small glasses.

Tropical Ice Tea: Dissolve three tablespoons confectioner's sugar in the contents of a No. 2 can of unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice, and tint a delicate shade of green with vegetable coloring. Pour into ice cube refrigerator pans, drop a maraschino cherry in each compartment, and let freeze. Make tea as usual, sweetening to taste while still hot. Chill. Serve in tall glasses with one or two pineapple ice cubes and a wedge of lemon. One recipe will make ten to twelve cubes.

Fruit Flip: Boil seven-eighths cup sugar, one cup orange juice and one orange rind cut in thin strips for five minutes, then cool. Add one and one-half cups strong cold tea, two tablespoons lemon juice and the contents of a No. 2 can of unsweetened pineapple juice. Serve over cubes of frozen ginger ale or ice. This makes one quart, or fills eight punch glasses.

Beer and Punch Don't wait all summer for the Senate to legislate about beer, but keep yourself cool in the meantime with this:

Fruit Beer: Dissolve one-third cup confectioner's sugar in one and one-half cups fruit syrup consisting of the syrup from a No. 2 can of peach halves and the syrup from a No. 2 can of grapefruit, and three tablespoons lemon juice. Chill thoroughly. Beat one egg white stiff, and pour the fruit combination over, beating constantly. Four on two pints ice cold ginger ale, and serve at once over cracked ice. This makes eight tall or sixteen punch glasses. The left-over peach halves and grapefruit, by the way, make excellent ingredients for a summer salad.

Cider Punch: Boil together one quart water, one cup sugar and one-third cup finely chopped candied ginger till a thin syrup. Cool. Add one-half cup lemon juice, one quart cider, and the syrup from one No. 2 can of sliced Hawaiian pineapple, and serve very cold. This makes a lot of punch, but that will be what you want.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

Sunday school attendance is showing an increase for which we are truly glad.

Little Avalon Hood is still leading in the Bible Verse contest.

It behooves some of us to tax our memories just a trifle more in order to make the contest more interesting for well we realize that competition creates added interest.

We are certain that everyone enjoyed the prayer meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mr.

and Mrs. Wm. Kennedy.

Bro. Joe Millson, accompanied by four members of the Mission Musical Society led a very good song service.

My "Redeemer" a special song rendered by the Millson Sisters and Mrs. Mary Layton was heartily enjoyed.

Brother Wesley Kenneth read the Scripture lesson from the 11th chapter of Hebrews after which he gave a few comments.

Quite a number of good testimonies were given which benefitted all.

Miss Weber was missed at this prayer meeting and hope was expressed that she could attend the next one.

Who doesn't enjoy hearing good news? Bro. Millson told the crowd that Bro. Hitchcock would be at the Mission each Thursday evening.

Anyone desirous of listening to some very splendid Bible Explanations should be present at these services.

Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy desire to thank Mrs. Hood and Mrs. Rensler for the lovely cakes, also to thank the folks for the beautiful gifts, as this Prayers Service was in honor of their wedding anniversary.

After the dismissal prayer by Rev.

Millson delicious cake was served by the hostess to about 90 people.

We were glad to welcome both

Mr. and Mrs. Hitchcock also their children and Mrs. Hitchcock's sister to the Mission on Thursday evening.

Saturday evening a prayer meeting was held at the home of Mr.

and Mrs. Crolley. At the time of this writing no report of it has been will more equitably distribute the burden of taxation. If the various vocations throughout the state who receive the same benefits derived from taxation as the farmer and yet unwilling to join hands in devising a tax system that will more equitably distribute the tax burden than it is obvious to the farmers that the thing has reduced itself to the question of "the survival of the fittest." Then if you will strike back and say to you if we are not willing to lend your aid and assistance in order that our business may be placed upon a common level with yours then we propose to use all efforts at our command to pull yours down on a level with ours. During last campaign for state office the politician mounted the stump and brayed louder than Baalam's ass their sympathy for the farmer in order to garner in their votes which they succeeded in doing. Through that deal the politician gets a fat job, the farmer "sympathy." Well sympathy is better than nothing, but it does not in the least relieve him of this unreasonable burden of taxation, nor prevent him properly being sold for some in order to protect other peoples who are not paying one cent towards the upkeep of our Government. Our Government has no constitutional right whatever to levy a tax against the people save to defray the expense of government economically administered and yet these fellows sent to our State Capitol to transact our business create bureaus, commissions, appropriate money to every fool thing that comes along until they have almost destroyed the foundation of our government.

The violation of that principle that is extracting from the people unreasonable sums of tax money has caused more than anything else the concentration of wealth. Therefore it is conclusive to the average mind that wealth will be more equitably distributed by leaving it into the hands of the people. Large sums of money collected from the people through taxation and from that source distributed, the bulk of it goes into the hands of a favored few. If the present administering government should learn and learn it well that government in itself is a pauper and that it has no friends save what the extracts from its people in the way of taxes and that sum should be only a sufficient amount to defray the expense of government economically administered.

If that principle is taught by our forefathers is adhered to we farmers will meet our tax burden without a murmur. On the contrary

if something tangible is not done to alleviate the tax burden of the farmer then they will be forced to demand some drastic changes, such as the consolidation of counties in-

BORDEAUX MIXTURE
(By John S. Gardner, Kentucky College of Agriculture)

The article about Bordeaux mixture is repeated at this time because of its importance in the control of foliage diseases of vegetables. It is a check for the bean pod spot and bean anthracnose, troublesome diseases, particularly in cool, moist seasons. Blight of tomatoes and potatoes is also controlled, or at least warded off for a time, by spraying with Bordeaux. Celery leafspot, the forerunner of the several rots that interfere with trenching and storage, may also be guarded against by timely spraying with Bordeaux mixture. Bordeaux serves as an insecticide against the black flea beetle, the small lively insect that plays havoc with potatoes and tomatoes, particularly in their early stages. Combined with calcium arsenate at the rate of a tablespoonful to each gallon, the result is a control for chewing insects and spot-diseases on any vegetable.

Bordeaux mixture is a combination of bluestone or "blue vitriol" and lime. The usual formula is 4-4-50, by which is meant, 4 pounds of bluestone, 4 pounds of freshly slaked lime, or 5 pounds of hydrate, and 50 gallons of water. Those who wish may use the prepared form purchasable from most druggists and seedsmen. To make 4-4-50 Bordeaux the directions are to dissolve one pound of it in 8 gallons of water. There is economy, however, in making it of the original ingredients; home-made Bordeaux, too, is better.

Because the equipment most gardeners mean to use is the 3-gallon napsack sprayer, the directions to follow have been worked out on the basis of making 2 gallons of Bordeaux at a time. These are the directions:

reactions:

In a wooden tub or bucket or in an earthenware crock (never metal) place 4 quarts of water, and in it dissolve 1 pound of bluestone. An easy way to do it is to put the bluestone in a salt sack and suspend it over the water in such a way that the bottom is just submerged; thus it will dissolve with no stirring, and in about 3 hours. This is the "bluestone stock."

Now, in the sprayer tank put 1 gallon and 3 quarts of water, add a small handful of hydrated lime, and shake it well to dissolve it. Then, pour in 1 quart of the bluestone stock and shake again, so that the whole is thoroughly mixed. This is 3 gallons of 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture ready for use, except that in the event chewing insects are to be guarded against, 2 tablespoons of calcium arsenate should be stirred in.

No more Bordeaux mixture should be made than is to be used immediately, for it will separate on standing. The bluestone stock will remain good indefinitely, except that water may need to be added to take care of evaporation. The bluestone stock solution should be stirred every time any is taken out.

It has been intimated above that metal containers should not be used for the bluestone stock; Bordeaux mixture is not so violent, but it corrodes the galvanized iron of which the tanks of the sprayers are usually made. The tank should be thoroughly washed out each time the sprayer is used, or, better, the tank should be brass. A brass tank raises the price of the sprayer, but the extra expense is well warranted.

Three sprayings are recommended, for all crops. They should be applied 2 weeks apart. Complete covering is essential.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation will advance no relief funds to Pennsylvania until the Legislature of that State demonstrates what it can and cannot do for the relief of its people. That in effect was the decision of the corporation on Gov. Fitch's plea for an immediate grant of $10,000,000 out of a total of $45,000,000 which he requested of the corporation some weeks ago. The corporation based its decision on the opinion that neither the Legislature of Pennsylvania nor the various political subdivisions of the State had done their full duty in furnishing funds for relief purposes.

The latest change in President Hoover's Cabinet, caused by the resignation of Secretary Lamont, of the Department of Commerce, has come as a surprise to the country. After serving more than three-fourths of his term Mr. Lamont has resigned to become president of the American Iron and Steel Institute and the President has appointed Mr. Roy D. Chapin, of Detroit, as his successor. The new Secretary has been a leading figure in the automobile industry.

Under the leadership of the U. S. Pan-American nations have taken measures to prevent the incipient war between Bolivia and Paraguay over territorial claims in the Gran Chaco. In a note signed by nineteen representatives of Governments in this hemisphere—all the members of the Pan-American Union excepting the two disputants—Bolivia and Paraguay are called upon to halt the movement of troops and submit the controversy to peaceful settlement. The note adds: The American nations further declare that they will not recognize any territorial arrangement of this controversy which has not been obtained by peaceful means nor the validity of the territorial acquisitions which may be obtained through occupation or conquest by force of arms.

The invitation of the Spanish Government for American participation in the fourth International Radio Telegraph Conference at Madrid, opening September 3, has been accepted by the State Department. President Hoover appointed delegates and their technical and advisory staff. The delegates will be Eugene O. Sykes, acting chairman of the Radio Commission; Dr. Charles B. Jolliffe, chief engineer of the commission, and Walter Lichtenstein of the First National Bank of Chicago. One of the principal questions to be taken up will be whether the broadcast band should be widened.

William E. Borah, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has continued to play a unique part in the conduct of the foreign affairs of the United States, in the opinion of many officials in the State Department. No Foreign Relations Committee chairman in many years has consulted so consistently with the State Department, officials say, and yet at the same time has set himself up as the watchdog of the public on American foreign policy. During Senator Borah's talks with Secretary Stimson the two men discussed in some detail the world economic conference to be held this fall and found themselves in considerable disagreement. Borah favored the discussion of war debts and treaty revision at the conference. Stimson held that such an all-embracing conference would get nowhere. Just before he left for the West, Senator Borah told friends that he was determined no move should be made in the direction of war debt cancellation unless the United States got something in return and that he expected to come back to Washington in September in order to keep his eye on the State Department on the specific matter of war debts.

John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross, reporting to President Hoover on the progress being made by the organization in distributing to the needy the wheat and cotton authorized from the Federal Farm Board surplus, said that some unusually large requests had been made. "I told the President," said Mr. Payne "that I hoped the 50,000,000 bushels of wheat and the 500,000 bales of cotton now available to the organization for distribution would be sufficient to meet the demands of this winter. However, there are indications that they will be heavy."

Ex-Governor Smith, of New York, will take an active part in the Democratic campaign this year. He has agreed to make speeches in New York, Massachusetts and New Jersey. Primarily he will be supporting Democratic candidates for Governor and Senator in the States. But his friends here are sure that he will urge the election of Roosevelt and Garner in the course of his speeches.

Gen. Fran T. Hines, Administrator of Veterans' Affairs, revealed that out of 9,309 names of bonus marchers submitted to his agency service records in the World War were found for all but 540. General Hines made this statement after a conference with President Hoover. It was immediately pointed out that this report was at variance with statements made by President Hoover and Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of War, both of whom have contended that "radicals" and "red agitators" dominated the army of bonus marchers evicted from the city by troops.

Alfalfa, sweet clover and Korean lespedeza have done well on many Scott county farms this year.

Casey county has its largest acreage of late potatoes, according to estimates of "old-timers," while large gardens are the rule throughout the county.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so lets forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

Cut Out The Tarradiddle And Let's Get Down To Business

(BY FRED HOLMES)

Washington Correspondent of The Boone County Recorder

John Dennis, English author, critic and dramatist of the 17th century, complained:

"See, how these rascals use me! They will not let my play run; and yet they steal my thunder."

And, echoes the Democratic party, apparently the only party which has left its established ability to defeat ourselves, and it looks as though the Republicans were about to steal that.

When Charles Michelson—that high powered, high salaried scribe, hired by John Raskob to look after Democratic publicity and for some unaccountable reason retained by James Farley, with his overdeveloped vocabulary but a stopped-up fountain of ideas—got thru with what Republican leaders called "smearing Hoover," the President got under the shower and emerged with no evidence of grime.

Someone recently remarked that in these days when we go to the polls we do not vote for somebody but against somebody else. At that, isn't it about time the politicians awoke to the fact that the voters are much more interested in the good points of one candidate than they are in the bad points of another? No one seriously doubts that President Hoover, laboring under what was possibly the greatest handicap that ever confronted a chief executive, did his best. Whether or not that "best" was good enough is a matter of opinion, but if the Democrats succeed in electing Roosevelt it will not be on account of lack of confidence in Hoover but on account of confidence in Roosevelt.

Franklin Roosevelt made a nation-wide radio speech last week. It was heralded by Democratic leaders as a master-piece, by Republican leaders as buncome and "weasel words." We knew in advance just what each side was going to say. We knew it just as well as we know what each side is going to say about Mr. Hoover's speech of acceptance to be delivered on the 11th.

Every mother's son of us with a grain of common sense knows well enough that the country is not destined for the demolition bow-wows in case Franklin Roosevelt is elected. Just as well as we know that the return of prosperity will not be delayed by reason of the re-election of Herbert Hoover.

Maybe Mr. Hoover is a better president than Mr. Roosevelt ever could be. Maybe it is a bad proposition to swap horses in the middle of the stream—even if the one you are riding is exhausted and a fresh one is at your side. But the effort on part of some zealous Republican partisans to belittle the Governor of the most populous and wealthiest State in the Union, elected by the greatest majority ever accorded a candidate for office in that State, may be good old-school politics. To-day it won't "go over." Any more than will trying to mae political capital out of the dispossession of a mob of self-styled "veterans"—most of whom were not—from their encampments when something like 10,000 indigent squatters threatened the health and the peace of the nation's capital.

Some of us are Hooverites; others are Rooseveltists. Most of us will continue to absorb from one to three square meals per day no matter which one of them resides in that imposing and historic white domicile on Pennsylvania Avenue after the fourth of next March. Those of us who are now forced to postpone even one square per day will have the same opportunity to stand up and get busy in either case. Why not admit that neither Hoover nor Roosevelt ever boogied a hen-roost, engaged in bootlegging or kidnaped a baby.

Let's cut out the tarradiddle.

WASHINGTON SNAP SHOTS

(Taken by The Helm News Service)

The case for betterment in the economic situation throughout the United States is not confined to the expression of generalities. From all sections of the Nation there are coming today specific reports of improved conditions, better prices for basic commodities, factories retelling operatives, labor being put to work, not alone on new enterprises, but through resumption of developments long dormant. The manifold ramifications of the organization set in motion to bolster financial institutions, the railroads and industry, have reached out to vitalize stagnant centers of production and open the doors for reemployment. The business pages carry many items every day with details of the gains that are being made.

The gloomy side of the picture is the increase in public debts. The Government has added about $4,000,000,000 to its indebtedness since hard times began. States and municipalities have borrowed heavily to carry on job-creating projects and to furnish direct relief while revenues have been falling. These non-commercial debts are a heavy weight upon taxpayers. If allowed to become too large, they sap the vitality of business and hinder every economic process.

LET DOWN

OF BOEHLER IN NINTH IS FEATURE OF GAME AT HARVEST HOME LAST SUNDAY - HEAT WENT BIG HURLER AFTER FITTING GREAT GAME - CONSTANCE ELIMINATED

Although suffering a severe heart attack in the last half of the ninth the Harvest Home rooters saw their favorites returned on the long end of a 4-2 score last Sunday, thus leaving their elimination series record still unblemished except for their thirteen losing games at the hands of the same adversary the Sunday previous.

The game also saw this adversary, the Constance team, eliminated from further competition unless it should finally be decided to re-play the thirteen inning game, which Harvest Home protested. The matter has been referred to Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, base ball's supreme authority.

From the very start last Sunday it was apparent that Constance was playing under pressure, while on the contrary Harvest Home was confident that they could win. In their infield practice Constance fumbled frequently and it was evident that the strain of knowing they had to win to stay in the race was telling on them.

Boehler started with a bang, fanning the first two men to face him, cancelling the so-called jinx when he struck out the second batter after whiffing the first one. It will be recalled that he neglected this very important feature the Sunday before. However, with the first two men down Constance pushed over the first run of the game in this inning on single by Reynolds, who went on to second when the ball went thru Aylor in center, followed by another single by Miller.

This was all until that ninth inning which Harvest Home supporters never will forget. Boehler had knocked off the first two men to face him and the odds were two down the odds against a Constance win were something like 177 to 1. But one never can tell. Horton smacked a single into center for the fifth Constance hit. Boehler, tiring under the strain and heat, then began to falter. He walked Grimm. It was plain that he was very tired and when he also passed Woods to fill the bases it began to look very bad. With Ellis up one of Boehler's fast ones "sailed" and hit Ellis on the shoulder forcing in a run and leaving the bases still full. Manager Murphy stepped gingerly to the pan facing a situation where a single would tie the score and a double might mean a victory.

He worked hard and carried the faltering Harvest Home hurler to the dangerous count of three to two. One more ball and the situation certainly would have been bad for the home team. Boehler uncorked the pitch and Manager Murphy dropped his bat and broke for first base while the Constance rooters, already worked up to a high pitch, broke loose. But the plate umpire had called it a strike and the game was over, while the enraged Constance supporters surrounded the umpire claiming everything, but, as usual in arguments with the umpire, gaining nothing.

Harvest Home tied the score at one-all in the second inning when Glenn singled and advanced to second on a sacrifice by Ross, scoring on a single thru second by Hartman. They broke the deadlock in the fifth on successive singles by Boehler, Ralenkotter and Shearer, who had a perfect day with the willow. The fourth run came in after Glenn had been nicked by a pitched ball, was set down by Ross and sent home when Boehler singled to left.

In the drawings held at Covington Monday night Harvest Home drew Ludlow and will play at Ludlow next Sunday. This will be the first time this year that Harvest Home has travelled in a championship game, although they played an exhibition game at Ludlow on July Fourth. But four teams now remain in the race, Rosedale, B. H. Oils, Harvest Home and Ludlow. Rosedale faces elimination next Sunday at the B. H. park, while neither Ludlow nor Harvest Home can be eliminated. The final games in this race should be packed with some good base ball.

The Harvest Home management was greatly pleased with the enormous crowd of almost five hundred

SETTER BY BOG

While delivering mail on Euclid Ave. in Covington last Friday afternoon Mrs. W. C. Arnold was bitten by a dog, which was running at large on the street. After having the wound dressed by a physician she lodged a complaint with acting Judge McGarry charging the owner of the dog with peopling a vicious dog to run at large. The case was continued until Saturday morning of this week.

DOUBLE CELEBRATION

Mr. Henry Deck was graciously surprised with a birthday dinner at his home August 7th. It being his daughter Leatha's birthday, a double celebration was held.

The guests brought well filled baskets and at noon time a bountiful dinner was spread.

Mr. Deck and Leatha received many useful gifts which were highly appreciated.

As this was Mr. Deck's 50th birthday, we hope he will remember this day and we feel that he will for he seemed to enjoy this complete surprise.

Games were played and a good time was had by those present.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Gamble and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Maxwell and family, Mr. Floyd Snyder and Mrs. Laura Symms, Miss Lucille White, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Davidson, Mr. and Mrs. John Burns and family, Mrs. Bessie Smith and family, Mr. and Mrs. Philmore Burns and son, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Finn and family, Mr. Aubrey Finn, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Papet and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Earl Papet and son, Earl Rudisell, Cleve Lacey and son, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Acra, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Snyder and son, Mr. Leroy Voshell, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Beauchamp and daughter, Mr. Henry Deck and family. Fifty-eight were present.

In leaving every one wished Mr. Deck and daughter many more happy birthdays. A Guest

ATTENTION, LADIES!

An Old Time dance for ladies only will be given at the County Restaurant on Thursday evening of this week. Good music and an enjoyable evening are promised to all who attend. You are cordially invited.

The grand jury before adjournment last week made its customary thorough inspection of the court house and jail. In their report they took occasion to hand out some deserved compliments to Elmer Kirkpatrick, our efficient jailer. They congratulated the county for having such a capable custodian of the public property. Visiting attorneys for many years have been unanimous in their opinion that Boone has one of the best kept jails and court houses in the state.

Walter Vest, of Walton, son of Jno. L. Vest, is awaiting a report on the state bar examinations he recently stood at Frankfort. Just what this young man's plans are we do not know, but we will gamble on a successful career for him.

A broken steering rod caused a car to leave the road and overturn at Mr. and Mrs. Harry Rouse, of Grange Hall, were on their way to attend church services at Big Bone last Sunday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Rouse sustained bruises, while Mrs. Myrtle Adams, a third occupant of the car, suffered torn ligaments in her back and limbs. Her condition is reported fair by Dr. Gladys L. Rouse, her attending physician.

Miss Lucy Thornhill and Miss Pearl Fortenberry, both of New Orleans, Louisiana, are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder.

Charley Brown, of near Waterloo, who was operated upon for appendicitis last week is recovering nicely. He is in the Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati.

Chas. L. Kelly, of Waterloo, has been transporting large quantities of apples to the Cincinnati market during the past few weeks. Last Wednesday night he marketed 155 bushels on the 12th street market for an average of 75 cents per bushel. Mr. Kelly is one of the county's most extensive growers.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Aylor spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kirby and family at Madisonville, Ohio.

which turned out last Sunday. If they continue in the championship fight until they return to their home park this attendance record no doubt will be broken.

40 COUNTIES

TO HOLD AGRICULTURAL FAIR AT LEXINGTON ON AUGUST 23-24-25 4-H CLUB BOYS AND GIRLS OF BOONE COUNTY INVITED

Seven thousand 4-H club boys and girls in 40 Kentucky counties will hold their own agricultural fair at Lexington August 23-24. They will exhibit all kinds of livestock, crops and home products, making one of the largest and most unique exhibitions of its kind in the world. This will be the second 4-H club fair to be sponsored by the Fayette county 4-H leaders' council and the Lexington Board of Commerce. A large and attractive premium list has been arranged. J. M. Parker, farm agent, and Miss Dorothy Threlkeld, home agent, in Fayette county, are superintendents of the agricultural and home economics divisions, respectively.

Only 4-H club members who are carrying approved livestock or other agricultural or home projects as organized by the extension division of the College of Agriculture are eligible to make exhibits. Club members in the following counties have been invited to bring exhibits:

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

A threatened scandal over gambling among players on the Chicago Cubs National League base ball club, brought Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis to Pittsburgh, Pa. in a hurry last week. The alleged gambling activities were rumored as centering around Guy Bush, Cubs pitcher, and former Manager Hornsby who was released two weeks ago "for reasons best known to himself."

The manner in which Landis quickly and quietly handled the ticklish situation upon his arrival in the Smoky City where the Cubs were playing at the time was typically Landis' style of doing base ball business. Rather than try to pooh-pooh the rumors and thus arouse added suspicion among base ball followers, Landis told the press to draw its own conclusions as to the cause of his visit to Pittsburgh.

Since there was really no clear basis for the gambling scandal, that left the inquisitive press with little to say. Landis refused to be quoted except to say that "Gambling is not like drunkenness because a player who has had a bad night can be given a shower and an aspirin and he will play ball for you, or at least try. But when you have a player wandering during a crucial moment of the ball game whether Raggedy Ann or some other nag is going to run first or second, the situation becomes acute."

That statement cannot be considered too literally. Drunkenness is certainly a cardinal crime in major league base ball, and Landis did not mean to say that carousing ball players are excused. Nor is Landis particularly interested in what players may have on their minds while playing. He is chiefly concerned less base ball be involved in

FIVE MEN

SENT TO FRANKFORT PENITENTIARY DURING PAST COURT TERM - JURIES DISCHARGED WEDNESDAY AFTER COMPLETING CIVIL TRIALS - R. B. ST. CLAIR OBTAINS VERDICT AGAINST CINCINNATI GROCERY

While we do not have the figures at hand we believe that during the past two or three years that more prisoners have been taken to the State Penitentiary than in five or six years prior to that. Sheriff Snyder held commitments papers for prisoners as a result of convictions at this term of court and all of the prisoners have been delivered to Frankfort.

Court adjourned on Wednesday afternoon after a very busy term. The last jury trial being in the case of R. B. St. Clair against the Janzen Grocery Company. Mr. St. Clair gained a verdict for damages assessed against the company for failure to fulfill its contract with Mr. St. Clair for a large quantity of canned tomatoes purchased from Mr. St. Clair's cannery at Walton. John L. Vest was attorney for St. St. Clair with Orle S. Ware, of Covington, on the other side.

The only other civil case to be tried was the Refiners Oil Company against A. R. Campbell in which the jury returned a verdict of a small amount in favor of the Refiners. Mr. Campbell alleged that he had received quantities of defective oil from the company, which operated as an offset against the company's claim.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

The engagement of Miss Roberta Jane Gordon to William A. Leach was announced at a bridge luncheon in Cincinnati last week. This announcement is of special interest to local people inasmuch as Mr. Leach is sports writer for the Recorder and Miss Gordon is a daughter of the late Henry Gordon and Mrs. Gordon.

Mr. Leach, known as Bill to the sport reading public, also is golf editor of the Cincinnati Post and is a step-son of Jack Ryder, of the Enquirer.

The date of the wedding has not yet been set.

Harry Gully, of near Burlington, was reported ill the first of the week.

CAR CRASHED INTO POLE

While driving toward Burlington on the Florence Pike last Saturday night Barnett Reel and Jaa. Clerk, of Walton, suddenly lost control of their car causing it to leave the road and smash a telephone pole. Clerk said that a bolt dropped from the steering rod, which caused the accident. Neither young men were seriously injured, both sustaining slight bruises. The car was not damaged greatly.

FAIR APPROACHES

The committee on concessions at the Florence Fair this year takes great pleasure in announcing a special feature, which will be immensely enjoyed. The J. P. Rouse Rodeo and Wild West show will be a free attraction and will give exhibitions in the ring each afternoon and evening. This is one of the best rodeos on the road, their exhibitions including Rough Riding, Trick Riding, Bull Dogging Steers, Wrestling with Bear and Indians. Unquestionably this will be one of the greatest free attractions the fair ever has offered.

Rev. Sellares, of Cincinnati, filled the local Baptist pulpit last Sunday morning and delivered a splendid sermon. He will conduct a series of revival meetings here in October. The first Sunday in that month will mark the beginning of the revival.

Mr. N. C. Hicks wife and daughter Elizabeth E. returned home to Louisville, Ky., after a week's visit last Saturday with Mrs. Hicks parents, J. B. Arvin and wife. Betsy Eddins went home with them for a few week's visit with Elizabeth Hicks.

A. H. Jones, our very competent and accommodating carrier on R. D. two, is taking a two weeks vacation. His brother, Arthur, is substituting for him during his absence from duty. It was reported thru these columns several weeks ago that Mr. Jones then was having his vacation, but this was an error as his absence was enforced due to illness.

F. H. Rouse and wife left last week for a visit to the home of his parents.

Middle West. During their absence Hubert Rouse and wife will have charge of the County Infirmary. The Grand Jury, when making their final report last week, highly complimented Mr. and Mrs. Rouse upon the efficient manner in which they are caring for the buildings and inmates at the Infirmary.

Charles Bodie, of the East Bend bottoms, paid the Recorder office a financial visit last Saturday morning. Mr. Bodie, who is serving on the petit jury at this term of circuit court, took advantage of the combination rate offered by the Recorder with the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Webster, of the Bellevue pike, entertained the following guests last Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Clark, of Somerset, Mr. and Mrs. D. Clark, of Elwood, Ohio, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Perkins, of Crittenden, Ky., Mrs. Lillian Presser and Alberta and George Loudon, of near Waterloo.

Charles Hughes, of near Burlington, enjoyed a few days visit with his uncle Duncan Underhill, at Indianapolis, last week.

HARVEST HOME OPENS

The opening of the Harvest Home Dansant proved a success last Saturday night when about 150 young folks gathered there to enjoy Chas. McClure and his band of Scotties. Another dance is scheduled for next Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Dolpha Sebree, of near Burlington, entertained the young folks with a lawn party last Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Grover Blocher and Mrs. Emma Balsy, of Park Hills, Covington, were Thursday evening callers at the home of Mrs. Ida Balsy.

Miss Lina Mae Arnold, of Burlington, was hostess to a number of her friends at a lawn party last Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Hickman and Everett Light Hickman and family spent Sunday with relatives in Cynthiana.

Miss Lianda Lee Jarrell spent several days with Mr. and Mrs. Al Stephens at Petersburg last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hall, of Ex-lagger, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Huey.

CLUB DAY

AT NORTH KENTUCKY PARK WILL BE FRIDAY, SEPT. 2 - MORE THAN 100 PROJECT MEMBERS INVITED - PRIZES TO BE AWARDED

Friday September 2 has been set aside as special 4-H Club day by the county fair board of the North Kentucky Fair at Florence, according to County Agent H. N. Parker. More than 300 Boone county 4-H project members are invited to attend and take part in the 4-H events.

All Boone county 4-H club members are urged to render all possible assistance in making the North Kentucky Fair a success. While the major portion of the 4-H members are carrying crops projects this year there are a number of good entries of poultry, pigs, dairy calves, rabbits, lambs, crops, canning, room improvement, foods and sewing work.

Each club this year will be assigned to a special booth to display the special work of their community. Approximately $250.00 in premium money will be awarded the best exhibits.

The county 4-H Club Council will select leader assistants to help with the various exhibits. The 4-H Club work will be exhibited on the same days as the adult. Sewing, canning, foods, room improvement, poultry, rabbits, hogs, crops and Holstein dairy calves, poultry judging contests, dairy showmanship contests, 4-H Community Club booths and Northern Kentucky dairy championship contests will be judged on Friday. The county fair should be one of the prides of the county and both young and old are urged to render their support.

FLORENCE GROUP OF UTOPIA CLUB PROCEEDS

Florence Utopia Group will be in charge of the Utopia Club meeting scheduled for Burlington Friday evening at 7:45 p. m. August 24th according to Convention Secretary.

A special household budgeting study planned by the girls for the next seven meetings will be in the charge of Edna Jetter and Archmarie Lucas of the Florence group. A special guest speaker will discuss problems bearing on agricultural development. A number of members who are planning on attending the State Utopia Club Camp at Lexington on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, August the 18th, 19th and 20th will give reports on this event.

All members are expected to be present and others who are interested in Utopia Club work are invited to attend.

W. M. U. NOTES

The W. M. U. of Big Bone met and held their regular meeting on Thursday August 11th at the home of Mrs. Mae and Mary Hubbard, there being 102 attending 25 of them being ladies of our own society.

We had a wonderful day to say the least, the Missionary program was rendered with a sketch (listening keys) which was put on most gracefully. At the noon hour the table was laden to its utmost with everything that the good hands could prepare. This meeting came during our revival which we have all received a blessing, it being carried on by our pastor Bro. Roy Johnson, but his sermons never grow old, having 33 additions for baptism to be at the river at Hamilton Sunday evening at 2:30 (slow time).

At a late hour our society adjourned to meet Sept. 8th at the home of Mrs. Laura Arrasmith with Mrs. Myrtle Marsh, helping as hostess. All members be sure and attend.

MRS. PAUL AYLOE, Chairman.

EPWORTH LEAGUE

The Epworth League of the Burlington Methodist church held their regular business meeting Saturday night August 13th and elected their officers.

Counselor—Mrs. Edna Eddins. President—Collins Skinner. V-President—Mrs. Ruth Clore. Secty.—Zena Garrison. Treas.—Ivan Norris. Song Leader—Pauline Holbrook. The Epworth League meets every Sunday evening at 6:45 p. m.

We have invited the B. F. P. U. of the Baptist church to our meeting August 21st. Miss Polk will be leader. Everyone welcome.

CONSOLIDATING COUNTIES

The movement to consolidate counties and to cut down the costs of county government and make the operation of county affairs more efficient and economical is under way in thirty-two different states. In Tennessee and Georgia, mergers of adjoining counties have already been effected.

We think this is a sound move and one that ought to be encouraged. The principal items of county expenditures almost everywhere are for roads and schools. To provide for these usually requires the issuing of county bonds. County bond issues are getting harder and harder to float, and the smaller the county the more difficult the flotation. In North Carolina and Virginia the states have had to take over the entire construction, using the credit of the state instead of the credit of the individual counties. In schools, the tendency is the other way, the counties paying a higher proportion, than was the case ten years ago.

We do not think there are too many schools, we think there are too many separate systems and units, and that is true of almost all of the other county functions in these days of easy and speedy communication. Counties no longer have to be small, when a farmer can drive to a county seat forty miles away easier than he could get to a county seat only ten miles away before the automobile and the good roads came in.

We think this is a subject that every taxpayer ought to give careful study to.

BULLITTSTVILLE

Miss Alice Mae Watts returned to her home in Erlanger Thursday after visiting relatives of Hebron and Bullittsville.

Messrs. D. L. Roberts, Sam Patrick and W. E. Jones, left for a business trip to Mt. Sterling, Ky., Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibbs, of Petersburg, were Saturday night and Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Theo. Birkle and family.

Miss Alma Eggleston spent a few days the past week with her sister Mrs. Fred Reimann of near Francisville.

Rev. Forest Brown, wife and daughter, Mr. C. T. Easton, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Sickman and daughter Mildred, and Miss Mary Marshall were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Kenyon and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence, Chipley and Mrs. Frank Shuler were Sunday guests of Mrs. Ida Watts and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Mattox and son spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibbs.

The Busy Bee Class accompanied by its teacher Mrs. Howard Acra, spent a delightful day at the Zoo Sunday.

Rev. Brown, wife and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Acra were Saturday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slekan and family.

The picnic given for the children of the Sunday school Saturday was enjoyed by all who attended.

Mrs. Lillie Garr, of Erlanger, spent a few days of the past week with Mrs. Mamie Stephens and Mrs. Nora Souther.

Mrs. Mamie Stephens and little daughter Roberta, Mrs. Nora Souther, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Acra, and Mrs. Jas. Beall spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Graves and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Myron Garnett spent Sunday with friends at Hartsville, Ohio.

Friends of Miss Ethel Jarmen and Mr. George Poggel were surprised to hear of their marriage Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bolen and daughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clint Eggleston and family.

AMERICA TURNS TO WORK

We are about to turn the corner. Why? Because the world wide depression has caused men and women to go to work. It has taught them a huge bit of common sense which many had forgotten. It has caused pleasure seekers and society and beguiling visitors to seek and appreciate more of the real comforts of life. It has caused a throng of foot light seekers and folks who once lived in the country to hunt the trail back home on the farm where they first saw the light of day to take their chances with the morning glory vines, the hedge weeds and the bean beetle rather than to become city bums and members of the bread lines. Thousands are back home with mops and mops and mighty darn glad to get back.

The reason we have not turned the corner sooner is because we have been going around in a circle following the throng complaining about hard times and our own bad luck, when the time we have lost at fifty cents a day or spent in hustling to produce what the world needs would have brought comfort and contentment and prosperity to us.

No people ever lived in a better land or one in which it is easier to prosper and succeed if we prepare ourselves for the struggle and work to the program.

We have night schools and business schools, schools of agriculture, bureaus of learning where information is sent by mail on any vocation. Let the world learn how to do things to bring success and do them.

Life is about what we make it and the most of us reap what we sow. We have reached a time when people are being a little more careful of what they sow.

Elljah Stephens and family attended revival services at the Big Bone Baptist church last Sunday evening.

Miss Kate Ross, of Fort Thomas, spent the weekend with Mrs. Susie Stephens and family of the Florence pike near Burlington.

A group of friends from Hebron surprised Beresford C. Watson at the home of Rev. Haas, of Florence, last Thursday evening. It was Mr. Watson's birthday.

Mrs. Harlowe Haas, wife of the Boone county Lutheran pastor, is recuperating at the home of relatives in Dayton, Ohio, following a recent illness.

Dan Lawell, of Lexington, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Karl Rouse on the Bellevue pike for the past two weeks. Mr. Lawell made the Recorder office a very pleasant and welcome call last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Nannie McElroy and sister, of Waco, Texas, made a short call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Stephens, of the Bellevue pike.

The western hemisphere has been fertile in material progress, but the great religions have all come out of the East. The deserts are a symbol of the infinite vast spaces that divide men from the stars fill the human soul with wonder. Somewhere, at some unforgettable hour, the daring filled Jesus' heart. He knew that he was bigger than Nazareth.

OPTIMISTIC REPORT ON LAMB SITUATION

The department of markets and rural finance at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, in a statement on the lamb situation, says that Kentucky lamb producers, in making plans for the coming breeding season, have been encouraged to increase the size of their flocks because of the returns received for lambs during 1932.

While the total supply of lambs is large the number of sheep in Kentucky is not equal to the 1929 figure and some increase may be justifiable in view of the favorable condition for producing lambs in the state. A conservative increase in sheep numbers by farmers who can produce high quality early lambs may be a means of increasing the 1933 farm income.

The lamb crop of 1932 in the native sheep states registered an increase of about one per cent over the 1931 crop and was the largest in eight years. Because of a 12 per cent decrease in the western states the lamb crop for the country as a whole is 8 per cent smaller than last year, but less than one per cent smaller than the 1930 crop. Consumption of lamb during the first six months of 1932 exceeded that of the same period in 1931 by more than 3 per cent, but retail prices of lamb in New York were 30 per cent lower. Lamb prices to the consumer are now relatively high compared to other meats, and this condition may result in some decrease in consumption of lamb during the next few months. It is not likely that consumer purchasing power will increase sufficiently to cause any material improvement in the demand for lamb, although there has been some improvement in the attitude of the public and the trade.

The trend of sheep numbers during the next few years is expected to be downward in the western states but no reduction in the native sheep states seems likely until there is evidence that some other enterprise is more profitable.

Friends of Mrs. W. A. Pettit are very much concerned at the news that her condition does not improve.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so lets forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

God is holy" said the President.

New holiness signifies that God is apart from us, that we must bow in awe before Him. It further teaches that God is unlike men, with no trace of the evil that so mars human nature.

Secondly the Tabernacle proclaims the necessity of the Church. It was a center of worship, a meeting place where the people could assemble for the social and sacred celebration.

Now the Church today has ceased to be a major interest of the majority. Yet few would deny that we need an organized form of religion. All right thinking persons agree that the Church as a beloved "Community of Memory and Hope," to quote Professor Royce, is indispensable to the health of society. There alone can men, caured with triviality and secularism, catch an adequate vision of God, and speak unto Him as did Moses who, our God-Ten Test assures us, addressed his Maker "face to face as a man speaketh unto his friend."

THE SPICE IN SPORT

Reds Are Tough
Ask the manager of any contending team in the National League pennant race, and he will tell you that what the circuit needs most is a "doormat," a club that is so weak that first-division teams can annex a lot of easy games and ease the strain of playing desperate ball every day. Ordinarily, the 8th place team is the doormat, but not this year. The Cincinnati Reds, despite their lowly standing, are as tough as they come. Pittsburgh alone has found the Reds an easy mark, but even the Pirates aren't cheerful about the prospect of meeting the Cincinnati crew. You can never tell when the Reds will break out. Some times a Cincinnati pitcher will twirl air-tight ball, other times the heavy hitters on the team will pound the fences. Sometimes the team wins out by simply putting up a great exhibition on the defense. Always, the Reds are right in the ball game and that is what makes the opposing clubs so uncomfortable.

Double-Header Aug. 28.
If you don't think that the Reds are bad hombres, trot up to Redland Field on Sunday, August 28th, and watch the Reds play the fast-flying Phillies in a double-header. Altho Philadelphia is figured as much the better club, due to its higher standing, actually the Reds can match the Quakers blow for blow. The Phillies are very proud of their slugging ability, but against the Reds their heavy hitting doesn't appear so heavy. The Reds are also a slugging crew.

On Saturday, August 27, President Sidney Well will again stage Ladies' Day at Redland. All women will be admitted free or charge to the game, as guests of the management.

War Declared On Racketeers
Golf officials of the National P. G. A. have declared war on the racketeers, and it now looks like a fight to the finish. Some time ago this writer mentioned the attempt of gamblers to "muscle in" on the National Open Golf championship at Flushing, New York. The gamblers, when denied the right to install pari-mutuel betting machines on the course, threatened to damage the greens. Last week, detectives employed by the P. G. A. uncovered a lottery racket being worked on the coming P. G. A. championship at St. Paul. More than 63,000 tickets had already been sold. Some of the tickets had been "gently forced" upon the competing pros, at 10 for $5. The pros were told to retail them for $1. Each. That sort of thing, if allowed to continue, can quickly ruin golf, and officials are determined to stamp out the practice.

Joe Is Forgiven
New York boxing officials hope the Joe Jacobs, manager of Max Schmeling has learned his lesson. Little boys should never, never speak out of turn or ridicule their elders. They lifted Jacob's suspension last week, with a warning to the fiery manager that henceforth he must keep his personal opinions to himself. When Schmeling lost to Sharkey in June by an outrageous decision, Jacobs stepped up to the microphone and announced to all the world that he had been "robbed." Fight fans were inclined to agree with Joe, but the boxing commission, which considers itself above criticism, slapped a suspension on him. The suspension acted as a boomerang. Fight fans the country over greeted the commission's action with a chorus of raspberries. The solons will require a long life to live down that fare.

Rev. and Mrs. Will Smith, of Warsaw, were calling on friends and relatives in Burlington last Friday afternoon.

HERE AND THERE

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Walton, Jr., and daughter Corinne, were breakfast guests of Leslie Sullivan and family in Union.
Prof. E. S. Ryle, of Florence, visited at Joe Walton's Monday night. Several persons from this neighborhood have been attending the interesting revival at the Big Bone Baptist church. Twelve converts joined the church Sunday night. There will be 32 candidates for the baptism which will take place at Hamilton next Sunday at 2:30 p. m.

BURLINGTON BAPTISTS LOSE

The Burlington Baptists dropped their fourth game of the season last Saturday afternoon when a flock of errors and various misprisions of judgment combined to aid the fast Hebron team, led by Earl Aylor, in gaining a 4-3 decision.
Akin was in the box for Burlington and was opposed by Riddell. Next Saturday the league leaders from Petersburg will step out on the local lot to defend their leadership. The home teams says they are going to hand them the same dose that they gave Hughes Chapel.

The protest of the game of Sunday August 7th was disallowed by the board, they ruling the umpire had no right to change the decision after the game, thus in the face of the evidence of the umpire's testimony he did not see whether the man had returned to third after the catch or not and the coach at third, manager and several players on the Constance team testified that the runner started for home at the crack of the bat and did not return to third after the catch. It was agreed to submit all evidence and circumstances to Judge Landis for a final decision, but at this time it looks like Harvest Home club is just a victim of circumstances and lost a ball game due to the fact only one umpire was used in this game.

It has been decided to use two umpires in all games to be played in the balance of the schedule and a real game should be played at Ludlow Sunday as these two teams seem to be evenly matched, and as each has a real following, a capacity crowd can be expected.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

Cottage prayer meetings have been progressing splendidly the last two weeks.
Mr. and Mrs. Jim Russ offered their home Wednesday evening for prayer service which was led by Mr. Alfred Perry.

A very good scripture lesson, a number of testimonies and songs made the evening pass pleasantly for all.

We were very glad to assemble Thursday evening for Bible Study under the able leadership of Bro. Hitebeck.
Several visitors from Covington were with us and to them we extend a cordial invitation to "come again."

Quite a large number of folks from the Mission journeyed up the River Road Saturday evening for Prayer Service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Perry.
We compliment Mr. Crolley on the way he led the service, also thank him for the sincere comments he offered on the Scripture Lesson.
Heartiest thanks are due to Mr. Jeffries and his young son, the guests of Mr. Crolley, for the fine guitar and banjo music they furnished.

The song service was led by Mr. Ferr. His testimony might well have been termed "Faith."
Brother Wesley Fogel finds some beauty in everything through God's great goodness to us.
Sister Fogel must have much music in her life for "joy bells" ring constantly in her testimony.
Ella Fogel spoke of being glad to live in a Christian home and being thankful to serve a living God.

Everyone seemed to feel unusually thankful to Mr. Perry for "Dilly Blessings" Bro. Russ for "Free Salvation" Bro. Sunbrock for "Living in the Service of the King and Bro. John Perry for "Saving Grace."
It is our hope that these prayer meetings continue and that much benefit be gained from them.

Stockholders of The Northern District Warehousing Corporation
Carrollton, Kentucky
Your Directors have made two efforts to secure from you the necessary two-thirds consent waivers to reduce the Capital Stock that will enable them to pay you a Dividend, the nature of which was explained to you in letters mailed in 1931 and 1932.
The net results of these efforts have been, that, at the close of business on August 9, 1932, there had been received a four-of-five exactly 253,078 shares of the required two-thirds, or 427,737 shares.
By October 3rd, 1932, We Need 174,659 Shares.
Will You Help Us Get Them?
Maybe your neighbor hasn't sent in his? Maybe you haven't sent in yours? This is one way you can help yourself by helping your Directors.
FIND THAT WAIVER NOW AND SEND IT IN or just write your consent on a postal card and send it.

THWARTING

OF HOLD-UPS IS FAVORITE PASTIME OF J. P. RYLE WHO AGAIN DEFEATS ATTEMPT. BOONE COUNTY MAN SUFFERS SLIGHT INJURY SATURDAY NIGHT, BUT RETAINS BANK ROLL

No doubt the word will be passed around among the underworld to lay off J. P. (Jim Perry) Ryle following his second thwarting of a hold-up late last Saturday night. Few people have the nerve to go thru with what Mr. Ryle has done in two encounters with the stick-up-men.

About a year ago, while mounting the Willow Run Hill in his truck returning from market, a bold individual hopped on his running board and demanded his daily receipts. Mr. Ryle responded by whacking the desperado across the face with a hatchet which happened to be lying handy. The robber fled from the running board and Mr. Ryle proceeded nonchalantly along his way. He heard nothing more of the incident.

Last Saturday night he was returning from market with about $75 in his pocket. Just as he was about to enter the gate to his farm on Gunpowder creek on the Camp Ernst road a daring individual climbed aboard and stuck a gun in his face demanding what-have-you. While Mr. Ryle had left his hatchet at home this time he didn't let that oversight daunt him in the least. He promptly swung out with his fist and knocked Mr. Holdup Man from the running board.

However, in so doing he killed his engine and distinctly heard the nearest man inquire of his pal at the roadside what he should do next. The answer was "shoot him." By this time Mr. Ryle had re-started the motor and started away. The man shot, but his aim was low and the back of the seat no doubt saved the life of the dauntless Boone country truck grower. The bullet was checked by the hair and cloth in the cushion at his back and stopped by a thin sheet of metal. Nevertheless the speed of the missile was sufficient to drive the metal into his back with enough force to cause a severe bruise.

Mr. Ryle, thinking that he had been hit, hurried to the home of a neighbor, Clarence Mitchell, who brought him to Dr. Yelton, where the extent of the injury was ascertained. The hold-up business, like all other branches, no doubt would go on the rocks if all interested victims were like James Perry. He says that he will be fixed for them right the next time.

Sheriff Snyder and Deputy W. B. Cotton went to the scene of the encounter but were unable to find any clue to the identity of the men.

BOONE COUNTY 4-H CLUB MEMBERS EXHIBIT AT DISTRICT FAIR

Boone county 4-H Clubs will exhibit dairy calves and girls sewing work at the District 4-H Club Fair to be held at Lexington on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. The girls sewing work was mailed last Friday by Mrs. Lewis Sullivan and Miss Lucille Taylor leaders of the X-L All 4-H Club of Florence. The calves left Tuesday morning by truck.

The girls sewing work will be exhibited by the X-L All 4-H Club. The dairy calves will be exhibited by James Conner, Mary K. Jergens and Dorothy Conner of the Norbeth Champion 4-H Club and Olus Judd and Earl Jones of the New Haven Boosters 4-H Club. All the above members accompanied their club calves to Lexington and will exhibit them in person. Mr. Cecil Conner, Lloyd Slekmann and County Agent H. R. Forkner will assist the members in exhibiting their project work.

County Clerk A. G. McMullen has received the shipment of license tags for 1933 autos. The color of the new tags is green with white lettering with numbers starting with 37,001 as for the past several years. The truck numerals, however, will start with 5,001 they will begin at 4,501.

Jennings and Earl Acra, of Petersburg, were in Burlington on business Monday evening. The latter presented this editor with a fine quart of strawberries grown in his experimental patch of ever-bearing variety. One day last week he marketed 32 quarts.

SUNDAY IS RALLY DAY

The afternoon record at the local Baptist Sunday School may fall next Sunday when a strenuous effort will be made to break it. This day has been designated as Rally Day. The buses will travel all roads leading to town as usual. They especially want all of those who ever have attended during the year to come out.

BOB AND GENE'S TEAM LOSES

Miller's Garage, of near Independence, took a five to one victory from Bob and Gene's team at the Harvest Home park last Sunday. Bud Moreland, former Petersburg player, was on the mound for the losing team with Stephens, of Bellevue, back of the wind pad.

Boone county fans will be pleased to know that Ollie Simpson is able to be back at his old post at first base and played that position in his old time style last Sunday. It will be recalled that he suffered a badly broken leg more than a year ago.

Next Sunday Bob and Gene's aggregation will journey to Lexington where they will hook up with the strong Epping outfit, one of the strongest semi-pro teams in the state.

Joe Brady of Bellevue probably will be seen on the mound in this game with Stephens behind the plate.

Mrs. Mary Clore, of Bellevue, was severely scalded by some hot sealing wax while canning vegetables at her home last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ryle and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ryle motored to Louisville, Frankfort and Georgetown last Sunday, visiting the old and new State Capitols while in Frankfort.

C. H. Bridgewater, of Akron, O., joined his wife and son here last week for a visit with C. A. Fowler and wife.

Miss Eliza Akin, of near Idlewild, is spending a few days with relatives in Petersburg.

Mrs. Pearl Hughes is recovering from a recent illness of a several days duration.

Stanley Easton, Edgar Maurer and Misses Myrtle Smith and Ruth Rice drove to Carrollton last Sunday.

Mrs. Lallie Eddins and Mrs. Myrtle Offutt entertained the local bridge club at the home of Mrs. Offutt last Friday afternoon. Those present were: Mrs. Geo. A. Porter, Mrs. J. K. Cropper, Mrs. G. W. Tolin, Mrs. Newton Sullivan, Jr., Mrs. C. L. Cropper, Mrs. Everett Light Hickman, Mrs. Robert Clore, Miss Mary Cropper, Mrs. M. A. Yelton, Mrs. O. S. Eddins and Mrs. D. R. Blythe. Mrs. Tolin won first prize and Mrs. Porter second.

The Petersburg Baptists will play a double header at Petersburg on Labor Day with a team from Aurora.

Mrs. Harold Conner is visiting her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Walton at Saylor Park, Ohio, this week.

BROKEN NECK

SUFFERED BY HARRODSBURG LADY IN WRECK ON HIGHWAY 42 NEAR UNION—DRIVER AND TWO OTHER COMPANIONS SUSTAIN SHOCK AND BRUISES

While rounding a turn on Highway 42 near the New Haven school last Wednesday afternoon a car driven by a Mr. Foster, of Harrodsburg, overturned into a ditch. The car was being driven toward Cincinnati and was occupied by Mr. Foster's wife and two lady companions.

Mr. Foster and the two other ladies were shocked and bruised, but Mrs. Foster was rendered unconscious and was rushed to Dr. Quinn, at Union, who learned that she had sustained a broken neck. She was removed to St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington, where her neck was placed in plaster cast. It is said that she will recover.

Mr. Foster and companion had come by way of Louisville and were on their way to Cincinnati to visit relatives. The driver said that he was traveling rather fast and was not looking for the sharp curve. He was unable to control the car sufficiently to make the turn.

LIGHTNING

STRIKES BARN OF FRED MORRIS ON PRICE PIKE, WHICH IS DESTROYED BY FLAMES—INSURANCE IN COUNTY COMPANY PARTIALLY COVERS LOSS

Last Wednesday afternoon lightning struck a large stock barn on the farm of Fred Morris on the Price Pike, near Florence. Flames developing from the bolt of lightning completely destroyed the barn.

Mrs. Morris was the first to notice the fire and summoned neighbors to her aid. They were unable to check the flames, however, and the Erlanger Fire Department, was called. They arrived too late to be of any assistance, as the barn contained about 12 tons of hay and the flames gained headway rapidly.

Mr. Morris was away from home at the time, having left the farm in charge of his wife while he was in Cleveland, Ohio, where he is in charge of a stable of race horses for an Eastern owner. Mr. Morris is a very capable race horse trainer.

The loss on the barn was estimated at $5,000.00, which was partially covered by insurance in the Boone County Mutual Insurance Co. There was no stock in the barn at the time of the fire.

4-H MEMBERS HOLD COUNTY MEETINGS

Boone county 4-H Club members held two county 4-H Club meetings the past week, for the members in the north end of the county the past week, one at Split Rock and the other at Mud Lick for the members in the south end of the county. A large number of members and leaders attended both meetings and enjoyed both the educational and recreational features.

County 4-H delegates to the county 4-H Council were elected by each community club. Each club gave a report on its work to date. Plans were made for the exhibiting of projects at the county fair and special delegates from the county 4-H Council were selected to assist in the supervision of the exhibits. Recreational contests between the various clubs and a picnic lunch followed the regular business meeting.

KIRBY TANNER

Kirby Tanner, one of Boone county's prominent and highly respected citizens passed away last Friday August 19th, after a lingering illness.

The deceased was born November 5th, 1868, therefore being sixty-four years, eight months and fourteen days of age. His wife, formerly Miss Katherine Furlong, preceded him to the grave about three years ago.

He is survived by his mother, Missouri Tanner, and a sister, Mrs. Stella Underhill. He was a son of the late Jephtha P. Tanner, who died sixteen years ago.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at the grave in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at Burlington. He was a member of the Catholic church at Florence.

SARA LOU TANNER

Sara Lou Tanner, aged 7 months, passed away Monday morning at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tanner, near Florence, Ky., after having been in bad health for some time. Funeral services were conducted at the residence Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock by Rev. Cecil Tanner, an uncle of the deceased, assisted by the Rev. Harold Beemon after which interment took place in the Hopeful cemetery.

Little Sara Lou, in addition to her parents is survived by one sister, her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Tanner and Mr. and Mrs. Dringenburg, a host of other relatives and friends to mourn her untimely passing.

Her grandparents acted as pallbearers. Funeral Director Philip Tallafiero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Arthur (Fodge) Alloway, of the Waterloo neighborhood, paid the Recorder office a short call Monday morning. Fodge was in Burlington trying to sell some oak timber to the county.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Adams, of Williamstown, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Cress and family.

CULL HERDS

AND RAISE DAIRY STANDARD BY 25 PER CENT, SAYS COUNTY AGENT H. R. FORKNER—POSSIBILITY OF OBTAINING BIRN AT LOW PRICE GIVEN AS ONE REASON

The present outlook offers an ideal time to improve Boone county dairy herds 25 per cent according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. Proper selection and culling the herd are the chief and essential factors. The best can not always be improved but the worst can almost always be eliminated thereby bringing up the average.

The increased number of dairy cows coming into production during the next six months, the low price paid for surplus above base and the relative low feed-surplus milk ratio makes some culling imperative for most dairymen. It is better to cash in on the low producing cows at a relative low price than to cash in later after a high priced feed bill has been paid.

There was never a better time than right now to cull the low producing cows from the herd, secure the very best in a good young herd bull at the lowest costs on record and plan a constructive herd improvement program. Dairying is a fixed part of Boone county's agriculture and it has come to stay. While milk prices are likely to be below the cost of production for the next one or two years many dairymen three years from now will likely look back at 1932 as the ideal year for close culling and building up a foundation for a high production and profitable herd.

ATTEND UTOPIA CAMP

Mr. Wilford Slekmann and Robert Graves of Boone county, Utopia Club No. 2, attended the State Utopia Club Camp at Lexington the past week. They report the camp was a big success and even better than the first camp held at Louisville last year.

The above members will give a report at the regular meeting to be held at Burlington on Thursday night of this week. All members are urged to be present.

M. L. UTZ

M. L. (Lon) Utz passed away early Sunday morning at his home near Big Bone, Ky., after a short illness of cerebral hemorrhage, age 78 years. The remains were taken to the Tallant Funeral Home in Erlanger for preparation. Tuesday morning they were taken to the home of his brother-in-law J. J. Garrison in Union. Funeral services were conducted at the Big Bone Baptist church, of which he was a member, on Wednesday morning at 10:30 A. M., by Rev. Johnson, pastor, assisted by Rev. Miller, pastor of the Elsmere Baptist church, after which he was laid to rest in Highland cemetery by the side of his son.

The pallbearers were Allen Utz, Eliza Garrison, Warren Utz, Russell Garrison, Stanley Utz and Clifford Garrison and the flower girls who carried the beautiful flowers were Mrs. Mattie Utz, Misses Katherine Utz, Sue K. Bristow, Marie Horton, Mrs. Ruth Betz, Mrs. Lucy Garrison and Mrs. Stanley Utz.

Mr. Utz is survived by his widow, Mrs. Ella Garrison Utz, one brother Edward Utz of Big Bone and a host of other relatives and friends to mourn his passing.

Funeral Director Philip Tallafiero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Denzel Carpenter, of Cincinnati, are spending a few days with W. T. Carpenter and wife.

Mrs. Laura Crisler, of Petersburg, spent the past week with her sister, Mrs. J. W. Kelly and Mr. Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. William Greenup are spending a few days at Union, where Mrs. Greenup's mother, Mrs. John Dickerson has been very ill. However, Mrs. Dickerson is reported to be improved at this writing.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all of my neighbors who rushed to my rescue and made such valiant efforts to save our barn from the fire last Wednesday. Your kindness will never be forgotten.

MRS. FRED MORRIS.

Ed. Burris and John Cloud, of the Bellevue place, purchased 35 fine stock ewes from W. L. Kirkpatrick last week.

SEWING GIRLS FEINIC

On Tuesday August 16th the Cornsellers Sewing girls were treated to a dinner and picnic at the home of Mrs. F. Kottmeyer. The day was spent playing games, ball, and wading in the river. We had a lovely dinner and enjoyed the day very much. We want to thank the leaders Mrs. F. Kottmeyer and Mrs. W. E. Zimmer for this dinner and picnic. Club Reporter.

SURVEY OF MILK COSTS MADE BY COLLEGE

A complete survey of the factors in the cost of producing milk on 30 Boone county farms was made by Mr. Byers and Mr. John Bondurant of the College of Agriculture on Friday and Saturday of the past week. The survey was made by request of the Farmers Alliance Local No. 1 of Hebron thru County Agent H. R. Forkner. The survey records will be analyzed by the College and a complete analysis supplied the local organization at the earliest possible date.

A large number of surveys were necessary to make an analysis on average costs worth while. The splendid cooperation rendered by Boone county dairymen greatly aided in getting a sufficient number of surveys the limited amount of time allotted to this work. The Alliance hopes that if the analysis shows the price received for milk is not in line with the cost of production that definite information will prove of value in finding means of improvement.

Mrs. Henry Slekmann and daughter spent the week-end with friends at Price Hill, Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Craven and daughter, of Utica, New York, spent last Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slekmann.

Mrs. Carrie Popham and Miss Ruby Mitchell of the Gunpowder neighborhood, spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Marion Suddendorf and daughter, Miss Loreta, of Clifton Heights, Cincinnati, during the afternoon they visited County Island.

Mr. and Mrs. John Snelling, of near Burlington, entertained last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. William Hill, of Idlewild, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman H. Christy, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Acra, Mrs. Sallie Christy, Mrs. Ella Acra, Mr. and Mrs. Jennings Acra, Miss Ethel Christy and Ira McGuire, all of Petersburg.

Mr. Addison Riddell, formerly a citizen of Burlington now of Shelbyville, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. William Moore and family, of the East Bend road.

Rev. Rose, of Ft. Thomas, was a business visitor in Burlington last Saturday afternoon. He is the presiding elder of the M. E. churches in this district.

Walton Dempsey, Jr., of Erlanger, is visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Riddell.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Goodridge and daughter, of Erlanger, spent last Saturday afternoon in Burlington.

BOY DROWNED

IN GUNPOWDER CREEK LAST THURSDAY—GRANVILLE GRIFFIN, AGE 15, SON OF ABE GRIFFIN, FALLS INTO STEP-OFF AND IS DEAD BEFORE COMPANIONS CAN RECOVER HIM

Granville Griffin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abe Griffin, was drowned in Gunpowder creek last Thursday afternoon. The unfortunate youth was 15 years old and had gone to the creek with other playmates to swim.

He was wading in shallow water when his companions suddenly noticed that he disappeared. Before they could reach him he was dead. It was a difficult matter to locate the body as the lad evidently stepped into a step-off.

The body was buried at East Bend Sunday. Last year the Griffin family lived near Burlington, where the deceased boy was a student in the local school.

Approximately forty members of the B. Y. P. U. attended a meeting of the Epworth League at the M. E. church last Sunday evening. Miss Ellen Pollitt had charge of the meeting.

RE-DISTRICTING

OF COUNTY INTO THREE MAGISTERIAL DIVISIONS IS COMPLETED BY COMMISSIONER APPOINTED BY JUDGE H. E. MCDONELL—CHANGES WILL BE SAYING TO COUNTY

The 1932 Legislature passed an act requiring the various counties of the state to be redistricted into magisterial districts, and left to the discretion of the Commissioners appointed to do this work, the number of districts the county should have, not less than three nor more than eight. The act directed the County Judge to appoint three commissioners to do this work, complying with this requirement he appointed, O. K. Whitson, Verona, C. O. Hemphling, Constance, and J. M. senting the extremes north and south ends and the center of the county. Territorially situated more representative men could not have been selected. These men organized August 1st, 1932 and completed their work last week and filed their report in the office of the County Clerk as the act required. Their report is as follows:

We the undersigned citizens of Boone County, Ky., appointed by the County Judge of Boone county under the authority given him by Chapter 147 Acts 1932 Legislature for the purpose of redistricting the county into magisterial districts, would respectfully report after being first sworn, that we have divided the county into three magisterial districts, to be known and designated as District No. 1 District No. 2 and District No. 3. District No. 1 embraces Constance, Bullittsville, Petersburg and Bellevue. Hebron is included in Bullittsville. There are six voting precincts embraced in this territory. District No. 2 includes Florence, Burlington and Union, and has within its boundaries five voting precincts. District No. 3 embraces Verona, Walton, Beaver, Hamilton and Carlton and includes within its territory six voting precincts. In arriving at this territorial division we have taken into consideration, both population and area. It is the best division in our judgment, that can be made dividing the county into three magisterial districts without splitting voting precincts, which the law does not permit to be done. By reducing the number of magistrates from six to three we feel that there will be a material saving to the citizens of Boone county in the operation of the fiscal affairs.

We ask that this report be accepted and we be discharged from further service. All of which is, respectfully submitted.

August 19th, 1932.
O. K. WHITSON
J. M. LASSING

This report will be over until the next September term of the Boone County Court for any exceptions that may be filed hereto.

Seventy-two guests assembled at the home of W. H. Rouse, of Camp Ernst Road last Sunday to observe the annual re-union of the Borders family. Basket dinner was served and a very enjoyable day was spent.

Martin Beemon and Stanley Easton returned last Thursday from a motor trip of several days through the Kentucky mountains.

Mrs. Stanley B. Palmer and son, David, are visiting Mr. Palmer's brother, R. E. Berkshire and family.

Prof. D. H. Norris and family have returned from a delightful motor tour thru Western Kentucky and Tennessee. ERLANGER

Elizabeth Wren Fitch, daughter of Scott and Mary Jane Wren, was born October the 19th, 1903, departed this life August 17th, 1932, age 28 years and 10 months. She was united in marriage to Isaac Fitch, of Pickerington, Ohio, December 19th, 1927. To this union were born eight children, two infant sons and two daughters with the husband having preceded her in death. Three sons being, Israel and Waring Fitch and one daughter, Masella Wren. Also five grandchildren survive to mourn the loss of a devoted mother and grandmother.

Let us so live that when our summons comes to join that innumerable caravan that moves to the pale realms of shade, where each shall take his place in the silent halls of death, that we go not like the quarry slave at night, scourged to his dungeon but sustained and soothed by an unflinching faith. Let us approach our grave like he who wraps his draperies about him, and lies down to pleasant dreams.

We wish to thank our friends for the many kindnesses extended during the illness and death of our mother also for the beautiful floral offerings, and our appreciation of Mr. Chambers and daughter for the manner in which they conducted the funeral, also to Bro. Raymond Smith for the solo, "In The Garden" so beautifully rendered, and to Bro. McCord, of Erlanger, for his wonderful words of consolation.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST

At Covington

Seventy-five people attended the morning service of the church again on August 21st. The morning worship service begins at 10 o'clock and continues until 11 o'clock. We go to the Lord's Supper on the Lord's Day.

The sermon topic for next Lord's Day morning is rather startling but true. It is: "CHILDREN SHOULD NOT BE BENT TO CHURCH." You are invited to come and hear this discussion. "Church is no place for CHILDREN." The missing word will be supplied during the morning service. "Come and see." The regular mid-week service will be held as usual on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. On Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, the young people will enjoy a supper in the basement of the church. This supper is given by the young men by the young ladies as a conclusion to the contest that was held in the class during the summer. You are invited to be one of the twenty-five or thirty young people who meet every Lord's Day in this class. Our regular Sunday evening service begins at 8 o'clock. "We Have A Welcome For You"

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so lets forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tanner on Saturday several of their relatives and friends at dinner Sunday.

Mrs. Anna McGowan, one of our oldest and most highly respected ladies of the neighborhood, celebrated her 91st birthday August 23 and appears to be in real good health in spite of her advanced years.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dolwick and boys had as guests Sunday Misses Audrey Mae Robinson and Helen Werns and Mr. Carl Bell.

Mrs. Frank Schuler has been on the sick list for the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Werns and family had as Saturday evening guests Mr. and Mrs. Harold Eubanks and children of Fort Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenton and son are visiting relatives in Nicholas county.

Miss Hallie Hetsel was shopping in Cincinnati, Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Robinson spent several days the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Adam Dolwick.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Armstrong have Mrs. Adam Dolwick and daughter, their guest Mr. Armstrong's niece of Covington.

Mrs. Wm. Marchberry spent Saturday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Tanner.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmo Jergens, Mr. Henry Jergens and daughter Mary Kathryn were Wednesday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Dolwick and Carolyn Jess.

Mr. and Mrs. John Eggleston entertained friends Saturday night and Sunday.

Mrs. Alice Carder seems to be improving from her recent illness.

Miss Florence Herbstreit Tuesday with her sister Mrs. Elmo Jergens and Mr. Jergens.

We had a real good attendance at Sunday school August 21, although some of the officers and teachers were absent which sets a bad example for the scholars.

The social given by the S. S. last Saturday night was well attended and quite a nice sum was realized. Special thanks are due Mr. Alton Bryant, Karl Benton Robinson and H. C. Johnson, of Ludlow, for their splendid music. Also to each and everyone who helped in any way to make it a success. The S. S. is especially thankful.

W. B. Early is raising 900 turkeys on his farm in the Gold Bug community in Whitley county.

CHECKING UP ON SPORTS

In the drawing Monday night for Sunday's game Ludlow drew the bye and Harvest Home drew Brannigan Motor Oil, the Covington entry at Harvest Home park.

B. H. B. has won sixteen consecutive games and this is the first league game in which they have left their home park.

Larry Arnsen will take the hill for the visitors with Boehler doing the twirling for the home team and a real pitchers battle can be expected as both are former big leaguers. Arnsen was formerly with the Cincinnati Reds while Boehler was with Pittsburgh and Brooklyn. Each pitcher has a wonderful record for the season and the teams seem to be evenly matched.

Harvest Home has lost two games and face elimination Sunday with another loss, so will be fighting with their backs to the wall and with their regular line-up back in the field confidently expect to break the winning streak of the fast flying team from Covington.

B. H. B. formerly played under the name of Golden Rods and are under the management of Harry Hanneken. They have in their line-up Eddie Arnsen, the best hitter in the league, one of the fastest fielding teams in the circuit.

There will be no advance in prices for any games in the elimination series and this is the first time the gate fee for the semi-finals has been 25 cents. Game will start at 3 P. M., Eastern time.

LUDDOW 6, HARVEST HOME 5. Harvest Home went down for a second defeat in the elimination series at Ludlow Sunday before the largest crowd of rabid fans of the season.

The game was marked by some very indifferent playing on the part of Harvest Home due mainly to the fact the entire infield had to be shifted on account of one player not making the trip to Ludlow Sunday.

The Boone county boys started out with a three run lead in the first two innings but the home team came back with four runs in the third aided by a home run over the left field fence by Lister with one on. Again in the sixth Harvest Home went into the lead by Ralenkotter's single and Snyder's slashing double and after Robinson had walked the double steal was put on with Snyder crossing the plate with the fifth run, but the home team came right back with two runs, due mainly to some loose support in the outfield.

Snyder, Ralenkotter and Robinson accounted for most of Harvest Home scoring by their hitting and good base running, but the fielding of the entire team was about the worst exhibition of the season with chances for three double plays not a one was completed, and the mental errors of the team were numerous.

Braun relieved Shearer, who received a painful injury to his left hand in the fifth inning and caught a very creditable game thereafter. Boehler pitched a very nice game, striking out eight men and holding the Ludlow team to two earned runs, and with better support would have had an easy victory.

Lister was the outstanding player for Ludlow, robbing Joe Aylor of what looked to be a sure hit and also dropping one over the left field fence for a home run.

Another sensation of the season passed Saturday when the Petersburg Baptist S. S. team defeated the Burlington Baptist to the tune of 7 to 3. This was a sad disappointment to the Burlington team and rooters as they had already counted this game theirs. Akln and "Rags" Ryle were the battery for Burlington and they worked hard enough to win any ball game, but the effectiveness of Henry Deck's pitching, Hebert Deck's catching, in fact the playing of the team as a whole just couldn't be beaten.

Petersburg connected for 13 hits while Burlington got only 6 hits. Numerous errors by the Burlington fielders greatly discouraged Akln and Ryle.

The Petersburg fielders made a couple of errors, but it didn't seem to bother their aim and effect as they also had planned on a victory.

The longest hit made by Burlington was a triple by Seebie. Nixon of Petersburg also made a triple.

Petersburg is still on top of the line, having won 13 games and lost 3.

The hidden ball trick portrayed by H. R. Deck and Snyder on Court Kelly on second was the real trick of the game and was heartily enjoyed by most every one.

OBITUARY

Effarilla Tolin Hensley was born February 2, 1851. She departed this life August 7, 1932, her age being eighty-one years, six months and five days. She was married to William H. Hensley February 2, 1871, who departed this life September 6, 1922. She leaves to mourn her passing, two daughters, Mrs. D. B. Hoffman, of Petersburg, Ky., and Mrs. W. H. Orsler, Lawrenceburg, Ind., one sister, Mrs. Laura Seebie of Burlington, Ky., and two brothers, W. M. Tolin of Indianapolis, Ind., and S. W. Tolin, Burlington, Ky., besides many relatives and friends. She united with the M. E. church early in life and was a faithful member as long as her health permitted.

A tribute from her children: Each one of us has a special mission in this world, a task given to be fulfilled. Wonderful Mother! whose large heart and kindly manner bound us with ties, now not broken but extended to the beyond. Her upright life, noble heart and friendly smiles are her monument. She is not dead she is just away.

"With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand, she has wandered into an unknown land, and left us dreaming how very fair it needs must be, for lingers there. And you, oh you, who the while doat yearn for the old time step and the glad return, think of her faring on, as dear in the love of there, as the love of here. Think of her the same, she is not dead, she is just away."

May we as her friend and former pastor add these words of appreciation. Mrs. Hensley in her home and at church, as well as in her social contacts elsewhere, evidenced a sweetness of temperament and patience that deeply impressed all who came to know her. In her religious faith there was an increasing assurance of God's goodness and of the promises that belong to those who love Him and keep His commandments. She loved her family, church and community and was ever a benediction to those of us who knew her.

Proper Consideration For The Family

In the care of women and children, proper consideration for the feelings of the bereaved family demands the services of a lady attendant. The services of our lady assistant are given in all such cases—and there is never any additional charge.

Tax On Checks

The tax of 2 cents on each check is a very small sum to each customer over a 12 months period.

An individual writing 50 checks a year will only pay $1.00 tax, which is less than the cost of two soft drinks a month.

The advantage in paying by check and having your check as a receipt with no risk in having your cash stolen is well worth the small tax paid over a year's time.

We protested against this tax but it is now the law so lets forget the few cents a year it may cost and all do business as usual.

The quicker all of us can assist in having our National Budget balanced the sooner we will be relieved of these unpopular nuisance taxes.

about it, but then along came the new foot ball and basket ball rules and that proved the fact conclusively. We haven't the space here to discuss the details, but these are the essential features of the new rules:

In foot ball, a ball in motion will be dead at the point where the carrier touches the ground with some portion of his anatomy other than his hands or feet. Substitutions will be permitted at any time, players being allowed to return in the next quarter. On the kickoff, at least five players on the receiving team must remain back of the 40 yard line until after the kick is made. This will put an end to the flying wedge which has caused so many injuries. Henceforth, players will be permitted to use their hands only above the shoulders of an opposing player and cannot strike at the head or neck. The hands, of course, can be used only on the defense. Peds must be covered with a soft outside material to prevent injuries. The flying tackle and the flying block are absolutely prohibited.

In basket ball the new rules are not so radical. Only two are of any great importance. Both deal with the "freezing" of the ball. Henceforth, the team which is trying to protect a lead in the last few minutes of play by "freezing" must advance the ball past the middle of the floor within ten seconds or lose possession of the other side. Likewise, in free throw territory, a player can retain possession of the ball only three seconds. These new rules are expected to speed up the game considerably.

Rickey To Giants?

The rumor is about that Branch Rickey, Vice-President and "promoter" of the St. Louis Cardinals, will be employed by the New York Giants in 1933. That's bad news for the New York players, and we doubt whether the Gotham fans will become very excited about the rumor either.

Rickey is the man who inaugurated the "farm" system in the majors and was responsible for the elaborate chain of minor league clubs which St. Louis built up around their pennant winning National League machine. His methods were highly successful from a financial point of view, but unquestionably hurt the game.

Base ball was never intended as a chain system of ownership as in other businesses. The great thing about the game, and the factor that has endeared base ball to independent Americans, is the individuality of the teams, that rival spirit which makes it fun to root for the teams. Likewise, the eternal fight between the major league clubs for minor league players is part of the pastime and the fans dislike to see the game placed on a purely commercial, "business" basis.

To back up our contention that the fans have never liked St. Louis' chain idea, we point to the action taken by President Sidney Weil of the Cincinnati Reds in selling the Columbus club of the American Association. Well also tried the farm system but discarded it as impractical for his club. When Well sold Columbus, the action was received joyfully by Cincinnati fans.

TWO CARS STOLEN

IN BOONE COUNTY WITHIN THE PAST WEEK—PROF. C. G. LAMB WELCOMED UPON HIS RETURN TO BURLINGTON BY AUTO THEFT—CLAUDE STEWART, OF LUDLOW, LOSER WHIPPET, WHICH WAS STOLEN FROM IN FRONT OF RESIDENCE OF DR. McCauley, at Florence

That a gang of automobile thieves are operating in Boone county became evident Wednesday morning when the theft of Prof. C. G. Lamb's car was reported to the sheriff's office here.

Prof. Lamb arrived in Burlington from his home in Western Kentucky Tuesday afternoon and parked on the outside of the living quarters of Prof. E. E. Kirkwood, where he spent the night. Some time during the night the car was taken. Mr. Lamb said that he had secured the keys of the car, but it was evident that the lock had been forced or a window broken.

The sheriff and deputies immediately notified neighboring officials and every effort was being made to locate the stolen car, which was described to them. The car bore Boone county license No. 38,173. It was a Chevrolet coach.

This was the second car theft reported to local officials within a week. A "Whippet" bearing Kentucky license No. 497-886, was stolen from its parking place in the street in front of the residence of Dr. and Mrs. McCauley, at Florence, Thursday night.

The car belonged to Claude Stewart of Ludlow, a brother-in-law of Dr. McCauley, who said that it was stolen after midnight as he returned from the fair about that hour.

FORMER OFFICIAL DIES

Acquire T. F. Carley, age 83, passed away at his home in Walton Monday.

Acquire Carley was prominent in both business and political circles in Boone county for many years, having served as Police Judge of Walton, Magistrate of Boone county and Postmaster of Walton.

For a number of years he was a successful merchant in Walton. Funeral services were held at Walton Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Carroll and son, Billy, of Louisville, spent the week-end with Mrs. Harold Conner and attended the North Kentucky Fair.

The revival services in progress at the Bellevue Baptist church are being well attended by enthusiastic audiences each evening.

Rev. D. B. Eastep, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, of Latonia, is the evangelist assisted by the regular pastor, Rev. Raymond Smith. Special music is being featured each evening.

The meetings probably will come to a close next Sunday evening and all members of the church and the general public is urged to take advantage of the few remaining services.

Last Saturday while sitting in the family car in front of the house Tom, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Denner, of the East Bend road, caught his hand in the door of the car mashing it badly. After an examination by Dr. M. A. Yelton it was revealed that part of a finger had been torn away but no bones were broken.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Cowen, of Wyoming, Ohio, and L. T. Utz and family, of Florence, were the Sunday guests of Mrs. Laura Martin and family.

The local Epworth League will hold a business meeting on Saturday night, September 10, at seven o'clock at the M. E. church. Every member is urged to be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wingate, of Erlanger, spent Labor Day with Ed. Easton and wife, on Woolper creek, near Burlington.

Attorneys Sidney Gaines and Jno. L. Vest, were engaged in legal pursuits at the court house here on County Court day.

Mrs. Nannie McAtee, of Elwood, Illinois, Miss Nora Underwood and Miss Tinsley, of Ludlow, were visiting friends and relatives in Burlington Sunday afternoon.

BOB AND GENE VA. HARVEST HOME

Bob and Gene's team will play the Harvest Home club at the Elmore park next Sunday afternoon. Elmore, formerly of the Constance team, will occupy the hillcock for Bob and Gene, while Boehrer will pitch for Harvest Home. Both teams are composed of players well known to Boone county fans and this game should attract a fine gathering of their followers.

HICKMAN REUNION

The Hickman Reunion was held Sept. 4, at the home of Everett Hickman at Burlington, Ky. After a lovely dinner and visiting between relatives and friends, the business meeting was called to order by the president, Harry Hickman. Everett Hickman made a short welcome address. A motion was made and seconded and unanimously carried to continue the president's officers. A collection was taken amounting to $4.25. It was decided to meet at the regular time next year at the old Hickman home place at Beaver. It was voted for the Amanda Hickman Toadvine family render the program next year. The program was turned over to the family of Uncle Taylor Hickman. Irene Hickman McCauley read a letter from Amie Hickman Pollard. Mrs. Amy Gardner made a few remarks. The following resolutions were read and adopted in respect to death of Russell Hickman:

Resolved, That the Heavenly Father has called from our family Russ Hickman, one of its most faithful members and regular attendant of our reunion and that it brings much sadness to our gathering today.

Resolved, That we extend to his wife, children, sisters and brother our deepest sympathy in this, their great loss.

That a copy of this be sent to his wife and each of the two county papers, would be right.

Signed, J. L. McCauley, Secy. J. A. L. McCauley, Treas.

Program: Topic: The Road that Leads Home.

STRAWBERRIES MAKE 200 CRATES TO ACRE

Seventeen strawberry growers attained a yield of 200 or more crates to the acre, in the 200-crate-per-acre club sponsored by the McCracken County Growers' Association this year. The highest yield was made by Woods & Forston, who produced 404 crates on 1.26 acres, or at the rate of 320 crates to the acre.

High yields, in most instances, were made on small acreages of land that was either naturally fertile or made so by the use of legumes, manure and fertilizers, says County Agent W. C. Johnstone. The labor, also, was usually performed by members of the families, some of whom added $100 an acre to their incomes by doing their own picking.

Mrs. Myrtle Offutt, one of our efficient corps of local telephone operators, is enjoying her vacation this week. She has been visiting Mrs. Fred Hauer of Florence, for several days. Mrs. Geo. A. Porter is substituting for her during her absence.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. McBee, of Mt. Zion, Grant county, spent Sunday with their son, Lester McBee and wife, here.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Yelton and family, of Big Bone, were calling on Dr. M. A. Yelton and family Sunday afternoon.

DOUBLE LOSS

FOR PETERSBURG TEAM DROPS THEM TO SECOND PLACE—BURLINGTON AND HUGHES CHAPEL ARE TOO MUCH FOR THE LEAGUE LEADERS, WHO ARE BEATEN 11-10 AND 3-1—BELLEVUE TEAMS BREAK EVEN IN DOUBLE BILL IN COUNTER

On account of the rain last Saturday afternoon there were no games played in the Boone County Church League.

However, on Monday afternoon the Petersburg team played a double header with the Burlington and Hughes Chapel teams and as a result of a double defeat relinquished their hold on first place.

In the first game Burlington was returned the winner by a score of 11-10, while Hughes Chapel won the second by the much smaller score of 3-1.

In the first game Akin and Hickman divided the hurling duties, being opposed by Carver, Hitzfeld and Deck. In the Hughes Chapel game Afterkirk was on the mound for the visitors, H. Deck doing the menial duty for Petersburg.

In an exhibition double header at Bellevue the Baptists and Christians of that place divided honors. The first game went into extra innings with the Christians winning by a score of 4-3; the Baptists taking the second 7-2.

After a long and discouraging battle W. W. Craddock finally succeeded in landing his toes on home plate and in doing so the Carpenter farm about one mile from town last Tuesday.

Local critics and onlookers had a great time watching the process with suggestive water cracks flowing from all sides like water over Niagara Falls.

Craddock after a company came out on top with the aid of almost every kind of town before the job finally was completed.

J. M. Conner, formerly a prominent livestock dealer of Boone county, was mingling with friends here Monday.

Robert Beemon, son of L. C. Beemon and wife of Florence, assumed his position as an instructor in the High School at Science Hill, Kentucky, where he went last week.

Mr. Beemon is a graduate of Hebron High School and the University of Kentucky.

M. E. MINISTERS

SELECTED FOR BOONE COUNTY PASTORATES AT ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF METHODIST CHURCH AT LEXINGTON—REV. POLLITT RETURNS TO BERRY, WHILE NEW MAN WILL BE IN CHARGE OF FOUR CHURCHES IN BOONE—TRAYNOR AND SIMMERMAN RETURN TO RESPECTIVE CHARGES

At the conference of the Southern M. E. churches, which was held at Lexington last week, Rev. S. H. Pollitt, pastor of the Boone circuit composed of Taylorport, Burlington, East Bend and Petersburg, was assigned to Berry, Kentucky, a former charge.

Rev. G. M. Graden, of Alexandria, will be the new pastor in Boone county. Rev. Pollitt and family will move this week to their former home. Their friends here regret to see them leave our midst as they have found a warm spot in the hearts of the people of this community. Rev. Graden will preach his first Boone county sermon at Burlington next Sunday, September 11.

Other appointments in Boone county included Rev. G. E. Traynor at Florence and Walton and Rev. Simmerman at Hughes Chapel and Big Bone.

Mrs. J. M. Thompson, of Cincinnati, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. R. E. Berkebile, and family this week.

W. C. Sogard and family of Michigan are visiting the Sherrill, Herbert, Sawyer and wife and other Boone county relatives this week.

The Snyder family formerly of Burlington, are visiting the Sherrill, Herbert, Sawyer and wife and other Boone county relatives this week.

Rev. E. C. Graden, of Alexandria, is visiting the Sherrill, Herbert, Sawyer and wife and other Boone county relatives this week.

Mrs. Henry Clore, of Bellevue, was reported in the first of the week.

About twenty-five relatives and friends enjoyed a re-union at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Anderson of near Florence last Sunday.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

Two far-seeing business managements, with the same smart ideas and following the same line of action in carrying out those ideas, get different results. That sort of thing happens all the time, although no one has ever been able to figure out the why and wherefore.

Right now, we are referring to the respective cases of the Chicago and Cincinnati National League baseball clubs, first and last, respectively, in the pennant standings. Both managements, fully appreciating the fact that the only profitable investment in baseball is a big investment, went in heavily for a winning team.

The late William Wrigley was the great exponent of "laying it on the line" for ball players. Year after year, Wrigley threw hundreds of thousands of dollars into the Cub machine, endeavoring to bring a pennant winner to the machine-gun city. The investment paid even when Chicago didn't win a pennant for the simple reason that the club managed to stay well up in the race. The Cubs were always a "home club" and gave the fans a real show for their money.

Wrigley died, and the Chicago management continued the policy of investing heavily. The results have shown themselves this year in a certain pennant winning combination which has drawn huge crowds all season and will shortly pull down an imposing sum in the World Series.

President Sidney Well of the Reds, although never in the financial position of the chewing-gum magnate, has handled his club just as smartly as have the Chicagoans. Well took one look at the 1931 Reds and decided that it was time to invest. His subsequent purchasing of players and trades made base ball history in Cincinnati. The Queen City fans won't forget that. But the Reds remained in eighth place and that misfortune must be marked up to the breaks of the game. Perhaps you can figure it out, we can't.

The Cubs risked a big investment and won. The Reds risked a big investment and lost, at least in 1932. Obviously, of course, President Well's work during the past year is eventually going to show definite results, but for the time being Cincinnati is up against it with a losing team. The Reds drew large crowds early in the season when they were in the first division and have continued to draw good attendance since then, although not up to the early season marks.

In a way, the failure of the Reds doesn't seem fair, considering the remarkable fight that Well and his associates have made this year. Other clubs risking less, have gained more. But even an eighth-place club, especially when it is as good a team as the Reds, will turn eventually.

So Long, Redlegs!

The Cincinnati Reds now begin their final eastern campaign, playing only three more games at Redland Field. On Sept. 4, the Reds play the Pittsburgh Pirates at Cincinnati, and on the following day, Wednesday, Sept. 5, meet the champion Chicago Cubs in a double-header at Redland Field. The final home game of the season is slated for Tuesday, Sept. 18, when the Cubs and the Reds come together for the last time in 1932. Red fans are urged to make reservations early for these games. Out-of-town fans who plan to attend the fare-

McCAULEY WINS JUDGING CONTEST

Mickey McCauley of the X-L-All 4-H Club of Florence scored 375 out of a possible 400 points for first place in the county 4-H poultry production judging contest held at North Kentucky Fair last Friday. Three members Ralph Maurer and Donald Kirkpatrick of the Burlington Blue Ribbon 4-H Club and Melvin Kenyon of the Corneracker 4-H Club tied for second place, each scoring 365 points out of a possible 400 points.

The above four members will represent the county in the state 4-H judging contest held at Louisville during the State Fair. Eleven members competed in county contest. Four pens of birds were judged for production only. Written placings were given on all pens and reasons on two pens.

HENRY WACHSMAN

Henry Wachman, aged 83 years, passed away Monday night at his home on the Richardson place, Kenton county, after a long illness. The remains were immediately removed to the Tallafarro Funeral Home in Erlanger for preparation.

Mr. Wachman is survived by two sons and one daughter, in addition to ten grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.

Funeral services were held at the Tallafarro Funeral Home Thursday afternoon at two o'clock by the Rev. R. D. Martin, pastor of the Erlanger Baptist church, interment following in Vine Street cemetery, Cincinnati.

One of the largest and most interesting family reunions in this county was held at the home of Postmaster Everett Hickman last Sunday, September 4th, at the home of Postmaster Everett Hickman.

One hundred and sixty-six members of the family were present. A further account of the reunion will be found in other columns.

The following relatives and friends of the Brady family attended the reunion at the home of Postmaster Everett Hickman last Sunday:

SCHOOL OPENS

WITH SPLENDID CORPS OF TEACHERS FOR VARIOUS BOONE COUNTY UNITS—REGULAR ATTENDANCE URGED BY STATE SUPERINTENDENT JAS. H. RICHMOND IN LETTER TO D. H. NORRIS, BOONE COUNTY SCHOOL HEAD—FINE OF FROM FIVE TO FIFTEEN DOLLARS FOR DELINQUENTS

Schools of Boone county will reopen next Monday morning, September 12, for the term of 1932-33.

In a letter received by County Superintendent D. H. Norris the past week from James H. Richmond, Superintendent of Public Instruction, the matter of regular attendance is stressed. Prof. Richmond urges the regular attendance of all children and points out the statute which provides that any person failing to cause the attendance of a child under his control shall be subject to a fine of from five to fifteen dollars.

The roster of teachers in the various schools under county supervision provides a splendid array of instructing talent and includes the following teachers:

Burlington—E. E. Kirkwood, Prin.

C. G. Lamb, Secy. J. L. McCauley, Treas. J. A. L. McCauley, Secy. J. M. Conner, Treas.

Hebron—D. V. Lucy, Principal. Mrs. R. E. Clore, Secy. E. L. Clore, Treas.

Walton—J. E. Baker, Secy. J. E. Baker, Treas. J. E. Baker, Secy. J. E. Baker, Treas.

Bellevue—Mrs. Sibbia Rimer. Mrs. Ida Mae Cason.

Taylorport—Ruth Roberts Allen. Pt. Pleasant—Geo. B. Miller, Jr.

North Bend—Lawrence Rodamer. Garrison—Mrs. Anna Engle.

Maple Hill—Iva Pearl Presser. Colored Schools

Burlington—Elizabeth Smith. Walton—Mary Johnson.

Beaver Lick—Elsie Ruth Stevens. Maggie Bell Baker.

SEE'IN' THINGS! Geo. A. Porter reported to this office Wednesday morning that he just had seen a cat catch a snake and start to eat it. While several thoughtful, considerate strong arm citizens held George we went to investigate—sure nuf, he was telling the truth. Indeed the snake was small, but so was the cat.

The congregations of St. Patrick's church, of Verona, and the Saints Mission church at Walton enjoyed an all day outing at the Florence Fair grounds Monday, Labor Day. Chicken dinner was served throughout the day, while those present enjoyed playing cards, Lotto and outdoor events.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Aylor spent Sunday with L. C. Weaver and family.

Rev. F. E. Walker, Bailey Greenup, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Green and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown attended services at the Bellevue Baptist church on Monday evening of this week.

Will Riddell, of Dayton, O., spent Labor Day with Marco Riddell and wife here.

HOW WILL THE WOMEN VOTE?

We don't know who is going to be the next President of the United States, and we are not quite sure about who will represent some of our own districts in the next Congress, but we are beginning to feel pretty sure that the women of the United States are going to have a good deal more to say about it this year than we men.

According to the United States census of 1930, there are just about 35,000,000 women over 21 years of age in this country. We have lived long enough to know that it is never safe to predict what a woman is going to do, but we have a strong hunch that most of these girls are going to get out and vote next election day, and hat they are going to pay a great deal more attention to the issues of the campaign than to personalities of the candidates.

Before the days of woman suffrage the opponents of the notion that women ought to have a vote had a favorite argument that women would vote for the handsomest boys, because they lied, their hair or the way they tie their neckties.

It hasn't worked out exactly that way. We haven't noticed any movie stars going into the Senate, and we have seen some of the worst looking specimens of mankind ever laid eyes on occupying seats in Congress and other public offices.

They used to say that women would vote the way their husbands or fathers or brothers told them. We never did have much faith in that argument. It is our observation that the best way to get a woman to do something is to tell her to do something else.

Seriously, we not only believe, but we hope, that the women's vote is going to be a big factor in the coming election. Almost every woman we know anything about is instinctively frugal, while probably most of the men we know would be spendthrifts if they had anything to spend. What is needed now more than anything else is a general housecleaning in government, and lopping off of unnecessary expenses everywhere. We would very much rather trust the women—any group of women—to do the job than we would trust a similar group of men.

THE VOICE OF AUTHORITY

Success is always exciting; we never grow tired of asking what and how. What, then, were the principal elements in Jesus' power over men? How was it that the boy from a country village became the greatest leader?

First of all he had the voice and manner of the leader—the personal magnetism which begets loyalty and commands respect. The beginnings of it were present in him even as a boy. John felt them.

On the day when John looked up from the river where he was baptizing converts and saw Jesus standing on the bank, he drew back in protest. "I have never to be baptized of thee," he exclaimed, "and comes thou to me?"

The lesser man recognized the greater instinctively. We speak of personal magnetism as tho there were something mysterious about it—a magic quality bestowed on one in a thousand and denied to all the rest. This is not true. The magnetic element in personal sincerity is a consuming faith in the importance of the work one has to do. Most of us go through the world mentally divided against ourselves. We wonder whether we are in the right jobs, whether we are making the right investments, whether, after all, anything is as important as it seems to be. Our enemies are those of our own being and creation. Instinctively we wait for a commanding voice for one who shall say authoritatively, "I have the truth. This way lies happiness and salvation." There was in Jesus su-premiely that quality of conviction. Even very successful people were moved by it. Jesus had been in Jerusalem only a day or two when there came a knock at his door at night. He opened it to find Nicodemus one of the principal men of the city; a member of the Sanhedrin, a supreme court judge. One sees the dramatic quality of the meeting—the young, almost unknown, teacher and the great man, half curious, half convinced.

It would have been easy to make a mistake. Jesus might very naturally have expressed his sense of honor at the visit; have said: "I appreciate your coming, sir. You are an older man and successful. I am just starting on my work. I should like to have you advise me as to how I may best proceed. But there was no such note in the interview—no effort to make it easy for this notable visitor to become a convert. One catches his breath involuntarily at the audacity of the speech:

"Verily, verily, I say to you, Nicodemus, except you are born again you can not see the kingdom of Heaven." And a few moments later, "If I have not told you earthly things and you have not believed, how shall you believe if I tell you heavenly things?"

The famous visitor did not enroll as a disciple. He was not invited to enroll; but he never forgot the impression made by the young man's amazing self-assurance. In a few weeks the crowds along the shores of the Sea of Galilee were to feel the same power.

THE "OLD RELIABLE"

Say what we will—try out what we may—the fact remains that our old friend IODINE remains, the cheapest, most reliable, best antiseptic. The tourist with a couple of ounces of iodine in his kit, may feel absolute assurance that he has the best emergency application known for possible recent, open wounds. Indeed, no tourist-kit is complete without this time-honored, time-proven enemy of dangerous bacteria.

Let us remember that the skilled, modern surgeon, preparing to do a "capital operation," first cleanses the site of incision with soap and water; than he swabs the entire field with tincture of iodine; than, a dash of pure grain alcohol to remove the stain—and the operation proceeds boldly and safely for the patient. Nothing can be better than perfection in antiseptics.

The uses of iodine are many. Internally, iodine ranks among our first agents a blood-alterative. It purifies bad blood by destroying the contaminating agent or agents. Iodine in the form of ointments combats the most serious of blood toxemias. I would think of iodine first, if I were to name humanity's greatest benefactor in the way of a medicine.

This week I was informed by a friend of a new use for iodine. He had acquired an acute case of sunburn, amounting almost to blisters. In agony, he took the first agent at hand. He put a teaspoonful of tincture of iodine into a glass of water and bathed the affected skin free-

"Tartarum," he said. He obtained immediate relief. He tried it again, and again in similar conditions, always with perfect relief. Isn't it worth a trial?

I am very slow to abandon old reliable remedies for the new commercialized products.

Sunday School Lesson

Israel Journeying Toward Canaan
10:11-36
Golden Text: Numbers 10:35
The children of Israel occupied about forty years in their wanderings toward the land of promise. It is surprising how uneventful was their wilderness sojourn, although it was of supreme importance in laying the foundations of their religion and culture, and so preparing them for the momentous changes of their later history.

For the most part their life was fairly settled with headquarters at Kadesh, a holy shrine on the southern border of the promised land, with an exceptional spring of water. Our lesson describes the departure of the Israelites from Mt. Sinai, where they had camped nearly a year, giving, in detail, the order of the twelve tribes in the route of march.

Then comes the charming episode of Moses' appeal to his father-in-law Hobab, elsewhere called Jethro, to act as guide. A member of the nomadic clan of Kenites or Midianites, he was thoroughly acquainted with the country through which the chosen people desired to pass. It is evident that he finally yielded to his son-in-law's urgent entreaty, despite his initial blunt refusal. That his services were not forgotten is indicated by Saul's counsel, many years later, to the Kenites to separate themselves from the enemy he was about to attack, because they, doubtless through Hobab, had been kind to his own folk. (See 1 Samuel 15:6.)

The Golden Text, "Come thou with us, and we will do thee good," the greeting of Moses to Hobab, is one of the Bible's gracious invitations.

Hobab was a foreigner, but he is promised complete equality of treatment. "Come and be a pair of eyes for us," pleads Moses, to quote Moffatt's graphic translation, "and as the eternal prosperous us, so will we prosper you."

The Church of God might well make use of the Hobabs outside its fold capable of guiding its thinking into new areas of experiment. Let every household of faith welcome such with open arms in the generous affection of the Golden Text.

WATERLOO

Mr. Dallas Rector and family, of Saylor Park, and Mrs. Geo. Rector were Sunday guests of Mrs. Elson Rector and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Botts visited relatives in Petersburg Sunday.

Mrs. Lucien Stephens and daughter Halie, spent from Thursday until Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Horton of Rising Sun.

Mrs. Wesley Kittle and daughters spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Owen Portwood and family.

Almost All Meals in Summer May Be Served Buffet Style

SUMMER meals should be informal, comfortable affairs; and serving buffet style not only lessens the work for the one who is preparing and serving the food, but provides a welcome change. Buffet service also is suitable for a group too large to serve at the table. It is simple to place the attractively garnished serving dishes—for the most part of cool, crisp foods—on the table with silver and linen close by, and allow guests to serve themselves. Almost all summer menus may be served this way.

Chicken Salad Sandwich Rolls—Slice bread lengthwise of the loaf, having it about 1/4 inch thick. Trim the crusts and place the slices of bread in a damp linen cloth so they will roll easily. Allow to stand at least half an hour before rolling them. Prepare the Chicken Salad according to the following recipe: To 2 cups cold chicken cut in cubes, add 1 1/2 cups diced celery, 1 teaspoon salt and 2 hard cooked eggs, saving several well formed slices for garnishing. Moisten the chicken, celery and eggs, using Mayonnaise Salad Dressing. Spread the slices of bread with butter and then with a layer of the chicken salad and roll firmly. Garnish each salad roll with a slice of hard-cooked egg and slices of Stuffed Spanish Olives.

Molded Mixed Vegetable Salad—Soak 1 tablespoon plain gelatin in 1/4 cup cold water for five minutes and dissolve in 1/4 cup boiling water. Add 3 tablespoons Pure Vinegar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons sugar and 1 teaspoon salt. When this mixture begins to thicken, add 1 cup diced cucumbers, 1 cup thinly sliced radishes and 1 cup chopped cabbage. Pour into a large mold or into small individual molds to chill. Then unmold in nests of crisp lettuce on a large platter. Place the platter on the serving table and garnish with Mayonnaise Salad Dressing.

Creamed Ham and Olives—Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 3 tablespoons flour and stir together until well blended. Add 1 1/2 cups milk and cook until thick. Add 1 1/2 cups cooked diced ham and 1/4 cup Stuffed Spanish Olives, sliced, and heat thoroughly in the sauce. Add a few drops Worcestershire Sauce and a dash of pepper. Serve on a platter on slices of buttered toast and allow each person to serve himself.

Esq., regret to know that he is ill and confined to his bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Barrett, of Price Hill, were guests of Mrs. L. R. Barlow Sunday night.

Mrs. B. L. Norman, with charming hospitality, gave a 42 o'clock dinner Sunday concluding the Mrs. Katherine Rachut, Miss Sue Katherine Bristow and Mrs. Tom Robert Hoyer.

Leslie Sullivan, R. D. carrier, has been ill and confined to the house the past week.

During the terrific storm Friday night the old Lewis Rouse residence was struck by lightning and burned to the ground. Fortunately it was unoccupied at this time.

Mrs. Marie G. Bedinger is in from a delightful sojourn at Montreal, North Carolina.

Miss Sue Katherine Bristow attended the Kenton County Teachers' Conference in Crescent Springs Monday. Miss Bristow resumed her work as principal of Winston High School September 6th.

The Daviess county tobacco acreage was 99 per cent as large as last year, with considerable damage from disease, worms and drouth.

Approximately 100 pigs are being raised by 4-H club members in Casey county. Many of them owning their first pig.

A group of 50 Fleming county farmers toured Ohio, studying farm methods and seeing the country.

Bath county cattle have been tested for tuberculosis and the county made an accredited area.

A Supper You Can Get Right After Breakfast

By Sarah Blackwell
Coffee Service Institute

A PORCH supper is to me the perfect end of a hot summer's day. Topping sandwiches, a crisp salad, a light dessert, and glasses of iced-coffee set out on a card-table in buffet style never fail to cheer my warm, weary family.

One of the best features of the porch supper is the preparation of it which can be made in the cool of the morning, rather than in the hot part of the afternoon in a still hot kitchen. Carefully planned, the meal can be assembled a few minutes before serving.

A wide variety of sandwiches can be made ahead of time, wrapped in waxed paper and put in a cool place. These include sandwiches of brown bread and cream cheese, white bread with date and nut paste, cheese and olives on brown or white bread, anchovy paste and cream cheese, peanut butter and raisin bread.

The always popular potato salad or any of the molded gelatin salads such as tomato jelly salad, vegetable ring, or ham mousse, are made early and put in the refrigerator to set the last minute, and with crisp lettuce and chilled mayonnaise. Fresh berries, or fruit whips, are unfailing favorites for the porch supper dessert.

Of course, in hot weather the most important part of any meal is the deliciously cool drink. The one my family likes best, and quite economical now, is iced coffee. Nearly every one knows how to make iced tea, but fewer people know the simple secret of good iced coffee. Iced coffee must be freshly made and before serving, and poured into tall glasses well over from breakfast, or coffee put away to chill in a refrigerator, is never so good, as coffee loses its fragrance and flavor when it stands long after making.

Since the tea naturally dilutes the coffee, you should use twice the usual amount to each cup of water, in brewing. And, important, too, is the correct grind for your method—coarse for pot, medium for percolator, and fine for drip. Fresh coffee, freshly ground, and brewed double strength are the simple rules for perfect iced coffee. Sugar and cream to taste and whipped cream, if you like it, gives the glasses a 40-below-zero look that will revive anyone on a 90-in-the-shade day.

POLYOMYELITIS OR

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

August, September and October

are the months during which poliomyelitis, or infantile paralysis, is usually most prevalent. While there is no present threat of anything approaching an epidemic in Kentucky this year, there are enough scattered cases in this State to render it timely in the opinion of Dr. J. L. Jones, State Epidemiologist, to present a few facts which are of importance in the prevention and control of this disease.

Infantile paralysis, Dr. Jones points out, is a "catching" disease, caused by an infecting agent, or virus, which gains entrance into the substance of the brain or spinal cord. This entrance is gained through the mucous membrane of the nose and throat, thence by lymph channels to the nerve tissues.

"Exposures occur," says Dr. Jones, "through contact with discharges from nose, throat or bowels of an affected person or through contact with a healthy individual harboring the virus of the disease in the nose or throat. Such an individual is known as a 'carrier.' The contact with discharges from nose, throat or bowels of an affected person may be either direct—that is, from person to person—or indirect, that is, by way of some article of food, especially milk, polluted by such discharges."

Infantile paralysis, in the judgment of Dr. Jones, is, in all probability much more prevalent than reports would indicate. This is explained by the fact that a considerable percentage of those affected with the disease do not develop paralysis at all; while, in some others, paralysis is so slight as to be unrecognizable. It is, therefore, probable that many mild cases are not recognized at all. These mild cases, however, are contagious.

Speaking of the early symptoms of infantile paralysis, Dr. Jones said, "In communities where one or more cases have occurred, a child with fever, vomiting, constipation or diarrhea, drowsiness, and irritability, especially when combined with headache, a transient flushing of the face, unusual sweating or retention of urine, should be regarded with suspicion. During the latter part of the summer, any child with unexplained stomach or intestinal disturbance and a temperature up to 102 degrees, with a discomfort out of all proportion to the symptoms, should be kept apart from other children and the family physician called. Pains in the neck, back and limbs, general weakness and clumsiness about the fourth day of illness mark the onset of paralysis and may establish the diagnosis."

"The suspected child should be immediately isolated in bed, other children in the household should be kept from entering the room and all other children and adults from entering the house. When a definite diagnosis of infantile paralysis has been made, then a strict quarantine must be established and observed under the direction of the family physician."

"There is no specific preventative treatment against infantile paralysis. There is, however, a vaccine or serum treatment for the disease itself—the serum from a person be obtained from the State Board of Health and its use is urged in all early cases."

The general treatment includes absolute rest in bed until all pain and tenderness have left the affected muscles. When this has happened a series of exercises, carefully carried out, according to directions of the attending physician, is in order.

"Precautions against exposure to infantile paralysis should be taken immediately upon the report of a case in the community and should be continued until the local health authorities definitely pronounce the danger over. These precautions may be summed up as follows:

"(a) Every possible avenue by which the virus of the disease can reach children should be cut off. The most important measure of precaution is isolation of the child and so minimization of chances of exposure. This does not imply that the child should be confined to her room, but rather that its movements should be restricted to the doorway and association with other children avoided. Contact with adults should also be avoided."

"(b) Milk consumed by the child should be either boiled or pasteurized."

"(c) All measures to prevent contact with body discharges, suppression of the fly nuisance, prohibition of the common drinking cup and a general educational campaign for cleanliness and sanitation, with particular instructions to parents and children concerning personal hygiene, especially of the nose and mouth, should be urged."

"(d) Children should be guarded against over-fatigue and indigestion of diet. They should be given a little extra rest during the day and kept, as far as possible, cheerful and happy."

Every case of infantile paralysis must be promptly reported to the local health authorities. This is the only mandatory under the law, but is absolutely essential to the proper cooperation of the Health Department in preventing spread of the disease.

UGRASS BETTER HAY AND PASTURE LAND

A plea against allowing land to deteriorate because farm prices are low, is made by Prof. George Roberts, of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

"In a time of low prices, there is a tendency to let land deteriorate," he notes. "It is a time to improve land for an era of higher prices. Many pasture lands are seriously eroding because of insufficient covering. Much cultivated land subject to serious erosion should be in grass. The only hope for a permanent and prosperous agriculture in Kentucky is in an abundance of good grass."

Prof. Roberts made these statements in a message to county agents urging the importance of pasture and hay land improvement. He pointed out that the pasture land area in Kentucky is the nearly 20 per cent larger than the harvested crop area. The combined pasture and hay acreage is one and a half times as large as the remaining acreage of harvested crop land, including 1 1/2 per cent.

In general, pasture and hay land outside the test blue grass is of low productivity. The improvement of pasture and hay land greatly reduces the amount of harvested feed crops necessary to carry livestock, thus reducing carrying costs. Good pasture and hay land, when treated with crop land, means higher yields of cultivated crops, and smaller acreage necessary for the crops. Good grass land is a large factor in economical farm management.

PREDICT NORMAL EGG SUPPLY FOR WINTER

Egg production next winter is not expected to exceed that of last winter, even though there is an increase in the number of hens, according to the department of markets and rural finance at the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. Mild weather last winter favored high production. The number of chickens being raised in the United States this year is about 7 1/2 per cent more than last year. While there was an increase in hatchlings over last year the number of young chickens on farms July 1 was less than in some recent years and only equal to the average for the past five years.

Old hens have been sold off faster than usual in Kentucky, and egg production is now below normal, but sufficient pullets are being raised to provide about a normal supply of eggs.

The market outlook for eggs indicates a normal seasonal movement of prices, with current supplies exercising considerable influence because storage stocks are the lightest since 1916. Stocks of shell and frozen eggs are one-fourth smaller than either last year or the five-year average. While consumption for the first six months of 1932 was approximately 9 per cent less than in the same months of 1931 it was nevertheless about equal to the 1930 disappearance. Consumers appear rather sensitive to price changes and recent price advances have been halted by decreases in the amount taken for current consumption. The usual seasonal movement indicates a rise in egg prices until the latter part of December.

Consumption of poultry during the first half of 1932 has exceeded fresh supplies and has reduced storage stocks to 24 per cent below the five-year average. Dressed poultry receipts during the period however, were 7 per cent less than the five-year average. Receipts of live poultry were also smaller. Marketings of young poultry during the last half of 1932 are expected to be larger than a year ago, depending, however, on the proportion of pullets which may be retained for the laying flock.

Some increase in the number of turkeys available for the market is anticipated in view of the large flocks now being raised on some farms and the fact that there are many producers interested in turkeys for the first time. This is true for Kentucky as well as the United States as a whole. Cold storage holdings of 7,000,000 pounds are about twice last year's stocks and 10 per cent over the five-year average, with large birds predominating. Well-finished, small birds were in greatest demand last year, and this same condition is expected to be the case when the 1932 crop goes on the market.

Twenty-nine Christian county farmers made a tour of Cheatem county, Tenn., to study methods of growing and firing dark tobacco.

At Hiter of nine pigs owned by S. V. Kessler in Taylor county weighed 1,910 pounds when sold, and returned 70 cents a bushel for corn fed them.

EASTERN KENTUCKY

TO HAVE FARM FAIR

Arrangements are being made for extensive exhibits of crops, fruit, livestock and other farm products at the seventh Robinson Harvest Festival, to be held at the Robinson Agricultural Experiment Substation at Gretna, in Jackson county, Sept. 29-30. Crops are good in much of the eastern part of the state.

Special attention has been given to growing garden crops and fruit in the eastern counties in the last few years. Increased production of vegetables, improvement in quality, and the addition of varieties of all kinds of garden crops, are expected to be reflected in the fair at the Robinson Substation this year.

The fair, made possible through the generosity of E. O. Robinson, of Fort Thomas, Ky., will comprise exhibits of corn and other field crops, hogs, poultry of all kinds, apples and other fruit, potatoes, flowers, baked goods, canned fruits and vegetables, preserves and jams, textiles, house furnishings, sewing school displays and miscellaneous articles. There will be, in addition, a complete 4-H club show with classes for hogs, poultry, calves, corn, potatoes, clothing, canned foods, cooking, etc. A 4-H club parade, games, races, mule contest, speaking and music will be other features of the festival and fair.

WHEAT GROWING TO HELP PROVIDE FOOD

The Red Cross, County Agent R. V. Trosper and local committees are cooperating to encourage wheat growing in a community of 200 families in the western part of Bell county. Plans include the growing of an acre of wheat by each family. Seed and sowing and threshing machinery will be provided from local sources. Through the addition of wheat to enlarged garden growing, and increasing the number of chickens, pigs and cows, it is hoped to make the community largely self-sustaining.

FALL IDEAL TIME TO SOW BLUE GRASS

Fall is considered an ideal time to sow blue grass in Kentucky. Cool weather and fall rains are excellent for starting grass, especially blue grass.

N. R. Elliott, extension landscape architect for the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, recommends a mixture of four parts by weight of Kentucky blue grass and one part of redtop. If white clover is desired, in addition, it should be sown in the spring rather than in the fall.

Directions for making new lawns as well as caring for old ones are found in circular No. 256, "The Lawn," which can be obtained from county and home demonstration agents or by writing to the college.

PLAN LARGE 4-H CANNING DISPLAY FOR STATE FAIR

A huge pyramid bearing 1,000 jars of canned foods contributed by farm girls will be the center of attraction in the 4-H club exhibit at the Kentucky State Fair Sept. 12-17.

Approximately 1,000 4-H club girls are engaged in canning in the state this year, helping to make more effective the live-at-home program and insure a supply of food in hundreds of homes. They are working under the direction of home demonstration agents and local club leaders, learning the most approved methods of preserving fruits and vegetables and contributing thousands of dollars worth of food.

The 4-H club exhibit at last year's State Fair contained 609 jars of canned fruits and vegetables. This year, due to increased interest in canning, the number of cans will be almost doubled.

Manufacturers of jars and other canning equipment and local organizations are helping to further the work this year. Jar companies are offering trips and other prizes and will pay transportation costs in sending canned goods to the State Fair.

Business men's organizations at Pineville sponsored the purchase of 75 dozen jars for Bell county 4-H club girls, who are canning thousands of jars of fruit, vegetables, meats, jams and preserves under the guidance of local leaders and Miss Ruth Etheridge, the county home demonstration agent. Each girl will return two filled jars for each dozen empty jars received.

FARMERS INSPECT EXPERIMENTS AT WESTERN STATION

Farmers who attended the recent meeting at the Western Kentucky Agricultural Experiment Substation saw how crop yields may be profitably increased by applications of limestone, phosphate and other fertilizers.

Where limestone, superphosphate, potash and sulfate of soda were applied, corn yields were increased by 17 bushels to the acre, wheat by 13 bushels and clover hay by 1,665 pounds. A complete fertilizer gave best yields for tobacco. Hay, pasture and other crops yielded better on land treated with limestone and other fertilizers.

Where limestone was ground and wheat in a three-year rotation on land treated with limestone and superphosphate, the yield of corn was increased about 13 bushels to the acre. With red and blue clover or on land limed and phosphated, the yield of corn was increased approximately 10 bushels to the acre. Three ten-acre pastures were treated in different ways in the summer of 1931 and all needed to the same pasture mixture. Results are figured in pounds of gains made by steers running on them.

Beginning with 1929, steers on the pasture receiving no treatment gained to date a total of 1,650 lbs. Those in the 10-acre field treated with rock phosphate have gained without phosphate have gained 4,400 pounds, while those pastured on 10 acres treated with limestone and superphosphate have gained 4,525 pounds.

Phosphate top-dressing of old alfalfa in the spring of 1931 increased the yield of hay by 3,000 pounds to the acre, and the addition of potash to the phosphate increased the yield by 3,393 pounds. During the present year the further increases from the 1931 treatment have been 1,020 pounds and 1,994 pounds.

Adapted red clover seed produced much more hay than unadapted Kentucky-grown seed or seed from other states or counties.

HOGS PROFITABLE SAYS SELLARDS

Hogs are relatively more profitable now than they were a year ago, and thoughtful consideration of the relationship of corn and hog prices restores respect for the hog as a profit producer, says Grady Sellards, of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

He points out that corn is so low in price that it probably is not profitable as a cash crop. Fed to hogs, corn still can be made to bring a fair price. S. V. Kessler, a Taylor county farmer, reported that he received 70 cents a bushel for corn fed in the lot-litter contest this year. He had a litter of nine pigs weigh nearly a ton when six months old.

In going about the state Mr. Sellards has found that many farmers hold to their faith in hogs. "Hogs paid for my farm," "I have never lost money in hogs," "Hogs paid for rearing and educating my family." These are some of the comments of farmers who know the hog business.

"But bear in mind," cautions Mr. Sellards, "that statements came from farmers who raised good hogs. They know how to manage hogs, how to keep them free from disease and worm infestation, and how to push them thru to wick maturity. Under the lot-litter plan being promoted by Mr. Sellards, in cooperation with county farm agents, litters of pigs are made to weigh a ton or more when 165 days old. Such hogs rarely fail to return a profit."

California Primary Results Encouraging To Democrats

(By Fred Holmes)

Washington Correspondence for The Boone County Recorder

In a certain way, Washington "put one over" on the rest of the country this week. We witnessed two eclipses here. One was in the heavens, where noisy old Luna interrupted between Mother Earth and Old Sol; the other was when the eclipse eclipsed politics.

There was quite a gathering on the spacious White House lawn to witness the firmamental spectacle. Largely made up of unnoticables, a few notables were included. Your correspondent approached one gentleman standing high in Administration circles.

"Commissioner," I inquired, "To what do you attribute young Teddy Roosevelt's sudden determination not to desert his post in the Philippines in order to actively participate in the presidential campaign here in the States?"

"Well," replied my interrogator, "in view of the fact that few if any living beings in this country will ever be able to witness another solar eclipse, this one gives you quite a thrill, doesn't it?"

"Thanks," I rejoined, making note of his observation, and sought out another power behind the throne.

"Mr. Blank," asked I, "what political interpretation do you put upon the result of the primaries in California?"

"With your assurance that my name will not be used," he answered, "I will admit that my wife smoked this piece of glass for me this morning and, as might have been expected, there are spots so black I can't see anything and spots so thinly coated that even that little piece of sun hurts my eyes."

However, after an hour or so of everything being eclipsed by the eclipse, Miss Moon passed on into temporary obscurity and our throats reverted to depression, unemployment, stock markets, veterans' bonus, farmers' strike in the West, political mud-slinging, and other uplifting and recreative topics of discussion. Even the intensively partisan, propagandizing, professional political prophets "got back on the job." Mark Sullivan, that well-known, verbose, syndicalizing columnist, who still adheres to the tenet that the king—if a king of his picking—"can do no wrong," submits the following analysis:

"The returns from the primary election in California, though still incomplete, justify the inference that, as between Republicans and Democrats, conditions are normal, and that in the Presidential election in November the Republicans should carry the state by a normal majority, which in California is large."

On the other hand, the New York Times, possibly leaning just as far in the other direction, sums up the situation as follows:

"The returns, while incomplete, are sufficient to show that much less than a majority of the Republican voting population of California took part in the primary. Fewer than 500,000 votes were cast in choosing a Republican Senatorial candidate. Yet Mr. Hoover polled 1,162,223 votes in California in 1928, and in 1924 Mr. Coolidge and the late Senator La Follette together had over 1,100,000. In that year many Democratic votes were cast for the Republican and the Progressive candidates, for Mr. Davis got only 105,514. But even eight years ago the Republicans had perhaps a million votes. This indicates that, despite the intensity of the Tubbs-Shortridge struggle, many Republicans did not vote in the primary. Taken in conjunction with the large percentage of Democratic votes cast for Mr. McAdoo and his rivals, and the fact that this year the Democrats registered 1,027,657 as against 1,497,432 Republicans, the primary showing gives the Democrats reason to put down California as a debatable state in November."

Wherefore all our doubts are dispelled and we are convinced that if Sullivan is right the New York Times may be set down as a poor guesser. And if the Times is right, Mark, as a political prognosticator, will have to be relegated to a back seat. In any case, it is worthy of notice that ex-Governor Smith declined to take a public position in California, although he undoubtedly would have enjoyed the defeat of Mr. McAdoo for reasons growing out of political events of 1924, 1928 and 1932. Both Mr. McAdoo and the runner-up, Mr. Wardell, were strong partisans of Governor Roosevelt, the former a convert at Chicago, the latter head of the Roosevelt delegate slate which was defeated by the Hearst-McAdoo-Garner list in the Presidential primaries last spring. It is not thought here that the result was in any way hurtful to the Democratic national cause. What ad-

WASHINGTON SNAP SHOTS

Taken by The Helm News Service

President Hoover's home state, California, assume increased importance in national political calculations as a result of the Senatorial primaries which apparently defeated Senator Samuel Shortridge for Republican renomination while overwhelmingly nominating William Gibbs McAdoo as the Democratic candidate. The early observations among Republican leaders were that the Republicans had scored an advantage in polling about 250,000 more votes than the Democrats in the usually hard-fought contests, but may not have improved their prospects of carrying the state in November by the substitution of the comparatively little-known dripping-wet Talbot Tubbs for the veteran Senator Shortridge on the ticket.

The ending of August marks the half-way stage in the presidential campaign. In a little more than two months it will be all over except the voting. It is customary to reserve the heaviest firing for September and October on the theory that the voters are too much occupied with summer diversions to take their politics seriously. But the campaign of 1932 had an unusually early opening.

It is said that it was President Hoover himself who called off the projected campaign tour in this country of Theodore Roosevelt, Governor-General of the Philippines. His presence was desired on the hustings by party managers to dispel the idea in some minds that Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee, was a son of the former President. That the tour was canceled by Mr. Hoover, and the Governor-General directed to remain at his post, was revealed at the White House in response to inquiries for the text of Gov. Roosevelt's message announcing that he would not electioneer this year.

A new German tariff decree just promulgated and providing for "drastic increases in import duties" on a wide range of imports, including many from the U. S. will become effective on September 6th. The increases in nearly all cases are at least 100 per cent higher than the prevailing rates, and it is expected that they will in some instances be prohibitive. The decree provides, in addition to specific import duty increases, for establishment of import quotas on some products of especial interest in the United States.

September 1st is an important date at Washington not only for officials who have the duty of setting the Government's financial house in order but for every overburdened taxpayer in the land. July 1 marks the beginning of the Government's new fiscal year. September 1 is the last day for submission by department heads of their estimates of expenses for the following fiscal year. Their Director Rool and the other budget officials will begin their conferences on cutting the Government's coat according to the cloth. And this year it is already evident that they will have to do more trimming than ever.

Motor Oil Is Tested In Daring Speedway Run

Lon Moore, Speed Ace, Drives 100 M.P.H. For Solid Hour at Indianapolis

ONE of the most interesting tests in automotive history was conducted here when Lon Moore, noted speed ace, crossed the finish line at the Indianapolis Speedway after driving for one hour continuously at a speed of better than one hundred miles an hour. Moore's run, conducted under the supervision of the American Automobile Association by the Gulf Refining Company, proved conclusively that a racing car traveling at this extreme pace for such a long period can be lubricated successfully with a commercial mineral lubricant.

"The idea that racing cars can operate only on a blended castor oil is false," Moore explained after the run. "Every race driver knows that oil takes a severe beating in a hundred miles an hour grind around a speedway. To maintain an average speed of 100 miles per hour for one full hour means racing as fast as 110 miles per hour at times." Under these circumstances a lubricant is put to a most severe test. "This run proves that motorists need have no fear of driving at high speeds with a mineral, commercial lubricant."

Moore's average speed for the hundred miles was 101.4 M.P.H. His average speed for the hour was 101.53 M.P.H. The last two laps were made at a pace of 103 miles per hour.

Moore's Speedway run was made under the same track conditions as prevail during the annual Memorial Day Race. The heat from the August sun combined with the normal high temperatures generated by a racing motor to provide a grueling test for both car and lubricant. The test was timed and checked by Speedway officials of the A.A.A., subject to verification by the Contest Board of that body at Washington. The oil was purchased by these officials from a Gulf dealer.

CORNERCRACKERS GO TO FAIR

The Cornercracker 4-H Club attended the Northern Kentucky Fair Friday in a body. John P. Dolwick took all the members of the club on his truck. This is an annual trip for the Cornercrackers, and the members all look forward to it. All expenses are paid even to transportation to the fair.

The club won many prizes at the fair. Melvin Jones won a free trip to the State Fair at Louisville to judge poultry.

BESSIE REEVES, Club Reporter.

My attention has been called to the fact that a number of the owners of automobiles in this state have been making a practice of hauling passengers for hire over the highways of this state without securing a permit from this department, or providing the insurance for the protection of the passengers, or executing a bond for the payment of the mileage tax.

It is against the law of this state for the owner of a private automobile to haul passengers for hire in this state without complying with the above requirements, and a person engaging in this kind of transportation is subject to a fine.

There is another phase of the law that is evidently not understood by the taxi drivers of this state. Before a person can operate a taxicab in this state he must secure a permit, pay a license, and file an insurance policy with this department.

Under the law, after a person complies with these requirements, he is permitted to haul passengers from one point to another in the state, but he is not permitted to pick up a passenger along the route or on the return trip, or bring back a person other than those on the original trip.

A number of taxi operators, according to my information, have failed to provide insurance, or to pay the tax, and are violating the section of the law with reference to hauling passengers.

In the future, this department expects to, and will, enforce the provision of the law, and arrest any violators, whether they be individuals or the owners of taxicabs.

Mr. Darby is survived by his wife Mrs. Estelle Darby, one daughter Mrs. Goldie DuRea and two grandchildren of Houston, Texas. Four brothers, Geo. Darby of Boone county, Allen, John and Andy of Cincinnati. He will be truly missed by all who knew and loved him.

KENTUCKY PIONEERS

(BY N. LOUISE LODGE)

POPHAM FAMILY

An early date in the Popham pedigree chart is 1140, A. D. when the family was greatly distinguished by the favor of the Emperor. Maud and also held high and honorable stations in the reign of Henry III. In 1227, Robertus de Popham and the office of Sheriff in Hampshire County, England, and in 1258 Stephenus de Popham was Sheriff of the county. Another date in 1300, when Gilbert Popham, or Popham, or de Popham, married Joan, daughter and heiress of Robert Clarke. From this record we conclude that the family took its name from the town Popham, in Hampshire County.

Sixth in descent from Gilbert and Joan was Sir John Popham, or Lord Popham, Knight of the Bath, and Lord Chief Justice of the Queen's Bench. His home was in Wiltshire County and he called his place Littlecot. He died in 1607 and a magnificent tomb marked his last resting place, and it was also his wife's tomb. On a tablet are effigies of himself and Lady Popham. Their only son was Sir Francis Popham, Knight of Littlecot, and his eldest son, John, married a daughter of John Bradshaw. The Bradshaws, it may be mentioned, were of Chester, England, a highly distinguished family. John Popham, just mentioned, was for many years a gentleman of the household of King James I. Upon the restoration of Charles II., the Pophams removed to County Cork, Ireland.

This line is traced down to the American Ancestor of the Popham family, who was Major Wm. Popham, of Westchester County, New York, and where descendants now reside. The Major of the thirteenth or fourteenth generation from Gilbert and Joan (Clarke) Popham, 1200.

After a Hard-Fought Game A Glass of Frosted Coffee

By Sarah Blackwell
Coffee Service Institute

WHEN the sports enthusiasts among your friends drop on your doorstep weary and warm and generally "let down" after the exhilaration of a hard-fought game, they will welcome nothing so much as a tall glass of frosted coffee. Frosted coffee is a delightful ice-cream variation of iced coffee, and if your guests are not already familiar with the refreshing and invigorating effects of properly made iced coffee, you should surely introduce it to them.

Making good iced coffee is a very simple matter for the hostess. If the coffee that suits your taste is freshly roasted and correctly ground for your method of making—fine for drip pot, medium for percolator, and coarse for boiled coffee—when you buy it, you are sure of the maximum in coffee flavor for your beverage.

Of course, you must maintain the maximum flavor by measuring your coffee and water accurately and by brewing the coffee a very short time.

For iced coffee, the beverage must be freshly made just before serving. Coffee left over from breakfast to cool has lost most of the delicate flavor and aroma which we prize.

Make coffee by your favorite method, but use about twice the usual amount of ground coffee for one cup of water. I double the amount of coffee because the ice dilutes it. And with excellent coffee selling as low as twenty cents a pound, I don't feel extravagant either.

Frosted Coffee

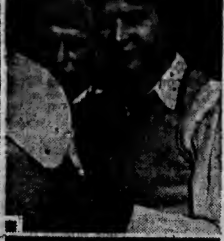

1 quart strong coffee
1 pint of vanilla ice cream
1 cup of cream
1/4 cup sugar
Chill coffee quickly. Mix it with sugar, cream and half of the ice cream. In 10 minutes, fill glasses with crushed ice and pour beverage over it. Top each glass with a dash of ice cream. Serves six.

Motor Oil Is Tested In Daring Speedway Run

Len Moore, Speed Ace, Drives 100 M.P.H. For Solid Hour at Indianapolis

ONE of the most interesting tests in automotive history was conducted here when Len Moore, noted race driver, crossed the finish line at the Indianapolis Speedway after driving for one hour continuously at a speed of better than one hundred miles an hour. Moore's run, conducted under the supervision of the American Automobile Association by the Gulf Refining Company proved conclusively that a racing car traveling at this extreme pace for such a long period can be lubricated successfully with a commercial mineral lubricant.

"The idea that racing cars can operate only on a blended castor oil is false," Moore explained after the run. "Every race driver knows that oil takes a severe beating in a hundred mile an hour grind around a speedway. To maintain an average speed of 100 miles per hour for one full hour means racing as fast as 110 miles per hour at times." Under these circumstances a lubricant is put to a most severe test. This run proves that motorists need have no fear of driving at high speeds with a mineral, commercial lubricant. Moore's average speed for the hundred miles was 101.04 M.P.H. His average speed for the hour was well games can reserve seats at any Western Union Telegraph office.

Len Moore, noted speed ace, at the wheel of his Duesenberg. (Upper) Moore being flagged on last lap of his 100 M.P.H. speedway run.

101.53 M.P.H. The last two laps were made at a pace of 103 miles per hour.

Moore's Speedway run was made under the same track conditions as prevail during the annual Memorial Day Race. The heat from the August run combined with the normal high temperatures generated by a racing motor to provide a grueling test for both car and lubricant. The test was timed and checked by Speedway officials of the A.A.A., subject to verification by the Contest Board of that body at Washington. The oil was purchased by these officials from a Gulf dealer.

Old Strife Not Together

This depression certainly makes a lot of difference in human sentiments, as for example, the decision of the Army and Navy football teams to get together this fall and resume their traditional grid rivalry. The Army and Navy met in 1930 and 1931 in Charity games, but at that time had not definitely resumed athletic relations. Now, however, the effect of the depression on gate receipts has brought them together once more. The new contract between the cadets and mid-dies runs for three years through 1934. This year's game will be played at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, on December 3.

Watch Your Step, Roger!

According to a story from Cleveland, Roger Peckinpah, manager of the Cleveland Indians, may not be signed as manager next year. Differences between him and twirler, may effect the break. Peckinpah suspended Ferrell last week and fined him $1,200 for alleged in-subordination on the box. Roger ordered Wes out of the box and Ferrell raised a howl.

That's a case where the manager of a ball club, although supposedly the boss, has to be careful not to offend a star player. The fans don't like to see their favorites mistreated and will clamor for the scalp of any unfortunate manager who tries to enforce the rules impartially. At Cleveland, the club management is apparently heeding public opinion because it hasn't as yet signed Peckinpah for the 1933 season. When such a piece of favoritism as demanded by the unreasonable fans is accepted by the club management, trouble always results. No matter how good any one player may be, he deserves no special privileges.

P. G. A. Scandal

Gene Sarazen, British and American Open golf champ, came close to getting mixed up in a scandal at St. Paul last week. Sarazen, who remembers failed to qualify for the National P. G. A. Championship. There was rumor that one of the other players would drop out in Gene's favor, supposedly for a price, and P. G. A. officials, upon hearing the rumor, promptly squelched the idea by announcing that any player caught "selling" his place in the tournament would be kicked out of the Association.

Although names were mentioned, the official announcement, however, referred to Sarazen, who may it be said in all fairness, is not in any way mixed up with the alleged deal. Gamblers and promoters at St. Paul were blamed.

Dizzy Comes Thru

A braggart is one kind of person, and the man who carries out his boast is another kind. Dizzy Dean, the eccentric young St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, is one of the latter species. Some time ago, Dean quit the Cardinals because Manager Gabby Street wouldn't let Dizzy pitch as often as the youngster wanted to. Dean boasted that he could pitch a great many more games than he was assigned, and complained that Street sent him in to pitch only on Sundays.

368 4-H PROJECT EXHIBITS NORTH KENTUCKY FAIR

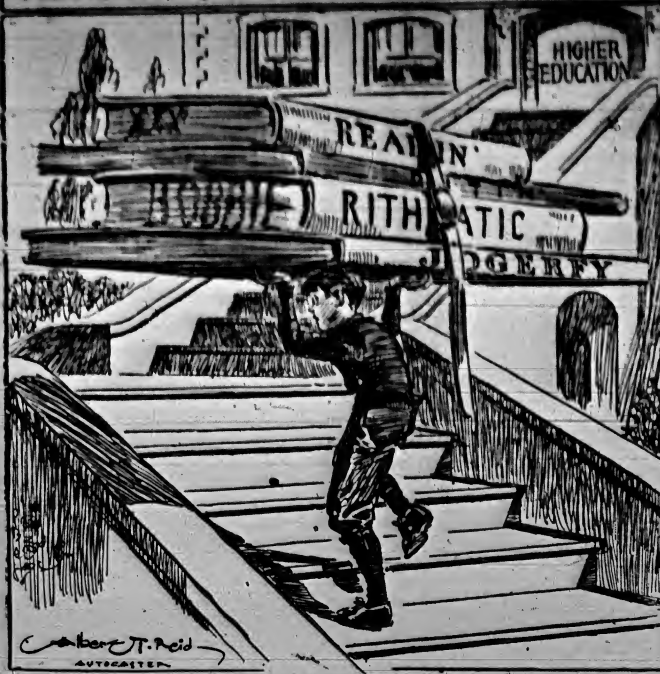

Three hundred and sixty-eight 4-H project exhibits were made the past week at North Kentucky Fair by Boone county 4-H Club members according to County Agent H. R. Fomer. This exceeded by twenty the previous record of 348 exhibits by club members in 1930. The 4-H poultry project made the largest number of exhibits with 132 entries. There were also 109 entries of girls sewing club work of which there were 32 entries in unit 1 towel and kitchen holder and 29 entries in unit girls wash dresses; 4 entries in the pig club, 13 in the dairy calf club, 4 in rabbits, 1 in lamb, 9 in tobacco, 6 in corn, 7 in gardening, 4 in canning, 4 in room improvement, 11 in poultry judging, 54 record books and 4 community club books.

Mrs. Zion Eagles won first place in the community booth exhibit displaying a comparison of the average yields of crops and livestock in Kentucky with those secured by Boone county 4-H club members. The Silver Leaders of Hamilton were awarded second place followed by the Cornerkeepers and X-L-Alls. The quality of work exhibited by members this year was excellent and was considered by many of the leaders the best to date. Ten of the eleven clubs in the county were represented with project exhibits with two of these taking part for the first time. A list of the premium winnings will be supplied at a later date.

Clifton Roberts, of Covington, was a Labor Day visitor in Burlington.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

On August 21, 1932, a series of services were begun at the Mission under the leadership of Bro. Floyd Hitchcock.

"Seven Hindrances to Prayer" was the subject for the first evening and in order that our prayers might reach God, we must try to get the hindrances out of the way before we commune with Him.

We found by listening intently to Monday evening's sermon that there are "four Calls to Man."

Tuesday evening the topic was "Judgment" while on both Thursday and Friday nights "Faith" was the subject.

"Repentance" was the subject for the wonderful message brought to the folks on Saturday night.

Bro. Hitchcock dwelt on the "Lordship" of Jesus Christ in a very able manner on Sunday evening.

In regard to the specials of the first week "The Hood Sisters" were tireless in their efforts to aid and two of the numbers played by them were "Jesus Leads" and "Spelling Love."

Thursday evening everyone enjoyed the song "Give Me Jesus" sung by Bro. J. Millson, also the duet "He is able to Deliver Thee" sung by Miss Evelyn Millson and Mrs. Mary Layton.

On Friday night a beautiful duet was rendered by Miss Dorothy Peeno and Miss Mildred Hankins.

Folks never tire of hearing the beautiful hymn "The Old Rugged Cross," that is why everyone so heartily appreciated listening to it sung by Mrs. Myrtle Reeves and Miss Grace Peeno on Saturday night.

One could picture a beautiful garden as they listened to little Joe Millson and Kenyon Clore singing "In the Garden" last Sunday night.

Monday evening of the second week the subject of the message was "Life" and on Tuesday night the subject was "God."

Any Christian desiring to become an even better one, could not fail after hearing the requirements etc., as pictured by Bro. Hitchcock in his two sermons on "Christian Life" on Thursday and Friday nights.

Visitors have been coming to the Mission from various places during these services, for which we are truly grateful. Monday evening special "Must Tell Jesus" sung by Miss Grace Peeno and Mr. Red Lane just seemed to have been written for such a service as that one.

Nearly every Christian has some old familiar hymn which he loves to hear sung. We found out Mr. Wesley Fogels favorite, to be "When They Ring those Golden Bells," which was beautifully sung on Thursday evening by Miss Peeno and Mr. Lane.

More than one person fully appreciates the "Breless" efforts of praying people, especially the folks who are praying for sick friends, and each of these folks who will pray deserve our thanks and good fellowship.

On Friday evening among the several visitors at the Mission was Mr. Clyde Bordeaux who is a very able violinist.

Mr. Bordeaux favored us with two specials one a song "This World is not my Home," accompanied by the guitar, another a violin solo "Jesus is dearer than all," accompanied by the piano.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burton and family of Burlington, motored to Lexington, Ky., Sunday to celebrate Mrs. Burton's mother's birthday, Mrs. Dora Griggs, age 70. The families met at Vernon Griggs' home. Mrs. Burton's brother, All of Mrs. Griggs children, grandchildren, brothers, sisters, nieces and nephews, being present except four, making a total of 56.

The occasion furnished a splendid opportunity for the members of the family to exchange greetings. Dinner was spread on the lawn and a good time was enjoyed.

Capt. Ed. Maurer and family, of Louisville, spent the week-end with relatives in both Burlington and Bellevue.

KENTON COUNTY BOY WINS DAIRY CHAMPIONSHIP

Kenton, Boone and Campbell county 4-H dairy champions matched animals, dairy record books and a dairy quiz for the Cooperative Pure Milk Association prize heifer offered at North Kentucky Fair at Florence on last Friday for the Northern Kentucky dairy champion. The Kenton county member scored 89 points for first place, Boone county 83 for second place and Campbell county 79 points for third place.

Miss Mae Frances Huey of the Union Boosters 4-H Club represented Boone county in the contest. She scored a total of 83 points on dairy animal, dairy quiz and dairy record books. Earl Jones scored 79 points for second place and Carol Rice 78 points for third place in the county contest.

Nature's Adaptation

Water animals, such as the beaver, have coarse fur on the back and floor on the abdomen; whereas the reverse is true of land animals.

A. B. Renaker, cashier of the Peoples Deposit Bank, left Wednesday afternoon for a ten days sojourn at the Dillsboro, Indiana, Health Resort. Mr. Renaker has not been in the best of health for some time and he confidently expects to return in a greatly improved condition.

Mistletoe's Growth

The life history of the mistletoe is just like that of any flowering woody plant. It bears flowers; in due time the berries follow, each with its long seed; the berries are deposited by birds or beaten down by rains and the branches where the seeds germinate; and if the seedling becomes established upon the branch it grows again to the age of producing flowers and seeds, and so on from generation to generation.

Days of the Week

The week consisting of seven days is a unit of time which dates from prehistoric antiquity. Each of the seven days corresponds to one of the seven moving heavenly bodies then known. Sunday and Monday are named after the sun and moon; Tuesday was named for Mars (Tues in Norse); Wednesday, Mercury's (Wodan's) day; Thursday, Jupiter's (Thor's) day; Friday, Venus' (Freia's) day, and Saturday, Saturn's day.

World's Forest Area

The present forest area of the world, in round figures, is about 7,500,000,000 acres, which is 22 per cent of the total land area, exclusive of the polar regions. The area of actually productive forest, however, is probably one-fourth less than this amount, or 5,500,000,000 acres, which is 16 per cent of the land area.

Boy Camps

Ernest Butch established a camp for a group of boys on Lake Asquam, N. H., about 1890. It was so well liked that other camps were soon started and the movement grew steadily.

How Is Business?

This question is often asked these days and we find that 90% of the people asked will agree that considerable change for the better is taking place.

Factories and Mills are now purchasing raw materials before a rise in price occurs.

We note many changes for the better in financial conditions.

A complete return to normal times can not come over night. The gradual improvement in business is not observed usually until a wide comparison can be noted.

This Bank is in strong position to serve its customers.

VICTORY

HUNG UP BY BOB & GENE'S TEAM OVER HARVEST HOME CROWD SUNDAY - ELLIS IS WINNER OVER BOEHLER IN BURLING DUEL - FORMER BEATS TO HOLD JINK OVER HARVEST HOME BOYS

Bob and Gene's Erlanger All-Star team came out on top in one of the best games of the season last Sunday when Harvest Home defense weakened just enough in the eighth inning to give Erlanger nine the decision. Altho out hit 9 to 7 including four doubles and two triples the home team was able to bunch their hits in the one big inning and gave them victory.

Boehler also outpitched Ellis by a wide margin, striking out eight men and allowing seven hits, several of which were of the scratch variety.

While Ellis struck out only two men and was saved on several occasions by the fine defense of his team.

These teams are very evenly matched and probably will meet in a return game in a few weeks.

Harvest Home will travel to Covington Sunday to meet B. H. B. Motor Oils champions of the Northern Kentucky A-A League and with Boehler and Armen meeting on the mound another pitchers-battle can be expected.

B. H. B. eliminated Harvest Home by the score of 3 to 1 just three weeks ago before the largest crowd ever to attend a ball game in Boone county, and it is expected a large throng will accompany the team to Covington Sunday. With Shearer able to go behind the bat Sunday and the punch of the team strengthened somewhat the Boone county boys expect to give the champions a run for their money.

NORTH BEND MEETS

The North Bend Association of Baptists meets this week at the Petersburg Baptist church. The first session will be held Wednesday and followed by the concluding session on Thursday.

This marks the 130th annual meeting of the association, which is composed of 23 churches in Kenton and Boone counties and has a total membership of 7512, one of the largest in Kentucky.

Officers of the association include: Rev. T. C. Sleete, Moderator; Rev. R. F. DeMoisey, Asst. Moderator; W. T. Perry, Clerk; G. B. Bush, Chairman of the Board; Rev. D. B. Martin, vice-chairman and Rev. W. A. M. Wood, Field Secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Lamb, Mrs. Lamb's brother, Paul Lyles, and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kirkwood, were Sunday guests of John Erlanger and family of the Bellevue pike.

ANNUAL HARVEST HOME

The Forty-Seventh Annual Meeting of the Boone County Harvest Home Association is set for next Saturday, September 17th. See their advertisement in other columns of this issue.

WHITE-RYLE

Miss Pauline White and Mr. Percy Ryle were united in marriage last Saturday, September 12, at the home of the bride near Waterloo. Rev. Brewer, of Cincinnati, was the officiating minister.

The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cam White, prominent farmer of near Waterloo, and a graduate of the class of '23 at Burlington High School.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Solon B. Ryle, enterprising farmer of the East Bend community. The young couple will make their home for the present with the parents of the bride.

SOME CHICKEN!

We have our trusty Jailer Elmer Kirkpatrick as authority for the story that W. H. (Connie) Rouse, of Camp Ernst neighborhood, has a hen hatched in February (1932) with a drove of baby chicks. This ambitious young lady laid and hatched the eggs herself. A new pattern for the 4-H club to work on!

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Miller and daughter Evelyn, and Mrs. Carrie Miller, of Hebron, spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kirkpatrick.

Miss Ruth Rice, of near Waterloo, is a member of a class of twenty taking a course in nursing at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Covington. Miss Rice was graduated from Burlington High School with the class of 1932.

Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Duncan left Tuesday morning for Kansas, where they will visit friends and relatives.

Miss Alberta Pettit spent Saturday night with the McClure sisters of the East Bend road.

Misses Virginia Yelton and Mary B. Rouse spent Sunday with Miss Lucille Rice.

Friends of Marce Riddell will be concerned over his illness. He was reported somewhat improved as we went to press Wednesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Sheppard, of St. Petersburg, Fla., spent Monday with the J. L. Lassing family here.

Mrs. Cecil Gaines, of Florence, spent Tuesday with her daughter, Mrs. Albert Kirkpatrick and Mr. Kirkpatrick.

Trucks have been engaged this week hauling gravel from a pit on the property of Al Rogers, of Bellealew. The gravel is being placed on the Camp Ernst road and on the road leading from Burlington known as the old Georgetown pike. A part of the cost of the latter improvement is being paid by residents along the road. Claud Harris and Company, of Newport, are doing the hauling.

B. C. Taylor and family, of Price Hill, Cincinnati, were Monday evening callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Carpenter near Burlington.

W. P. Beemon is improving the rear lot on his home premises with a new fence.

Robert Lassing has returned to his home in St. Petersburg after a short visit with relatives here. He made a brief business trip to Detroit while here.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Craddock entertained guests from Dayton, Ohio and Covington last Sunday. They included Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Craddock, of Dayton, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Craddock, of Covington.

Misses Marilyn Dickerson and Madeline Craddock, of Union, spent a few days last week with relatives in Burlington.

The Poston Brothers are engaged this week installing modern bath room and fixtures in the residence of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cropper.

Hon. Orle S. Ware and son, of Covington, attorneys, were in Burlington on business Monday afternoon.

Laying claim to being one of the oldest surviving twins in Boone county the venerable George Rensler, of Walton, paid Burlington a short visit last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Rensler and his brother are nearing the four score mark which they will attain their next birthday. He appears as hale and spry as any many years his junior.

Miss Dellah Dolwick, of Hebron, spent Thursday with Mrs. Bess Rouse.

ENROLMENT

AT OPENING OF BOONE COUNTY SCHOOLS PROBABLY WILL BE RECORD - MORE THAN 1,200 WILL BE FINAL TABULATION IN CONSOLIDATED SCHOOLS ALONE—FLORENCE IS HIGH

With what probably will be recorded as his largest student enrolment on record Boone county schools opened their doors last Monday morning, Sept. 12th.

The five consolidated schools, which include Florence, Burlington, Hamilton, Hebron and New Haven reported a total enrolment Tuesday morning of 1,196. It is said that a considerable number will enroll this week, bringing the total to over 1,200.

This number does not include the one and two room schools, nor does it include the Walton and Petersburg schools. The Florence school reported the greatest number enrolled. According to W. R. Davis, principal, this school started the year with a total of 302, although they did not register as many high school students as did either Burlington or Hebron. Hebron leads the other consolidated schools in that respect.

Following are the totals for each school as well as their high school attendance.

	Total	Hi School
Florence	302	58
Hebron	280	82
Burlington	212	62
New Haven	258	48
Hamilton	144	31
Totals	1196	281

BOB AND GENE TO PLAY

Bob and Gene's team, conquerors of Harvest Home last Sunday, will play the fast Rosedale A. C. next Sunday at the Elmsmere ball park. Ellis and Ray will be the battery for the local outfit, while Wilson and Hart will compose the visiting battery. Rosedale was rated as one of the best traveling teams in the Northern Ky. A. A. this season and should give Bob and Gene's boys a battle royal.

NOTICE

The Burlington P. T. A. will meet at the School Auditorium Friday at 3:30 P. M. Sept. 16th. Everyone invited. Publicity Chairman.

Newton Sullivan, clerk in Gully & Pettit's store in Burlington, is enjoying a two weeks vacation.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

A resume of the 1932 season of the Cincinnati Reds in the National League doesn't offer a great deal in the way of excitement if the standing of the Reds is alone considered. A review of the team's activities in light of unusual developments in organization and in the handling of the Cincinnati Club on the field is most interesting. Several fans have asked for such a review, so here it is.

When the Reds started South in the Spring for their preliminary training, President Sidney Weil took with him as sorry a looking aggregation of ball players as had ever cluttered up a Redleg roster. With the exception of Red Lucas, Tony Cuccinello, Leo Durocher and Jersey Joe Stripp, there wasn't a man on the team in first-rate class.

On Sept. 27, 1931, the final day of the season, the last-place Reds played the St. Louis National League champions at Cincinnati and had the following line-up on the field:

LF, Crabtree; RF, Heathcote; CF, Roush; 3B, Stripp; 1B, Hendrick; 2B, Cuccinello; SS, Durocher; C, Styles; P, Hilcher. Substitutions were: Asbjornson for Styles, Ford for Durocher, St. Louis won the game, 5 to 3.

It was a far different bunch of players that started the season for the Reds in 1932. During those weeks in Florida, President Weil had been hurriedly organizing a new club, trading, re-calling and purchasing new players in a desperate hope that he might be able to land his team in the first division or close to it. The Cincinnati fans were delighted to see that the club was really a "going" concern.

Of those players listed above, eight remained with the Reds at the start of the 1932 season, but only three

MORE THEFTS

REPORTED IN BOONE COUNTY DURING PAST WEEK - LATE ONES, HOWEVER, ARE OF MINOR NATURE - NO TRACE REPORTED OF STOLEN CARS

Three thefts were reported in Boone county last week following the theft of two automobiles the week previous.

The three thefts last week, however, were of a minor nature. Chas. Hon, of the Petersburg pike, near Burlington, reported a ransacking of his meat house with considerable loss, while H. H. Pollitt received a job just before moving to his new place at Berry when he noticed the loss of several sacks of potatoes.

While parked on the streets of Walton some one stole the medicine case from the car of Dr. R. E. Ryle.

No trace has been found of any of the thieves or the property stolen. Neither has any clue been found to the theft of the automobile last week.

MRS. MOSELLA UNDERHILL

Mosella C. Pugh Underhill passed away early Sunday morning at the home of her granddaughter, Mrs. Pearl Hughes, where she had been ill for the past eleven weeks.

Mrs. Underhill was the widow of the late Wesley Underhill who preceded her to the grave three years ago. She was in her eighty-sixth year and had been a native of Boone county all of her married life. Her parents came to Boone county from Carter county.

She is survived by one son, Albert Underhill, of Erlanger, and one adopted daughter, Mrs. Clarence Mitchell, of near Burlington. Besides these six grandchildren and twelve great-grandchildren survive as well as numerous other relatives and a host of friends. She was a member of the Burlington Baptist church.

Funeral services were held at the home of Mrs. Pearl Hughes Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, the services being conducted by Rev. Wilford Mitchell, of Simpsonville, Ky. Burial was in the L. O. O. F. cemetery at Burlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Marce Riddell spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Walton Dempsey and family, of Erlanger.

Mrs. Chas. L. Kelly, of near Waterloo, underwent a minor operation at the Good Samaritan hospital on Wednesday of this week. She is reported doing nicely as we go to press.

AURORA FARMERS FAIR

The twenty-fifth annual Aurora Farmers Fair will be held Friday Sept. 30th and October 1st.

This fair has grown until it has a large number of entries of grains, fruits, vegetables, poultry, canned fruits and vegetables, bread, pies and cakes and fancy needle work. In connection with this fair has also grown a great homecoming time which is greatly enjoyed in connection with the fair. Attend this fair and we feel assured that you will enjoy the time so spent.

For premium list and full particulars address C. C. Madison, Secy. Aurora, Ind.

LEAVE FOR STATE FAIR

County Agent H. R. Forkner left Burlington for the State Fair at Louisville Tuesday morning. He was accompanied by his Junior Poultry Judging team composed of Harold Kelly Clore and Donald Kirkpatrick, of Burlington, and Marion McCauley, of Florence.

SURVEY SHOWS MILK BEING PRODUCED AT LOSS

Milk is being produced at an average loss of from $.37 to $.77 per 100 pounds to producers according to a survey made of 36 established Boone county dairy farms with a total of 403 producing cows. The survey was made by the Farm Management Department of the College of Agriculture thru request of the Farmers Alliance Local No. 1 to County Agent H. R. Forkner.

The survey represented a complete cost of production study which included feed and bedding at farmers prices, labor, interest and taxes on cows, shelter, equipment, veterinary and medicine used, horse labor and minerals used which amounted to a total gross cost of $1.97 per 100 pounds.

The income from dairy sales figured on a basis of from September 1, 1931 to September 1, 1932 (including six months of a period when retail milk was bringing 12c and 13c per quart) and over a period from April 1, 1932 when retail milk was $1.60 for the year period and $1.20 per 100 pounds for the recent period has been 10c per quart. The average loss to the producer on the first basis is 36c per 100 pounds and 77c on the latter or present basis. When put on a quart basis there is an approximate loss at present of 1.7c to the dairymen for each quart of milk produced.

The factors considered in the survey are as follows:

Average production per cow 4695 pounds. (State average 2850 pounds.)

Average labor requirement per cwt. of milk 2.9 man hours.

Average labor and management return a cwt. of milk 14 cents.

Average labor requirement per quart of milk 12.9c.

Average net cost per cwt. of milk $1.89.

Average receipts per cwt., of milk for year $1.52.

Average receipts since April 1st $1.20.

Average loss a cwt., of milk produced $.77

Average cost a quart of milk 4.1 cents.

Average receipts a quart of milk 2.6 cents.

Mr. and Mrs. Calvert Kirkpatrick of Ludlow, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Lavina Kirkpatrick and family.

C. V. Lucy, principal of Hebron High School, and Chester Goodridge, also an instructor in that institution, were Burlington visitors Monday afternoon.

We regret very much to learn of the illness of O. C. Hafer, of Hebron, who underwent an operation for appendicitis in a Cincinnati hospital last Saturday.

Mrs. Bess Rouse entertained her Sunday School class at her home Monday afternoon. Her class ranges in age from one to six and 14 were present at the party.

What possibly may be the last home game of the current season in the Church League will be played here next Saturday afternoon when the Big Bone team comes here to hook up with the local contenders for the championship.

Early in the season the Big Bone boys trounced the locals with ease and it is useless to say that the home team will be out for revenge. The game also will have an important bearing on the final standing of Burlington in the flag race, where they now stand third, hard on the heels of the leaders.

Manager Hubert White will cling to the popular admission price of 15 cents.

LOCAL MEMBERS

OF FARMERS ALLIANCE ATTEND MAMMOTH MILK MEETING AT CINCINNATI COURT HOUSE - NO DEFINITE ACCOMPLISHMENTS REPORTED - DEVON LOCAL ORGANIZED

Last Friday evening the Florence Local held a meeting at Woodward's Garage at the Devon Station on the Dixie Hwy., and completed the organization of the Local. A large crowd was present and many new members were added to the list of membership.

Last Wednesday evening a meeting was held at Alexandria, but on account of it not being advertised, only about thirty were present. The members of the Hebron delegation who were present were requested to return on the evening of the 17th.

They were assured that he Court House would be packed on that evening, and that they would be ready to complete the organization of a Local there.

Last Tuesday, as planned by the Farmers Alliance, the directors of The Co-Operative Pure Milk Association and of the K. I. O. Milk Producers Association, representatives from the Ohio State University and the Kentucky State University, together with a number of members of the Farmers Alliance, and the agents of many of the counties surrounding Cincinnati, met at the Court House at Cincinnati for the purpose of joining their efforts in seeing that the milk producer receives a higher price for milk.

A committee consisting of five members from each of the two organizations of milk producers, together with the representatives of the Marketing Department of the Ohio State University and the Kentucky State University, and also several representatives of the Farmers Alliance held a meeting on Friday at the Court House at Cincinnati for the purpose of discussing plans to solve the problems of the milk producer. It was decided to have representatives of the Marketing Department of the Ohio State University, the Ky. State University, and the Indiana State University make an investigation, within the immediate future, of the conditions of producing and selling milk in and about Cincinnati, with a view to obtaining data upon which a working plan for reducing the cost of distribution of milk could be prepared. As soon as these representatives make their investigation, they will report to a joint assembly of the representatives of the directors of each of the two milk producers associations and the Farmers Alliance.

While this investigation is being made and plans are being formulated for the solution of the milk producer's problems, there is but one thing for every milk producer in and about Cincinnati to do, and that is to join the Farmers Alliance. If the present plans of the organization work out, and there is every reason to believe they will, the Farmers Alliance has a big part to play in the final program. The success of the plan is going to depend largely upon the Farmers Alliance establishing many Locals within the immediate future, and with a large membership.

Mrs. Robert Clore and Mrs. Martin A. Yelton delightfully entertained at the home of Mrs. Yelton on Wednesday afternoon of last week. Bridge was enjoyed by the following guests: Mrs. D. R. About the time these lines are read Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be off on his swing around the Western circle. His itinerary, which is just announced, covers 8,000 miles, touches seventeen States, with twenty stops and provisions for three major speeches. There will probably be numerous short talks at stopping places along the way. The first of the three major speeches will be delivered at Topeka, the second at Portland and third at Sioux City. Thus Kansas, Oregon and Iowa will be the points at which the Governor's heaviest campaign artillery will be fired.

Vice-President Charles Curtis will be allowed to open the Republican campaign in Pennsylvania at Allentown, but only on condition that he will not discuss his dry views on prohibition. This fact came to light after the very much upset party situation in that Republican strong hold had been carried to the White House by Charles Martin, Republican State Chairman, and by James M. Hallett, Philadelphia leader under William S. Vare, who has charge of the forthcoming Allentown rally.

Mr. Curtis had been selected in the first instance as the campaign opener, after the President had found it impossible to go to Pennsylvania. Then came the Vice-President's speech of acceptance in which he left the party reservation long enough to oppose repeal or modification of the 18th Amendment. Immediately the Pennsylvania leaders, most of them already were deeply worried over the state of their party at home, were in a stew. A dry speech by the dry Kansan might play havoc in the wet quarters of the State, notably in Philadelphia.

The White House has given heed to the optimistic results of regional political surveys as leaders of the Republican party in Pennsylvania pronounced their state entirely safe for President Hoover and Senator James E. Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, reported a rising tide of Republican sentiment in the West. Frankly admitting that Ohio, Indiana and Illinois would be a battleground in the campaign, Senator Watson in his visit here declared his conviction that the people of those states and in the country generally were rising to the issue of maintaining "conservative government" in a time of stress.

Senator Watson said he believed the President planned to make three campaign speeches, one in the East, one in the East, one in the Middle West and one in the Far West. This is the first time it has been suggested by a responsible Republican leader that Mr. Hoover might journey to the Far West. If he should do so, it might be taken to indicate that the President personally was undertaking to meet the challenge of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic Presidential candidate, who embarks shortly upon a swing through the West.

It will cost you money to learn from Uncle Sam how to make a cat trap and how to do a multitude of other things for which governmental advice formerly was given without charge. The order has gone out that the cost of Uncle Sam's printed information bulletins, technical pamphlets and the like must be reduced 50 per cent this year and the economy shears are snapping briskly. The "cat trap" bulletin is one of 125 crossed off the free list. It may, however, be purchased from the superintendent of documents for about 5 cents, but there are others out of print. The department defends the "cat trap" bulletin on the ground that it held valuable information, pointing out that vagrant cats are a menace to song and game birds and that they also communicate disease to pedigreed felines and even humans.

The Harvest Home base ball team will try for revenge next Sunday when they travel to Covington to play the fast-stepping B. H. B. team. The latter has not been beaten in twenty starts this season, although the Harvest Home aggregation probably gave them their toughest engagement of the year. Boehler will oppose Arrazin in the box and needless to say the former will be trying hard to knock off the Oils for their only defeat.

The P. T. A. of the New Haven school will hold their regular monthly meeting Friday night, September 16th, at 7:30

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Rouse returned last week from an extended tour of the Middle West. During nearly all of their days and nights away from home, except those spent in travel, they were visiting relatives, who evidently are very plentiful in that section.

CONSTANCE

Eighty people attended the morning service of the church on September 11. This marks another high peak in attendance at the morning service. No special campaign nor drive is necessary to increase the attendance. The folks come because they find in the service the inspiration and worship that the human soul needs and seeks. These services begin at 10 o'clock and dismiss at 11:30. This arrangement gives the folks plenty of time to go visiting or receive company after attending church. The program of the church should be first in every life, and the people of Constance are making it more so than ever before. If you do not attend church some where regularly, we want you to feel that there is a welcome for you to worship with us. We have Sunday evenings in each month. These evening services the second and fourth vices begin at 7:45. You are invited to enjoy with us the fellowship and inspiration of an hour in God's house.

The leaders for the mid-week service are to be selected from the young people's class. These fine young folks have proven that they are able and willing to do whatever task they find to do. So we are looking forward to these meetings with eager anticipation. The public is invited to all of these services.

A hike and wicker roast has been planned by the young people of the church for Friday night, Sept. 16. All the young folks are to meet at the church at 7:45.

On Wednesday evening Sept. 21 there is to be a congregational meeting in the basement of the church. Arrangements are being completed for serving supper at that time. The purpose of this meeting is to plan the program of the church for the winter season. Some idea and that they also communicate disease to pedigreed felines and even humans.

POINT PLEASANT

How Is Business?

This question is often asked these days and we find that 90% of the people asked will agree that considerable change for the better is taking place.

Factories and Mills are now purchasing raw materials before a rise in price occurs.

We note many changes for the better in financial conditions.

A complete return to normal times can not come over night. The gradual improvement in business is not observed usually until a wide comparison can be noted.

THE SPICE IN SPORT

Reds, true to predictions, did upset the League. The club is finishing the season with the best average that any National League eighth-place outfit has had in years. In 1931 the Reds were never out of the cellar. In 1932, the club stayed in the first division for several weeks in the spring.

Much has been said concerning the tough luck faced by the Cincinnati club this year, and while a few persons may consider such statements as alibis, it is nevertheless true that misfortune took a special fancy to the Redlegs and stuck with them during the entire campaign. The loss of Chick Hafey was the severest blow.

The 1932 Reds lacked teamwork, that fact being pretty well evident to every fan who visited Redland Field. Timely hitting was conspicuous by its absence, errors were made at critical moments, still and all, no more thrilling brand of ball was played on any National League field than was played in Cincinnati. Individual performances were responsible.

To Leo Durocher must go recognition as the truly great short stop in major league base ball today. A great ground-coverer, is little Hardy a day passed that the star did not make a sensational catch of a ground ball, and frequently his operations out on the field included several remarkable catches. The flying balls back of third or over second base, chasing flies to the foul lines or into the outfield was duck-soup for Durocher. It is impossible to estimate the number of possible hits which Durocher turned into easy outs this year.

Ernie Lombardi, behind the bat, made a big hit with the Redland customers. A newcomer, Ernie, or "Snoodle" as the fans call him, soon became a popular idol. His hitting was of the slugging type and he slugged plenty. Ernie gave the Redland fences a severe beating. The Italian stands over six feet in his socks, is heavy-set and looks ferocious. Opposing pitchers agree that they could do very well without him.

Another fence-buster is Babe Herman, whose debut at Redland Field was a big success. Herman, of all the Reds, is the most timely hitter, and was alone responsible for many of the Red victories. Babe came to Cincinnati with a terrible reputation as a felder. The fans expected him to miff every ball that came his way. Actually, Herman fielded well, sometimes sensationally and proved himself a proverbial bloodhound when it came to line drives. Babe likes to get them on the run.

Don't try to tell Cincinnati fans that Chick Hafey isn't a great ball player. The fans didn't have the star in action, but when Chick was in the game, there was plenty of excitement. Hafey is a "natural" hitter. By that we mean that he hits every ball hard, usually low and always far. He is one of the few examples of a place-hitting slugger who takes a full cut at the ball yet places his hit exactly where he wants it to go. Although weak and sickly most of the season, Hafey retained that power at the bat. It was a delight to see his swats travel.

Other players on the Reds played fine games. Harvey Hendick on first was a fixture. He hit well. Crabtree showed that he is gaining in experience. Wally Roettger, of course, was entirely reliable on every occasion.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

The Revivalistic meetings continued through this week with a good attendance each evening.

What should be our offering to our Lord on the Sabbath Day? Would increased Faith, Communion and Fellowship answer the above question?

Bro. Hitchcock faced quite a large crowd Sunday evening among whom were Brother Tucker, Bro. Marksberry, Bro. Kenneth, also many other visitors.

"Whispering Hope" was beautifully played by the Hood Sisters at the Sunday service.

The subject for the Labor Day message was "Sin."

On Tuesday evening we were favored with a special song "He's the One," by Mrs. Mary Layton, while the subject for the evening message was "God."

An agreeable surprise awaited the folks on Thursday evening when Rev. Wolfe, District Supt. of the Pilgrim Holiness movement visited us.

Rev. Wolfe is kept quite busy throughout Kentucky and parts of Tennessee spreading the Gospel.

We were much impressed by the message delivered by Bro. Wolfe, the subject being "Render the things to Caesar which are his and Render the things to God which are His."

Everyone is pleased to know that Bro. Floyd Hitchcock and family have moved to Crescent Springs.

Friday evening Bro. Hitchcock read an article from a foreign missionary report which could not help but inspire us to try to do a little more for God.

This article told how a Revival had been held in a tiny foreign village for only five days and great were the results.

When we think of the efforts put forth by these folks who are limited in every way, we really should be ashamed of our feeble attempts in Christian work.

4-H PREMIUM WINNERS

NORTH KENTUCKY FAIR

Boone county's 4-H Club members reaped two of the major opportunities offered exhibitors at the recent North Kentucky Fair. The first and most important is that thru exhibition one will devote more thorough study of the ideal or best and compare with that produced by the member. By seeing why one is better than the other, one will strive harder to produce the possible perfect. The second opportunity of major importance to the breeder, or producer is that exhibition offers one of the best possibilities of displaying one's wares.

There were 32 4-H Club entries in one class and 28 entries in another with only two premiums offered. This means that the major portion of the members could not win first or second but these members whether winning or not counted 100 points for the standing of his or her club.

GREAT DAY

EMPLOYED BY ASSEMBLY OF NORTHERN KENTUCKIANS AT HARVEST HOME PICNIC—LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR SPEAKS—SEVENTH SAID TO HAVE BEEN BEST IN YEARS

One more meeting of the Boone County Harvest Home is history since the forty seventh renewal of this time honored picnic last Saturday, Sept. 17th.

One of the largest crowds in recent years turned out for the annual meeting and a fine day, and evening was enjoyed by all who attended. More different varieties of entertainment than ever before was provided there for the delectation of those who paid the nominal price of admission.

Special attractions included an airplane, which made numerous flights with passengers, the Plantation Melody Boys and Dixie Vagabonds were there with plenty of music, a base ball game was provided for the lovers of the diamond sport and speech for political devotees. Lieutenant-Governor A. B. (Happy) Chandler was the speaker and made a very entertaining and instructive talk. He was introduced by his associate in the last State Senate, Hon. O. M. Rogers, of Lexington, nominee for Congress on the Democratic ticket, also was present and was greeting new friends on the ground.

The exhibition in fruit, vegetables, cakes, embroidery, canned goods, etc., was said to have been the best that had been exhibited there in years.

With the good luck that has attended the past few years it is hoped and expected that this famous institution will survive for its golden anniversary in three more years.

Last Sunday Bob and Gene's team lost a hard fought game to the Rosedale A. C. by the close score of 4-3. Ellis pitched a fine game for the locals seeking out ten men and allowing seven hits, while his opponent allowed six hits and fanned but two.

Next Sunday Bob and Gene's outfit will make their second trip, of the season to Lexington, where they will again hook up with the Eppings, a team they defeated a few weeks ago by a 1-0 score. Ellis again will do the hurrying. Any fan desiring to witness this game should get in touch with Bob, as they will see that transportation is provided.

The Burlington High School base ball team journeyed to Petersburg Friday where they played their first game. Both teams did exceedingly well as neither had had any practice. The score was 12 to 4 in favor of Burlington. Petersburg will come to Burlington Friday afternoon, Sept. 23. Everyone is cordially invited.

A kitchen shower for the benefit of the Cafeteria of the Burlington school will be given by the P. T. A. Friday Sept. 23, at 7:30 p. m., in the school auditorium. A special program of musical entertainment will be provided. Won't you come and support your school?

Mr. and Mrs. William Greenup and Mrs. Manley Ryle were calling on Mr. and Mrs. John Dickerson at Union Sunday afternoon.

P. T. A. MEETING

The first Florence P. T. A. meeting was held Thursday evening, with a very large attendance. The program which was under the direction of Mrs. W. R. Huey, was enjoyed by all. Plans were discussed for a Jolly Halloween party to be held at the school October 31, at 7:30 p. m. Addressed by General Chairman—Mrs. J. W. Waller; Lunch Committee—Mrs. Houston, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Kline, Dr.inks—Mrs. Popham, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Gerhauer, Fish Pond—Mrs. Evans, Mrs. Lalle, Fortune Telling—Mrs. Danis, Mrs. Aylor, Games—Mrs. Laubisch, Mrs. Pettit, Mrs. Huey, Mrs. Humphrey, Miss Cheek. In charge of door Mrs. Lucas, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Fogel. Plans were also discussed for a play consisting of P. T. A. talent to be given in the near future under the direction of Prof. Davis, Mr. Allphin, Mr. Katen, Mrs. Huey.

Watch for the date.

Pub. Chairman

ANOTHER GOOD HEN

After we printed that story last week about that good hen of Onnie Rouse's along comes Joel Gray, of near town, who goes Mr. Rouse one better, a month better, anyway. Mr. Rouse's hen was seven months old, but Mr. Gray had an ambitious pullet, born on March 2, celebrate her six months birthday by hatching out a brood of chickens on Sept. 2. Now, boys and girls, get down to business and check up on your hens, but if you bring 'em in much younger than that you must present affidavits.

Mrs. Ida Easton was the hostess Thursday afternoon for the Womans Club, the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Lulle Huey, the President. Mrs. Easton read the 6th Chapter of Matthew as the Scripture. Rock of Ages was sung by the Club. Mrs. Josie Maurer gave an interesting talk of her trip through Kentucky, Indiana, Tennessee, N. C., Georgia, and Pennsylvania. Poem—Mrs. Catherine Easton; Reading—Miss Pearl Bots, a talk by Miss Eunice Willis, the Life of Thomas Jefferson by Mrs. Lulle Huey. The program was concluded with the song the Old Rugged Cross, sung by Mrs. Lulle Huey, Mrs. Ora Burton and Mrs. Anna Huey.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served to the following guests and members: Mrs. Lulle Huey, Mrs. Josie Maurer, Mrs. Catherine Easton, Miss Catherine Maurer, Miss Pearl Bots, Mrs. Elizabeth Goodridge, Miss Eunice Willis, Mrs. Anna Huey, Mrs. Ora Burton, Miss Estelle Huey, Miss Hazel Burton, Mrs. Bea Huey. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Josie Maurer the 20th of October. Perhaps some would like to know what our Club is. It is based on sincerity and on genuine friendliness and a social time together, and it is up to us as club members today as never before to hold the victorious attitude toward life. There never was a time, when we as club members needed the courageous attitude as now—this is no time to peddle gloom, to go about with a long sad dispirited face. This is no time for mourning, grumbling and fault finding. It is time for brave thinking and heroic doing. It is our duty to go about radiating hope, good cheer, servability, victory, there is more of it, which applies to the present time. If nobody smiled and nobody cheered and nobody helped us along, if each and every woman looked after herself and good things went to the strong, if nobody cared just a little for you, and nobody cared for me, and we stood all alone in the battle of life what a dreary old world this would be. If there was no such thing as a flag in the sky as a symbol of comradeship here, if we lived as the animals live in the woods with nothing held sacred or dear, if selfishness ruled us from birth to the end and never a neighbor had we, and never we gave to another, in need what a dreary life this would be. Oh if we were rich as the richest on earth—and strong as the strongest that lives, yet we knew not at all the delight and charms of smiles other women gives, if kindness were never a part of ourselves though we owned all the land we could see and friendship meant nothing at all to us here what a dreary old world this would be.

Ida Easton, Club Reporter

The annual protracted revival services will begin at the local Baptist church on Sunday, October 2. Don't forget the date.

Next Sunday September 25 will be Promotion Day at the local Baptist church with a special program at 11 o'clock. Every one has a special invitation to attend this program.

THEFT

CONTINUED THEFTS IN BOONE COUNTY AS MANY MORE BURGLARIES ARE REPORTED—ALSO A SAVES IDLEWILD MERCHANT FROM PROBABLE LOSS—PROB. LAMB'S CAR IS LOCATED

Thieves continue their depredations in Boone county and this week we chronicle several more instances. Last week we omitted to mention the fact that L. W. Ayer at Limaburg had lost a considerable quantity of gasoline and this his tank had been entered several times.

A burglar alarm at the store of C. Scothorn, at Idlewild, saved him the loss of many hundred dollars worth of goods Sunday night. A quantity of auto tires just inside the door that they entered was passed up temporarily as they made their way to a new shipment of cigarettes valued at several hundred dollars. Mr. Scothorn just had received. On the way to the cigarettes they encountered the burglar alarm and it was exit promptly for the would be thieves.

O. R. Russ, of Limaburg, reported to the sheriff's office here Monday morning that his meat house had been burglarized and besides the meat several other articles had been taken, including four storage batteries, some milk cans and several gallons of gasoline. Meat also was missed at the home of W. A. Waters, a neighbor of Mr. Russ. No clue was left behind except a pair of wire pliers.

Word was received Tuesday morning from the Cincinnati Police Department that Prof. C. G. Lamb's car had been located on a side road near New Burlington, Ohio where the thieves had abandoned it. The license had been removed, two extra tires and wheels were gone, and a catch broken from the door. The speedometer registered a thousand miles more than when it was stolen.

REPORT OF RED CROSS NURSING SERVICE FOR AUGUST 1931

August has been a busy month since July was my vacation time, there accumulated many things to be done for people who wrote to me during my time away, which time was spent at Western Reserve University, taking a course in Public Health Nursing. Hoping to be enabled by this to work with greater effectivity in my efforts here.

In this field of service there is ever new developments and methods to be gained and to be applied to our particular fields of labor, and I am ever anxious to return to some place each year, where I may get a better understanding of what authorities in Public Health are believing to be good for the Public to know and practice, that I may bring these facts back to my people.

I have assisted in securing special attention for 15 children during August and have held numerous consultations in behalf of plans for other children.

I took to Lyndon a little girl two years old to enter the Children's Home there, on the same trip I carried a girl to the Crippled Children's Commission in Louisville for treatment found to be necessary, when she was seen in Covington at a recent Clinic held by the Commission there.

Schools are opening now and I always count this the opening of opportunities for the teaching of Health to our boys and girls entering school. Our teachers are growing more and more active in doing this teaching both by word and example. I have noted this growth with keen satisfaction.

FIND YELLOWS

RESISTANT CABBAGE
Mr. W. C. Weaver, a prominent Burlington citizen and a lover of good garden crops has at last found a remedy for cabbage yellows. The past spring Mr. Weaver and a number of other Boone county garden growers secured thru the County Agent Wisconsin No. 3 yellows resistant cabbage seed. The plants from these seed grown side by side by non-resistant plants developed no yellows and have given good results.

Mr. Frank Dolwick, of near Constance also grew the above variety on a considerable commercial acreage and has found it free from yellows. Indications are that the long sought for remedy for the successful growing of late cabbage on yellows diseased soil has been found.

RECORD CROP

OF GRAPES PRODUCED BY S. J. ZAPP OF PRICE PIKE—317 BUSHELS SOLD FROM 130 PLANTS IN THIRD YEAR—GRANDFATHER WAS GROWER IN GERMANY

Mr. S. J. Zapp of the Price Pike near Florence produced this year the best commercial crop of grapes for its acreage ever produced in Boone county and probably in Northern Kentucky. A total of 317 measured bushels or over six tenths of a bushel per vine were sold from 130 plants in their third growing year. The vineyard covers slightly over one acre of ground. The entire crop was sold to one man for $1.55 per bushel in the field with baskets and all containers furnished.

The vineyard not only produced a good crop this year but produced an excellent crop in the 2nd growing year of 1931. It represented one of the best demonstrations of the county in recommended grape growing practices according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. Clean cultivation has been practiced since planting, the vines were trained and pruned according to the Balen system or fan system of which was Mr. Zapp's own idea having adopted the system from his grandfather, an experienced grape grower in Germany. Black rot and other diseases were controlled thru a systematic spray schedule recommended by the College of Agriculture. The vineyard was a beautiful site before cutting, being filled with large, full and solid bunches of high quality fruit.

WHITE AND RYLE WEDDING

In the presence of a number of relatives and friends a beautiful wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. White of Bellevue Saturday evening Sept. 18th, when their only daughter Pauline, was married to Mr. Percy C. Ryle, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Ryle.

Formed by a window in the parlor with candles on either side to form soft lights. At the first strains of the wedding march the groom and his best man Mr. Wm. Bradburn, entered the altar to await his bride and her bridesmaid Miss Lucille White. The bride was lovely in her white tulle dress, her tulle veil, bridal wreath and carrying a shower bouquet of brides roses and fern. Miss Lucille wore a pale yellow crepe with short jacket and carried golden rods and fern. Rev. A. E. Brewer, pastor of Bellevue Church of Christ met them at the altar and impressively said the ceremony after which the bridal party was ushered into the dining room where the table with its beautiful wedding cakes and refreshments were served. The young couple are well known here and elsewhere and have many relatives and friends who wish them a long and happy life.

BREAKS LEG IN GAME

While sliding to a base in a ball game last Saturday morning at Petersburg, Leroy Cox, outfielder of the Petersburg team, broke a leg in the ankle joint. The break is said to be a very serious one.

Friends of Cox are arranging a benefits game for him to be played at Petersburg on Saturday, October 8th. A team of Boone county stars is being organized and they will hook up with the fast Aurora team, which has made an enviable record this season.

Bill Rogers will hurl for the local outfit with other stars in the remaining positions. On the Aurora team will be found Scout Slayback, former Burlington boy, and a professional base ball star with experience on various outstanding teams including the New York Giants.

The Aurora team made the very magnanimous offer of furnishing all base balls for the game, bringing their team free of charge, and donating fifty cents each toward the benefit fund.

GAME CHANGED

The Ludlow-Harvest Home base ball game has been changed from the Elsmere Park to the Ludlow park, according to information received at this office at press time.

W. M. U. NOTES

The W. M. U. of Big Bone was entertained by Mrs. J. W. Atkinson at her home Thursday Sept. 20th, assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Marsh. Everyone spent a fine day, 18 members responded and quite a number of visitors.

We having with us Mrs. Bush, of Covington, thus making it more enjoyable to have this fine lady with us.

Business session opened, had several duets ready. Devotional read, (John 17) by Mrs. Bush and prayer. After business Mrs. Bush taught the book. He Shall Reign in Kentucky. This same book will be taught to the East Bend society Thursday October 6th, at the home of Mrs. B. C. Kirby with Big Bone meeting with them, giving all assistance that can be rendered to them. Hoping to meet the members at this place and date.

MRS. PAUL AYLOE,
Chairman.

The Cason reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marshall on Salem Ridge, Indiana, Sept. 18th. All of the children of Benjamin and Isabelle Roberts Cason were present. Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Cason, of Grant; Miss Annie Cason, of Grant; Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Phipps and son Wendel, of Lawrenceburg, Ind.; Mr. Wayne Phipps wife and son of Price Hill, Cincinnati; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Sandford of Glendale, Arizona; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cason and children, Zora, Dortha and Irene, Louella, Betty Jane and Ivan of Middle Creek; Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Cason of Middle Creek; Mr. and Mrs. Linnie Love and family, Harold, Shelton, Anna Jean and Allan Lynn, of Union; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Marshall of Salem Ridge, Indiana.

Others present were Hugh French and daughter Annabel of Indiana; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Riegan and children of Indiana; Miss Kathryn Maurer, of Burlington; Bill Riddle, of Walton; Mrs. A. B. Oldham of Mt. Sterling, Ky.; Miss Myrtle Cotton of Lawrenceburg, Indiana. A bountiful lunch was served at noon.

DEATH, LOSS OF FLESH

Death, loss of flesh and lowered vitality are the results of heavy stomach worm infestation in sheep in Boone county according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. This infestation in sheep and particularly late lambs shows up most during the late summer and fall months and cause considerable damage every year. Packers tell us that native intestines are no good for use as casings due to the injury done by intestinal tract by these intestinal parasites.

Drenching regularly and a regular systematic change of pastures gives good control of these parasites. A number of sheepmen have followed the recommended program of drenching once each month from May until freezing weather. The drench solution used is composed of 1 ounce of Bluestone to 3 quarts of water. 1 ounce of Black Leaf 40 may be added the first and every third drench to make a stronger and more effective drench. Three quarts will drench 24 old sheep at the rate of 4 ounces to a strong ewe and less to a weak one. Lambs should be given from 1 to 3 ounces each. The sheep are put up from feed and water the night before, drenched the next morning and turned out in the afternoon. Care must be taken that the exact amount and NO MORE of Bluestone and Black Leaf 40 are used, that no metal ware is used in handling solutions and that the sheep swallow naturally as there is danger of loss when the sheep is slightly strangled.

Annual changes of pasture instead of depending on year after year of using the same pasture in weekly changes are new recommendations of those who have studied the life cycle of round worms. This means the same plan as in poultry, cattle, hogs and other classes of livestock. To get the most effective control put the animals on the same ground once every 3rd or 4th year. A good crop rotation fits in here and this in turn usually means a better system of farming.

Mesdames Myrtle Offutt and Lallie Eddins and Messrs. Robert Utz and Frank L. Kelly visited the Cincinnati Zoo last Sunday.

Mrs. Marshall E. Hearlin left Wednesday morning for her home at Calhoun, Ky., after a short visit with Mrs. Pearl Hughes and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaines Stott, Mrs. E. A. Stott and Mrs. Otis Rouse, all of Petersburg, were calling on their many friends in Burlington Monday afternoon.

FLORENCE SCHOOL

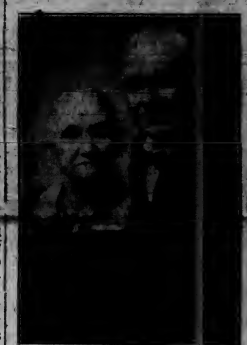

TO HAVE TWO ADDITIONS TO FACULTY—THREE TEACHERS NOW IN SCHOOL—100 AT TWO P. T. A. MEETING—FIRST BASKET BALL PRACTICE HELD

The Florence school which opened this year with the largest enrollment in the county will have two additional teachers added to its faculty as a result of the increased attendance. Prof. Dean O'Leary, of Covington, has been added to the high school corps, while Mrs. Chas. Allphin will be added to the list of grade teachers.

Principal W. R. Davis announced Monday that increasing activity is being noted on the campus this fall and that the P. T. A. is also evincing a renewed spirit. A meeting of this organization was held Thursday night of last week with more than 100 members present. The association voted to purchase a new ditto mimeograph machine for the use of the faculty.

Basket ball practice was opened at the school Tuesday afternoon, with a formidable array of candidates out for the first season. Chas. Allphin, the new coach, reports that 18 Knights and 20 Nightingales reported. The candidates and coach joined in sending best wishes to their coach of last year, Prof. C. G. Lamb, who is assistant principal at Burlington this year, and coach of the Tomcats.

MR. AND MRS. W. W. TANNER

The above photo was made just two years ago.

The long and happy married life of Mr. and Mrs. William (Wash) Tanner was ended with the death of Mrs. Tanner at the residence on the Constance-Hebron road. Mrs. Sarah Clore Tanner was past 83 years of age and they had been married for sixty-three years. She had been ill for almost a year, it is said.

She is survived by three daughters and two sons. Funeral services were held at the Hebron Lutheran church with interment in the cemetery adjoining.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE STORAGE MEETINGS

HELD FRIDAY

Two fruit and vegetable storage meetings will be held in Boone county this coming Friday, September 23rd according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. The purpose of the meetings will be to show inexpensive methods of constructing home storage house for fruit and vegetables. The meetings are held in connection with the College of Agriculture "Live at Home" program realizing the important part of properly preserving the food crops after they are grown so that the farm family may have fresh fruits and vegetables over a longer period of the winter months.

Mr. Howard Matson, agricultural engineer from the College will be in charge of the demonstrational part of the program and will display model storage houses involving storage principles which can be constructed by equipment already on the farm. The meetings will be of interest to both the farmers and housewives and all who are interested are cordially invited to attend.

The meetings will be held at the following time and places:

Limaburg, Sterling Rouse's at 9:30 (slow time).

Verona, O. K. Powers at 1:15 p. m.

Both of the above farms are only a short distance from the above places. A storage house in use will be seen at the farm of Mr. Rouse.

John Garnett, of Scott county, made a trench 80 100 feet long and 14 feet wide and 9 feet deep.

MR. COOLIDGE AND THE RAILROADS

Former President Coolidge has been asked to head a non-partisan commission to study the problems of the railroads. There is no question that the railroads of the U. S. are in a bad way, and we cannot think of anybody better than Mr. Coolidge to head up such a committee. Regardless of politics, there is probably nobody in whom so many Americans of all ranks have complete confidence as Mr. Coolidge. He is noted for his level-headed, common sense, and any report on the railroad situation which he might put his name to would be taken very seriously by the railroad people themselves, as well as by the general public. In accepting such a commission for public service, Mr. Coolidge furnishes a good answer to the old question: "What shall we do with our ex-presidents?"

It is time to get at the roots of the railroad situation. It seems to us that they are either too much under government control or not enough; the present situation, in which they are not allowed to accumulate a surplus in good times to carry them through hard times, is unfair not only to the railroads, but to the public which depends upon them for service. Moreover, the whole railroad situation is changing. The traveling public is relying less and less upon the railroads for passenger transportation for short distances, while the airplane is threatening their long distance passenger carrying monopoly of hard paved highway cuts into railroad earnings. On the face of things, it looks as if there would soon be little business left for the railroads except heavy hauling of bulk freight. We understand that the commission which Mr. Coolidge is to head will look into the whole transportation problem, and we have hope that out of it will come a more intelligent and workable system of transportation control.

AUTUMN FOLIAGE

Over the greater part of the U. S. the forests are beginning to take on their autumn splendor. The turning of the leaves in the fall, from their uniform summer green to brilliant scarlet, presents one of the most gorgeous spectacles ever to be seen. We in America have become so accustomed to it that we often do not realize its beauty. It is a constant source of delight and wonder to European visitors, who have no such phenomenon at home.

Our American autumn is something that we on this continent alone possess. The pleasant weeks between the first frost and Christmas, when the winter's cold and snow really begin over most of the United States, make a season in which outdoor life can be enjoyed to its utmost. There is as much inspiration in the autumn season for the poet as there is in the English spring, and far more for the painter.

Sunday School Lesson

(By Charles E. Dunn)
Golden Text: Psalm 116:15

The lessons for the last quarter have dealt with the career of Moses. The narrative for this Sunday describes his death at Mount Nebo, and his burial in an unknown tomb. It affords a fit opportunity to pause and meditate upon the significance of his massive soul, the founder of the Hebrew religion. He it was who definitely made Jehovah the national God of the Israelites, and established the initial stages of their religious and political organization. Truly he was God's man of destiny. Let us glance at the spectacular biography. We note that he was fortunate, as a child, to fall under the protection of Pharaoh's daughter, who nurtured him as her own son. Thus he was a highly favored lad, reared in an environment of luxury and learning. But happily these privileges did not blind him to the sad plight of his brethren.

The curtain rises again and we find our hero brooding in the desert of Midian. Here an imperative divine call to leadership is sounded from a burning bush. Moses hesitates, and objects. But he finally obeys, and the rest of his life is a revelation of the magnificence of his response.

Some one has said that nothing is wasted in human life when once a great idea takes hold of it. The idea of liberty, with justice, under God, took possession of the conscience and will of Moses with compelling power, so that all he had done in his long days of preparation came to his aid, and he became one of the greatest organizing geniuses in history, exhibiting a practical and powerful executive ability.

We see him steadfast and intrepid through the stormy vicissitudes of plague, passover, crossing of the sea, and wilderness wandering. He emerges as a world figure whose Ten Commandments are the Magna Charta of humanity.

The great man, Carlyle reminds us, is "the living, light-fountain." Such was Moses. But let us remember that the secret of his greatness lies in the direct providence of God. Who always remains with the man He chooses to serve Him.

Fifty Boyle county farmers joined in a tour of farms where raspberries are grown.

Fischer Bros., Hardin county farmers, made a litter of 10 pigs weigh 2,100 pounds when five and a half months old, and realized a profit of $65 on them.

Fifty Allen county farmers sowed alfalfa this year, and approximately 100 farmers in that county have begun growing alfalfa since J. H. Atkinson began work as agricultural agent four years ago.

GUNPOWDER

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carpenter of Virginia, and son Joseph, of Covington, were calling on friends here last Sunday afternoon.

There were big doings at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Utz last Sunday, the occasion being his birthday anniversary. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Pettit, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Allen, Mr. J. S. Surface and his scribe and wife. A bountiful dinner was served at the noon hour which consisted of all the delicacies of the season and was very greatly enjoyed by all present. The afternoon was spent in singing with a pleasant time socially.

Mrs. E. K. Tanner whose death we reported in our last was taken to Hopeful church on Tuesday of last week of which she was a member since early in life. A very appropriate service was conducted by her pastor, Rev. Haas assisted by Rev. Traynor after which the remains were interred in the Hopeful cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives.

Mr. Tanner and family extend their thanks to all who so kindly assisted during the illness and death of their loved one.

The work of filling silos began in this neck of the woods last week. Mr. Thomas Bonar is doing the cutting act.

NONPARIEL PARK

Mrs. Mary Scott was the guest Thursday of her son Lou Scott and family of the Federal Road.

Mrs. J. R. Baker (nee Mae Snyder) of Toledo, Ohio, enjoyed a delightful visit the past week with her niece Miss Minnie Baxter and other relatives.

L. C. Beemon and wife spent last Sunday with their son Robert, of Science Hill, and they were entertained at dinner in Somerset, Ky.

Mrs. Mabel Sayre has her friend Mrs. Goldie Weber with her for an extended visit.

Rudie Lucas and wife and Miss Richmond Lucas spent a pleasant evening Thursday with Emmett Baxter and family of near Hebron.

Miss Stella Mae Baxter and Mr. John Kilgour were united in marriage last Saturday Sept. 12. The bride is the charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Baxter, a prominent farmer of near Hebron. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Kilgour, enterprising farmer of near Franceville.

The young couple will make their home with the present with the parents of the groom. This community extend to them heartiest congratulations.

Mrs. Agnes Haasel, Miss Katie Lou Jordan, Mr. Raymond Johnson and Mr. Bert Becham of Nashville, Tenn., were visiting Mrs. Mabel Sayre and son Frank from Saturday until Wednesday. They were on their way to New York where the boys will enter Columbia University for the winter.

Mrs. Harry Wilson, of Union was the guest of Mrs. W. F. Grant Monday.

Jack Renaker and family left Monday for a week's visit with M. P. Barlow and wife.

Mrs. Lou Allphin, who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Markberry returned to her home at Verona Wednesday. She has been taking treatments from Dr. W. H. Kirtley chiropractor at Florence. Her condition has improved 100 per cent from the beginning of her first treatment. She had a complete Rotary Scoliosis of the Spine.

Thanks to Dr. Kirtley, he has accomplished what others have given up as hopeless.

Mrs. Lou Allphin

Mrs. Kathryn Knaley and son Bernard, entertained with a six o'clock dinner Sunday evening in honor of Mrs. Mary McHugh, Northside Cincinnati, Miss Mary Murphy, Guy Aylor and family and Joe Knaley and family.

The Ladies Aid Society of Florence Baptist church will serve a fried chicken supper in the church basement Saturday evening Sept. 24. Serving from 5 to 9 o'clock. Everybody welcome.

How Is Business?

This question is often asked these days and we find that 90% of the people asked will agree that considerable change for the better is taking place.

Factories and Mills are now purchasing raw materials before a rise in price occurs.

We note many changes for the better in financial conditions.

A complete return to normal times can not come over night. The gradual improvement in business is not observed usually until a wide comparison can be noted.

SEPTEMBER LANDSCAPE NOTES FOR UTOPIA CLUB MEMBERS

(By N. R. Elliott)

1. September 15 to October 15 is the time for fall seeding of Bluegrass on lawn. If you have a lawn 75 to 100 feet and have a fairly good stand of grass on it, sow about one pound of good Bluegrass seed. On places where the Bluegrass is light make heavier application of seed. Do not sow white clover on the lawn in the fall; wait until next spring for that.

2. The fall is an ideal time for the planting of trees and shrubs. (a.) Locate the places where you may want to plant some shade trees around your home or some shrubs. Dig the holes for these plants in September or early October. Leave the holes open and set the plants about the middle of November.

(b.) If you are using native material do not select shade trees that are too tall and too small. The trees should have a minimum trunk diameter of 1 inch, and about 8 to 10 feet high. This will apply to maples, elms and trees of this kind.

(c.) In selecting native shrubs and small trees, such as dogwood and redbud, select a redbud that is a stocky plant, 1 inch or more in diameter, and perhaps 6 to 10 feet high; it may have more than one trunk. Select a dogwood that is sturdy and not over 10 feet high.

(d.) At planting time prune off the broken or injured roots, leaving the main roots at least 18 inches long.

(e.) In pruning the top do not cut the entire top out, but simply cut 6 to 8 inches off of the end of each of the branches.

(f.) Be sure and dig the hole large enough to accommodate the plants after the roots are spread out in a natural position.

(g.) The plant should be two inches deeper in the ground after it is reset than it was before it was dug.

3. September and October represent ideal times for moving most perennial flowers. In moving these plants and rearranging them, dig the plants with a large clump of earth. Use care not to break this and expose the roots.

4. Well-rotted cow manure is one of the best materials to use to enrich the soil for trees, shrubs and flowers. The fall is an ideal time to apply this material. If possible arrange to apply some of the well-rotted cow manure to each of the plants this fall. It will do much to stimulate their growth next season. Use this material as a mulch.

5. Remove all dead bloom stocks from flowers, taking these away and burning them.

6. Some of the native shrubs that we found growing wild in the vicinity of Camp Daniel Boone, during the Utopia Club Camp, were: Nine bark, spicewood, black haw, sumac, elderberry, dogwood, redbud, buckbush, and yellow-wood. All of these are good and can be used in planting around your home.

Utopia Club members should make extensive plantings around their homes this fall.

KOREAN HAY MAKES GOOD YIELD

Mr. Edgar Aylor, of near Florence reports that he was greatly surprised at the large yield of Korean lespezea hay received from a small plot of ground seed with oats the past spring on his farm. A crop of oat hay was cut last spring from approximately one half acre plot seeded to oats and Korean. The Korean continued to grow until a few days ago. He decided to cut the Korean and to his surprise he secured not a sled load but approximately 3,000 pounds of good quality hay from the plot.

The experience of Mr. Aylor is similar to that of many other growers. Due to the thickness with which the crop often grows a few inches above the cutter bar often means a large tonnage per acre.

FLORENCE ALLIANCE ELECTS DELEGATES

A constructive farmers improvement program was planned last Saturday night by the Farmers Alliance Local No. 5 of Florence. A good delegation of farmers were present and a good meeting was held.

The desire to affiliate and cooperate with other locals of the county was expressed in the election of three delegates to the county organization which meets next month. The following delegates were elected to represent the local in the above organization for the coming year: Elby Dringburg, Clem Kendall and C. H. Tanner. The next meeting night was set for Saturday night, October 1st at the old Farm Bureau office.

A. M. Underhill, of Erlanger, was a very pleasant caller at the Recorder office last Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Marshall Terrill, of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, was calling on relatives and friends in Burlington last Sunday afternoon.

"Electrified Homes"

We are rather proud of the fact that more than twenty million of the twenty-nine million homes in the United States are receiving electric service, and we speak of them as "electrified homes."

Just because a house is wired for electricity and is used for lighting purposes does not make it an electrified home—any more than a factory using electricity for lighting only can be termed "electrified."

An electrified home is one where lighting is attractive as well as utilitarian; where electrical appliances have displaced the broom, the wash-tub, the sad-iron and other relics of a past age; where electricity is performing the many tasks it can perform and doing it more efficiently, more economically. It is the home where the lady of the house is a homemaker—not a housekeeper.

If your working day is from early morning until late at night; if you have little or no time for yourself, you are doing work that electricity can do for you for a few cents a day.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the Prayer Service held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy Thursday evening at 8 o'clock.

Due to the fact that the Mission is being redecorated the Prayer Service at Mrs. Kennedy's home will take the place of the mid-week service at the Mission.

You are welcome to attend the Sunday School service held at 2:30 o'clock at the Mission.

On Sunday evening Sept. 11, 1932, "The Revival" which had been in progress for three weeks closed.

No one can doubt but that a great deal of good was accomplished thru this series of meetings.

The tiny Junior Sunday school class rendered a special song "Jesus Loves Me" for the Sunday evening service.

We have been missing the Perry family from our services. Mr. Perry and the children are staying with relatives, due to the fact that Mrs. Perry and the tiny new son are not yet home from the hospital.

It is our wish that the tiny new son and his mother will soon be able to join the family, thereby enabling them all to return to the Mission.

"Regeneration" the subject chosen by Bro. Hitchcock for Sunday evening's message was very ably dealt with.

It seemed as though every one was glad to be in the Thursday night service.

Several of the folks gave short enjoyable talks, especially the ones by sister Laney and Mr. Joe Klaser which could have been termed "New Ideas."

Everyone missed the Fogel family and we hope to be able to greet them at the Sunday service.

Instead of the usual Bible Study Hour on Thursday evening Brother Hitchcock preached a very good sermon on "Repentance."

Mr. Claude Walton, of Richmond, Virginia, is visiting John W. Cloud, of the Belleview pike.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rouse were F. H. Rouse and wife.

CONSTANCE

The marriage of Mr. James Dickerson and Miss Emma Mecon, of Cincinnati, took place at the Christian church Thursday at 4 o'clock.

The bride wore a lovely white satin dress with a long wedding veil and wreath. She also carried a lovely bouquet of late Autumn flowers, and the bridesmaid her sister Mrs. Little Myers wore a soft shade of pink satin and carried a bouquet of flowers. Mr. Edward Myers, her brother-in-law was the groomsman.

A wedding supper was served at the home of the grooms' mother Mrs. Sarah Dickerson. They will make their home with the grooms' mother.

In the evening a large crowd of young folks gathered and serenaded them and was treated to sand-wiches and cake. They all left wishing them a long life of happiness.

BLUE RIBBONS

The members of our club who exhibited their projects at the recent county fair were very much pleased with their results. One member (Harold K. Cline) winning twenty-three firsts, six seconds and five thirds. Other members followed with good results.

LUCILLE RYLE,

Secretary.

The Food Project Office of Burlington 4-H Club was entertained with a weiner roast on the Belleview pike last Tuesday evening. A good time was enjoyed by all.

DEPUTY SHERIFFS ON GROUNDS

STORAGE

OF VEGETABLES OUTLINED BY HOWARD MATSON, OF KENTUCKY COLLEGE OF AGRICULTURE—SHOULD BE NO EXCUSE FOR SHORTAGE OF WINTER FOOD

Mr. Howard Matson field agent from the College of Agriculture outlined the principles of fruit and vegetable storage at two meetings held in Boone county last Friday. There should be no excuse for the average farm family not to be fully supplied with a variety of fruit and vegetables throughout the year provided proper care and storage principles and properly stored and preserved these supplies for times when there would normally be a shortage.

A knowledge of the fruits and vegetables to be stored is the first requirement. Beets, brussels sprouts, cabbage, turnips, potatoes and celery like medium dampness and cool temperatures for best keeping. Onions, pumpkins, squashes and sweet potatoes require dry warmer temperatures. Sweet potatoes should be cured at 70 degrees for three weeks before storing.

Sand and dirt may be used to cover many vegetables in storage.

Practically all fruit and vegetables the first three weeks after storing go thru a sweat or curing stage and should have a regulated circulated circulation of air. To have a proper circulation of air there must be an intake vent opening near the floor of the storage room and out-take vent near the top. Most farm storage houses are found with an out take vent but no intake. The result there is not proper or regulated circulation of air. Plans for the constructing of a number of inexpensive farm storage houses may be secured on request at the County Agent's office.

MISS MILLS WEDS MR BARLOW AT HOME

A wedding of wide spread interest was that of Miss Lucille Rebecca Mills, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Mills, to Ralph Edward Barlow of Union, Ky. The marriage took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther McGraw on the Woodley Road on Tuesday afternoon at five o'clock in the presence of only relatives and close friends, with Dr. Donald MacGuire officiating. The service was marked by its simplicity. The reception rooms were a profusion of autumn flowers. Mrs. W. C. Pickett rendered a musical program, and Mrs. W. C. Fleming sang a solo during the ceremony.

The bride's table which was lovely with a cover of Italian lace was centered by a silver bowl filled with pale pink roses and ferns. Flower candles of the same shades, pink tapers in silver candle sticks and a beautifully embossed wedding cake formed the table decorations.

The bride entered the living room with Mr. McGraw, who gave her in marriage. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Grace Mills, as bridesmaid and the bride's brother, J. Walter Mills, Jr., acted as best man.

The bride's brunette beauty was enhanced by her traveling ensemble of navy triple crepe with accessories to match and hat of pink French felt. She carried an arm cluster of pink roses and ferns. The bride's maid wore a similar gown of dark blue crepe and carried an arm bouquet of peach colored dahlias tied with tulle. Mrs. Mills, mother of the bride, wore black chiffon with trimmings of cream lace and a corsage of sunset roses.

Miss Mills received her education in the schools in Cincinnati, and at St. Mary's College. She is descended on her maternal side from a long line of distinguished ancestors, among them the McWethers, Ollmers and Barnetts, on her father's side she comes of the Mills family, who came over from Wales in 1700, settling on the Cumberland River, in North Carolina where they founded the St. John's College.

Mr. Barlow is the son of Leslie R. and Mary Surface Barlow, of Kentucky, families long identified with the building of the state's history.

An informal reception followed the ceremony during which coffee and exquisitely embossed individual cakes were served. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Barlow will be at home in Union, Kentucky.

Mr. and Mrs. William Flinn and little daughter, of Washington, D. C., were in Burlington for a short time last Friday. Mr. Flinn is a graduate of B. H. S. and the University of Kentucky and now is with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Deaths

WILLIAM S. McMURRAY

William S. McMurray, of the Bullittsburg neighborhood, passed away Sunday, Sept. 25, following an illness of but a few days. He died at the home of his father-in-law. The deceased was born October 22, 1898, and was a son of Henry and Ida McMurray, both of whom have passed away. He was married to Miss Grace Souther on September 3, 1927.

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning, Sept. 28, at eleven o'clock with Rev. J. W. Campbell pastor of the Bullittsburg Baptist church officiating. The deceased had been a member of that church for the past 18 years. The deceased is survived by his widow and two brothers. Funeral arrangements were in charge of C. Scott Chambers, of Walton.

LAURA FLECK BURRIS

A very sad and sudden death occurred at Burlington last Tuesday when Mrs. Edward Burris, of the Bellevue pike, passed away. She had been ill but a few days.

Laura Fleck Burris was born in 1878 and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Fleck. She was united in marriage to Edward Burris on August 8, 1898. To this union were born four children, namely, Henry Burris, Chas. Burris, of Florence, Mrs. Willis Rogers, of near Burlington, and Mrs. Oscar McMurray, of Grant, Ky.

Her husband and all four children survive her, beside three brothers and two sisters—William Fleck, Jake Fleck, Arthur Fleck and Mrs. John Barnes and Mrs. James Noble.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Harlow Haas, his pastor, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, after which he was laid to rest in the nearby cemetery. The pall-bearers were Lewis Clegg, Arch Rouse, Lynn Wilson, Cum Bristol, J. T. Bristol and Claude Tanner.

Mr. Smith is survived by three sisters, Misses Olive and Mary Smith and Mrs. Laura Head, besides many other relatives and friends. Funeral Director Philip Tallafiero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

KIRBY SMITH

Kirby Smith, aged 44 years, passed away Thursday at his home in Union, Ky., after a long illness. His remains were taken to the Tallafiero Funeral Home in Erlanger for preparation.

Funeral services were conducted at Hopeful Lutheran church Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock by the Rev. Harlow Haas, his pastor, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, after which he was laid to rest in the nearby cemetery. The pall-bearers were Lewis Clegg, Arch Rouse, Lynn Wilson, Cum Bristol, J. T. Bristol and Claude Tanner.

Mr. Smith is survived by three sisters, Misses Olive and Mary Smith and Mrs. Laura Head, besides many other relatives and friends.

Funeral Director Philip Tallafiero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

JOHNNIE TAYLOR

Johnnie Taylor, aged 48 years, passed away Friday noon at his home near Landing, Ky., after a long illness. Funeral services were conducted Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the Big Bone Baptist church by the Rev. Roy Johnson, pastor, in the presence of a congregation of relatives and friends, after which he was laid to rest in the nearby cemetery. The pall-bearers were Everett Jones, Owen Edwards, John Jones, Bluff Kirtley, Claude Black and Viv Hamilton. Four little girls carried the flowers.

He is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Huff and Mrs. Conley, an uncle and three aunts and many other relatives and friends.

Funeral Director Philip Tallafiero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. E. B. COAKLEY

Funeral Director Philip Tallafiero made a round trip of 525 miles to Rugby, Tenn., last week to handle the funeral arrangements of Mrs. E. B. Coakley, aged 75 years, an old friend, who had died in Miami, Fla., and whose remains were returned to her old home in Rugby, Tenn. He drove through in his hearse, taking a metallic casket, hardwood box, flowers and cemetery equipment, returning to Erlanger Sunday morning, Sept. 18th.

The annual protracted meeting of the Burlington Baptists will get under headway at the church beginning Sunday, October 2. The evangelist will be Rev. Sellers, of Cincinnati, who comes to Burlington with a wide reputation as a preacher of merit.

HUGHES CHAPEL

CAPTURES CHAMPIONSHIP OF BOONE COUNTY CHURCH LEAGUE—AFTERMIDNIGHT FANS 11 MEN IN FINAL CONTEST AGAINST HEBRON—RIDDELL ALSO HURLS CREDITABLY

Hughes Chapel won the championship of the Boone County Sunday School League by defeating Hebron in the final game of the 1932 season by the score of 5 to 1. It was a very interesting game and was not really clinched until the final out in the ninth inning. As usual, Clifford Afterkirk pitched great game, fanning 11 batters. He was especially tight in the second inning, when the first man to face him reached first and stole second, he set the next three down on strikes. Riddell also pitched a creditable game, having six strikeouts and shutting the lads from Hebron out in every inning except the fourth, when three hits and a wild throw netted two runs and again in the ninth when an error, three singles, and a long triple by Sheets brought the final three rallies and put the game on ice. Hebron played a nice defensive game and two fast double-plays prevented a larger score.

RESISTANT TOBACCO GROWN BY JOHN KLOPP

One hundred and twelve plants of Experiment Station No. 2 a special Fusarium wilt resistant tobacco was supplied by the station and grown this year by John Klopp of near Petersburg. The plants were grown by Mr. Klopp in cooperation with the College of Agriculture to study the resistance of this new variety to Fusarium wilt which is a large portion of the Ohio river bottoms in the state.

Mr. Klopp recently housed seven-teen sticks from the above planting and reports that the variety was resistant to the wilt and was strong and vigorous in growing made a quick early start and both the mature plants and leaves were exceptionally large. Some objectionable characters of the excessive succoring and that the quality is going to be a bit darker than Pepper No. 5 which was also grown by Mr. Klopp.

Fusarium wilt according to recent studies causes more damage on river bottom land than was formerly thought. Dr. Valleau of the Kentucky Experiment Station has recently been devoting considerable attention to the breeding and selection of a Burley tobacco that will be resistant to this disease. Once the resistance is established selection will be made to produce a resistant variety that will make a highly desirable market type.

It seems that every time we print an unusual story some one comes along with a better one. The latest instance we cite concerns the hens of W. H. Rouse and Joel Gray. Not long ago we printed a story about a certain pumpkin which kept in good condition thru the winter and the last of the past summer, finally being made into splendid pies by its owner, L. R. Barlow, of Union. Now along comes Mrs. L. A. Conner, of Burlington, with a story that goes Mr. Barlow one better. She can boast a pumpkin now exactly one year old, apparently still in fine condition. She plans to keep the pumpkin as long as it appears well preserved.

Wm. Doyle, of near Limburg, and star first baseman of the Hopeful baseball team, is improving after a nervous breakdown following the commission of two errors last Saturday. It is said that he is being treated by one of Northern Kentucky's most prominent chiropractors.

Thos. Furlong, of Bowling Green, spent the week-end with friends in Burlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kirby, of Wm. Phillips, of Cincinnati, spent Sunday with B. E. Aylor and family, of near Burlington. Mr. Phillips, a former employee of the Recorder, plans to take up the study of law following the completion of a liberal arts course at St. Xavier University where he now is a student.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown entertained at dinner last Thursday evening the following guests: Misses Londa Lee Jarrell, Martha Blythe and Zelma Lee Stephens and Messrs. Wilton Stephens, Franklin Maurer and Roscoe Akin.

ARREST

OF HARRY HILL IN CINCINNATI BRINGS FOURTH MEMBER OF CHICKEN STEALING RING BEFORE BAR OF JUSTICE—THREE IN PENITENTIARY AND ONE STILL AT LARGE

Another member of a chicken thieving ring which operated in Boone county for some time was apprehended in Cincinnati three weeks ago and lodged in jail here Tuesday of this week. Harry Hill and four others were said to have stolen almost a thousand chickens in this county before the members of the ring finally were caught. Hill and Red Cavanaugh were still at large until this week. Cavanaugh still has not been found.

Moore, William Cavanaugh and William Breeden were sent to the penitentiary from the Boone Circuit Court following their trial.

Sheriff Herbert Snyder and Deputy W. B. Cotton returned Hill here from Cincinnati after extradition papers had been signed by Governors Laffoon and White, of Kentucky and Ohio.

PLAN POULTRY HOUSES

Mr. Arthur Stephenson of near Verona and Mr. E. Y. Randall of near Petersburg are making plans for the construction of new poultry laying houses in the near future. The type of houses being considered by both of the above poultrymen is the Kentucky Experiment Station model 20x20 shed roof house caring for 100 general purpose breeds or 125 leghorns. The Kentucky shed roof type house is the cheapest and most satisfactory type house that can be constructed for Kentucky conditions according to County Agent H. R. Forkner.

Most poultrymen sooner or later are confronted with the necessity of building new houses. Once the house is constructed it is a permanent farm fixture for usually 20 or more years. If the right type of house is constructed it is conducive to better poultry husbandry. If the wrong type is constructed the expense due to disease and lowered production is carried during the life of the house. Plans including the blue prints, bill of lumber and other information is available on request in Extension Circular No. 107 at County Agent's office.

LESPEDEZA MAKES SHOWING

Both Korean and Japan Lespedeza are making a good showing this season according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. This new crop introduced into the county a few years ago has should be expected of any new crop made both success and failures. Growers are better understanding the nature of the crop from year to year and the successful growing more the rule. The following are a few of the Korean fields visited or reported the past week: Howard Huey, near Petersburg, two-acre field innoculated and has made splendid growth the first year.

John Klopp near Petersburg, approximately four acres seeded this spring in pasture mixture—made good growth and furnishing some good cow pasture.

Robert and Charles Chambers of near Walton—approximately three acres in the second and third year—innoculated for the first time and since July has been supplying an abundance of cow pasture.

Sterling House of near Limburg, Korean has made splendid growth and planning to save seed of the entire farm.

Joel Gray of near Burlington, approximately 10 acres Korean seed this spring made good growth and for the past month and a half has been supplying some excellent cow pasture.

John L. Vest of near Walton, two acres seeded last year and two acres in the past spring—discouraged early in the year with the stand but surprised at the excellent stand and growth secured later.

Esquire G. C. Ransom of near Verona, 1 acre of Korean seeded with Sweet Clover and Red Clover. Korean made good growth. Ten acre ridge field seeded in 1930 to Japan and pasture mixture. The field is now a solid carpet of lespedeza and is supplying excellent pasture for sheep and cows.

O. R. Russ of near Limburg, cut Korean for hay.

M. M. Lucas of near Burlington, seeded Korean the past spring with a light seeding of soy beans. Cut the soy beans in August and now has an excellent stand of Korean. (Note this is the first time on record in the county of any one seeding Korean in this manner).

FRIDAY IS HEN DAY

Friday of this week will be "hen day" at the local school. Each student in both grades and high school will be asked to bring a hen on that day, the hens to be sold to raise funds for the school library. All students who are unable to bring a hen are asked to help in any other convenient way. Each school bus will be equipped with a chicken coop Friday morning for the accommodation of the festivity tribe.

Mrs. Emma Brown received word this week of the recent appointment of her nephew Walter Walker, to the U. S. Senate. Mr. Walker is a native of Kentucky, but for many years has been a prominent newspaperman in Colorado. For several years past he has been the Democratic National Committee man from that state. His appointment to the highest legislative body in the nation is more or less a reward for his services to his party.

KNIGHTS

INVITED TO ATTEND DISTRICT MEETING AT COVINGTON ON FRIDAY EVENING, OCTOBER 7—NATIONAL ORGANIZATION SEEMS TO REVIVE PYTHIAN INTEREST

All Knights of Pythias, and former Knights of Pythias, whether in good standing in the order or not in Northern Kentucky, are invited to attend a district meeting of the order to be held in the Castle Hall of Myrtle Lodge No. 8, Covington, on Friday evening, October 7 at 8 o'clock.

The meeting, it is announced, by Dr. Sam Oates, grandmaster at arms and chairman of the Northern Kentucky group, is to consider ways and means to restore suspended members of the order, to get in new blood, to provide for the welfare of the Ky. Pythian Home and its wards and to revive interest in Pythianism in Kentucky generally.

The meeting, along with two others, one at Lexington, Tuesday evening, October 4, and the other at Louisville, Thursday evening, October 6, is called at the request of the Supreme Chancellor, Jas. Dunn, Jr., of Cleveland, who will have a representative of his office present at all three meetings. Mr. Dunn is keenly interested in the Kentucky domain and anxious to assist in any way possible in a revival of Pythian interest. He will attend the Grand Lodge convention at Lexington, October 25 and 26 at the Lafayette Hotel.

Northern Kentucky has four of the present officers of the Kentucky order. Dr. Gales, J. Lee Grand Lodge, Dr. Gales, J. Lee Grand Lodge, of Newport, Grand Prelate; Fred Wolf, of Dayton, grand outer guard, and Herman Moses, of West Covington, grand inner guard.

The meeting will be informal, no password being taken, and it is announced that there is to be no solicitation of funds but rather a general get-together round table meeting for the good of the order in the West.

BURLINGTON P. T. A. MEETS

The first meeting of the year was conducted by the Burlington P. T. A. last Friday night at the school auditorium. The meeting was in the nature of a kitchen shower for the school cafeteria. Many useful donations were received such as sugar, potatoes and food of other kinds. An enjoyable musical program was rendered by a collection of local talent following the shower. Prof. C. G. Lamb acted as chairman.

The local P. T. A. meets each second Friday evening of the month. At the present they are putting on a membership drive and all patrons of the local school are urged to attend these meetings and enlist their names as members. A program will follow each business session.

SHEEP KILLED BY DOGS

Dogs raided flocks of sheep on the farms of Hubert Gaines and Smith Bros., Burlington last Tuesday night. Eight were killed for Mr. Gaines and a number wounded. His flock was scattered to all parts of his farm and excited to a high pitch. Smith Bros., lost but one actually killed, although a number were injured. Later the same day Mr. Gaines killed two dogs which were found eating on the dead animals. It was not definitely known whether these dogs were involved in the killing. It is said that they were the property of Ira Sanders (colored) of Burlington.

The members of the Burlington B. Y. P. U. are to give a social at the Baptist church Saturday evening, October 1 at 7 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Rev. Traynor, of Walton, was a Burlington visitor Monday morning.

The Epworth League had its Regional monthly social Saturday night. There were 17 members present. All had a nice time. We met at our regular Sunday evening session, Miss Zena Garrison was leader. She put on a fine program with Miss Anna Lee Burton and Rev. Graden assisting to discuss the topic. We also had a wonderful talk about the Bible by Judge J. M. Loring. We wish to announce that the B. Y. P. U. has invited us to their meeting next Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. We wish every member to be present.

How Is Business?

This question is often asked these days and we find that 90% of the people asked will agree that considerable change for the better is taking place.

Factories and Mills are now purchasing raw materials before a rise in price occurs.

We note many changes for the better in financial conditions.

A complete return to normal times can not come over night. The gradual improvement in business is not observed usually until a wide comparison can be noted.

Aurora Merchants Offer Free Trip To World's Fair

The Boone County Sunday School Base Ball League season was brought to a close last week with Hughes Chapel winning the pennant by a one game margin. They were hard pressed by the Petersburg team. Hughes Chapel's record was 17 won and four lost, while Petersburg won 14 and lost five.

Rev. Harlow Edgar, pastor of the church, the president of the league has called a meeting for next week at which the silver loving cup will be presented to the winning team. This trophy was donated by Metch, the Jeweler, of Covington. The Sunday School League has had a very successful season.

TRADE CAMPAIGN TO BE SPONSORED BY AURORA MERCHANTS IN WHICH 10 PERSONS WILL BE SENT FREE TO CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR

Who would like to visit the Chicago World's Fair with all expenses paid for a week and absolutely no expenditure of money?

It may be you, if you are willing to work. Look elsewhere in this issue and you will find a way to have your desire realized. Ten persons are going to be given the opportunity of this all expense paid vacation trip of one week, the fortunate persons to be the guests of Aurora merchants who are sponsoring a trade campaign. These merchants are known as the Aurora Merchants' Tour Campaign.

This international exposition at Chicago, which opens June 1, 1933 and closes Nov. 1, 1933, will depict a Century of Progress. Ten foreign nations have already signified their intentions of participating in this great enterprise, and have started to make plans for their exhibits. Many more are expected to fall in line. Every one will want to attend. People will go from every part of the United States and from foreign countries, throughout the world. It is to be an international affair. Every one will want to go, but every one will not be able to afford the expense attached. If you cannot spare the money, you may go free with a little work. The merchants of Aurora will send you if you are fortunate enough to be one of the winners.

Here is the plan:

The trading territory of Aurora has been divided into eight (8) districts. Certain merchants of Aurora will send 10 persons to the World's Fair, one person to each district, with the exception of the city of Aurora, which is entitled to three. These merchants will give votes with every cash purchase of goods at their respective stores, votes given to equal the amount of the purchase. Any number of persons may compete in their respective districts but may collect votes only from the district in which he or she lives. Any person, man, woman, boy or girl is eligible to enter the contest. There is no age limit. Triple votes will be given on old accounts contracted prior to Oct. 1st if such account is paid during October, November and December, 1932.

The contest will run for 6 months, beginning Saturday, Farmers Fair day, Oct. 1st, closing Saturday April 1st, 1933. The person having the highest number of votes in each district will be the winner with the exception of the Aurora district in which the three highest will be declared winners. Persons desiring to enter the contest must fill out an enrollment coupon secured from any one of the merchants listed below. The enrollment coupon which is worth 10,000 votes must be made out in duplicate form; the contestant keeping one and depositing the other one either with the merchant from whom it was secured or must be turned in at the contest headquarters, The Aurora Journal. The votes will be of a different color each month. All contestants must deposit his or her votes in the ballot boxes EACH MONTH, which will be located at the First National and the Aurora State Banks. Votes must be deposited from the first to the tenth of the following month. The winners in the contest will be entitled to a personally conducted tour of one week at the Chicago World's Fair as the guests of the merchants sponsoring this trade campaign. The trip will be made over the Big Four route to Chicago, including a personally conducted sight-seeing trip over the fair grounds each day. Remember, this includes everything, railroad fare, hotel accommodations, meals, and the sight-seeing trip over the grounds. The trip selected for the trip is in July, 1933, the exact date to be announced later. Parents need not hesitate to allow their children to go as winners because the goods will be in charge of a competent guide each day and every minute of the time during the trip.

Below are listed the names of the members of the Aurora Merchants' Tour Campaign, who are making it possible for ten winners to see the World's Fair. Wherever in this issue you will see the advertisement and the rules covering the contest with the districts listed. Read them study them carefully and then decide to enter the contest. You have a chance to win.

DEATHS

MRS. EVA SARA MEYER

Mrs. Eva Sara Meyer, widow of Chris Meyer, former well known Stone Contractor of Covington, passed away at 4 o'clock Sunday morning at her home on Erlanger Road, Erlanger, after a short illness aged 82. Funeral services were held at the late residence Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock by the Rev. Philip Wigraman, pastor of the St. Paul Evangelical church, Covington, Ky., of which she was a member, after which she was laid to rest in Highland cemetery by the side of her husband.

Mrs. Meyer is survived by three sons Albert, Edward and Christ Meyer and one daughter, Mrs. Anna Schild.

The pall-bearers were Albert

Meyer, Fred Schild, Edward Meyer and Edward Schild.

Funeral Director Philip Talker had charge of the funeral arrangements.

E. H. WADE

E. H. Wade, aged 80 years, passed away at his home on Erlanger Rd., Erlanger, Ky., Thursday morning after a long illness. The remains were immediately removed to the Tallaferro Funeral Home for preparation.

Mr. Wade was a member of the Owenion Ky. Baptist church and also the I. O. O. F. Lodge there. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emily Wade, one daughter, Mrs. Howard Hancock and one son E. C. Wade all of Erlanger.

The pall-bearers were O. C. Luby, Lawrence Rouse, Wm. Grover, J. W. Ealy, F. L. Minnich and Frank Minnich.

Funeral services were conducted at the Tallaferro Funeral Home Sunday at 1:30 o'clock by the Rev. H. C. Banyan, pastor of the Latonia Christian church, after which the remains were taken to Worthville, Ky., for interment.

The Mayer Bros., purchased 13 fine baby beavers from W. L. Kirkpatrick last week.

Dr. L. C. Cowen, of Rising Sun, Indiana, spent last Thursday with his sisters Mrs. Laura Matlin and Miss Pink Cowen.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hickman and daughter spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Metheny of Middletown, Ohio.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

BURLINGTON HIGHER SCHOOL NOTES

The shower for the school kitchen was a quite a success. There were fifty persons present and the conditions were splendid. The program was very good and we wish to thank the people that gave and those who took part in the program.

On Wednesday of last week the Girl Reserve Club met and organized their officers as follows:
Pres.—Mellicent Ann Berkshire,
V-Pres.—Linda Lee Jarrell,
Sec.—Luelle Ryle,
Treas.—Marjorie Hensley,
Program Chairman—Wilma Colton.

With the capable leadership of these officers and our advisor Miss Anderson we hope to make this an outstanding year.

The ring salesman from the Herff-Jones Co. was here Friday. The seniors were undecided and did not put in their order.

On Wednesday of his past week the boys of our Hi School were called together by Prof. E. E. Kirkwood for the purpose of organizing the Hi-Y Club. Prof. Kirkwood gave a short talk on the purpose of the club and why it should be organized within our school. The Hi-Y Club is only a voluntary membership club, but we are very proud indeed to state that all except about five or six boys of our school were very eager to join this club. The election of the officers was taken up at this meeting and the following advisors were chosen from the various offices as follows:

Pres.—Wm. Greenup.
V-Pres.—Marvin Moore.
Secy.—Ralph Maurer.
Treas.—Harold K. Clore.
Reporter—Virgil Vice.
Advisors

E. E. Kirkwood.
C. G. Lamb.
R. E. Berkshire.
C. L. Cropper.

Our fall base ball team met the Petersburg lads in another game last Friday after school which ended in another victory for the local boys. Mr. Kelly, who has charge of the base ball this fall used several young, inexperienced boys, but they all seemed to hold their part down with ease. The score was 5 to 4. We believe that by the time spring base ball comes around we can have a high school team that will be capable of taking on some reasonably fast company.

HEBRON SCHOOL NOTES

We are very proud to say that we have two hundred and eighty eight pupils enrolled in our school this year of which eighty-six are High School pupils. The Freshman class alone consists of thirty-five members. They have, like all other classes, officers to carry on their work. The entire High School held an election for a committee to organize Chautauque programs for the next nine weeks. The following is the staff:

Chairman—Olan Elliott,
Committee—Joe Peeno, Freshman.

Robert Ellison—Sophomore.
Allen Kenyon—Junior.
Thomas Berry—Senior.
Faculty Representatives—Miss Cropper, Mr. Goodridge.

The Girl Reserves held a meeting Friday Sept. 19th and the officers gave some very interesting talks. They were successful in showing the new girls what G. R. really means. The following Friday the members gave a tea for the new girls. There were songs and games followed by refreshments. The party was enjoyed alike by old and new girls. Just before the party broke up Mary Jane Plummer, in behalf of the new girls, expressed their thanks and appreciation for the entertainment furnished while Besie Jones, G. R. president, responded on behalf of the club.

FLORENCE SCHOOL NOTES

Last Monday the Junior and Senior classes met and elected class officers as follows:

Seniors

Pres.—Dot McCauley.
V-Pres.—Elva Smith.
Treas.—Alma Rouse.
Treas.—Connie Reagan.

Juniors

Pres.—Winfield Aylor.
V-Pres.—Helen Dixon.
Secy.—D. Everett McCauley.
Treas.—Mary E. Utz.
We wish to thank the P. T. A. for the mimeograph they purchased for the school.

The first grade is grateful to the Erlanger Lumber Co. for the lovely blocks presented to them. Chapel every Wednesday morning at 10:30 a. m. Everyone is invited to attention.

The fifth grade is glad to welcome to their class Miss Alline Rose, of Lexington.

We are glad to report that we have several new girls practicing for basket ball. Among those are Elva Smith, Helen Miller, Edna Fogel, Marion Sullivan, Marjorie Bell, Alma Rouse and Mary A. Dixon.

The Choir leaders for the coming year will be elected Wednesday morning at Chapel.

Miss Lillian Fisher is making arrangements to establish an orchestra in Florence school.

On Friday evening at 8:30 p. m. Miss Lillian Fisher of Erlanger, assisted by some pupils of the Florence school will present a musical program in the school auditorium. This program is for the benefit of the lunch room and the admission is a pound or a can of food.

The High School is glad to greet Mr. Caton as their new Hi School teacher. The sixth and fifth is also pleased with their new teacher Mrs. Alphin.

Final Game Of County Championship Series To Be At Burlington

WALTON AND PETERSBURG TO PLAY OFF SENSATIONAL FOUR-GAME TIE TO SETTLE BOONE COUNTY SUPREMACY—CHANGE IN UMPIRES AND DIVISION OF RECEIPTS

The battling hordes from the towns of Walton and Petersburg resume negotiations Business Manager H. A. Rogers and playing Manager Charles Ruth, of Petersburg, went to the Dixie Highway city Monday night and made an agreement with Manager Clyde Laws and his cohorts to decide the series with one game at Burlington next Saturday afternoon, October 3rd.

According to authentic reports the meeting was a very peaceable and friendly one and the agreement was reached very rapidly. The only changes from the original plans involve the umpires and the division of the receipts. The receipts, according to the original agreement, called for the winning team to take all of the gate receipts at the final game, but this was altered so that they will be divided on a 60-40 basis.

The umpires will be Shearer, of Walton, Hubert Brady, of Burlington, on the bases, and a third umpire from Cincinnati behind the plate to act as umpire in chief. The Burlington park, which boasts the most spacious outfield in the League, will be put in the best possible shape for the great battle. It is expected with favorable weather, that one of the largest crowds ever to witness a game in Boone county will be on hand for this game.

These two teams have played the hottest, the best and most evenly contested series of games ever before seen in these parts and it is to be hoped that this deciding event, will be no exception and may be the best team win.

It is with the keenest possible regret that the editor states that he will be forced to miss the final championship contest due to the delay of one week and to the fact that he will leave this afternoon (Wednesday) for St. Louis and Philadelphia to see the World series and to assist the veteran Jack Ryder, of the Cincinnati Enquirer in reporting these games.

CUT-OUT

OF 1931 BURLEY CROP IS ADVOCATED BY GROWERS AT MEETING HERE SATURDAY AFTERNOON—POOLING OF '31 CROP ALSO VOTED

Last Saturday afternoon an enthusiastic body of tobacco growers gathered at the court house in Burlington to discuss the question of a pool for 1931 and a cut out for 1932.

After a careful consideration of the matter those present decided to lend their influence toward the pooling of this year's crop and to do the same toward a cut out for next year.

Hubert White, of Burlington, J. C. Layne, of Walton, and B. W. Franks, of Walton, were chosen as delegates to attend a state wide meeting to be held at Lexington on October 17th.

BOX SCORE CORRECTION

In the Recorder's publication of the box score of the last series game at Walton a base hit was unintentionally omitted from the column of John Walton, of Petersburg, and from that of Shearer, Walton catcher. The total hits should have been five for Walton and ten for Petersburg.

Mrs. Lillian Presser returned to Burlington Monday after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Louden, near Waterloo.

F. A. Hall is adorning his home on North Jefferson street with a new metal roof. J. J. Kirkpatrick is doing the work.

Deaths

THOMAS C. MASTERS

Mr. Thomas C. Masters who had been in failing health for more than a year, quietly passed away September 12, 1931, at the age of fifty-eight years, four months and three days. He was united in marriage to Mary Jones. To this union were born ten children, Jas. Masters, Mrs. John Hill, Margaret Masters, Joshua, Clarence, Thomas, Woodrow, Jennie Lee, Lena and Henrietta Masters. He is survived by his wife, ten children, two grandchildren, aged mother, two brothers, two sisters and many relatives and friends. Mr. Masters united with the Bullittville Christian church at the age of twenty-five years. He was a faithful husband, devoted father and a kind and loving friend, was loved by all who knew him and will be sadly missed by his loved ones, relatives and friends. Funeral services were at Bullittville Christian church Monday at 2 p. m., September 14th. Rev. Allen delivered the discourse in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends after which the remains were taken to Petersburg for interment.

Funeral bearers were his sons and son-in-law.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks to our many friends, relatives and neighbors who came to us in our sad hour in the loss of our dear father and husband, Mr. Thomas C. Masters. Also for the beautiful songs and the ones who gave the beautiful floral pieces and Mr. Chambers for the manner in which he conducted the funeral.

Mrs. Thos. C. Masters and Children

IN MEMORIAM

Whereas, It has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst, by death our Esteemed Friend and Brother Wm. C. Hughes, who has for many years faithfully performed the duties of Rural Carrier on Rural Route No. 1, of Burlington, Ky., and has maintained under all circumstances a character unimpaired and a reputation above reproach. Therefore be it

Resolved, that in the death of W. C. Hughes which occurred Sept. 21, 1931, we the members of Northern Kentucky Rural Letter Carrier's Association have sustained the loss of a Friend and Brother whose fellowship it was a pleasure to enjoy, the Postoffice Department a faithful and efficient employee, the community an honorable and highly esteemed citizen, and the family a kind, devoted and loving husband and father. Therefore be it

Resolved, that we bear willing testimony to his many virtues to his unquestioned probity and stainless life; that we offer to his bereaved wife and sons and mourning friends over whom sorrow has hung his mantle; our heartfelt condolence, and pray that infinite goodness may bring speedy relief to their burdened hearts and inspire them with consolation that hope is futurity and faith in God give them in the shadow of the tomb. Be it further

Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy be read upon the minutes of our Association, and a copy sent to the local press for publication.

Elijah Stephens, Alfred H. Jones, R. R. Witham, Leslie Sullivan, Wm. N. Macrander

BIG RALLY

THAT WILL ATTEMPT TO SURPASS WINCHESTER TO BE STAGED AT BOWLING GREEN—JUDGE LAFFOON TO BE PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

The city of Bowling Green will attempt to surpass Winchester, in entertaining the hosts of Democracy on Saturday, October 3, when a giant rally will be held in the Warren county capital.

The rally will be held in Remond Park, Bowling Green. The park is located on a high wooded hill overlooking the town and is one of the most beautiful spots in Kentucky.

Mutton will be barbecued in pits and burgoos also will be served to the crowd, which is expected to exceed 10,000.

The citizens of Bowling Green are famous hosts and merchants of the city, the Board of Trade and all other civic agencies are co-operating to make the affair typical of the town's noted hospitality. Counties in the Third district will send large delegations and Democrats throughout the State will go to Bowling Green by train and motor.

Judge Ruby Laffoon will make the principal address of the day. Speaking will begin about 1:30 and Judge Laffoon will start his speech at 2 o'clock. It is probable that Judge Laffoon's speech will be broadcast. The speakers stand will be erected at a high point in the woodland and amplifiers will be installed to carry the voices of speakers to all portions of the crowd.

Bowling Green is one of the most beautiful cities in Kentucky and aside from the interest in the rally, those who attend the barbecue on October 3 will find the trip well worth while.

Once again we hear the cracking of the base ball bats on the Burlington High School grounds, which means that the High School boys are busy rounding into shape for their third game with the Petersburg High School team Friday October 2nd.

These two teams have played two games, winning one each. The first game was played at Burlington and was won by the Burlington team by a score of 4 to 3. Friday, Sept. 25th the Burlington boys went to Petersburg and lost by a score of 6 to 4. In Friday's game coach Kelly, who has charge of the base ball team, will probably start as his battery Ogden and Williamson, with one of the best line-ups back of them that has ever been seen in a Burlington High School uniform. With the right instruction and the material B. H. S. has for athletic events there is no reason why they should not be to the top. All they need is a little encouragement, so be on hand next Friday, October 2nd, and help your team win.

The Girl Reserves and The H. Y. Boys again have been organized at B. H. S. The leaders for the Girl Reserves are Londa Lee Jarrell, president; Zena Garrison, Secretary; Elaine Dickerson, Treasurer; Lucile Ryle, program chairman; Marjorie Hensley Reporter; Miss Anderson advisor; Ethelyn Ryle, vice-president.

For the H. Y. Boys the officers have been chosen but no arrangements have been made to select their advisors. On Monday night the Girl Reserves entertained the H. Y. Boys with a "Hot Dog" Roast on the Petersburg pike. All enjoyed themselves very much and thank the Girl Reserves for their kindness.

Arrangements have been made for the first chapel program to be given Friday October 9th by the entire High School.

All friends and patrons are invited to attend our chapel programs.

Don't forget the base ball game next Friday October 2nd.

TO ORGANIZE P. T. A.

All interested patrons of The New Haven Consolidated School District are asked to meet at the old Union school building Friday evening October 2nd, to organize a Parent Teachers Association and to make plans for the Dedication of the new school.

SPRAGUE

WAS BETTER OF BOEHLER IN FITCHES BATTLE IN BELLEVUE—PETERSBURG GAME—MUTT ROGERS IS HITTING STAR

In one of the prettiest pitchers battles of the year "Lefty" Sprague got the better of George Boehler at Bellevue last Saturday afternoon.

Sprague, just home from a successful season with the Davenport, Iowa, club, of the Mississippi Valley League, was on the mound for Bellevue, while Boehler, was looking them up for Petersburg.

The game was a hard fought ten inning affair and was decided when Boehler let one slide into Lefty's groove and they picked up the ball in the outskirts of McVillie, while Mutts Rogers pranced across with the winning run.

While the score of 4-3 is proof enough that the game was close, yet the records of the two hurlers might not indicate as much. Sprague yielded only five hits, while Bellevue gathered twelve off Boehler, the big pitcher, according to his usual custom, bearing down in the pinches. In strike outs the proportion was exactly the same Sprague fanning an even dozen, Boehler whiffing only five.

Bellevue was the first to draw when Paul Cook doubled to right after two were out and came home when Mutts Rogers sent a long double in the opposite direction. Petersburg forged ahead in the seventh when poor support was fatal to Sprague. Bradburn was first up and was safe on Miller's fumble at second. Boehler followed with a single, Bradburn pulling up at second. Pete Klopp intended to sacrifice and laid down a beautiful punt along the third base line, and Sprague felded the ball rapidly.

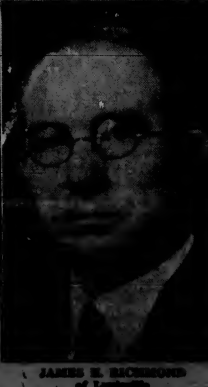

When Lefty turned to throw to second base to take the throw, Sprague being forced to reverse himself in an effort to nip Klopp at first. In making the quick turn he over-threw first base and Bradburn crossed over. Matthews was safe on his infield grounder when Boehler was thrown out at the plate and Jarrell fanned, but Cox was safe and Klopp scored on Ryle's error at short, the second run of the inning.

With the score against them Bellevue immediately took the lead in their half of the same inning. Stephens led off with a single and Bucky Rogers followed suit, Stephens stopping at second. Both runners moved up on Cook's infield out and both scored when—Mutts Rogers hit his second double of the game to deep left.

Bill Lowe unleashed his big war club and emitted a long home run to center to tie the score in Petersburg's half of the eighth and it remained so until the home half of the tenth, of which already we have written.

Mutt Rogers was the big thorn in Boehler's side as it was his two doubles that drove in Bellevue's first three runs and it was his single that put him in position to score on Ryle's drive in the tenth. These two teams will renew their series on Saturday, October 10th, at Petersburg, as the Boone County Championship series between Walton and Petersburg will be decided at Burlington next Saturday.

ROBBERY

IS CHARGE PLACED AGAINST THREE MEN WHO WERE LOGGED IN JAIL HERE TUESDAY EVENING—SHOELESS VICTIM IS PUSHED FROM CAR AT FLORENCE, IT IS ALLEGED

Three men who gave their names as Raymond Lemon, 19, James Grayson, 18, and Elmer Windorf, 35, all of Covington, were lodged in jail here Tuesday night charged with robbery.

A warrant was sworn to by H. R. Henry, also of Covington, charging that the men had forced him into their car and had driven him to Florence, where they robbed him of thirty dollars and a pair of shoes and pushed him out of the auto. The three men vigorously denied the accusation.

They were placed under arrest by John Drees and Al Seiter, Covington detectives, and turned over to Sheriff Herbert Snyder, who brought them to Burlington. An examining trial had not been set as yet to prove.

GRANDSON OF SAM HAMBRICK, FLORENCE TOWN MARSHALL, MEETS DEATH ALMOST INSTANTLY WHEN STRUCK BY AUTO

The happy and peaceful life of the inhabitants of the little town of Florence was interrupted by the intrusion of tragedy Monday afternoon when an auto struck and almost instantly killed little Robert Adams, eight years old, of that city.

The lad was returning to school about noon and suddenly darted from behind a parked truck at the curb. An car, driven by Clarence Marksberry, of Erlanger, was going north on the highway at what witnesses say was a very moderate rate of speed and struck the child before he had time to stop the machine.

The boy was immediately taken to a Covington hospital but had been dead several minutes on arrival. He was taken to the hospital by H. R. Ledy and Marshall Sam Hambrick, the child's grandfather.

The little fellow was a son of Mr. Rebecca Adams, of Dorothy Ave., Florence, and who has the undivided sympathy of a sorrowing community.

AN INNOVATION

Mrs. E. E. Kirkwood, wife of Prof. E. E. Kirkwood, principal of the local high school, who is teaching the primary grade this year, is pulling one of the most unique stunts in record. Mrs. Kirkwood has twenty-six students in the primary grades. In that number will be about three weeks it will be because an old setting hen, under which some fifteen eggs were placed this week, does not hatch out as confidently expected by the little tots. The hen is going about her daily "setting down" (not setting up) exercises, right there in the class room and the experiment is being watched with vast interest.

CANDIDATE

FOR STATE SUPERINTENDENT OF PUBLIC INSTRUCTION SPEAKS AT DEDICATION OF FLORENCE SCHOOL—MAKES IMPRESSION UPON ALL HEARERS

The dedicatory address at the Florence school last Saturday was delivered by Prof. James H. Richmond, of Louisville, and a candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Wherever Mr. Richmond has spoken, his audiences have been enthusiastic over his masterly exposition of the issues of the campaign.

Mr. Richmond is vigorous and aggressive, an orator of unusual ability and does not mince matters when he discusses the shortcomings of the Harrison administration. Mr. Richmond has been a citizen of Louisville for many years and has definite knowledge of conditions which exist under the Harrison administration in Louisville that are a stench in the nostrils of the decent people of that city.

Mr. Richmond's discussion of educational matters is able and expresses the viewpoint of an educator well trained and thoroughly capable.

The community is which Mr. Richmond is billed to speak is sure to hear one of the most able speeches of the campaign. Every citizen, irrespective of political allegiance, should hear him.

CORNERACKERS TO MEET

PAY YOUR BILLS NOW

The most practical and simple means of starting money into circulation and so stimulating the return of prosperity was put forward the other day by Alvan Macaulay, president of the Packard Motor Car Company. Mr. Macaulay pointed out that if everybody who owes money would begin at once to pay his bills, to the extent of his ability to do so, the wheels of commerce would be instantly speeded up.

We believe that is true. We know many people, and we have heard of many more, who are not paying their bills because they are afraid to reduce their cash resources. Business men tell us that collections are slower than they have ever known them. Customers who credit it is perfectly good, and who have cash reserves in the savings banks and elsewhere, are holding off payment of accounts long past due, apparently for no other reason than timidity. It is easy in these days for a debtor to get a long extension of credit. Many who are not entitled to it are taking advantage of this situation to postpone payment of their just debts.

Nobody of course, has any statistics on the subject, but we think it is a fair guess that if, on a given day or during a given week, everybody in America who owes anybody else would pay all that he owes, or all that he is actually able to pay on account, money would begin circulating so fast that there would be an end almost immediately to all of the talk of depression. If the tailor, for example, who is not paying his bills because he hasn't got enough business in sight, would pay what he owes the butcher, and the butcher would pay the grocer, the grocer would be able to order a new suit of clothes from the tailor, which he does not feel justified in doing now.

Money lying idle in the bank does nobody any good. It is only the revolving dollar that has any value. We would like to see everybody in this country make a start toward the application of Mr. Macaulay's sound advice.

VEGETABLE STORAGE THE "COOL" CROPS

(By John S. Gardner, Ky. College of Agriculture)

A few weeks ago, the methods for taking care of the "warm" vegetables were outlined, not because frost was imminent at that time, but because of their being so easily injured by even mild frosts, arrangements for their prompt salvaging should be completed in ample time.

This precaution is just as sensible in the case of the "cool" crops, for although they can survive frosts to which the "warm" vegetables succumb, it is unwise to delay too long.

The cool vegetables are the root crops such as carrots, beets, and turnips, the leaf vegetables cabbage and Chinese cabbage, and, perhaps most important, the white potatoes. The leaf crops, spinach, kale and turnip greens, though not subject to storage in the strict sense of the term, may be harvested into quite severe weather by covering them with straw or with leaves. So protected, they will live through the winter and make early spring greens the following year.

The best storage place for the "cool" crops is a house cellar, in a room apart from the furnace, with, preferably, an earth floor. Such a floor automatically provides the degree of humidity best suited to keep the stored product plump and fresh. Proper flow of air, to assure ventilation and controlled temperature may be provided for as described in these columns several weeks ago, and need not be repeated now.

Next to a cellar, or a special storage structure, burying the vegetables in a pit or mound is best. In fact, burying has an advantage that few cellars have, of keeping vegetables without loss through shrinkage. Its objection is the inconvenience and often the impossibility of removing the stored product when it is desirable to remove it.

It will be recalled that a most important essential in successful storing is protection against low temperatures. These crops keep best at 40 degrees. Although they will endure even freezing for intervals of short duration, their keeping ability and their quality may easily be affected. Potatoes, particularly, are prone to turn sweet if the temperature falls much below freezing for protracted times. Although the sweet flavor disappears to some extent after the temperature has again risen, the cooking quality of the potatoes is permanently impaired.

The insulating material for a pit is the earth cover. For Kentucky winters in general, 10 inches is enough. In order to provide the necessary amount of earth, generally an excavation is made. The size of the excavation should be large enough to accommodate the vegetables piled as tall as possible. The location of the pit should be such that surface moisture will not collect in it; to make sure, ditching should be done.

The floor of the pit may be covered with straw or leaves, although this is not essential. The pile of vegetables may be covered before the earth is applied, for convenience in removing the store. The earth cover should not extend all the way to the tip, when the pit is first made, to allow some opening through which the moisture that all stored crops give off during the first few weeks may escape, but a watershed of wood or tin should be arranged to keep rains out. At about Thanksgiving, the watershed should be removed and the earth covering completed. The pit is now ready for the winter. It may be opened at any time that the outside temperature is not dangerously below freezing, and reclosed, without harm to the contents, if care is taken to replace the original 10 inches of earth cover.

INSPECT EQUIPMENT FLOCK AND WORK AT POULTRY FIELD DAY

Persons who attend the annual poultry field day meeting at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky at Lexington October 7 will see the best flock of pullets ever raised at the Experiment Station. The birds are already housed and laying 50 per cent or better.

Reports will be made of results obtained so far in some of the experiments being made at the Station. These will include breeding for longevity or high life-time production; studies of the value of the sun's rays in increasing the vitamin content of eggs as well as the effect of the sun on egg production and hatchability; hopper versus litter feeding of laying hens, and the use of an all-mash ration for layers.

Outstanding results have been secured in out-crossing some of the Experiment Station's strains of White Leghorns with unrelated strains from the Pacific Coast, and also with Australian bloodlines. Birds involved in these matings will be available for inspection at the field meeting.

The time from 10 o'clock until noon will be spent at the poultry plant on the Experiment Station farm, where the flocks, houses and general equipment will be open for inspection. Lunch will be had at the livestock pavilion, followed at 1:30 o'clock by an address by Prof. James E. Rice, head of the poultry department at Cornell University in New York. His subject will be, "Let Your Poultry Flock Help You Whip the Depression."

One hundred Calloway county farmers made a tour of the farms of six men who had entered the two-acre tobacco production contest.

Joe Bray, Trimble county's master farmer, told most of his peach crop locally, receiving $1 a bushel for quality fruit.

THAT LITTLE GAME

DISCUSS USE OF BIG APPLE CROP

Because of the large apple crop this fall, it is advisable to utilize them in every possible way. Some varieties may be successfully stored for winter use while others must be conserved by other methods such as canning, etc. In selecting apples for canning, they should be of the firm, sound, tart varieties. Wash, pare and core if they must stand for any length of time, cover with water salted in proportion of one tablespoon salt to one quart of water to prevent discoloration. Boil 5 minutes in this syrup (2 cups of water and 1 cup of sugar) to prevent shrinkage in jars. Pack in jars boiling hot, cover with syrup in which they were cooked, and completely seal. Process 5 minutes in boiling water.

Apples baked and seasoned may be packed hot into jars, covered with syrup and processed for all sized containers 5 minutes in boiling water.

Apple sauce may be made from windfalls or green apples. Pack boiling hot, completely seal and process containers of all sizes in boiling water 5 minutes.

The College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, offers the following recipes for utilizing the apple supply:

Butterscotch Apples—Use 5 apples, 2-3 of a cup of brown sugar, 1/4 cup of milk, 1/2 tablespoon of cornstarch, 1-8 teaspoon of salt, 1/2 to 1 tablespoon of butter, and 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Wash apples, remove core, place in dish, sprinkle with sugar, add water to cook, cover, bake in moderate oven until tender. Serve with sauce made as follows: Mix cornstarch and sugar together and cook in hot milk, adding a little of the apple syrup. Boil for a few minutes, add salt, butter and vanilla, stirring together. Pour this sauce over the apples. These may be served hot or cold.

Quick Apple Pudding—Use three sour apples, 1/4 lemon, 1 tablespoon of butter, 2 eggs 1-3 of a cup of sugar, apple Peel and grate the apple, add the juice, grated rind of lemon, the well-beaten egg yolks and butter creamed with the sugar. Season with a little cinnamon or nutmeg, fold in stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Pour into buttered dish. Cook in moderate oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serve cold with cream.

Apple Tapioca—Use 6 tablespoons of pearl tapioca, 1/4 cup of cold water, 1 cup of boiling water, five sour apples, 1/2 of a cup of sugar, and 1/4 of a teaspoon of salt. Soak the tapioca in cold water an hour or more, and drain and add boiling water and salt. Core and pare the apples and place them in buttered dish. Spread with sugar; then tapioca. Bake in moderate oven 30 to 40 minutes. Serve with cream or custard sauce.

Apple Whip—To 1 cup of apple pulp add 4 tablespoons of sugar and 1 teaspoon of lemon juice. Fold into this mixture the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs. Chill and serve with custard sauce or bake in moderate oven 20 to 25 minutes until firm.

Apples may be peeled, sliced and served with cereal for breakfast or merely with sugar and cream. Apples either baked with very little sugar or as apple sauce make a very pleasing accompaniment for pork or lamb roast.

PADLOCKED MINDS

We were discussing Russia at the dinner table of a banker. None of us knew anything about the subject, but that did not prevent a long and animated conversation.

The general opinion, forcibly expressed, was that Stalin and his associates represent the great menace to the present-day world. It was then urged that all the capitalist powers ought to combine to overthrow the Bolshevik regime. Finally I made a timid suggestion.

I said that it seemed to me probable that the Russian experiment will have to be very much modified or it will fail. It appears to run contrary to too many deep-seated human instincts.

Man is moved by the ambition to acquire opportunity and security for his children. The Bolsheviks deny him the right of acquisition. Man is "incurably religious," the Bolsheviks have attempted to abolish God. Sooner or later, man has always revolted against unbridled autocracy under whatever guise or name.

"But," I continued, waxing a little bolder, "any one who looks over the capitalist countries today must admit that our economic organization leaves a lot to be desired. Think of the tragedy of wheat selling below the cost of production at a time when thousands are standing in bread-line. What a frightful thing it is for factories to be shut down for lack of orders while a large percentage of the human race still lacks adequate clothing and shelter.

"Instead of condemning the Russians' out of hand, wouldn't it be more sensible to see whether they discover anything, no matter how small, that we could apply to make our own decrepit economic machine a little better?"

Recently I read an article by Prof. Harold J. Laski in which he pointed out how every new idea, that ever came into the world has been opposed by the "experts."

"Not even so great a surgeon as Simpson could see merit in Lister's discovery of antiseptic treatment. The opposition to Pasteur was so vehement that he declared resignedly that he did not know he had so many enemies."

Napoleon scoffed at the steamship. Wellington was never persuaded that the breech-loading rifle was any good. Vanderbilt refused to entertain the crazy notion that Westinghouse could stop his trains by "jamming air against the wheels."

If we keep our minds open to new ideas we are bound to be misled often, and sometimes to be ridiculous.

But the surest way of all to be wrong is to assume that God has completed His process of revelation and that the world tomorrow will be exactly like the world today.

WITH MY READERS

I had quite a few letters from different states, referring to my former article, "Mistaken Folks." You will recall, it dealt with those who have sciatic neuritis and mistake it for "rheumatism." And, remedies and measures for rheumatism did not relieve at all.

One man had sciatic neuritis, a very obstinate case, and told me he had "bladder trouble" for years—and also has a fissure, a rectal lesion, for years more. Either of these complaints might be causing neuritis, and should certainly be attended to before attempting to cure the sciatic. And none of his ailments are all of the rheumatism variety—not at all. No use to take out tonsils or teeth in the hope of removing rheumatism germs. It is well known that a pronounced lesion of the bladder, prostate gland or rectum may cause sciatic neuritis, a disabling disease.

One with disease in the bladder or rectum may get a sudden attack of sciatic neuritis by lifting, bruising, or otherwise disturbing the great nerve-trunk of the human being.

REST is by far the greatest factor in the treatment of sciatic neuritis—rest, and attention to other organs in the vicinity of the nerve.

How many women with uterine prolapse complain of "lumbago" and "sciatica?" Neither of them rheumatism! Removing all the tonics and teeth in the world will not relieve a backache that is caused by a sagging uterus!

Then they inquire about "cleansing out and keeping clean." Those who are more or less powder clean about the abdomen, I imagine. To clean out is simple. The keeping clean is the trouble; I'll try to devote the next chapter to that subject.

Stimulating local consumption through newspaper advertising and a local road sign to sell 350 bushels of peaches, for which he received more than $400.

Farmers in Long rove community in Hardin county pooled orders for 1,000 tons of limestone to be delivered this fall.

Four litters of pigs raised by Utopia club members in Taylor-co., weighed a ton or more when six months old, and sold for 10 cents a hundred above top hog prices.

Sunday School Lesson

THE MACEDONIAN CALL
Acts 1:18-19; Romans 15:18-21

The lesson is larger than the study hour and offers much opportunity for special research. After the Council in Jerusalem, Paul, Barnabas and others reported back to the Church in Antioch. Soon the urge for further work afield caused Paul to lay plans for what we know as the second missionary journey. Barnabas was ready but insisted that John Mark, who left them at Perga, be taken along. Paul refused. These fellow-servants of the Master showed common sense in agreeing to disagree, but each went forward with the work of the Kingdom. Barnabas took Mark and went to Cyprus. Paul effected a working agreement with Silas and proceeded into a Minor. At Lystra a handy man was found in Timothy and he became an efficient substitute for John Mark.

It was at Troas, famous in the writings of Homer, that the future itinerary was clearly indicated. Here we find the word "we" used, which indicates that Dr. Luke, the author of Acts, joined the Paul party. Search out and determine just where Luke was with Paul during the rest of his ministry.

It may be that Luke told of the great need for ministry in Philippi. It was in a vision that Paul beheld the messenger who pleaded "Come over into Macedonia and help us." Look up the numerous visions that came to Paul both for direction and encouragement. Obeyingly the four workers set out for the first Christian impact on the continent of Europe as they came to Philippi. That journey meant much to all of us in the western world. Since there were too few Jews there to have a synagogue, a place of prayer and gospelizing began in earnest. Lydia was the first convert and made her confession of faith in the rite of baptism.

Blueberry Pie

A good deep-dish blueberry pie is this: butter a deep baking dish and fill with huckleberries which have been looked over and washed. Sprinkle with a half cup of sugar, a tablespoon of flour and three-quarters of a cup of sugar—or more to a quart of berries. Cover with a top crust, wash it two or three times, and bake.

Vegetable Omelet

Spread an omelet, ready to turn, with hot cooked vegetables. Cooked green peas, carrots, finely cut string beans, and corn cut from the cob make a good combination.

Omelets can be much improved in appearance, and somewhat improved in taste by garnishing. Watercress or parsley may be used. A sweet omelet may be garnished with preserved strawberries. A vegetable omelet may be garnished with pickled beets or diced vegetables.

The dish the omelet is served on should be warm. And if the cook can persuade those who are to eat it to be at table promptly when the omelet appears, so much the better.

Twenty-two carloads of fruit jars and 47 carloads of sugar were received in Paducah in June, July and August, says County Agent W. C. Johnstone, in reporting on the local consumption and preservation of fruit and vegetables. Five hundred women attended canning demonstrations conducted by the McCracken County Homemakers' Association. One hundred and five carloads of peaches were shipped from Paducah, and as many more trucked out, according to Mr. Johnstone.

Lime and sweet clover made it possible to get a stand of blue grass on this land on the farm of Webb Offutt in Scott county, after years of effort. The limestone was applied in the fall of 1929 as the ground was being prepared for rye. Blue grass was sowed in the rye in the fall and sweet clover the following spring. They made little progress during the drought of 1930, but both grew rapidly this year. The growth of blue grass was "almost miraculous" where the sweet clover survived, according to County Agent C. M. Wade, and looks like a four or five year old sod.

MUSTARD

This mustard is a plant, of course. On the back of a menu I found these meditations on the subject of common table mustard:

Let the word be "Not without mustard."—Ben Jonson's "Every Man Out of His Humor."

Mustard is a very wonderful assistance to the digestion.—Lord Lytton's "The Disowned."

"What say you to a piece of beef and mustard?"

"A dish that I do love to feed upon."—Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew."

With the following credited to Anon.:

The hand that stirs the mustard rules the roast.

Eat mustard and keep that school-boy complexion.

A kiss without a mustache is like beef without mustard. (Cf. Kipling's "The Gadshys.")

CAUSTIC COMMENT

With all the dirt on the stage a play called "Sweepings" ought to go over big.

Formerly, an actor who photographed fairly well could get a part in the movies, but now they insist on a speaking likeness.

Freed From Pain After Suffering Two Years

"For two long years I was in agony, the pains were so severe I lost much sleep and became very nervous, my limbs were swollen—I carefully followed advice rendered me by people who were supposed to know. I took medicine daily, but none seemed to affect my condition. "As time went on I became desperate, my kidneys were bothering me more than ever, my bladder had become weak, and I was compelled to arise many times during the night. Karak was recommended and I decided to find out just what it would do. I have used several bottles and just what a glorious change, no one can ever realize. I have no pain whatsoever, my system is gradually becoming normal and I feel better than I have in years. I shall always praise and advise Karak to anyone suffering from rheumatism."

When the mayor of New York, John P. Mitchell, was elected, he was elected on a platform that, open to all, he would place a fountain drinking both more than 800 years—but by modern methods.

He broadcast through a microphone to a dense crowd the quality word of proclamation authorizing the holding of the most noble the charter granted to the borough by King Henry VIII in 1537. The charter conferred by royal prescription rights and privileges enjoyed by the borough for 400 years previously.

It makes King's Lynn one of the few towns where wandering showmen are not harassed by municipal restrictions.

The mayor, in his scarlet robe and gold-braided cocked hat, came from the old hall of the Trinity guild, accompanied by aldermen, councillors, officials and representatives of the showmen's guild.

The beadle and sword-bearer, carrying the famous sword of King John led the procession, which passed through winding streets, by houses formerly occupied by merchant princes, to the market place. The town crier clanged his bell and shouts of "Oyes!" were heard.

Shades of Pepper (of "ghost" fame) and of Mrs. Varley seemed to hover round the old market square as the mayor, in welcoming the showmen, recalled the fair-time sensations of his youthful days. The "wild man of Borneo," he said, became even wilder if his takings fell below expectations, so he wished the caterers of popular amusement a prosperous season.

Northcliffe's Idea of Newspaper Shop Window

Speaking of sermons, or anything: The late Lord Northcliffe, it is related, one day rang up the editor of one of his weekly papers who was new to the editorial chair, and said to him: "Mr. Jones, will you please go round at once to Mr. Isaacs, the fruiterer, in Convent Garden, and ask him what he does with his best apples?"

The editor thought it wise to obey his eccentric chief. When he returned, Lord Northcliffe again rang him up: "What did Mr. Isaacs tell you about where he puts his best apples?"

"He told me," answered the editor, "that he puts them in his shop window."

"Yes, my boy," said Northcliffe, "that's what you have to do. You put your best apples in your shop window—put your best news in your shop window; and your shop window is your front page."—Christian Century.

Domestic Fowl's Ancestor

All domestic fowl are supposed to be descended from the red jungle fowl (Gallus Bankiva), which very much resembles the Black Breasted Red Game Bantam. This fowl is found in the jungles of India, Burmah, Philippine islands and Malay peninsula. Among the red jungle fowl, there are three other species: the gray jungle fowl of India, the Ceylon jungle fowl and the green or fork-tailed jungle fowl of the island of Java. The latter is said to rival the Vulturine Guinea fowl in the beauty of its plumage. The crow of the jungle cock is short and broken between the cackling and clucking of the jungle hen is very similar to that of domestic poultry. The jungle hen will lay from four to eleven eggs before incubating, a far cry to the 200-egg produced under the hand of man.

Mariner's Compass

The mariner's compass, which the Chinese call "the south pointing chariot," is of great antiquity. The idea, it is said, was born during the reign of Chong Wang, that is to say, a little before 1079 B. C. But in a few centuries the discovery of the principle was forgotten. A philosopher named Chang Hoo revived it. He died in 130 B. C. and during the succeeding bronze times his model was neglected. It was in the Third century A. D. that the Chinese interest in the south pointing chariot was revived. Old writings were eagerly studied, trial after trial was perseveringly made, and in writings of the Eleventh century we read of the compass being used by mariners. Before that time it seems to have been used for guidance in traveling by land.

French Company Failed

The Company of the Hundred Associates was a trading corporation given a charter by France under which it was to settle 4,000 colonists in America in 15 years. But in the 35 years of its existence it sent out less than a thousand. When the company's charter was annulled in 1663 the European population in New France was scarcely two thousand. All the company did was to send out a few vessels each year to trade with the Indians for furs, and thus ended one of the many unsuccessful colonization efforts to populate French or British Canada.

Light's Out

At church little Jane listened to a sermon on "Let your light shine." The only part she remembered was the text but she didn't understand what it meant until her mother said: "It means being good, obedient, and cheerful."

In the afternoon there was trouble in the nursery and Jane excused herself for being naughty by saying: "I've blown myself out."

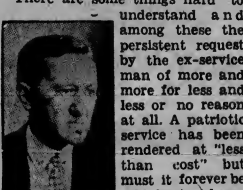

Washington Writer Becomes Acrimonious In Criticism

Editors' Note—The opinions expressed by the writer of this story each week are not necessarily concurred in by this newspaper.

(By Fred Holmes)
Washington Correspondent for the Gallatin County News

In Proverbs it is written: "For when I gave you an inch, you took an ell." In the to-be-written history of the United States, it will be recounted: "When we gave you a competence, you demanded a pound of flesh."

There are some things hard to understand and among these the persistent request by the ex-service man of more and more for less and less or no reason at all. A patriotic service has been rendered at "less than cost" but must it forever be sold, bartered, exchanged and used as a big club with which to threaten, intimidate, force, cajole, heckle and otherwise terrify our representatives for "what have you?" Dam this sort of patriotism, loyalty, fidelity. It is high time veterans begin as a group to recognize that loyalty to the government need not be bought and must not be sold!

It might seem more in keeping with useful procedure if former service men assisted through objective voluntary effort to reduce the present distress. Instead, pressure is being brought to force various kinds of discriminatory legislation. It seems Mr. Service Man has put his patriotic service under the hammer. The office seeker and holder is forced to pay a high price for these goods. Mr. Politician knows he must pay or they will skin him alive politically; at least, the service man's growl sounds deep and ominous.

Apparently Service men do not understand the real nature of the Adjusted Service Certificate. A certain amount was to be paid to the holder at the end of twenty years. About half of the time "till payment has passed and now Mr. Service Man has repudiated his acceptance of the original conditional offer. He has, in a manner, threatened the political life of everybody from President Hoover to the Mayor. So the Government was forced to grind out a new payment heedless of upon whom the penalty may fall.

On May 19, 1924, Congress passed the Adjusted Compensation Act. This Act awarded to 3,498,000 veterans approximately $1,365,000,000 further compensation for war service. To this sum was added 25 per cent, said to be consideration for deferring the payment until about 1945; the whole bearing interest at 5 per cent compounded annually.

The Certificate had an increasing loan value but the burden of an immediate payment of the above amount was never contemplated. It was upon this distinct and explicit understanding of the Congress that the adjustment was in every respect satisfactory and that all matters relating to a Bonus were closed.

The above contract has been entered into between the Veterans and the United States. This contract was violated by veterans seeking further discriminatory legislation. Our last Congress was forced to pass a law increasing the loans on bonus certificates to 50 per cent of their "face" value. The excuse used then for reopening of the Bonus Act was based on the fact "that great distress prevailed among the veterans by reason of drought and general business depression."

There is no argument to offset known facts. Veterans are in despair, but so are a greater number of human beings in the U. S. including women and children. Thruout the world there is distress due to post war depression. The condition being international—not local, why should war veterans in a disturbed sea seek class distinction at the peril of millions? What type of patriotism is this—that will take food and shelter away from women and children?

Is our valor given in time of need to be sold, bartered or exchanged to the highest political bidder? What is the gain that a "limited" class of men may be "voluntarily" willing to dispose of their valor through such an obvious rupture of fundamental principle?

There has never existed any opposition to the veteran who is ill, disabled and needy receiving compensation and treatment suitable to his case. The Government has further extended these principles to include hospitalization for those who served, and may be suffering from illness or disability NOT INCURRED in service. Today the hospitals designed originally to care for disabled veterans are filled with men among whom are those who incurred illness not only not connected with service but worse, due to their own misconduct.

Effective relief for the veteran can only become "effective" when the nation as a whole prospers. Relief as expressed by a limited—hence false stimulation is not beneficial but actually reacts unfavorably. Seek employment. It is the most certain aid to a normal return of prosperity. When the wheels of industry turn we are on the road to prosperity. Recovery cannot be anticipated when funds are inaccessible to the purpose of industry by reason of their diversion into improper channels thru the unjust and selfish taxation.

It is time the veteran poured his soothing syrup into the sink and began to face reality. It must be a wonderful feeling when self elation and glory can so charm an individual as to make him forget that millions of other humans including women and children face even greater peril. The government has not offered them hospitalization free of charge.

The payment of the Bonus or any other forms of discriminatory relief legislation would retard the return of prosperity by reason of

First White Woman in West Arrived in 1808

The first white woman in the West of whom there is any record, came out from the Orkney islands in 1808 in a Hudson's Bay company's ship, disguised as a young man. She came out to join her sweetheart. In the journal of Alexander Henry, it is recorded without mention of her name, that on December 29, 1807, she gave birth to a child at his trading post at the mouth of the Pembina river. Of the life of the child born that day, the first child born in the West of white parents, nothing is known but that his mother took him with her when she returned to Scotland the summer after his birth. Marie Laglondiere, who became the grandmother of Louis Riel, was the second white woman to come to the West of whom there is any record. She arrived in 1807. It was 1812 before there were any other white women in the West. In that year, the second party of Selkirk settlers arrived at York Factory. They included 13 women.—Montreal Herald.

Invocation on Prescription

The science of medicine had its origin in the very depths of ignorance and superstition, and even today it is not entirely shaken off all the hereditary beliefs and symbols which have adhered to it down through the ages. For example, the capital R with the line across its foot, to be found on every prescription, is thought by most physicians to be an abbreviation of the Latin word "Recipe" but Dr. Howard W. Haggard, associate professor of applied physiology at Yale university, has traced it back to an invocation to the god Jupiter, a prayer for his aid to make the treatment effective. In many old medical manuscripts all of the R's occurring in the text are crossed.

Shows Weather Fluctuations

Both tree and varves are mute witnesses to weather fluctuations. Very old trees show thick and thin rings. Layers of clay, called varves, found in the former beds of ancient lakes fed by melting ice sheets, form another record. These layers are due to the annual deposit of sediment. Thick layers were deposited in warm summers when melting was rapid, and thin layers in cool summers.

Bird's-Eye Maple

The forest service is experimenting in an effort to determine what a bird's-eye maple: The formation consists of an indentation which is regular and which goes from the outer part of the tree to the core. There is one theory that the tree is oppressed in growth, heavily shaded or grown under some other abnormal condition. It is not believed to be due to an insect injury or to a bark injury or to any pathological condition.

Famous Clockmaker

Seth Thomas was born at Wolcott, Conn., in 1785. He received a meager education and was apprenticed to a carpenter and joiner in New Haven. He learned clockmaking from Eli Terry, whose business he acquired in 1810. In 1813 Thomas purchased a factory in the western part of Plymouth, Mass., which was known as the "thriving village of Thomaston." His clocks, manufactured between 1813 and 1835, were largely shelf clocks, a few small mantel clocks and regulators. Thomas died in 1856. In 1872 the company began to make tower clocks.

Decided

Harold, aged four, was a lonely little child, and begged his father to buy him a dog. But father put him off, and asked if a little brother or sister wouldn't be a nicer playmate. Harold agreed to wait. A few days later his father took him upstairs to see the new brother who had just arrived. Long and earnestly the child gazed at the red, wrinkled, famewrapped mite. Then he lifted sorrowful eyes to his father and said, "Daddy, buy me the dog."

World-Famous Politician

Robert's "Milkman of the Chair," who was a noted Paris art instructor, was the residence of a hermit's wife.

"There have been many stories told about the political life of Robert's 'Milkman of the Chair,'" the artist said, "but the one that seems most fitting is as follows:

"An old hermit, widely known and loved for his charity and Christian service, lived in a hut in the valley. Near his humble home stood a giant oak tree, which he called his stout friend, because it gave him shade and sheltered him from the storm. Once he lived a vine-dresser's daughter, known to everybody for her kindness to the old hermit, who called her his friend that talked.

"One day a terrible storm arose, which was followed by a disastrous flood. The hermit sought shelter in the branches of the tree and was rescued by the vine-dresser's daughter, who took him to her home. The hermit was very happy and prayed that his two good friends might be glorified together. Long afterward the hermit, Bernard, died, and the oak tree was cut down and made into wine casks. By this time the beautiful girl had married and was the mother of two fine sons.

"One day the young mother sat at the door of her cottage with her two sons at her side. Raphael passed by and noticing the beautiful picture made by the mother and her sons quickly took his crayon and sketched it on the head of a wine cask. From this sketch the artist is said to have painted the popular picture of the 'Milkman of the Chair,' and the wish of the old hermit was realized."

Ancestral Worry Over the Rising Generation

Owner of some valuable old books, books whose intrinsic value is enhanced to him because they belonged to his great-grandfather, of his great-grandfather, is Ashton G. Stevenson, says a Chicago dispatch.

"The generations change little is proved, he believes, by quotations from some of the old almanacs he owns. Back in 1824 the younger generation, it seems, was worrying the older generation and the golden age was in the past.

In 1824 the Western Almanack was sorrowful because 940 years ago literature meant learning and was supported by common sense; the ladies of the first respectably learned music, but it was the humming of the wheel and learned the necessary dance steps in following it; their piano forte was a loom and their novels the Bible; some respect was paid to old age, to pious ministers of the gospel and to Sunday."

Mythological

In Greek mythology, Daedalus was an artist, sculptor and architect of Crete who lived three generations before the Trojan war. He built the famous labyrinth on that island and to him are attributed the inventions of the ax, the saw, the auger, etc. Being imprisoned with his son Icarus, he invented wings for flying to Sicily. These were fastened on with wax, and according to the legend Icarus flew so high that the sun's heat melted the wax and he fell into the sea. Daedalus has himself reached Sicily. Philologists suppose that Daedalus is not really a proper name but is the common appellation of all the first architects, metallurgists and sculptors in Grecian antiquity, being derived from the Greek word meaning "to work with skill."

Altitudinal Birds

When it comes to high fliers some birds really go up in the air. T. H. Harrison of Pembroke college, Cambridge, reports in Nature, the British Journal of Science, a flock of wild geese flying at an altitude of approximately 25,000 feet—nearly five miles up. These high fliers were accidentally "shot" in a photograph of the sun. Mr. Everett climbers, Professor Harrison says, have reported lammergeiers, curlews and choughs (old world genus of the crow family) flying higher than 20,000 feet. The highest airplanes have encountered birds, however, is 15,000 feet up while the average migratory birds do their traveling flights below the 8,000-foot level.

Different

Undoubtedly the story about dividing the apple will be with us as long as the mother-in-law exists. But of course, little Elmer Blaine of San Bernardino doesn't know this and, being only six, must be excused for plagiarism.

But this time the story is bigger and better, for there were two apples instead of one—a big one and a little one.

"And tell me, Elmer," cooed aunt, "if I asked you to give an apple to your brother, which one would you give him?"

"Do you mean to my big brother or my little one?" asked Elmer anxiously.

Discovery

Billy had a new suit which he wanted to wear on Sunday for the first time. He begged to go to church instead of staying with the other small children.

Although with misgivings, mother said he could, but that he would have to be very quiet. For a time, all went well, but during the prayer, every eye was started to hear an excited voice: "Oh, mother, here's another pocket!"

Equipment

A great philosopher once said that he could move even the earth, providing he had certain tools. And he spoke the truth. Virtually nothing should be called impossible, for the tools are too big for anyone, if the proper equipment is at hand.—Out.

SHOE BEING FILLED

Practically every sho in Boone county will be filled inside the next two weeks. This will be due to one of the best corn crops in many years and to increased appreciation as to the value of a succulent feed for the winter feeding of cattle, sheep and other classes of livestock. This succulence on the average farm is not secured in any other form.

The question asked many times recently, "What is the difference in value of silage with ears shucked off and with the ears left on?" Henry and Morrison (feed authorities) answer the question with the following results of experimental work: "Silage with the ears shucked off is worth 61 per cent per ton of what it would have been worth with the ears left on. There is no advantage of shucking the ears off and feeding them separately."

SHEEP DRENCHING DEMONSTRATIONS

Two sheep drenching demonstrations in the control of stomach worms in sheep were given by the County Agent Tuesday morning. The first demonstration was given on the farm of Walter Ferguson of near Union at 8:00 a. m., the second on the farm of Robert Woods of near Big Bone at 10:30 a. m.

The control of intestinal parasites in sheep, hogs, poultry and other classes of livestock has come to be one of the most important livestock problems. Prevention thru use of clean pastures and ground brought about by regular changes at set intervals is probably one of the best methods of control. This is not always possible. The next step is the ridding of the parasites thru some recommended method of treatment. Not all treatments on the market have been found effective.

POULTRY FIELD DAY

Poultry Field Day will be held on the Experiment Station farm, Lexington, Wednesday, October 7th. Many Boone county poultrymen are interested each year in this annual event.

County Agent H. R. Forkner has made arrangements for several poultrymen to go to the meeting in cars so as to cut down the cost of transportation. He will be glad to get in touch with all who are interested in attending.

KOREAN LESPEDEZA CUT FOR HAY

Korean lespedeza was being cut for hay on the farm of Mr. Joel Gray of near Burlington the first part of the week. Mr. Gray has fifteen acres of the above crop. The first seven acres cut averaged close to two big wagon loads per acre which was estimated at one and one-half tons per acre.

Mr. J. B. Respass of near Florence, cut about two weeks ago one of the two fields grown on his farm. Mr. Hamilton, his farm manager reported that the hay was of excellent quality.

A number of growers are waiting until the seed are more mature before cutting, others report that sufficient growth has not been secured. Korean is a new crop in Boone county and is being studied this year under a wide variety of conditions.

CLASS TO START

Miss Willanna Hampton Smith, who furnished the music at the dedicatory exercises at the Florence school last Saturday will start her class in music Friday October 2nd. She is taking pupils for private lessons in voice violin and piano. Miss Smith was highly complimented for her musical numbers last Saturday. She also had two former pupils from Falmouth, Miss Ruth Davis and Noel Douglass, rendered several numbers and they like wise were praised highly.

CARD OF THANKS

We desire to express our sincere thanks to all of those who so greatly helped to make our burden lighter during our recent sad hour of bereavement. We especially wish to thank Rev. Gillespie, Dr. M. A. Yelton, Undertaker C. Scott Chambers, those who helped with the singing and those who donated the many beautiful floral offerings. There are many others, far too numerous to mention, whom we want to thank for their many, many acts of kindness.

LOCAL NEWS

People from all parts of Boone county, as well as those from adjoining counties, are taking advantage of the cut prices on Mr. D. R. Rhythe's stock of merchandise that is being sold without reserve for him by Mr. R. C. Nichol, of Chicago.

Mr. Nichol is a merchandise expert and so appreciates some of the values offered that he packed several boxes last week for himself to send to his home.

Mr. Rhythe plans to continue the sale until his stock is entirely disposed of, as he says that this is a genuine quitting business sale.

C. O. Hempling, of Taylorsport, made the Recorder a call last Wednesday. Mr. Hempling is a large tobacco grower and always has been prominent in any movement for the betterment of conditions or prices for the weed. He states that in his opinion that this section will produce the best quality crop this year on any of recent years. He also said that he thought the buyers might be fairly anxious for good tobacco this year.

Small Boys Wonder

Scotland Yard is now considering a plan for training women as detectives. Many a small boy thought his maternal parent a pretty good detective without need for training.

The following letter was received from B. Holcomb, of Chicago, in regard to the recent arrangement by which the Gallatin county News will be published at Burlington.

Mr. Holcomb is a former publisher of the old Warsaw Independent and now has a fine position with The H. J. Heinz Company.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 22, 1931
Mr. R. E. Berkshire, Burlington, Ky.
Dear Mr. Berkshire:

That you are to publish the "Gallatin County News" and the fine old county of Gallatin is assured a first-class newspaper comes as an interesting bit of news, and we take this occasion to wish you every success in this venture.

The writer recalls a very interesting interview with you about seven years ago when such an arrangement was discussed. Now that you have a paved highway connecting the two counties, we feel sure that the arrangement will be practical as well as profitable to both yourself and the readers of the News.

With the inception of the widely diversified campaign now being conducted by county agents as well as county health departments, a country newspaper is becoming a more vital factor in the development of the rural community, and I am sure that the idea of central publishing plants for a number of counties will result in economies that will enable such mediums to make great progress in the future.

We believe that your arrangement will enable you to give both the readers of the "News" and "Recorder" a better paper, and at the same time give your advertisers a more efficient service.

We know that you will encounter a number of difficulties that go with a change of this kind. However, the pleasure that you will derive from this fascinating work will more than compensate you for such grief.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely Yours,
J. B. HOLCOMB

Clarence Beauchamp, a Grayson county farmer, received $1.26 a bushel for 225 bushels of wheat fed to hogs. Twenty pigs fed wheat, tankage and cottonseed meal weighed 4,300 pounds when 154 days old, and sold for $304. The pigs made an average daily gain of 1.39 pounds, and added 17 pounds to weight for each 56 pounds of grain consumed. G. M. Haycraft, another Grayson county farmer, is making extensive use of ground wheat and wheat bran in his dairy herd ration.

A total of 1,920 sticks of ripe tobacco were cut from an acre and a half in Powell county, according to County Agent W. L. Browning. The land, which was thin, was treated with 375 pounds of superphosphate and 400 pounds of 9-18-18 fertilizer before the plants were set, and 100 pounds of nitrate of soda were used as a side dressing.

Mr. and Mrs. Shelby Cowen, of Wyoming, Ohio, spent Sunday with Mrs. Laura Martin and family here.

FINAL CLUB MEETINGS

School days and the final 4-H club meetings bring to close one of the most successful club years.

The last two meetings of the club year will be held within the next thirty days according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. The seventh community club meetings of the eleven community clubs will be held during the next two weeks. All record books and club scores for the Boone County Bankers trophy and the Farm Bureau trophy will be brought up-to-date.

There is expected to be a big improvement in the quality of records kept by club members this year. Every club member is urged to make his record book as complete as possible and to make it an example of the quality of work that he has done.

UTOPIA CLUB MEMBERS MEET

Twenty members of Boone county Utopia Club No. 2 met at the home of Dr. M. A. Yelton in Burlington last Thursday evening to discuss project and recreational activities. Most of the crop projects for the year were reported completed and the dairy demonstration herd and complete farm management records being kept. The members in the room improvement movements had been made during the month.

A recreational and refreshment program was furnished by the Burlington group following the regular business session. The Club voted to secure the services of Mr. N. R. Elliott, professor of landscape architecture from the College of Agriculture as principal speaker for the next meeting. It was also voted that the November meeting should be a district meeting of the clubs from Boone, Kenton and Gallatin counties and should be in form of a one day school.

WORLD'S FAIR

WILL BE GOAL OF PARTICIPANTS IN AURORA MERCHANTS' CONTEST—BOONE COUNTY PROPER ARE INVITED TO TAKE PART—CHICAGO TRIP OUTLINED

The "free tour trip" to the World's Fair, launched Saturday, Oct. 1st is going over big. Many have entered the race as contestants, but there is room for many more. Every one who enrolls will not win, but ten will, why not make a strong effort to be one of them? To bring the matter more carefully to your mind, and to be sure that no mistake is made in understanding the rules and conditions, we call your attention to these facts: 45 merchants of Aurora have made it possible for 10 persons to enjoy a free "all expense paid" trip to the World's Fair at Chicago for one week. This wonderful exhibition opens June 1, 1933, and closes Nov. 1, 1933. The trip will be made some time in July, the date to be announced later. Any one is eligible. It costs nothing to enroll. There is no age limit.

The trading area of Aurora has been divided into 8 districts, one winner for each district, except Aurora, which has three winners. All you have to do is trade in Aurora with the 45 merchants listed below, and get your friends and neighbors to do likewise.

Read the advertisement on another page of this issue, then go to your favorite merchant, ask for an enrollment coupon, and get in the contest. Look also for the list of districts in last week's paper, into which the trading territory of Aurora has been divided and then enroll accordingly.

These 46 merchants listed below can fill your every need. Their goods are dependable, the price right, and they can supply whatever you may wish to purchase, as they have a complete line of goods at your disposal. It's easy to ask for votes when you once get started. And just think the enrollment coupon entitles you to 10,000 votes, a good beginning. Watch for the window cards in the stores, which herald the glad news of giving votes for World's Fair tour, then go in and buy, and be sure to ask for your votes. If you are fortunate enough to win you will have nothing to do but enjoy this wonderful trip.

It will be worth a college education to you with no expense attached. Here are some of the interesting attractions that will be on exhibition at the World's Fair at Chicago: Field Museum, Shedd Aquarium, Electrical building, States group, and General exhibits group. Survivors have already started building the World's Fair "Skyride" to be Chicago's tallest structure. This will consist of two great towers 620 feet in the air, and 2,000 feet apart with passenger carrying rocket cars to carry visitors thru the air from one tower to the other. People are already thronging thru the gates, the attendance totaling 45,000 on a recent Sunday, the largest number ever before in a single day of an international exposition prior to its opening. The travel and transport building will house the Stephenson's rocket, the first locomotive now in the British Museum, the first Pullman car and many other historic relics. Many of the exhibits will display a century of progress in their particular lines of industry.

These are just a few of the innumerable sights you will see if you win one of the World's Fair trips. Do you want to go? Then get chance in Aurora of these 46 busy, enroll today, buy your merchandise, and you may win. The list of contestants is announced in this issue. You may be one of the fortunate ones. It is not too late to enter. Any one has a good chance to get the highest number of votes in their district if they try. The contests runs 6 months, closing Saturday April 1, 1933.

Deaths

HERMAN PLACKE

Herman Placke, aged 68 years, passed away early Saturday morning at his home 19 May St., Elmore, Ky., after a long illness. Funeral services were conducted at the Graves Ave., Christian church, of which he was a member, Monday at 2:30 o'clock by the Rev. R. C. McCord, pastor, after which he was laid to rest in Highland cemetery.

Mr. Placke was one of the pioneer residents of Elmore, having been in the bakery business for 36 years until ill health forced him to retire. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth Placke, and one brother and a host of friends.

The pall-bearers were: Arthur, Willie and Fred Placke, Will Ward, Chas. Flood and John Ward. Funeral Director Philip Tallaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

SAMUEL BOYERS

Samuel Boyers, a former resident of Florence, passed away last week at the Kentucky State Asylum at Lakeland. Services and interment took place at that city. He is survived by a number of relatives in Boone county.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. NANNIE POPE KITE

Mrs. Nannie Pope Kite passed away at her home near Waterloo last Saturday, October 1, following a brief illness.

She was born June 4, 1887, and was 45 years, three months and 27 days of age at death.

She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Pope, who lived in the Middle Creek neighborhood for a great many years.

She leaves to mourn her passing her husband, W. G. Kite, one daughter, Mrs. O. W. Purdy, one sister, Mrs. Irvin Hood, of Constance, and two brothers, Vernon and Furnish Pope, of Burlington.

She was a faithful member of the Bellevue Christian church. A short funeral service was held at her home Tuesday afternoon, after which the remains were interred on the family lot in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at Burlington. Rev. Brewster, pastor of the Bellevue Christian church conducted the funeral services. The burial arrangements were in charge of C. Scott Chambers, of Walton.

Mrs. Lavina Kirkpatrick is spending a few days with relatives in Milan, Indiana.

The Burlington B. Y. P. U. entertained its members with a chicken soup last Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Susie Stephens and family. It was said that approximately 25 members attended the party.

Mrs. D. V. Reese, of Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, spent several days last week with Mrs. Lavina Kirkpatrick.

J. Estlin Snyder, of the Bullittsville neighborhood, was a Burlington visitor Wednesday morning. He was searching for hogs.

WRECK ON CONSTANCE HILL
Early Sunday morning a car turned over a steep embankment on the Constance hill on the State Highway and was abandoned by the party or parties operating it.

Probably soon after the wreck a phone call was received at the garage of Earl Aylor, at Hebron, asking for a tow-in. Mr. Aylor took his wrecker to the scene and found the car, but found no owner. However, he towed the car to his garage for safe keeping. The next morning a man and a woman appeared at the garage and claimed the car.

The car bore an Ohio license, but upon investigation it was found that the license number had been issued to another make of car.

The wrecked car was a new Ford '28 coupe.

BAPTISMAL SERVICES

Eleven new members of the Bellevue Baptist church were baptized in the Ohio river at that place last Sunday afternoon. They united with the church at the recent revival services held there by Rev. Eassey. The baptismal services were held near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cad Berkshire.

Feed and Supply Co., Elmer Thiemann, Teaney Grocery, Wm. A. Ullrich, of Vigan, Variety Store, Vinup's Store, Ward Garage, Zeh Grocery and Riverside Service Station.

WALTON LADY

JUMPS INTO RIVER FROM THE SOUTHERN R. R. BRIDGE AT LUDLOW—REPORTED TO BE IN SERIOUS CONDITION AT GENERAL HOSPITAL IN CINCINNATI—DEPENDENT OVER HER HEALTH

Mrs. Cecily Lilly, age 44, of Walton, was reported to be in a serious condition the first of the week in the General Hospital, Cincinnati, where she was suffering from injuries she sustained when she leaped from the Southern railroad bridge over the Ohio river at Cincinnati.

Mrs. Lilly and her husband, G. C. Lilly, were visiting at the home of Mrs. Lilly's sister, Mrs. Anna Rohan, of 511 W. Linden St., Ludlow.

Thursday they went to Cincinnati, where they intended to take Mrs. Lilly to a specialist for treatment for a nervous breakdown. While in a downtown hotel Mrs. Lilly slipped away from her husband and she next was heard from when two men were building a houseboat on the river, reported that they had seen a woman leap from the bridge and that they had rescued her in a row boat.

Mrs. Lilly had struck the surface of the river face downward and had suffered a crushed chest and general shock of a serious nature. She was revived by the Cincinnati police before being removed to the hospital.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS REPORT WITH RECORDS

All Boone county 4-H Community Clubs will meet during the next two weeks according to County Agent H. R. Forkner. All members will turn in complete records on their project work that has been conducted during the year.

There are approximately 275 4-H club members carrying on project work this year. Each member who completes his project will count 1,000 points for his club on the Banks of Boone County Trophy.

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Berkshire, of Petersburg, spent the week-end at the home of their son, R. E. Berkshire and family.

Ben Zimmer, of Ft. Mitchell, was shaking hands with friends in Burlington last Thursday afternoon.

CLUB COW

MAKES SPLENDID RECORD FOR PRODUCTION OF BUTTERFAT—CARROLL RICE EXPERIENCES GOOD YEAR IN STATE WIDE CONTEST—OTHER BOONE CO. CLUB MEMBERS IN CONTESTS

Janeta Raleigh's Jolly No. 687815, a registered 4-H Club cow owned by Carroll C. Rice of Burlington Blue Ribbon 4-H Community Club completed her six months State Butter Fat Production record last Saturday with 4410.9 pounds of milk and 2703 pounds of fat with an average test of 6.15 per cent fat. Daily milk production records since last April 1st has been kept and butter fat tests made once each month under the supervision of county agent H. R. Forkner.

This is Carroll's third year in the State Butter Fat Production Contest and his cow has each year finished with a good record. The cow during the six months period was fed 1537 pounds of home mixed balanced grain ration composed of 2 parts of ground corn, 2 parts bran and 1 part cottonseed meal which cost an average of 70c per one hundred pounds or a total of $10.75. The total hay, grain and pasture cost for the period was $28.10. The milk was sold for $79.40 leaving a profit above feed cost of $51.30.

The above record is a good showing of what a good purebred cow will do when given proper care and management. The average state production for an entire year is 2850 pounds of milk and 125 pounds of fat while a recent survey in Boone county indicates that the average production for an entire year is 4995 pounds of milk and approximately 200 pounds of butter fat.

There are a number of other Boone county 4-H calf club members whose club heifers have grown into cows and are now keeping complete cost of production records. This work will help lead the way for more efficient milk production in the county.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKING

The Hon. Thornton A. Green, of Ontonagon, Michigan, will speak at Burlington on Wednesday night, October 12th, at 7:00 P. M. Mr. Green is said to be very fine orator and especially well informed on agricultural problems. Everyone is cordially invited to hear him. Don't forget the date and the hour.

The Spice In Sport

by Bill Leach

If a certain venerable old man of about 65 years, with thatch of snow-white hair concealed beneath a slouch hat, should happen to have the seat next to you at a major league ball game, don't tell him that he'll get his chin dirty if he persists in clinging to the front rail like an amateur detective. That man is the one and only Kenesaw Mountain Landis, Lord High Executioner, High Commissioner of base ball.

If base ball or any other sport possesses a more notable figure than Kenesaw Mountain Landis, I haven't the slightest idea who he is, nor do I care. Landis is a particular phenomena that defies duplication. His position in base ball is analogous to that of the U. S. Supreme Court—his is the last word in every base ball controversy.

Did I say anything about that chin hanging on the front railing? That's Landis' own trademark and will distinguish him from any other fan in the world when everybody has white hair and sports a slouch hat, which we hope is never. Landis sees a lot of ball games, but never fails to sneak up on the nearest railing or concrete retaining wall, cup his chin in his hands, pulls down that dilapidated hat over his eyes and proceeds to watch the game with all the absorption of an Einstein.

Landis, at 65, is one of America's most successful men. Oddly enough, he didn't win that reputation in base ball. In fact, until 1920 when he was appointed Chief Mogul, he had never taken any interest in the pastime, had seen few games and knew absolutely about the problems of organized base ball. He was a very successful Federal Judge in Chicago, had previously built up a thriving law practice in that city.

In 1919 came the White Sox scandal that threatened to disrupt base ball for once and for all. In the World Series of that year between the Chicago club and the Cincinnati Reds, several Sox players were guilty of "throwing" games. The official ruling body of base ball at that time was composed of three men, Ben Johnson, President of the American League, John Heydler, President of the National League, and Garry Herman, owner of the Cincinnati Reds and chairman of the National Base Ball Commission, as the ruling body was called. These men cleaned up the scandal in short order, banished the offending players from base ball and restored public confidence in the game.

A new deal was in order, however, and the Commission suggested to the member clubs in both leagues that the control of organized ball be vested in single person standing in its stead. The man needed to fill the post, Landis, still on the Federal bench, was invited to take the job. He accepted and was unanimously elected by the club owners. Complete and absolute authority to settle disputes was vested in his office. His salary was placed at $85,000 a year, the term of office to run 7 years.

In 1927 the first 7-year term was up and Landis was re-elected for another seven years at the same salary. Since 1920, Landis has earned nearly $800,000 in the capacity of High Commissioner of Base Ball. There isn't a base ball man in the country who won't tell you that his Honor isn't worth every cent of it. Landis not only brought dignity and great ability to base ball's judicial office, but also a personality and popularity to match.

After 12 years as Commissioner (Continued on Page 4)

Local News

A. L. Nichols and family, Earl Sullivan and family, Rue Wingate and family, Mrs. Mollie Clore, of Cincinnati, and Miss Josie Rich, of Cincinnati, spent Sunday with Jack Warren and family at Hamilton, Ohio.

Edward Clements, son of Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Clements, has returned to Danville, Kentucky, where he has re-entered college. He spent the entire summer with his parents.

The Board of Trustees of the I. O. O. F. cemetery has ordered the erection of a new iron fence along the entire front of the cemetery east of town on the Florence pike. The fence is to be seven feet high with white brick posts guarding either side of the entrance. The old plank fence was sold last week to John Ryle. This is a much needed improvement and one in which both the lodge and the entire community can take a keen pride.

Mr. and Mrs. Urban Wohoff, of Price Hill, Cincinnati, spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siskman, of the Petersburg pike.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Greenup spent Saturday and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Allison, of West Covington. The Allisons were former citizens of Burlington.

Last Friday afternoon found the Burlington bridge club at the home of Mrs. D. R. Blythe. First honors were taken by Mrs. C. L. Cropper and second by Mrs. George A. Porter.

RUN INTO WARRANTS

A warrant was issued by Judge N. E. Riddle one day last week for the arrest of 3 men whose names were given as Fred Hayden, Jack Brennan and David Coleman. The affidavit for the warrant was made by Mrs. Emma Myers, who operates a camp near Constance.

Mrs. Myers in her affidavit accused the three men of stealing property from her valued at eighty dollars. The property she named as a radio, shot gun, and some bed clothing.

Sheriff Herbert Snyder took the warrant to a Cincinnati address and found Hayden. The other two men were not at the address given and the sheriff returned to Burlington with Hayden. For some unexplained reason the other two men, having learned of the arrest of Hayden, followed the sheriff and his prisoner to Burlington. After a careful search they found both in the sheriff's office, where they ran into the two warrants for their arrest.

They were lodged in jail here pending the execution of bond that was fixed at two hundred dollars each.

HUGHES CHAPEL WINS

Hughes Chapel defeated Elsmere Saturday in a post-season thriller, by a score of 8 to 7. With the exception of a stormy eighth inning, in which Elsmere made five runs, after which Elsmere pitched another of his good games and added materially with three hits including a double and a triple. These five runs, however, made the score 7 to 6 in Elsmere's favor, so it was necessary for the Hughes Chapel boys to stage a ninth inning rally, which they did to perfection. With two out and the bases filled, Wayne Brown drove a ringing single over second base, changing an apparent defeat into a welcome victory. The highlights of the game were the third base play of Joe Cahill, for Elsmere, and a backhanded stop of a hard hit grounder by Marvin Atterkirk that were real big league stuff.

On Saturday night, in appreciation of their fine work throughout the season and the winning of the championship, the Hughes Chapel team and their followers were treated to an elegant oyster supper at the "Wayside Plaza" by Mr. and Mrs. Jack. The gathering was honored by the presence of Rev. Bradley, of Hughes Chapel, and Rev. Johnson, of Big Bone, both of whom are ardent ball fans and typical exponents of true sportsmanship. To sum it up in a few words, a most delightful evening was spent by all who were present.

Next Saturday afternoon at 3:00 p. m., (fast time) Hughes Chapel and Florence will meet on the battlefield at New Haven. The Florence team has been strengthened considerably, winning its last 3 games, so a real battle can be expected.

HOG RAISERS

WARNED TO WATCH FOR CHOLERA AS TIME OF YEAR HAS ARRIVED WHEN DREAD DISEASE OF SWINE IS PREVALENT—PRECAUTIONARY MEASURES ARE CITED

The possibility of hog cholera at this time of year brings a warning from the department of animal pathology at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. Herds should be watched and any pig showing indications of sickness should be separated from the rest of the hogs and watched for developments.

Refusal to eat, fever, general weakness, constipation or diarrhea are cholera symptoms. They may be accompanied by a reddish discoloration of the skin on the belly, ears and snout. The sick animal may die quickly or it may linger.

Since a positive diagnosis cannot be made by simply observing the animal, a post-mortem should be made as soon as the animal dies and the organs examined for the lesions of cholera. In a large herd it is often advisable to kill a sick hog for examination. It is important to know the cause of the first death in the herd, as one animal often sickens and dies some days before the herd as a whole shows evidence of sickness.

Burn or bury deeply all pigs that die, regardless of the cause of death. All pigs purchased and brought on the farm should be kept under close observation, in separate quarters, for at least three weeks.

BULL ASSOCIATION COMPLETES BLOCK

Boone County Bull Association Block No. 1 on Monday of this week completed the first block of the association with the purchase of three fine young bulls out of imported tested dams and sired by Primate of Oakland No. 294844, one of the leading bulls of the Jersey breed. The bulls were purchased from Wegman Hill Farm of Hamilton, Ohio following an inspection trip by the purchasing committee last Tuesday week.

The above bulls were purchased after an extensive tour of leading Kentucky and Ohio herds. Their first two years service will be spent in the herds of Robert Youell of near Hebron, Robt. Chambers of near Walton and T. W. Rice of near Burlington. They will be used in connection with the herd bulls previously purchased for the herds of O. R. Russ of near Limburg and Ben Nitching of Beaver.

While the association has attempted to secure herd sires from the best in production and type blood lines the real value of the association will be to find and multiply the blood of those animals that increase the production of their daughters over their dams and eliminate those animals that do not bring the desired improvement. This plan offers the most valuable program for the improvement of Boone county herds.

There will be a series of meetings held at Hopewell Lutheran church beginning October 9th, and lasting through Oct. 23. The subjects of the sermons to be preached the first week are as follows:

Sunday Oct. 9th at 11 a. m. "Reddiging Wells."
Monday Oct. 10 at 7:30 p. m. "God—The Beginning."
Tuesday Oct. 11 at 7:30 p. m. "Practical Faith."
Wednesday Oct. 12 7:30 p. m. "Wages Must Be Cut."
Thursday Oct. 13 7:30 p. m. "Is Forgiveness Possible."
Friday Oct. 14 7:30 p. m. "Useless Christianity."
Saturday Oct. 15, 7:30 p. m. "Depression Causes."

The public is cordially invited to join with us in these services. Rev. Haas will preach at all the services.

Bob and Gene's team turned back the Harvest Home club for the second time last Sunday after a very close and exciting game. The final score was 4-3. Braun and Shearer formed the H. H. battery with Ellis and Ray in the points for the victors. Next Sunday the crack Rosedale team will play Bob and Gene's club at Elsmere. It was reported early in the week that the Mayville team will come to Elsmere, but that club reported they would be unable to come.

W. W. Green presented the office force at the Recorder with a fine assortment of permissions one morning this week. Oh, yes, they were ripe.

DEBTS GREATER ON CASH CROP FARMS

That cash crop farmers in Kentucky are more heavily in debt than livestock farmers is indicated in a study made at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky of the amounts, uses, costs and terms of credit on 600 farms selected in four sections of the state, representing different types of farming.

An effort was made to discover the influence of such factors as size of farm type of farming and farm organization upon credit problems of farmers. Among several significant conclusions reached by the investigators appears the following:

"Farms whose chief source of income was from crops were more heavily indebted than farms where the chief reliance was on livestock. Mortgage indebtedness was found to be relatively greater on farms specializing in cash crops, whereas short-term credit was relatively more important on farms with much livestock."

Other observations were: "The rate at which mortgage indebtedness was retired on this group of farms was approximately equal to the rate of amortization of the federal land banks."

"The average age of farmers was only slightly greater for those who operated non-mortgaged farms than those who had farms that were mortgaged, but the average tenure of the former was 24 years compared with 12 years for the latter."

COUNTY AGENT SEES NEED OF MORE STOCK

Allen county farmers who are making money from livestock are being used by County Agent J. H. Atkinson to demonstrate livestock raising possibilities in that county. He recently told the Scottsville Rotary club of his plans to enhance farm returns by developing the livestock capacity of the county.

Following presentation of figures which indicated that prices of fat cattle, hogs, sheep, butter and eggs are relatively higher than prices of cash crops, Mr. Atkinson asked stances of local farmers who are demonstrating that there is money in livestock, even at present prices.

One farmer has been receiving $30 to $40 each for calves 6 months to a year old, these prices returning profits when the calves were raised on home-produced feeds.

A dairy farmer in the county cleared $600 last year and expects to make even more this year. Another man raised top hogs in five months and made his corn bring $4 a barrel by feeding it instead of selling it as a cash crop.

A poultry raiser reported a profit of 50 cents a day from a small flock of good hens. A sheep man received $4.50 to $7 per ewe for wool and lambs.

Largely through Mr. Atkinson's influence 100 farmers limed their land to make it grow better hay and pasture; 100 farmers sowed alfalfa, and 500 farmers sowed Korean lespedeza. In one part of the county where alfalfa does not grow well, 300 farmers grew cowpeas this year. With the increase in legume and other feed crops Mr. Atkinson hopes to see a gradual development of livestock raising.

CORN YIELDS DEPEND ON SIZE OF PLANTS

Two stalks to the hill of large-growing varieties and three stalks of the smaller varieties are probably the best yielding planting rates, studies made at the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky indicate.

From a large growing variety, such as Boone County White, the largest yield is likely to be obtained with two stalks per hill, whereas with the smaller varieties allowing three stalks per hill, or its equivalent in drilled corn, often gives the best results. Yields among several early varieties tested last year were strictly in favor of the three-stalk hill as compared with the two-stalk hill.

Jefferson county farmers cut two tons to the acre of choice Korean lespedeza hay.

Five Hardin county women poultry raisers made a tour of Grayson county poultry farms.

KENTUCKY FARM RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of W-H-A-S the week of October 10. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

October 10—Jim and Mr. White in tips from the cow tester.

October 11—Preparing tobacco for market, R. A. Hunt.

Saving fuel in heating your home J. B. Kelley.

October 12—Better farm planning Z. L. Galloway.

Starting a purebred sheep flock, R. C. Miller.

October 13—Timely chats with the fruit growers, C. O. Eddy.

Fall versus spring planting of fruit growers C. S. Waltman.

October 14—What farm folks are asking, L. C. Brewer.

POULTRY RAISING PROSPECTS GOOD

Farmers who take good care of their poultry will be comparatively well-rewarded during the coming months, in the opinion of J. E. Humphrey of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. He expects feed prices to continue low, while eggs already have advanced in price and should make further gains when winter comes.

There are many good poultry feeds on the market. Many farmers have materials on their farms to make a home-made ration. When milk is available to the extent of about four gallons daily per 100 hens, good egg production can be obtained without feeding a laying mash. Grain, milk and oyster shell make a balanced ration.

Where there is no milk, Mr. Humphrey recommends feeding a grain mixture of 50 pounds each of yellow corn and wheat, and a dry mash made up of 30 pounds of bran and shorts, 20 pounds of yellow corn meal, 20 pounds of high-grade 60 per cent protein tankage or meat scrap and a pound of salt. Mix the dry mash well and keep in a hopper before the hens. The grain may be fed in a hopper or put in the litter at night and morning.

Mr. Humphrey urges that all non-layers be culled from flocks and the prospective layers be given good care.

A committee of farmers has been named to further interest in sheep raising in Wayne county.

Farm Bureau members in Clark county cooperated in the purchase of a carload of seed rice.

Cowpeas, red clover, redtop and orchard grass will be threshed for seed in Taylor county.

KOREAN LESPEDEZA FAVORITE IN STATE

Korean lespedeza is in a large measure meeting the need in Kentucky for a hay and pasture legume that can be grown under varied soil conditions with more success than is attained with red clover and alfalfa, says Ralph Kenney in a new circular of the College of Agriculture. Korean lespedeza is succeeding in every part of the state and has become a favorite for pasture or hay.

Approximately 1,000,000 pounds of Korean lespedeza seed were sown in Kentucky last year. In 1928, 1929 and 1930 Kentucky produced as much Korean seed as all other states combined.

Mr. Kenney deals with all phases of growing Korean lespedeza, including its use for pasture, for hay and for seed production. Farmers interested in this new hay and pasture crop should ask county agents or write to the College for a copy of circular No. 258, "Korean Lespedeza."

GUNPOWDER

Mr. Wad Daughters and family and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Lindner, of Cincinnati, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Utz last Sunday.

This scribe and wife, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Paddock spent last Sunday very pleasantly at the home of Mrs. Bell Quick at Hebron.

Mr. and Mrs. James Pettit attended church at Big Bone last Sunday.

The work of filling silos is about completed in this neck of the woods.

Cutting corn is the order of the day and a heavy crop is being harvested.

Rev. Crume has added greatly to the appearance of his filling station by planting quite a variety of evergreens.

BULLITTSTVILLE

Miss Jennie Lee Masters spent the week-end with relatives in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Theo. F. Birkle spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gibbs at Petersburg.

Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Marshall were calling on W. G. Kite Sunday.

Don't forget the all day meeting at the Bullittsville Christian church Sunday October 8th.

A series of meetings will start at the church October 8th and last a period of 10 days. Services to start at 8 o'clock (fast time).

Mrs. Ida Watts was calling on Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Rouse of Hebron, one day last week.

PETERSBURG

Rev. Dunaway, Stanley R. Smith and Earl Acra motored thru Central Ky., last week visiting point of interest and attended the B. Y. P. U. meeting at —.

They enjoyed the trip and feel they gained much from the conference.

A series of meetings will begin at the Baptist church here Monday October 10. The pastor will be assisted by Rev. Roy Johnson, pastor at Big Bone. The community is invited to come and help make this meeting one of the best ever held here.

Mrs. G. C. Stott, Mrs. C. T. Davis, and Miss Mel Stephens attended the Farmers Fair at Aurora Saturday.

Limited Appreciation

A small girl in the north end received from her grandmother in Cleveland, the other day, a pin cushion for a birthday gift. The gift didn't evoke great rejoicing but the child's parents insisted that a letter of thanks be sent to grandma. Suitable expressions of gratitude were suggested. As finally written the letter read: "Dear Grandma—I thank you very much for the nice pin cushion. It was just what I needed, but not very much."—Detroit Free Press.

Curtain of Nature

In the Manti National forest of Utah there are to be found huge spheres of stone which have been formed naturally in some unaccountable manner. The spheres are perfectly round and are as regular as if they had been turned in a big lathe.

Trout in Abundance

It is estimated the 250 Rocky mountain lakes and streams of Glacier National park contain the densest trout population of any area on the continent. In twenty years the government has stocked more than 50,000,000 fingerlings of all varieties.

Signifies Illegitimacy

The term "bar sinister" is derived from a heraldry term, "baton sinister," and signifies illegitimate birth.

How Is Business?

This question is often asked these days and we find that 90% of the people asked will agree that considerable change for the better is taking place.

Factories and Mills are now purchasing raw materials before a rise in price occurs.

We note many changes for the better in financial conditions.

A complete return to normal times can not come over night. The gradual improvement in business is not observed usually until a wide comparison can be noted.

Height of Goliath

The Hebrew cubit being equal to 17.58 inches, and a man 6.75 inches, Goliath was nine feet six inches tall.

Human Failing

We are always striving for things forbidden, and coveting those denied us—Ovid.

Oyster Fisheries

The oyster is found in every sea-coast state in the country, and is commercially fished in all these states except Maine and New Hampshire.

Gave Name to Vinea

The vinstaria vine is named after Caspar Wistar (1761-1813), an American anatomist.

Sea's "Underdog"

The coast and goodie "surfer" says while it has not studied the matter, the existence of the phenomenon known as underdog is generally recognized by competent authorities on the subject of waves.—Washington Star.

World's Forest Area

The present forest area of the world, in round figures, is about 7,500,000,000 acres, which is 22 per cent of the total land area, exclusive of the polar regions. The area of actually productive forest, however, is probably one-fourth less than this amount, or 5,625,000,000 acres, which is 16 per cent of the land area.

Panama Canal's Length

The Panama canal is 40.27 statute miles from shore line to shore line and about 50 statute miles from deep water in the Atlantic to deep water in the Pacific.

Training Carrier Pigeons

Carrier pigeons must be trained in each new locality for a period of from three or four days to two weeks. Therefore, when an army is on the move, carrier pigeons cannot be used.

Morning Stars

This popular and poetic name "morning star" is given to the planets Jupiter, Mars, Saturn, and Venus, when one of them rises shortly before the sun and is a conspicuous object in the sky before dawn.

Early Peace Societies

The first peace society of the world was founded by David Low Dodge of the United States, 1815. The Massachusetts Peace Society was founded the same year and the American Peace society by William Ladd in 1828.

HOLY SUNLIGHT MISSION

The Gospel Mission in Commerce known as "The Holy Sunlight Mission" wishes to announce several changes in the work.

At the invitation of the former pastor Rev. Joe Millson and the Mission Board, Rev. Floyd Hitchcock has consented to become pastor of the work.

Rev. Hitchcock was for six years a Missionary worker in Korea, Japan, Formosa, the Leo Choo Islands and the borders of China under the Board of the Oriental Missionary Society.

Rev. Hitchcock is not a stranger to the people of Constance, having preached at the Mission at different times during recent months.

Only recently he closed a three week's revival at the Mission that was well attended and several souls were saved.

In view of the changes now taking place in the work of the Mission Rev. Millson and the former board have resigned in order that a complete re-organization of the work may be effected. A new board will be elected some time in the near future.

Mr. Hitchcock wishes to correct the mistaken impression that has gone forth that this is a "Holy Roller Mission." Some very unfortunate things may have happened in the past that have been the cause of such a report. This is to be regretted and we do hope that henceforth there shall be no occasion for such a report to go forth.

We firmly believe in all things being done "in decency and in order," and when we meet in the Lord's House to worship and to study His word we ought always to be very careful of our conduct.

Remember we are not a "Holy Roller Mission." It is a Gospel Mission for everybody. We believe in the whole Bible and Mr. Hitchcock preaches a plain, straightforward Gospel that is true to the word of God.

His messages are deeply spiritual and instructive. We are seeking only to do good and to see the salvation of men.

The building has recently been painted on the inside and is now a clean and attractive place in which to worship. It is planned to paint the building on the outside, also to make other improvements.

The order of the services at present are as follows:

Preaching service every Sunday night at 7:30. Sunday school every Sunday at 2:30. Every Thursday night preaching or Bible Study at 7:30. All are welcome and most cordially invited to attend the services of the Mission.

Miss Helen Ruth Gaines left last Tuesday for Winter Park, Florida, where she will enter Rollins University. She has been spending the summer months with her parents at their summer home on the Petersburg pike.

Judge Sidney Gaines, Walton attorney, was a Burlington visitor on last Thursday afternoon.

Tax Commissioner J. S. Cason B. H. Berkshire, of Petersburg, W. F. Grant, of Florence, and R. E. Berkshire attended the opening of the Democratic campaign at Cynthian last Saturday.

CAPONIZING DEMONSTRATION

Two caponizing demonstrations were held last Wednesday, Sept. 29 at the farms of James A. Huey and Mr. Dressman of near Union. Twenty capons were made in the two demonstrations.

Caponis should be more profitable this year than usual due to the relative low price of young poultry and of feed.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hewitt, of Saylor Park, Ohio, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slekman.

OPERATOR IS ILL

The RECORDER is one day late due to the fact that Howard Kirkpatrick, our Linotype operator, has been ill this week. The editor has thus been forced to act in that capacity and whatever he has not lacked in speed he has lacked in most every other way. We apologize for the tardiness.

Nomenclature

A very considerable number of names arise from the animal world. Examples are: Fallock, Bull, Lamb, Kid, Colt, Badger, Hogue, Hare and Wolfe. In several of these the old spelling is still preserved.

Moving Qualities

There are few mortals so insensible that their affections cannot be gained by mildness, their confidence by sincerity, their hatred by scorn or neglect.—Zimmerman.

THE SPICE IN SPORT

Landis loves base ball and never misses an opportunity to see a game. He travels around the major circuits a good deal, keeps in contact with base ball affairs, from out petty squabbles between clubs and players as he goes. When he is at home in Chicago, you can find him in the White Sox park or at Wrigley Field nearly every day, still planning that clinch on a falling.

Landis travels quietly, sometimes slipping into town without local owners knowing a thing about it. He did that at Pittsburgh a few weeks ago when he investigated the alleged gambling among the Chicago Cubs. He is a great story teller and a grand entertainer. Quarrels between club owners and players never stand a chance under Landis' legal fire and sparkling wit. If he can't blast a stubborn associate out of his position with logic, he'll laugh him out of it.

Kenneth Mountain Landis is a man among men in base ball; and while you're keeping track of Jimmy Fox's home runs, or Dizzy Dean's pitching, or the Chicago Cubs' pennant race, watch His Honor hold the boys in line. Gentlemen, it's an art!

SCHOOL NOTES.

BURLINGTON HI SCHOOL NOTES

We take great pleasure at this time in expressing our sincere appreciation to everyone that helped us in any way with our "Hen Drive" we had last week. We hope that everyone that gave a hen or money gave it willingly. There was $9.16 in money taken in. This was given by those who wanted to help in some way, and probably did not value the chickens, or rather give the value of a hen. The chickens were sent to market Friday and the results from the fowl family was $19.58, making a total of $28.74 taken in. Magazines and other reading material has been ordered by Prof. Kirkwood. The pupils from the first grade to the twelfth will share in this splendid donation, as the pupils from each grade assisted. Again thanking you for your cooperation and school spirit.

The Democracy class which is taught by Prof. Lamb, sponsored some very interesting debates last week. The questions were: Resolved, "That Moving Pictures are Harmful to Education" and, "That the Federal Government should have a part in Education." The first being won by the negative and the latter being won by the affirmative. Mr. Lamb feels as though he has some real material for a debating team and he hopes to enter the debating contest of the State.

The Juniors have started selling candy. The profit which is made will be used for school purposes, such as buying books for our library, etc.

Last Friday the teachers of the six lower grades had charge of the Chapel program. Each teacher contributed a musical number from their room. Each week a Chapel program will be given on Friday afternoon. The high school having it one Friday afternoon and the grades the next. Friday October 7 the Seniors will sponsor the program under the direction of their home room teacher, Mr. Lamb. Every one is cordially invited and we hope you come and let us show you what our school is doing.

Prof. and Mrs. Kirkwood, Mr. C. G. Lamb and Mrs. C. G. Lamb attended the county teacher's meeting which was held at Florence last Saturday. Prof. Kirkwood was on the program in the high school department.

HEBRON SCHOOL NOTES

When we all went back to school Monday who should be there but our old friend Miss Willis, Boone County Nurse. As usual she had a broad smile and was ready for her work. She is teaching the Hi School girls about Home Hygiene and Better Health. She has informed us that we will have several demonstrations this semester. She will have charge of this course until Christmas.

The Girl Reserve Club held its meeting Friday Sept. 30th. Last year's members gave a very interesting and worth while play. During the meeting the president Bessie Jones, stated that we had been asked by Miss Sleet, of the New Haven school next Friday October 7th, and give a program. The matter was placed before the club. There were a few things said and we finally consented to go and do our best. Here's hoping our trip proves worth while.

MARY JANE PLUMMER, Publicity Chairman.

All members and friends are urged to be present at the meeting of the New Haven Local of the Farmers Alliance Friday night Oct. 7, at New Haven school house at 7 o'clock.

OBITUARY

Mrs. W. G. Kite (nee Nannie Pope) beloved wife of W. G. Kite of Waterloo, passed away at her home Saturday night October 1, 1932.

Mrs. Kite was born June 4, 1887, and died at the age of 45 years, 3 months and 27 days. She is survived by her husband W. G. Kite, her mother Mrs. Ryle, a daughter and son-in-law Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Purdy, a grandson all of Waterloo, a sister Mrs. Irwin Hood, of Constance, Ky., two brothers Vernon and Furnish Pope, of Burlington, Ky. two nieces, two nephews besides a host of other relatives and friends.

Mrs. Kite was a faithful member of the Christian church at Grant, Ky. for over twenty years, also took a great interest in other church activities.

Since early spring she has suffered greatly from ill health. Sometime in August she was removed to St. Elizabeth hospital in Covington, Ky., but her condition did not improve so she came back home.

Mrs. Kite was a great lover of her home and a tireless worker trying always to make its surroundings more attractive and homelike.

Much of her time was spent in planting and caring for flowers as anyone can readily see by the great variety of plants around her home. She will be greatly missed by all who knew her and the sympathy of all her friends is extended to the entire family in their sorrow.

No one can fill the great loss in this family. Each one asks the other "Why did this happen?" the answer can only be that "God knows best and each sad heart will become gladdened at the thought of the Happy Reunion there will be when we all meet in Heaven.

State Game Warden Edwin M. Johnson announces that a moving picture of wild life in Kentucky will be shown at the court house here on Friday night, October 7th. The presentation will follow the church services at the Baptist church and is said to be very interesting. The show will be free attraction presented by the State Game and Fish Commission.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Aylor were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Aylor, of Florence. Among other guests very pleasantly and enjoyably entertained there that day were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Poston and family, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Tanner, Mrs. Hattie Aylor, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tanner, J. B. Surface and Miss Velma Phillips. It was the birthday anniversary of the host.

Mr. and Mrs. George Blythe received news the first of the week of the approaching marriage of their granddaughter, Miss Laura Baldon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Baldon, to Mr. Charles Dennis, of Raton, New Mexico. The home of Mr. and Mrs. Craig Baldon, at Woodmen, Colorado, will be the scene of the wedding. The Recorder joins the numerous Boone county friends of this young lady in extending to her their very best wishes and congratulations.

Attorneys who were in the county seat on business county court day were John L. Vest and son, Walter Vest, of Walton, W. H. Rucker, of Cincinnati, C. A. Schroetter, of Covington and Chas. W. Riley, of Hebron.

The Henry Lewis Tanner homestead, which was sold at auction last Saturday was purchased by Mr. Schindler, of Walton rural route 8, at the reported price of $44.50 per acre. The farm contained 102 acres and was located in the Hopeful neighborhood.

United States Marshall J. H. Hammond, who was so seriously injured in an automobile accident the early part of August was returned to his home in Erlanger Monday, from St. Elizabeth hospital, in the Talliaferro Invalid Car.

COMMUNITY FAIR

TO BE HELD AT HAMILTON THIS YEAR—SECOND ANNUAL EXHIBITION OF LIKE NATURE—NO MONEY IS OFFERED FOR PREMIUMS—SPECIAL 4-H CLUB SHOW ALSO ON PROGRAM

The second annual community fair will be held at Hamilton this year according to a recent announcement made by leading farmers and others interested in this event. The tentative date for the fair has been set for the early part of November.

The fair last year, while small was represented with good community exhibits and attendance of patrons. No money will be offered but first, second and third premium ribbons will be awarded the best exhibits. A special community 4-H Club show will be held in connection with the fair and a program of entertainment will be rendered by the school.

This event is being looked forward to with pride by the community as a place to display the best that has been grown and produced this year and as a place for a friendly gathering of the patrons of the community.

Ora B. Presser, Publicity Chairman.

Rev. W. M. Smith, pastor of the Warsaw Baptist Church, recently closed a revival there with splendid success. During the past six years the Warsaw church has made rapid progress under the leadership of Rev. Smith. Many converts have been received into the church membership, while the attendance of the Bible school has been doubled. Rev. Smith is a brother of J. G. Smith, of Burlington.

The series of services being held by the Hopeful-Ebenezer congregation will hear the following sermons preached during its second week of meetings.

Sunday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 p. m., "Mitzaru, Kikartzu and Matzaru," Monday at 7:30 p. m., "What Lutherans Believe," Tuesday at 7:30 p. m., "I Shall Not Want," Wednesday at 7:30 p. m., "Buckcloth and Ashes," Thursday at 7:30 p. m., "Churchians and Christians," Friday at 7:30 p. m., "The Light That Failed," Saturday at 7:30 p. m., "Everlasting Life."

Rally Day at the Sunday School hour, 10 a. m. Home coming at the church hour, 11 a. m. Sermon, "Dwelling Together in Unity." All are invited to bring their basket lunch to enjoy the noon hour together as a church family.

Rev. and Mrs. Harlow Haas had as their guests over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Haas of Richmond, Ind.

HOOD-FOOLE

Miss Dorothy Jean Hood, oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hood of Ludlow, and Mr. Ray Gordon Poole, only son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Poole of Saylor Park, Cincinnati, were married last Wednesday afternoon, October 5th, at the residence of Rev. Lathrop Grant, of Price Hill.

The bride was formerly of Boone County, is a graduate of Hebron High School and of Miller's Business College, Cincinnati.

We extend to this worthy young couple our very best wishes for their journey along life's highway.

Mrs. Manley Ryle spent the past week-end with her sister, Mrs. J. R. Williams, at Briarcliff.

OPERATOR STILL ILL

Newsman in the Recorder necessarily is entitled to a great extent again this week due to the fact that our Linotype operator, Howard Kirkpatrick, still is on the sick list. In addition, numerous mechanical troubles have rendered the printing of an issue this week a difficult task indeed. However, we hope to have conditions under control by next week.

Local News

Mrs. C. H. Bridgewater, of Akron, O., is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. C. A. Fowler, who has been ill for the past week.

Mrs. Newton Sullivan is spending the week with her aunt, Mrs. Allen Hill, at Charlottesville, Ind.

Mrs. Chas. Stephens and Mrs. Nora Souther, of Buultsville, were Burlington visitors Monday.

Bert Sullivan has sold the old creamery property to J. G. Smith. The tract of land contains 30 acres and was exchanged at the reported price of one hundred and fifty dollars per acre. Mr. Smith also purchased the grist mill, located in the old creamery building and soon will be able to give you first class grinding service.

Mrs. Edgar Berkshire and Miss Della Fenton were business callers at the Recorder office Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Greenup spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. Greenup's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dickerson, at Union.

A spare wheel equipped with a tire removed from the automobile of Wilton Stephens Sunday night while parked in front of the residence of D. R. Blythe in Burlington. Mr. Stephens first thought it a trick of some practical joker, but he now is beginning to think that it has been carried too far—either the wheel or the joke.

Calvin Cress and family will move the latter part of this week from their home on the Smith Brothers' farm to the Elbert Ryle property in Maple Grove subdivision.

Boone county officials located a Ford sedan on the Petersburg and Beelview road that had been reported to have been stolen in West Covington two weeks ago.

The missing auto was located near the farm of Omer McQuire and was shy all four wheels. The car had been driven several hundred miles since it was missed.

The license tags had been removed from the car and were located in a field near Elsmere by Town Marshall T. W. Rash.

The 85th birthday of J. M. Barlow was observed last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Weaver with a delightful basket dinner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Acra, Misses Etta and Dean Beeman, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Kirkpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Ora Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kelly, Mrs. Ruth Aylor, Mr. and Mrs. Manley Ryle, Stanley Ryle, Mart Williamson, Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Beeman, Miss Myrtle Beeman, Dr. M. A. Yelton, Stanley Easton and W. H. Ward.

Friends of Mrs. Marry Crisler are extending their sympathy since learning of her sudden paralytic stroke on last Sunday.

At the meeting of the Young Women's Democratic club Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mary Louise Renner, Burlington, one new member was present. Rules of a contest open to Democratic women only in which $10.00 is given away, were read. Two committees were appointed: Committee on Organization composed of Mrs. Herbert Snyder, Evelyn Henry and Lucille Cotton; and Membership Committee composed of Mrs. Carroll Cropper, Mrs. R. Wonderly and Kathryn Maurer.

A special meeting was called for October 18 following the address of Senator Barkley. The third meeting of the month will be Saturday, October 22. All young Democratic women are invited to attend both meetings.

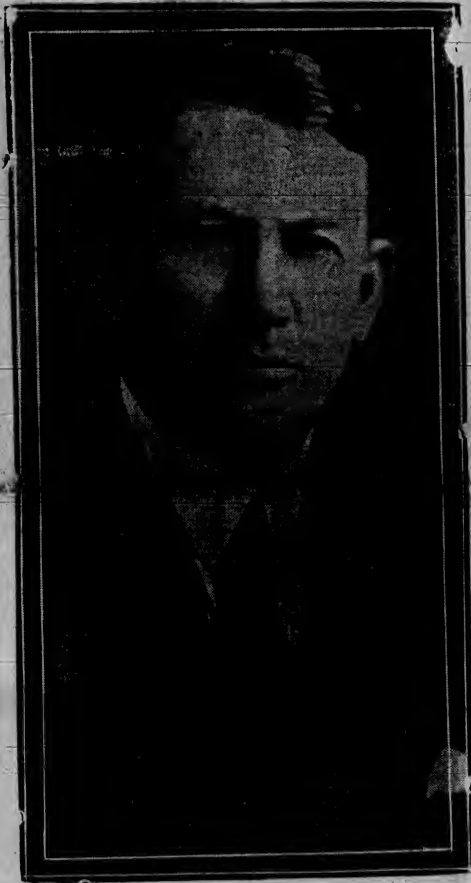

Senator Alben W. Barkley to Make Principal Address of Campaign Next Tuesday Afternoon—Precinct Organizations Completed Under Direction of Boone County Campaign Leaders

The Democratic campaign opens this week with a speaking engagement at Verona. Other engagements are announced below.

The high spot of the campaign, however, will take place on next Tuesday afternoon at Burlington when Senator Alben W. Barkley will speak at Burlington. Senator Barkley will address the voters of has been active in organizing the women workers.

of Boone county at the courthouse at 1:30 p. m.

The people of Boone county should consider themselves very fortunate indeed in being able to obtain the very much desired services of the celebrated Paducah senator, who gained nation-wide renown when he made his great keynote address at the recent national Democratic convention at Chicago.

The alertness of Judge J. M. Lassing is in a great way responsible for securing Senator Barkley for this engagement. Many weeks ago Judge Lassing wrote Senator Barkley requesting that Boone county be placed on his speaking calendar.

While the brilliant senator's services were in great demand throughout the state and nation he wedged in a place for Burlington on account of the fact that he always has been received so heartily here and heard by such large and appreciative audiences. Senator Barkley never has failed to draw an overflow crowd in this locality.

Chairman C. L. Cropper has completed the organization of his county-wide campaign committee, which is composed of active Democrats in each precinct. Mrs. B. H. Riley also

Deaths

NOAH DELPH DEAD

Noah Delph of the Woolper neighborhood, was buried in the I. O. O. F. cemetery at Burlington last Saturday afternoon. He died at his home on Woolper Creek on Thursday, October 6.

He is survived by one son, Arthur Delph, and a daughter, Mrs. Lewis Knapp. He was a member of the Bullittsburg Baptist Church. Rev. Dunaway, pastor of the Petersburg Baptist church, was in charge of the funeral services.

MRS. JULIA ANN STEPHENS BRADFORD

After an illness of several weeks Mrs. Julia Ann Stephens Bradford passed away at her home near Florence last Sunday. Mrs. Bradford was 79 years of age at her death.

She was the daughter of James and Mary Jane Stephens, who for many years were citizens of the Hopeful community. She was united in marriage to John Bradford on September 15, 1875, who preceded her to the grave 27 years ago.

To this union were born four children. One son, John, died 11 years ago, while two sons, G. E. and Lute, and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Candill, survive. Three grand children and several great grandchildren also survive.

The deceased united with the Big Bone Baptist church 45 years ago and remained a faithful member until her death. She was buried in the Big Bone cemetery, Tuesday, October 11, when Rev. Roy Johnson, pastor of that church, was in charge of the funeral services.

A unique dance was held at Harvest Home Grounds Saturday afternoon to which only women were invited. Men were admitted only when they could prove they were essential to the general good time—such were the musicians and the chauffeurs.

The weather was favorable and women from all surrounding towns gathered together to make the affair a success. They were loud in their praises of the management whose generosity in donating the grounds made the dance possible.

Prof. E. E. Kirkwood armed himself with a shotgun and four high powered shells last Saturday morning and set forth in search of squirrels. Noon and Mr. Kirkwood arrived in Burlington about the same time with the latter carrying five squirrels. Just how he landed the five squirrels with four shells is a moot question. Mr. Kirkwood claims with sincerity that he shot two of the pesky brutes with one shell, while still others aver that he captured one alive.

In our account last week of the death and funeral services of Mrs. W. G. Kile it was unintentionally omitted that Rev. Raymond Smith, of Bellevue assisted with a song and prayer and that Mrs. Flossie Campbell-Martin also rendered a vocal selection. We gladly make this correction.

BOB AND GENE WIN AGAIN

With the scalp of the Rosedale club dangling from their belts as a result of their victory last Sunday the Bob and Gene team will engage the last all-star nine from Boone county at the Elsmere park next Sunday. Last Sunday they defeated Rosedale, 10 to 3, with Lenhof and Wilson hitting home runs. Wilson's homer was said to have been the longest drive ever hit at the Elsmere park.

The Craddock family enjoyed a reunion at the home of Tom Craddock in the North Bend neighborhood last Sunday. It was in observance of the birthday of W. W. Craddock. About fifty members of the family from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky were present.

TOBACCO SHOW

THURSDAY AFTERNOON, NOVEMBER 2nd. DATE SET FOR 4-H TOBACCO EXHIBIT—SEWING CLUB MEMBERS ALSO TO COMPETE—BUSINESS MEN DONATE PRIZES

A community 4-H tobacco and club show will be held at Verona High School Thursday afternoon, November 2nd, according to county agent, H. R. Forkner. The 4-H Club members of Verona have raised some good crops of tobacco again this year and the members are looking forward with considerable rivalry as to who can bring out the best exhibit from his crop. The girls 4-H Sewing Club and other project groups will also compete in the event.

The show will be the second of its kind and cash prizes will be awarded members having the best exhibit of two hands each of trash, lugs, bright leaf and red leaf and 4-H Club plus awarded members competing in the other exhibits. The premiums for the show are being supplied by leading Verona business men. Mr. Jesse Hamilton, of the Hamilton Undertaking Establishment and Hamilton's Store, and Mr. Walter Renaker, of Renaker's Garage and Fertilizer Sales Agency, are supplying the first and second, and T. B. Sturdivent's Store third premium in the tobacco show.

The use of inoculated dirt from an old soy bean field was successfully used this year in the inoculating of 50 bushels of beans sown on 25 acres of new ground on the farm of Dr. M. A. Yelton, of near Burlington, according to county agent H. R. Forkner. One pound of wood glue costing around 25 cents, around two bushels of inoculated dirt or just dirt taken from a field where soy beans had grown that were known to be inoculated, some water, an old broom, a rake, the service of two men for two and one-half hours and a place to spread the beans out was the only equipment used. The glue which was not absolutely necessary was the only material purchased for this work.

The cost of commercial culture to inoculate 50 bushels of beans would have been from $15 to $25. The labor and equipment to apply the commercial culture would have been approximately the same in both cases. The seed, Mammoth Yellow, one of the latest maturing varieties were harvested on last Tuesday and Wednesday, October 4th and 5th. An interesting part of the demonstration is how late soy beans may be sown and still make a good hay crop. Mammoth Yellow, the latest maturing of the common 14 grown varieties was cut for hay just 81 days from the time they were sown. Soy beans being a warm weather crop are probably sown too early by many growers, some of whom needed their bean crop this year in April.

The College of Agriculture looks at soy beans as an emergency hay crop and not as a soil improvement crop. For this reason an attempt the yield of these for the year found lacking soy beans may be sown as an emergency crop.

E. A. Martin is a believer in Recorder advertising. Last week Mr. Martin advertised some baled straw and it was sold on Saturday. The paper was a day late that.

Increasingly large crowds have been attending the revival services at the local Baptist church during the past week. With the approaching week-end the revival will have continued throughout two full weeks with splendid results. Four additions are reported by letter. Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kirkwood bring their letter from the New Liberty (Ky.) Baptist church. Mrs. William Greenup from the Union Baptist church and William Greenup from the Burlington M. E. church. Rev. Sellers, of Cincinnati, has been delivering a series of sermons that have been holding the undivided attention of his large audience.

Dr. L. C. Cowen, of Rising Sun, returned to his home here last Thursday, following a visit here with his sisters, Mrs. Laura Martin and Miss Pink Cowen.

Constance Gospel Tabernacle
The Gospel Mission at Constance, Ky., which has been known as "The Holy Sunlight Mission" wishes to announce a change of name and will henceforth be known as the Constance Gospel Tabernacle. A new pastor, At the invitation of the former pastor, Rev. Joe Millson, and the mission board, Rev. Floyd Hitchcock has consented to become pastor of the work.

Mr. Hitchcock was for six years a missionary in Japan, Korea, the Loochoo Islands, Formosa and the borders of China under the board of the Oriental Missionary Society.

He is not a stranger to the people of Constance, having preached at the mission at different times during recent months. He just closed a very successful revival at the mission during which several people were saved.

Reorganization: In view of the change now taking place in the work the former pastor and the former mission board have resigned and are looking forward to a complete reorganization of the work. New plans are being laid for a larger and better work along every line.

Improvements: The Mission building has just been painted on the inside and will be painted on the outside also. This makes it a neat and attractive place to worship. We would like to see the work grow until we could afford to rent the entire building and use the extra rooms for Sunday School purposes, a printing shop, a library and reading room, etc. Your co-operation would help to make such a program possible.

The Field of Opportunity: The tabernacle is well located, in a needy and neglected field. It is on the "River road" that leads to both the city and country districts. There is much traffic on this road and this alone affords great opportunity to advertise the work of the tabernacle and to reach many people with the gospel.

Young People's Society: In connection with the work we are very anxious to organize a Young People's Society. There are many young people in the community that need such an opportunity for Bible study and for training in Christian work.

Music: God loves music, people love music, you love music and there is nothing so beautiful as the human voice. We need a good choir. We should learn to sing in the spirit and in the understanding also.

The Kind of Gospel: We believe that the Bible is the Book of God. We believe in the whole Bible, we believe that the Bible is the one book intended for all people. Rev. Hitchcock, the new pastor, preaches clean, straight forward gospel that is true to the world. His messages are both instructive and deeply spiritual. People are hungry these days to hear the real gospel.

Interdenominational: The work of the tabernacle is for everybody and you are welcome, no matter to what other church you may belong. Neither is it our purpose to condemn the other churches far or near. Let the good work among the churches go on and let us seek to co-operate and help them all we can, for indeed the "harvest is white" and the "laborers are few." There is no reason why we should seek to hinder the work of God in any place and there are many reasons why we should help all we can in every place.

Order of Services: Preaching service every Sunday night, 7:30; preaching service or Bible study Thursday night, 7:30; Sunday school every Sunday afternoon, 2:30.

Invitation: You are cordially invited to attend all of the services at the Constance Gospel Tabernacle, Constance, Ky.

Fire destroyed the James Rice residence, near Bellevue, last Monday night. The fire was caused from a defective kitchen flue. Mr. and Mrs. Rice were in their back yard at the time, but the wind was blowing from such a direction that the flames spread too rapidly for them to be able to re-enter the house. The house and contents were insured in the Boone County Farmers' Mutual Insurance Company.

Want closed prints 10 and 12c yard at Rie-man's.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL
The senior class selected their rings from the Herff-Jones Co. last Thursday. The whole school's interest was also greatly aroused over the "pop" caps that the ring salesman displayed. Many are ordering them and we hope that this will add pep to our cheer crowds.

The senior class conducted the chapel program Friday afternoon. Columbus before the Queen and King of Spain and San Salvador was dramatized. Their newly selected motto was carried out very well, which is "Service, not serve us." We were glad to have so many visitors and hope you will come this Friday and let Mrs. Kirkwood show you the talent that the small folks have.

Monday morning at activity period a club was organized in the Junior and senior classes in Democracy which was called the "World's A-fair Club." After we have organized this club better we hope to take in members from the Freshman and Sophomore classes. The purpose of this club is not only for social reasons, but to discuss the problems and difficulties that are facing the world of to-day. We hope this club will be a success and will help our boys and girls who will come day help to shape the destinies of our nation.

On Monday of this week Prof. Kirkwood, Mr. Kelly and Mr. Lamb held an elimination tournament in our auditorium for the purpose of choosing one boy and one girl to represent our school in declamation at the Rural School tournament, which is to be held for this county soon. Those competing for the school honors were: Girls—Ruby Cotton, Elizabeth Holbrook, Virginia Reimer and Elizabeth Elliott. Boys—Allen Walker and Harry Cook. Elizabeth Holbrook for the girls and Harry Cook for the boys were chosen to carry the honors from this school. We sincerely believe and hope that these representatives will make a splendid showing against the representatives from the other schools of the county.

Mr. Kelly has started training our grade girls and boys in athletics for the tournament. We are hoping that he will be able to develop some speed and jumping that will be hard to surpass.

NEW HAVEN HIGH SCHOOL

The Girl Reserves of Hebron entertained the New Haven Girl Reserves Friday with a play at the New Haven Auditorium. Tea was served by the New Haven girls.

Mr. A. B. Moore, principal, with the aid of Mr. Harry Moore, Mr. Emerson Smith and the junior and senior high school boys planted trees and did some grading Friday afternoon.

The junior and senior high school has been divided into two literary clubs with the following officers: Patsy Huey and J. M. Huey, presidents; Shirley Jack and Joe Jones, vice presidents; Frances Stevens and Lucille Craddock, secretary and treasurer.

We are expecting basketball practice to open soon. New sweat clothes have been ordered.

Friday evening, October 14, there will be a vaudeville attraction at New Haven auditorium for the benefit of the P. T. A. See the great Ricton, juggler extraordinary and comedian, and Miss Lavonne, queen of magicians, who also sings and plays many novelty numbers. Admission, under 13 years, 10c; adults, 20c; free to those over 75 years old. Raymond Riffel, Reporter.

County Attorney B. H. Riley has been ill for the past few days.

The condition of Marco Riddell has become worse during the past few days. His friends are hoping that he will improve soon. Mrs. Williamson is watching at his bedside during the night.

T. W. Rice, Bert Sullivan and Joe Huey were summoned to serve on federal juries at Covington at the approaching term of that tribunal.

The Peoples Deposit Bank was closed all day on Columbus Day, Wednesday, October 12.

R. O. Edwards and family, of Lake City, Fla., were the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tolin.

How Is Business?

This question is often asked these days and we find that 90% of the people asked will agree that considerable change for the better is taking place.

Factories and Mills are now purchasing raw materials before a rise in price occurs.

We note many changes for the better in financial conditions.

A complete return to normal times can not come over night. The gradual improvement in business is not observed usually until a wide comparison can be noted.

Eight Hundred Hear Democratic Keynote On Campaign Issues

SENATOR IS AT HIS BEST BEFORE ENTHUSIASTIC BOONE COUNTY AUDIENCE TUESDAY — A. J. MAY AND BRENT SPENCE REACH MEETING BEFORE ADJOURNMENT — COUNTY WIDE CAMPAIGN IN FULL SWING

A red letter day in Boone county's political history was enjoyed here Tuesday afternoon when Senator Alben W. Barkley addressed a throng of enthusiastic citizens estimated at eight hundred.

It was a typical Boone county Barkley crowd — an overflow through leaning with enthusiasm and admiration for an idol it would be difficult to displace in its estimation. Barkley has been admired here for years, in fact thru his long political career, but that admiration practically was changed over night to a feeling of mixed pride and adulation following his famous keynote speech at Chicago.

Small wonder then that Boone county turned out such a vast number to hear one whose services are in demand from coast to coast. Indeed the whole world has heard Barkley! Why, then, shouldn't little old Boone county prick up her collective ears when such a celebrity invades?

Well, he was here, anyway. Neither did he fail to please, to enthrall, to interest, even to a greater degree than ever before. He was all there — with the facts, the argument, the wit, that same attractive manner that holds his hearers from the Blue Ridge to the Rockies, from the lakes to the gulf.

The meeting here was a credit to Boone county Democrats, and especially to Chairman Cropper, and a corps of most able assistants throughout the county. Politicians from Kenton and Campbell counties said that they would be pleased with such a crowd even in such large centers as Newport and Covington.

Just as Senator Barkley finished his speech, Congressman Brent Spence and A. J. (Jack) May entered the room and were hastily introduced to the crowd for short talks. It was Jack May's first visit to Boone county and folks here were very favorably impressed with his manner. The tenth district redeemer will get a fine vote in Boone, no doubt of that.

Spence and May addressed a meeting at Independence and hastened here so that they might see a real crowd. They saw it and marveled at it. Accompanying May and Spence were Congressman Ralph Gilbert, of Shelbyville, District Committeeman James A. Disken and Commonwealth Attorney Lawrence J. Disken, both of Newport.

The Democratic Glee Club rendered several campaign numbers and were complimented for their efforts. It seems to be the general opinion that the "music hath charms" philosophy works pretty well in a political campaign. The string band will take the field tonight (Wednesday) at New Haven.

The county campaign opened Saturday night at Verona with a fine crowd. The meeting was called to order by Chairman Cropper, who introduced Miss Mary Louise Renaker, President of the Young Women's Democratic Club, who made a splendid address. She was followed on the program by V. P. Kerns, who outlined the economic situation as regards the farmer. Mr. Kerns was followed by Judge J. M. Lassing, who made a typical Lassing speech. If you don't know what kind that is, just come to one of the remaining meetings on the program. He will make a speech at each of the meetings, although there probably will be other speakers on the program at each place.

The second precinct meeting took place at Walton Monday evening with Congressman Brent Spence as the principal speaker. He was supplemented on the platform by Miss Renaker, who again made a fine talk. This young lady is a novice on the stump, but one never could tell that such was the case by the manner in which she acquires herself. Judge Lassing followed Mr. Spence and warmed up on that question so close to the heart of every voter-taxation.

The Glee Club was on the program at each of the places visited and will continue to help at all places where a piano is available.

The program for speaking dates during the next few days is as follows:

Petersburg, Saturday, October 22, at 7:30 (slow time), 8:00 (fast time).

Florence, Tuesday, October 25, Hebron, Wednesday, October 26, 8:00 (fast time).

Beaver, Friday, October 28, 7:30 (slow time).

Rabbit Hash, Saturday, October 29, 7:30 (slow time).

The meeting called at Hamilton school house was called off on account of Diphtheria in the community and will be held at a later date.

The meeting called at Hebron for Thursday night, October 20 was changed to Wednesday night, October 26 on account of a conflict with other meetings.

REPORT OF RED CROSS PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE

September always is the month of the year when with increased vigor and sharpened energy our Health work in the county finds a place of bigger importance so it always seems, so that it is only fitting that I draw from every source possible inspiration and untold assistance, which gives force to the solving of the needs of our people as these needs appear.

This past month it has been my privilege to attend three most helpful meetings all of which have imbued me with new zeal for the coming fall and winter time.

The County Teachers Institute the Red Cross State Nurses meeting, Cross Regional Conference, at Cynthiana.

I assisted in obtaining special surgical and medical attention for 15 children during the month and 11 parents sought me for consultation regarding their children.

At Hebron two classes in Home Hygiene and care of the sick and came out victorious in points by having one more than Marvin Moore's gang. Three of the girls remained at the laboratory and prepared cigar boxes for mounting the specimens in. Such insects as grasshoppers, butter-flies, crickets, corn borers, wooly-worms and various beetles were captured. These were mounted in the cigar boxes by placing a pin thru them and sticking it in the heavy cardboard which had been placed in the bottom of the box. A few cocoons were brought in. The most dangerous of our trip was two snakes, which were charmed by our snake tamer, Boyd Snow. The smaller one was bottled up in alcohol, while the larger one is still alive. We have him in a screen cage, feeding him. We believe this collection will be a great help thru the winter. However, we are not planning to make a very thorough study of our large raper.

NOTICE

On account of the prevalence of Diphtheria at Hamilton, necessitating the temporary closing of the school there, we have thought best to call off the Democratic meeting scheduled there for Friday night. We will arrange the meeting for a later date.

C. L. Cropper, Chairman.

FLORENCE WOMEN

All Democratic women of Florence are urged to attend a meeting at the B. & L. quarters at the Myers garage building at 3 p. m. (fast time) Friday afternoon of this week. Mrs. J. C. Layne is endeavoring to organize a Democratic Women's Club in that locality.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slekmann and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Easton and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Fowler and daughter, Rev. Brown Beall, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Acra, Mr. and Mrs. Will Graves and Miss Besse Jones enjoyed the day last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slekmann and family, near Hebron.

Albert Weaver, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Weaver, became suddenly ill Tuesday night. He is improving somewhat as this is written Wednesday.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Rice were Mr. and Mrs. John (Pepper) Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ephraim Clure, Mr. and Mrs. John Maurer, and Misses Marjorie Berkshire and Emily Burcham, all of Bellevue.

Mrs. Fred Slekmann, of near Hebron, spent Monday night and Tuesday of this week with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slekmann, of near Burlington.

MARCE RIDDLELL

At 1:30 last Thursday morning, Marcellus Riddell, one of Burlington's most prominent citizens, answered the final summons after an illness of several weeks.

Marce Riddell had been a figure in Burlington business life for many years, having operated a general merchandise establishment here for a lengthy period, during which time he gained the respect and admiration of every local citizen. For the past year or more he had operated a filling station here, it being the first exclusive station boasted by this locality.

Marce Riddell was a member of one of Boone county's most historic and notable families. A son of J. A. Riddell, who survives him, was born near Hebron in the same home that still shelters his aged father, who also was born there.

The deceased was 66 years of age and is survived by his widow, Nannie Arnold Riddell, to whom he was married in 1892. Beside her there are six brothers, Will, Walter, Emmett, Morris, Lewis and Clint; also two sisters, Mrs. Elmer Beall and Mrs. E. J. Aylor.

The only child born to Marce Riddell and wife was Mrs. F. W. Dempsey, of Erlanger, who also survives.

An enormous crowd of friends and relatives attended the very impressive services here last Saturday afternoon. The service was conducted by Rev. F. E. Walker, who rendered a short prayer at the home, which was followed by a service at the grave.

The pall bearers were N. E. Riddell, J. M. Lassing, L. T. Clure, Newton Sullivan, A. B. Renaker and A. B. Rouse. C. Scott Chambers, of Walton, was in charge the funeral arrangements.

Mr. Lamb's Biology Class, which is composed of Sophomores and Seniors, took a field trip in search of Biological specimens. Before leaving the class was divided into three groups, with Marvin Moore leading one group, William Greenup leading another, while Leslie Voshell captained the third group.

For each specimen captured, a point was given as credit to the respective group. Two of these groups were equipped with a net for catching various flies, while the third group, which was led by William Greenup, had no net, and came out victorious in points by having one more than Marvin Moore's gang. Three of the girls remained at the laboratory and prepared cigar boxes for mounting the specimens in. Such insects as grasshoppers, butter-flies, crickets, corn borers, wooly-worms and various beetles were captured. These were mounted in the cigar boxes by placing a pin thru them and sticking it in the heavy cardboard which had been placed in the bottom of the box. A few cocoons were brought in. The most dangerous of our trip was two snakes, which were charmed by our snake tamer, Boyd Snow. The smaller one was bottled up in alcohol, while the larger one is still alive. We have him in a screen cage, feeding him. We believe this collection will be a great help thru the winter. However, we are not planning to make a very thorough study of our large raper.

The Boone County Banks Trophy. The Norbath Champion 4-H club, of Hebron, ranks second with a club total of 50,175 points. The Blue Ribbons, Good Will, Silver Leaders and Mt. Zion Eagles will hold their seventh meetings during the latter part of the week and the first of next.

The Boone County Banks Trophy will be awarded on the total number of points per member, which likely will change the above scores when the year closes at the end of eighth community club meetings which will be held in about two weeks. Members right now are busy getting in all project records of each members work. Project group captains having 100 per cent of their groups records completed are being awarded 4-H pins. Each member completing his work in addition to points gained for his club received a certificate of achievement award or from the State 4-H club department, according to the number of years work completed.

F. H. Rouse and wife spent the past week with relatives in Ohio.

AT NEW MEETINGS

Following the address of Senator Barkley at Burlington, Tuesday afternoon, the Young Women's Democratic Club of Boone County held a meeting at which time eleven women were admitted as members. In all, twenty members were present.

It was voted that the club offer its services to the county campaign committee and cooperate with it in any way that is suggested.

The following precinct chairmen were appointed:

Union, Mrs. Irvin Rouse; Florence, Mrs. L. T. Utz and Mary Rogers; Bellevue, Miss Marion Rogers; Beaver, Miss Evelyn Henry; Hebron, Miss Lucy Lee Grant.

The next meeting was set for Saturday afternoon, October 23, following the address of Mrs. Eugene Ray.

FLORENCE P-T. A.

The October meeting of the Florence P-T. A. was held Thursday evening with large attendance.

The program which was under the direction of Mrs. Huey, was enjoyed by all. Mrs. Phil Kline was elected Treasurer to fill a vacancy by a resignation. Motion was made to have a membership drive, with each member present to bring one new member next month. An invitation was read from the Sixth Congressional District to attend the meeting at the Newport High School, October 28. When our State President Mrs. James G. Sheehan will be present.

Final plans were made for Halloween Party, October 31. The public is invited to attend. There will be separate prizes for the Public and School children. Prizes will be awarded for the best and tastiest dressed.

Publicity Chairman.

Linotype trouble and the continued illness of our regular operator again caused a curtailment of live reading matter in the Recorder. We hope to overcome this next week.

NATIONAL 4-H CLUB ACHIEVEMENT PROGRAM

Boone county 4-H club members will participate in the National 4-H club achievement program that will be conducted by radio thruout the nation on Saturday November 6th, from 11:30 to 12:30 central standard time, according to county agent, H. R. Forkner. All 4-H club members, leaders and others who are interested in knowing more about what 4-H club members are doing are urged to put this date in their calendars and look forward to it.

The program will be more generally broadcast this year. Boone county 4-H members will listen in thru radio station WKCY. The program from 11:30 to 11:45 will be from Washington, D. C. from 11:45 to 12:15 from WKCY and from 12:15 to 12:30 again from Washington. These programs are rendered annually in honor of National 4-H Achievement Day.

Mrs. Zelma Clure and son entertained last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Robert Youell, and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Kelly and daughter, Miss Ruth Kelly.

The monthly meeting of the Hebron Parent-Teacher Association will be held on Friday night, October the twenty-first, at eight o'clock Eastern time. Mrs. B. A. Doerr, the district president, will be the speaker.

Everybody welcome.

The first and second unit of the Burlington Blue Ribbon Club have completed their work and every one is planning to join next year.

Olive L. Poston.

KENTUCKY CROP REPORT FOR OCTOBER FIRST

The following are some brief notes taken from the Kentucky Crop Report from the U. S. Department of Agriculture for October 1st. The estimates on certain crops are as follows:

Corn — For Kentucky 15% smaller than last year and 10% larger than the five year average. Burley Tobacco — 28% smaller than the bumper crop of last year for the entire Burley area or territory.

Oats — 13% increase for the U. S. Hay — For Kentucky a decrease of 7% and for U. S. an increase of 6%.

The total is 7% below the five year average.

Potatoes — For Kentucky an increase of 25% and for the entire nation a decrease of 5%. The total is 1% below the five year average.

Robbery Of Gas Tank Thwarted When Night Man Shoots And Kills

Deaths

JOSEPH N. COPHER

Joseph N. Copher, aged 68 years, night watchman at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., Cincinnati, was found dead Saturday morning. Coroner Kearns of Hamilton County, O. pronounced death due to heart trouble. The remains were removed to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home for preparation.

Funeral services were held at the late residence, 1019 Scott St., Covington, Ky., Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment following in Florence, Ky. cemetery.

Mr. Copher is survived by his widow, two sons George and Everett and two daughters, Hattie and Mattie Copher.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. CLARA BAKER

Mrs. Clara Baker, aged 47 years, passed away Saturday afternoon at her home Main and Palace Ave., Elsmere, Ky. The remains were removed to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home for preparation.

Funeral services were held at the late residence Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, by the Rev. J. A. Miller, pastor of the Elsmere Baptist Church, after which she was laid to rest in Highland Cemetery.

Mrs. Baker is survived by six daughters and three sons, besides her husband, John M. Baker.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

MRS. JOHN BRADFORD

Mrs. John Bradford, aged 70 years, passed away Sunday at the home of her son, George Bradford, near Florence, Ky., after a long illness. Funeral services were held at Big Bone Baptist Church, of which she had long been a member, Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 P. M., by the Rev. Roy Johnson, pastor, in the presence of relatives and friends, after which she was laid to rest by the side of her husband, who preceded her to the grave 27 years.

Mrs. Bradford is survived by two sons, George and Lute Bradford, both of Boone County, and one daughter, Mrs. Mary Caudill of Covington, Ky.

The pall bearers were Joe Weaver, Frank Allen, James Aylor, Thomas Huff and Otha Hubbard.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

JOHN BEN DIXON

John Ben Dixon, aged 77 years, passed away Wednesday afternoon at St. Elizabeth Hospital where he had been hospitalized for a one day's illness. The remains were removed to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home for preparation.

Funeral services were conducted at Hopeful Lutheran Church, Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, by the Rev. Harlow Haas, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, after which interment followed in the nearby cemetery.

Mr. Dixon is survived by one brother Jerry Dixon and three sisters, Misses Mary and Jennie Dixon and Mrs. Mattie Waller, besides a host of other relatives and friends.

The pall bearers were Jerald Dixon, Eldridge Carpenter and Wm. Cluser.

Funeral Director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

L. R. McNeely, of Waterloo neighborhood, sent us the most peculiar freak of nature last week that it has been our privilege to see in a long time. It was a large "puff ball" such as you see growing in pastures, springing from sort of frog stool formation. These usually grow about as large as an ordinary apple, but this one measured 34 inches in circumference and weighed four and one quarter pounds.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ryle were Sunday guests of Howard Ryle and wife of the Camp Ernst road.

N. E. Riddell and Elijah Stephens attended the Grand Lodge F. and A. M. at Louisville this week.

FROGTOWN GARAGE ON BURN HIGHWAY IS SCENE OF KILLING EARLY TUESDAY, WHEN WATCHMAN AT THE GARAGE SHOOT DOWN GUNMAN — DEAD MAN IDENTIFIED AS CHARLES STEWART, OF KENTO-BOO DRIVE, NEAR ELSMERE

An attendant at the Frogtown garage served notice on the underworld of this section that it is no place to stop (unless you want to stay) when he shot and killed a man there early Tuesday morning.

About day break the attendant was awakened by a noise at the gas tank and upon going to the window, he saw a man attempting to break the lock. He fired and hit the victim running a short distance down the highway toward a waiting car, before he fell to the ground.

The car sped away with the warning from the occupants that they would return. A short time later a passerby informed the garage man that a dead man was lying at the road side. A sawed off shot gun was found near the body. The man had returned fire with the shot gun, which led the garage attendant to believe that his shot had missed.

The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of C. Scott Chambers, where it was identified by relatives as that of Charles Stewart, of Kento-Boo subdivision, near Elsmere.

Authorities have been endeavoring to locate the remaining members of the dead man's gang.

Speaking Date Changed

A telegram was received by Miss Mary Louise Renaker, president of the Young Women's Democratic Club, last Sunday morning, announcing the engagement of Saturday, October 22, for Mrs. Ray at the Court House. She will speak, however, at the same hour (2 p. m.) Saturday, October 29 at the same place.

ONE MORE GAME

The Vogelman Bread team champions of greater Cincinnati, by virtue of their defeat of the famed B. H. B. team, of Covington, will play at the Elsmere park next Sunday when Bob and Gene's fast aggression will tangle with them. Casper and Manning will do the menial duty for the visitors, while Ellis and Ray will form the local battery.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred H. Jones and son were at the bed side of Mrs. Jones' father, Henry T. Aylor, at Hebron, last Sunday. Mr. Aylor has been quite ill.

A meeting of Boone county truck owners was called at the Court House last Friday evening by Leonard Cook, of Walton. A number of truck operators of the county were present and were addressed by a Mr. Bell, of Lexington. The meeting was a protest against the recently enacted mileage tax law. Seventeen owners were present. A second meeting date was set for October 21, at Burlington.

A very successful two weeks revival closed at the Baptist church here last Sunday night. Rev. Sellers the evangelist proved to be one of the most interesting speakers that has graced a Burlington pulpit in a long time. Rev. F. E. Walker, the regular pastor, proved an inspiring leader and the results were not entirely reflected in the number of additions, although that was an encouraging feature.

The new additions to the church roster are given herewith: Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Mark C. C. and Mrs. E. E. Kirkwood, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ligon and children, Marvin and Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. William Greenup, Hayden Hendy, Ethel Snow, and Mrs. Tom Ross.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Porter and son spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Otis Rouse in Petersburg.

Mrs. Everett Light Hickman and daughter spent Sunday with relatives in Cynthiana.

Dr. McCauley and family, of Florence, and Milburn Stewart, of Ladlow, were Sunday guests of Postmaster Everett Hickman and family.

Located in Covington at 1838 Madison Avenue, and offers a reliable home service to many over a wide territory under the management of G. F. Roberts and P. C. Roberts, who have greatly pleased all patrons with their distinctive service. Phone Hemlock 1148.

Has your supply of linens or towels ever become exhausted while waiting for your linens to be returned? Have your employees ever been forced to wear soiled coats, aprons or frocks because your supply is limited? The Roberts Linen Supply Co., in Covington has solved this problem for hundreds of concerns in surrounding communities. They furnish a complete rental service in towels, table linen, aprons, white coats, frocks, caps, trousers and professional uniforms. It isn't necessary to invest a lot of money in these goods. You can rent them at a very nominal charge.

No longer will you need to worry about the linen service. When they collect the soiled linens, towels or garments, a new supply, fresh and clean, is left. There is no longer an excuse for untidy and unsanitary supplies. A phone call will bring you complete information on this excellent service. They give prompt delivery throughout this section. Barbers, restaurants, hotels, beauty shops, groceries, bakeries and countless other business concerns are served by this firm and the extremely low cost of the service makes it uneconomical to purchase these goods.

The Roberts Linen Supply Company, in Covington, is supplying an indispensable service to hundreds of concerns and is in a position to supply your needs.

CORNCRACKERS MEET

The Corneraker 4-H Club met at the Constance Schoolhouse Tuesday afternoon and held their seventh meeting of the year. No regular program was rendered, but club members reported their projects. All members had good reports.

There will be one more meeting of the club this year which will be Friday afternoon November 18. All club members are requested to be present, and have all record books complete.

THE M. L. SWETNAM SONS CO., Inc.

With modern home in Covington at 1515 Scott street, are funeral directors of the highest order and have conducted many leading funerals in Boone and Kenon Counties and are distinct leaders in their line.

Phone Hemlock 0170. Offices at 25 Pike street, East, and also provides a prompt ambulance service. This company provides the most up-to-date and finest funeral equipment.

There is no vocation requiring for its successful prosecution a greater natural aptitude than that of the modern funeral director, and this particularly applies to this leading representative of the profession. By conscientious and untiring efforts, The M. L. Swetnam Sons Company, Inc. have progressed from a modest beginning until today they are favored with a patronage extending into all the surrounding counties.

A modern funeral chapel is placed at the disposal of their patrons which is not only an accommodation to those in apartments or homes with limited rooms, but is one of the most elegant establishments of this kind in the entire State.

It is quite proper or fitting in this business review that we give The M. L. Swetnam Sons Company, Inc. commendable mention as being among the leading and useful citizens, who by the successful practice of this necessary profession have gained naught but the good will of all whom they have served.

THE JOBBERS' OUTLET

Located in Covington at 601-605 Madison Avenue and at 1232 Greenup street, and in these two completely stocked stores, the same seasonable mens' and youths' merchandise prevails at bargain prices. They buy their merchandise of bankrupt manufacturers and stores forced to quit business. In this manner of buying, quality merchandise is offered to the patron at unbelievably low prices.

Mr. Gershan, is the well known proprietor. Before buying elsewhere, you owe it to yourself to visit either of these stores first.

These progressive stores strictly modern and up-to-date and are stocked with a class of goods that would do credit to a much larger city. The Jobbers' Outlet features famous lines of clothes and furnishings, which is proof of their wisdom. For this line is found only in the leading establishments.

The whole line embraces only the highest of quality at the most reasonable price possible. In fact, they have become known as truly mens' stores and the fact that they handle such quality clothing, is but one evidence of the excellent service to the men and young men of part of Kentucky.

Special attention is given to the proper fitting of men and young men by managers of both stores, and patrons know that their apparel will be that of both quality and distinction.

Then you too will have learned to place the same confidence in these stores and clothes that others have.

AGAIN WE APPEAL

To stockholders to let us have their consent to a reduction of the capital stock of this corporation, in order that we may be able to pay a dividend. As repeatedly stated to you, we have a considerable sum of money in banks which we can pay to stockholders if they will sign waivers consenting to a reduction of the capital stock.

A part of the money now in banks is capital stock money, arising from the sale of warehouses. When this money is paid to so stockholders, this automatically reduces the capital stock of your corporation.

Under the law, Directors have no right to reduce the capital stock of a corporation without consent of 2-3 of the stockholders. In fact the Statutes provide a severe penalty in case of a violation; hence your Board of Directors has consistently refused to assume such a responsibility. A serious obligation, therefore, rests upon the shoulders of stockholders and we again urge you to give us your co-operation in order that the affairs of your corporation may be put in such shape as to be more easily managed for your future interest and profit.

By helping us in this way, you will be helping yourself and your fellow-stockholders to a cash dividend, which we know many of them need at this time.

Therefore, sign and return your waiver at once. If you have lost it, see your director. He will furnish you with a blank.

Respectfully submitted

How Is Business?

This question is often asked these days and we find that 90% of the people asked will agree that considerable change for the better is taking place.

Factories and Mills are now purchasing raw materials before a rise in price occurs.

We note many changes for the better in financial conditions.

A complete return to normal times can not come over night. The gradual improvement in business is not observed usually until a wide comparison can be noted.

This Bank is in strong position to serve its customers.

PLAYED LAST SUNDAY AT ELMERS PARK BETWEEN VOGELMAN'S AND BOB AND GENE'S TEAM—SAME TEAM WILL PLAY ALL-STAR OUTFIT ORGANIZED BY COLLIER SIMPSON NEXT SUNDAY—

Last Sunday at Elmers Park, Bob and Gene's team played what is said to have been the longest game ever before played at the park there.

The entire Vogelmann team did not show up, but the fans certainly were not disappointed in the calibre of baseball played.

Next Sunday in a benefit game for Charles Connley, Bob and Gene's team will tangle with an all-star aggregation, which is being assembled by Collie Simpson, of Florence. Collie is one of the best known ball players in this locality and is contracting for the services of some crack players.

Among these are Snyder, a star pitcher of the Greater Cincinnati Amateur Association. This will be the last game of the season.

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The six weeks examinations are over and every test proved satisfactory to both the pupils and the teachers.

The World's Affairs Club sponsored a very nice program Friday afternoon in observance of Temperance Day. We were very glad to have with us Rev. F. E. Walker, who made a very appropriate talk.

Basket ball seems to be making great progress. Practice started last week, and every one seems greatly enthused. Mr. Lamb is coaching the boys, while Prof. Kirkwood is head of the girls, with our old standby "Bill" Greenup, Assistant. We wish to say to those who will represent the B. H. S. by wearing the blue and white colors. "We're with you team fight."

The dwelling house on the farm of Mrs. Nannie Hedges was completely destroyed by fire last Friday morning. The farm is situated near Gunpowder Creek and the house was occupied by Harriet Simpson. The entire contents of the house were destroyed. The fire was believed to have started from a defective flue, according to Simpson. Neighbors rushed to the scene, but were unable to render material aid. Mrs. Hedges reports there was no insurance on the property.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS SHOWING HIGH NUMBER COMPLETIONS

Boone county 4-H Club members have been busy the past two weeks turning in their 4-H records on their project work conducted during the year. While all books are not in, the indications are that 1932 4-H completions in the county of any year to date, according to county agent Forkner.

Each member who completes his project counts 1000 points for the standing of his club. Those members who fail to turn in a completed record on their project work lose this 1000 points. Each member whose record is not turned in to the county agent's office by Friday of this week will be noted by his group captain, adult leader and by letter from the county agent's office.

The keeping of accurate business records is an important habit which must be cultivated by both young and old. The keeping of such a business record on ones-project work is a requirement of 4-H project completion.

BEAGLE FIELD TRIALS

The first day of the Ohio Valley Beagle Club field trials was held near Union last Thursday. Cincinnati owned hounds won the first four prizes. The Club has command of a six hundred acre field near Union on the Federal Highway.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Shearer, of Newport, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Looney and daughter, Mary Ellen, of Hyde Park, Ohio, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Hall, last Sunday afternoon.

Dr. K. W. Ryle and family spent Sunday with Russell Stephens and family of the East Bend neighborhood.

Charles White, of the Petersburg precinct, was a business visitor at Burlington Thursday of this week.

MASSONS MEET

The following Boone county representatives of the various Masonic lodges in Boone county met with the Grand Lodge at Louisville last week: Chas. Cox, Petersburg; N. E. Riddell, Burlington; Elijah Stephens, Hebron; Bernard McNesly, Union; James Wilson, Bellevue; and Rev. J. F. Hawkins, Walton.

The regular quarterly meeting of this district was held at the local M. E. Church Tuesday night of this week. Rev. Rose, the presiding elder was present and presided at the meeting.

Mrs. L. D. Renaker was hostess to the Ladies Aid and W. M. U. at her home on Dixie Highway last Thursday. Quite a large crowd of ladies attended and reported a delightful day.

Friends of County Attorney B. H. Riley regret very much that he continues too ill to leave the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati, where he is undergoing treatment. The Boone county campaign committee misses Ben, everyone at the court house misses him, to say nothing of the others. We certainly hope that he will regain his former good health in a very short time.

Some of the prettiest Dahlias we have ever seen were brought to this office last Saturday morning by C. A. Egwer. Since having retired from active duty as Jailer of Boone county, Mr. Fowler has spent a great deal of time beautifying the grounds about his home in Burlington.

R. J. Akin and wife were visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edward Easton last Wednesday.

The Church of Christ at Constance will begin an evangelist meeting, Sunday, October 30. Services each evening at 7:30. Special music will be furnished by the students of Cincinnati Bible Seminary.

Sheriff Herbert spent last Saturday in Louisville, where he went to hear Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester McBee are the proud parents of a fine baby boy since October 21. The youngster was named William Kirtley.

Mrs. J. E. Botta, of Rising Sun, Mrs. B. F. Riley and daughter, of Vevay, Indiana, and Mrs. W. B. Rogers, of Bellevue, were the weekend guests of Mrs. Josie Maurer and family.

UTOPIA MEETING

At the regular meeting of the Boone County Utopia Club Thursday night at the Court House, initiation was held for nine new members. They are: Shirley Aylor, Eva May Grant, Alice Kathryn Tupman, Martha Blythe, Earl Tanner, Brockenridge, Dolwick, Joe Randall, James Edward Stephens, and Olin Elliott.

Officers for the coming year were selected as follows: president, George Wohrley; secretary and treasurer, Alice Kathryn Tupman; assistant secretary and treasurer, Virginia Yelton.

The next meeting is to be held November 17th at Walton for the purpose of forming a branch Utopia Club there.

Following the business meeting selection of four one-act plays all to be presented one evening, each community being responsible for one play. It was decided to present the plays at Burlington, Florence and Hebron sometime soon.

Following the business meeting Hebron group served delicious refreshments.

ASSOCIATION HERD SIRS DELIVERED LOCAL BREEDERS

Three young herd sires sired by Primate of Oaklands, one of the leading herd sires of the breed and out of good tested dams were delivered to Boone county Bull Association members on last Thursday, November the 26th, according to county agent H. R. Forner.

The bulls are good type individuals and should prove valuable in improving the Jersey breed in the county. Mr. Robert Youell, Robert Chambers and T. W. Rice are the local breeders receiving the above Jerseys.

The Boone County Bull Association and the Dairy Herd Improvement Association will meet at the bank in Florence on Tuesday, November the 1st for two meetings to discuss important association problems. Mr. Jesse Collins, field agent from the College of Agriculture will meet with the dairymen in the above meetings.

Democratic Candidate At Louisville

Reading from left to right—Gov. Roosevelt, Gov. Laffoon and Senator Alben W. Barkley.

Enthusiasm Rampant As Democrats Surge Forward To Victory

ENORMOUS CROWDS FOLLOW BOONE COUNTY SPEAKERS AND "HOME GROWN" GLEE CLUB—LOCAL ENTERTAINERS INVITED TO GALLATIN COUNTY AND LEXINGTON—BAD WEATHER FAILS TO "DAMPEN" HEBRON SPIRITS—

The Boone county Democratic campaign continues with astounding success. It is said that old Boone is conducting the best campaign in all of her history.

The unique accompanies the orthodox to the tune of ever increasing crowds. The old time method of a speaker, a table and a glass of water is being supplemented with musical numbers furnished by a "home grown" Glee Club and an old time string band, composed only of home talent.

Bearing out the orthodox theory we have found such competent speakers as O. M. Rogers, Ward Yager and the peerless Barkley, with Boone county's Democratic rock, Judge J. M. Lassing, always on the stand. But even their speeches have varied from the old fashioned political address, in many ways, especially those of the latter speaker, who, in spite of his many years of experience in political campaigns, is ever alert to new ideas.

In fact, the Boone county Glee Club was the Judge's own "brain child." It was Judge Lassing who conceived the idea of "Democratic music," which has gained state wide recognition as a unique campaign asset. As evidence that the thought has commanded recognition from others, we find the local songsters invited to assist with the Gallatin county meetings.

Tuesday they sang for Governor Laffoon at one of Warsaw's greatest political rallies and have been invited to Lexington for a later meeting. Now Gallatin county announces that they will organize a glee club all their own.

While it would be almost impossible to decide which of the many local meetings has been the "peppiest," it is a recognized fact that they have commanded crowds of from 200 to 800 people.

Beginning where we left off last week—a fine assembly of perhaps 400 welcomed the campaign troupe at New Haven. It was here that another unique idea in local campaigns asserted itself. Heretofore, it has been the custom to command the services only of experienced stump speakers. But it seems that the pressing issues of this campaign literally drove into service even those of little or no speaking experience.

It was at New Haven that a "diamond in the rough" was uncovered in the person of Newton Sullivan, of Burlington. It long has been a recognized fact that "Sully" possessed sterling qualities both rhetorically and oratorically, although prior to this public appearance, they had been practiced only upon the customers at Gully and Pettit's store. But last Wednesday night, Mr. Sullivan showed them that with a little practice that he would soon develop into a second Jim Reed.

An overflow crowd jammed the town hall at Petersburg Saturday night, where Senator O. M. Rogers, his son "Jimmy" Rogers and Judge Lassing spoke. "Jimmy" was given but ten minutes notice, but he acquitted himself capably and will be heard from again at Bellevue next week.

Following the Warsaw address and rally behind Governor Laffoon, which was attended by about one hundred Boone countians, there followed a meeting at Florence. Florence commands the largest vote in Boone county and to say that their crowd did justice to that reputation is but doing justice to their Democratic leaders, who assisted in getting out one of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds that has graced the campaign thus far.

It was at Florence that Commonwealth's Attorney Ward Yager made his campaign debut and his speech was greatly enjoyed. The other speakers at this meeting were Miss Renaker and Judge Lassing.

The first bad weather struck the campaign at Hebron on Wednesday night, but in spite of this deterrent a magnificent crowd of approximately 300 folks turned out for this meeting. The same speakers that were at Florence were on the platform here.

The remainder of the speaking engagements are as follows:

SCHEDULED MEETINGS

Rabbit Hash—Saturday, October 29th.
Hamilton School—Thursday, November 3. Senator O. M. Rogers will be the principal speaker here, supplemented by other regular speakers.

Constance—Friday, November 4, with Judge J. M. Lassing making the principal address.

Bellevue—Saturday, November 5. At Bellevue there will be a number of short addresses. James C. Rogers, Commonwealth's Attorney, Ward Yager, Representative Leonard Cook and others will be on the program.

Miss Mary Louise Renaker, of Burlington, who is recognized as the youngest lady speaker in the state, will speak to the women voters at each of the above named places.

The second meeting of the Boone county truck owners was held at the court house last Friday night, October 21. Another meeting has been scheduled for Friday night, October 28. See their advertisement in other columns of this issue.

50th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Last Sunday, October 23, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary at their home in Burlington. Twenty-two guests were present to assist in celebrating the event. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kelly, Miss Ruth Kelly, Mrs. Zelma Clure, Mrs. Ray Hickman and son, Mrs. B. J. Crisler, of Petersburg, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crisler, of Lawrenceburg, Indiana, S. M. Aylor, of Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Kelly, of Florence, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Kelly, also of Florence, Mr. and Mrs. L. D. McGlasson, of Constance, Miss Thelma Aylor, of Burlington, and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Kellar and son, of Cincinnati.

REPUBLICANS MEET

At the call of county chairman, George Baker, of Beaver Precinct, about twenty-five Boone county Republicans met at the court house last Thursday evening. The purpose of the meeting was said to have been to choose a capable speaker to address the Boone county voters on the issues of the campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Greenup and Mr. and Mrs. William Greenup enjoyed a week-end visit with relatives near Lexington. Mrs. Claude Greenup remained for a few days.

MRS. RAY HERE THIS WEEK

All Democratic women in Boone county are urged to come and bring their friends to hear Mrs. Ray speak at the court house in Burlington, Saturday afternoon of this week. Mrs. Ray is recognized as one of the foremost speakers in the state and no one who hears will regret having put forth the effort to come to Burlington.

Miss Johnnie Dickerson, of Union is spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. William Greenup, in Burlington.

VERONA 4-H CLUB MEMBERS PLAN COMMUNITY MEET

Verona Willing Workers 4-H Club in cooperation with Verona Graded and High School is planning a community show and achievement exercises on next Thursday, November the 3rd. Each 4-H member who has completed his project for 1932 will receive a certificate of achievement from the State 4-H Club Department.

The show will include tobacco exhibits for both young and old, exhibits of girls sewing slub work and any other work which the patrons of the community map wish to display. Special prizes for the best 4-H exhibit of 2 hands each of trash, bugs, bright leaf and red leaf are being awarded by three leading Verona businessmen. All other work exhibited will be judged and first and second ribbons awarded.

A dairy meeting will also be held in connection with the above event. The purpose of this meeting will be to discuss dairy feeding problems for the coming winter and means under existing conditions to receive the most for the milk produced. Mr. Jesse Collins, from the College of Agriculture, will be the principal speaker.

There will be no entry fees, no admission charges and the patrons of the community are cordially invited to attend and take part. The event will begin at 1:15 and close at 3:15 p. m.

FLORENCE WOMEN

ORGANIZED DEMOCRATIC CLUB FRIDAY AFTERNOON—MRS. J. C. LAYNE IS ELECTED AS ITS PRESIDENT—"GOVERNMENT" IS CHOICE OF MEMBERS FOR STUDY COURSE—WILL MEET FIRST SATURDAY OF EACH MONTH—

The Democratic women of Florence organized a Women's Club there last Friday afternoon.

Mrs. J. C. Layne was elected president; Mrs. C. F. Blankenbaker, vice-president; Mrs. C. S. Acra, secretary; Mrs. M. G. Martin, treasurer. The regular monthly meeting will be held on the first Saturday in each month at the Building and Loan Association office in the Myers garage building.

They selected "Government" as their study course.

Every lady in Florence and surrounding territory is invited to join this club.

GOSPEL TABERNACLE

We are much encouraged over the increase of interest and attendance in Sunday School.

Everyone who attended last Sunday were greatly pleased over the fact that a group of visitors from Covington and Cincinnati were with us.

These folks brought musical instruments with them and a quartet of the girls sang and played several beautiful selections for us. We also enjoyed the good testimonies which some of them gave.

Sunday evenings Service was very well attended and a very good sermon was preached by Brother Hitchcock.

A group of five men have been appointed for a temporary board for the mission work. Next Thursday we shall study the third chapter of Luke. This Bible study hour proves helpful and interesting to anyone desiring to learn more of God's word.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Beemon were Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Tucker and family, of the Camp Ernst road.

Friends of Albert William Weaver are glad to see that he is able to be out again after an illness of several days.

The Burlington Bridge Club was entertained at the home of Mrs. Harold Conner on Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. L. T. Utz, of Florence, won the first prize, Mrs. C. L. Cropper getting second.

Willard Stephens, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Stephens, united with the local Baptist church at the morning service last Sunday. He will be baptized with those who united at the revival just closed.

Rev. Graden, pastor of the local M. E. church, spent the night last Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rouse in Burlington. He reported Sunday that someone had tried to steal his car during the night, as he found that one door catch had been battered and twisted.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wingate and daughter, of Erlanger, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Easton, of near Burlington.

EASTERN STAR MEETS

Four Star Chapter No. 387, O. E. S. held its annual Installation of Officers, Saturday evening, October 22nd, in the Masonic Hall at Burlington.

The following officers were installed: Lee Nora Acra, Worthy Matron. Owen S. Acra, Worthy Patron. Mary Ryle, Associate Matron. Ruth Kelly, Secretary. Virginia Yelton, Conductress. THE UNION LIGHT, HEAT & POWER CO. A Partner With the Public

With offices in Covington at Third and Court streets, and offices at various points, gas, water and electrical appliances service and is associated with the popular street car lines.

Mr. F. O. Vandercam, the general manager, and the other officials have left nothing undone in their efforts to provide a better service at all times. They also have offices and associated electric shop at 335 Madison street, known as "The Electric Shop," where a great line of food mixers, floor lamps, artistic lamps of all kinds, ironers, electric washing machines, heaters, heaters, fans, etc., is displayed at prices lowest ever. See this display of labor saving conveniences for the modern home.

The Union Light, Heat & Power Company is one of the model utilities of the country, rendering a complete and satisfactory service.

which has greatly aided in the building of the community not only as regards moral and civic progress, but also has been a most important factor in the growth of Covington and vicinity. Truly this is a twentieth century organization under the direction of competent and public spirited officers. Popularly known throughout this part of the country as "A Partner With the Public."

Service is most complete, covering adequate electric light, heat and power of the most modern and satisfactory character.

The operation of a modern and successful gas and electric light, heat and power plant is an undertaking that requires services of men of vast experience and comprehensive knowledge. This cannot be acquired in a day. It comes from long study and practical experience. This company has this work in charge of experts. A large concern with single capital, and resources. It has made electric light, gas, heat and power service its business.

At "The Electric Shop" it is possible to select appliances and fixtures that are in keeping with the rest of your furnishings and they are offered at very reasonable figures.

We wish to state that the officers and assistants have taken commendable interest in all propositions that furthered public improvement and that they have been willing and anxious to aid in the expansion and growth of the community at all times. Therefore it has merited the popularity and liberal support that it receives and we predict that if each town in the community became a famous metropolis, this company would continue to minister to our light, heat and power needs in the same admirable manner.

THE CINCINNATI GRAIN & HAY CO. All Kinds of Feeds

Located in Covington at 117-119 Pike street, under the management of Mr. A. A. Helle, who is popular with all farmers for reliable feeds and service at correct prices. Phone HEMlock 0132.

Since the starting of the Cincinnati Grain & Hay Co. in Covington, it has continually improved in order to more capably take care of the rapid increase in the business, until today their yards are one of the largest in Covington and the volume of business transacted monthly is enormous.

By means of their dependable business methods and earnest endeavors to serve they have established an enviable reputation among the farmers of this section. The farmers have come to know that at this place they are always assured of the lowest prices, correct weights and accommodations and courteous treatment.

Chief among the specialties carried is the selection of famous feeds, etc. Being thoroughly experienced in feeds for live stock, they carry only brands that are known as reliable, and sure dividend producers for the stock-feeder. You can always depend upon the various feeds sold or prepared at this place. Bring your feeding problems to them and they will be solved satisfactorily.

This establishment might be termed "A Partner With the Farmer," so efficiently are they serving his interests and in this Review we wish to publicly commend the Cincinnati Grain & Feed Co. upon their fair and honest methods.

C. SCOTT CHAMBERS Funeral Directors of the Highest Order

Located in Walton and offers an unsurpassed funeral service, maintaining complete equipment. Mr. Chambers is the well known directing head and is assisted by Mary Scott Grubbs and Wallace K. Grubbs. Phone Walton 35.

There is no vocation requiring for its successful prosecution a greater natural aptitude than that of the modern funeral director, and this particularly applies to this leading representative of the profession.

As is generally known, C. Scott Chambers is recognized as one of the most conscientious people in this section, and the distinction is well merited as the excellent service rendered in their practice will testify. It can truly be said that no others in this section engaged in calling of which they are capable experts, have made a close study of their business, or are better equipped to carry out all the work attendant upon the calling.

A modern funeral chapel is placed at the disposal of their patrons, which is not only an accommodation to those in apartments or homes with limited rooms, but is one of the most elegant establishments of this kind in the entire State.

It is quite proper and fitting in this business review that we give C. Scott Chambers commendable mention as being among the leading citizens, who by the successful practice of this necessary profession have gained naught but the good will of all whom they have served.

STOLL MEAT CO., Meat Market Southern Indiana's Leading Meat Market

This is a home-owned meat establishment with store at 320 Second street, and slaughter house on Park avenue Road, and is locally conducted by Messrs. Gus and Will Stoll, who employ local help and offer choice fresh and smoked meats which are smoked in hickory wood, at lowest prices, and invite our readers to try them if they have not already done so. Phone 42. Located in Aurora Ind.

This is a local institution with the interest of home at heart and the country at heart and it should receive the consideration of all.

To be able to make certain of getting the very best of fresh meats is a boon to every community. At this plant not only the most sanitary system is used in the process and consequently they are not only health-protecting but health-giving.

Their excellent meats are known not only in Aurora, but throughout this part of the country. The dealer has come to know that when he sells their brand, patrons come back for more of the same kind and the high quality of their meats has served to increase many dealers' trade. Once the customer uses this brand no other will satisfy them.

The public thus is assured of wholesale and retail packing house products right here at home and of the very highest grade. Thus, this institution merits your consideration and the liberal support both of the farmers and of the public.

The management has been closely allied with the large business interests of this section of the State for some time and has been instrumental in the upbuilding of this section of the country and Stoll Meat Company should receive the patronage of the entire people.

COVINGTON PAPER CO. Northern Kentucky's Only Paper Company

Located in Covington and moving this week to larger and more spacious quarters at 719 Madison Ave., which is a most convenient location. Mr. John R. Green, the manager, operates the only service of its kind in Northern Ky. and the business has grown due to the fair prices, wide selection and the dependability of this service. They supply many dealers in Northern Kentucky with twine, brooms, mops, school supplies, paper, bags, woodenware, etc., at lowest prices. This is a home-owned concern and gives prompt delivery. Phone HEMlock 3262.

This progressive wholesale paper house enjoys a large and increasing patronage throughout this part of the State, meeting and satisfying the demands of the retailers in a most satisfactory manner. As leaders in their line they of course carry the best grades and most popular brands of twine, brooms, paper bags, mops, and school supplies of goods in their line. They are recognized by the trade as dependable dealers with a superior service.

The large volume of business transacted here does not permit of goods becoming obsolete as their stocks move rapidly and are kept complete only by the receipt of daily shipments direct from the manufacturers.

Their ability to buy in large quantities creates a saving which they pass on to the retail merchant. Their complete service distinguishes this house above others of the ordinary kind in a similar line.

The Covington Paper Company have a host of patrons among the leading retail firms of this and the surrounding territory which is steadily increasing. This is attributed to their outstanding policy of filling all orders promptly and making expeditious delivery of the same. The Covington Paper Company is not only a well equipped and expertly operated concern, but it is also one of the essential features of the industrial and commercial organizations of the community and renders a service that is necessary to the onward progress of the community.

In making this review, we compliment on the manner in which the business of this institution is operated; upon the progressive policy

WILLIAM E. BETHEL

Located in Covington at 214 Second street, under the direction of Mr. Wm. E. Bethel, proprietor, who serves many people with fresh and delicious oysters, fish, game, etc. He conducts both a wholesale and retail business in poultry and always offers just the kind of poultry you desire, at a low price. Prices are always lowest at "Bethel." Phone HEMlock 9782.

Whenever any business house is able to conduct merchandising establishments where the public is able to obtain high grade poultry, fish and poultry at lower prices than usually sold, they are sure to succeed. Wm. E. Bethel operates just such an establishment, and here the people of not only Covington, but from the far surrounding country have learned that they are able to save materially on their purchases.

They offer the best grades of poultry (conducting both a wholesale and retail business) which the discriminating housewife desires because of their superiority in all ways. Their stock is composed of the freshest of high quality poultry, oysters, fish, etc.

There is no more public spirited citizen in Covington than the manager of this establishment, and we deem it most fitting that we give him commendable mention in this Business Review.

ED. E. WALKER & CO. Insurance

With office located in Covington at 119 Madison avenue, under the popular management of Mr. Ed. Walker, who features Fire and Casualty Insurance. Make this firm your insurance headquarters. Phone HEMlock 0106.

This agency is among the most prominent underwriters in this part of the country, offering not only large and strong companies, but a service that is both magnanimous and metropolitan. Representing as it does some of the largest, strongest and most popular companies that this well known insurance office is operated by insurance experts and enjoys a large patronage in the insurance business in the community. Ever since Ed. E. Walker & Co. began operations in the country it has been at the service of its patrons at all times, willing and anxious to give any information desired and assuring all persons that no obligation was incurred by asking questions. Courtesy and accommodation have been the bywords of its progress and the hundreds of clients who have consulted and purchased insurance at this office are enthusiastic for this commendable policy which has ever been increasing the patronage of this establishment.

NEWPORT & COVINGTON FINANCE CORP.

This popular finance firm makes quick and confidential small loans on household goods and automobiles at low rates of interest and renders an unequalled small loan service in Northern Kentucky. Mr. A. J. Fischer, is the well known directing head and sees to it that theirs is an efficient, helpful, confidential and prompt loan service. Offices located in Covington in the First National Bank Building, and in Newport, in the Newport Finance Building at Fourth and York, Room 302. Consult either office on all matters pertaining to small loans. Phone HEMlock 8000.

This well known and responsible financing institution is one of the strongest organizations of its kind to be found in Kentucky. Its organization was effected in response to the demands of the community for the purpose of making loans to worthy people who found themselves temporarily short of money. Since the founding of the Newport & Covington Finance Corp. its outstanding policy has been one of accommodation and convenience to the customer. Liberal without recklessness, and conservative without smallness.

We here wish to compliment the Newport & Covington Finance Corp. for their most essential service rendered to all in the most admirable manner in the hour of need. It matters not under what circumstances you wish to consult them in the matter of financial assistance, you will find the managers and assistants at your service.

Seven hundred families have returned to the farm in Knox county in the last three years.

Fourteen carloads of agricultural limestone were shipped into Graves county in September. Much of it was hauled 12 to 15 miles from the railroad.

H. ELLERMAN & SONS

Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothing

This leading men's and boys' style and economy store has two convenient locations, one in Covington, at Madison Ave. and Pike St., under the management of Mr. H. Ellerman, and a modern store in Newport, Ky. under the management of Mr. Bernard H. Ellerman.

By means of these two popular stores, they can buy larger selections and quantities, consequently receiving large discounts from the manufacturers which are passed on to the customer. Before buying a suit, shoes, topcoat or overcoat, visit "Ellerman's" first.

In this part of the state the needs and demands of the male population are more than satisfied at these well known stores. The progressive establishment is strictly modern and up-to-date and is stocked with a class of goods that would do credit to much larger cities.

H. Ellerman & Sons offers a line of clothes which represent the highest type for a gentleman of the period and is a nationally advertised line of goods such as Hart, Schaffner & Marx which not only the owners of this store stand behind, but the manufacturers will back up in every detail.

A large number of men of this section regard these two stores as the logical places to secure fine clothes. Here are carried stocks of all kinds in all styles and looking, dress shoes of every description, nationally popular for style, price and quality.

There is nothing the men of discriminating taste appreciate more than an opportunity to satisfy the natural masculine longing for distinctiveness in dress without fear of being imitated. Here is a store, where the most exclusive preferences may be satisfied and yet at a price that is not prohibitive to persons of ordinary buying ability, or in other words, they have prices to fit every purse.

These two popular stores feature not only the latest for men and young men which adds class and style to your appearance, but carries at all times a complete assortment of underwear, shirts, ties, socks, hats and caps, shoes, and in fact, everything in the men's line.

The same high grade qualities prevail throughout the entire stock. Whether it be anything from a shirt to a more pretentious article of wear, he will find at the establishments of H. Ellerman & Sons a wide range from which to make selections.

SMITH & MEYERS Funeral Home

This prominent firm of funeral directors is located in a modern funeral home at 630 Scott street, in Covington and is thoroughly equipped to conduct any funeral as their reputation testifies. Phone HEMlock 4234.

As is generally known, Smith & Meyer are recognized as among the most conscientious people in this line in this section, and the distinction is well merited as the excellent service rendered in this practice will testify.

The funeral home is fully in accordance with the latest and most metropolitan plan of diplomatic service for it has become the accepted system in larger cities for people even in the most luxurious homes to make use of such perfectly appointed funeral chapels as this one. They furnish strictly up-to-date equipment, including the best of motor vehicles.

It is highly proper and fitting in this, our Business Review, that we give Smith & Meyer commendable mention as being among our leading and useful citizens, who by the successful practice of the necessary profession have gained naught but the good will of all whom they have served.

H. A. WEICHELMAN Drugs

Located in Covington at 440 Madison avenue (conveniently downtown), under the popular direction of Mr. H. A. Weichelman, the proprietor, who carefully compounds all prescriptions and features medicines, remedies, patent medicines, toilet articles, etc., at reasonable prices. This is a home-owned drug store. Let them fill your next prescription. Phone HEMlock 5901.

Since this well known drug store has been engaged in the drug business its popularity has grown until it is known by practically everybody in this section.

The first requisite of any successful business must be courtesy and then quality at the right price must be offered. This has been the H. A. Weichelman policy in conducting his business.

In this prescription department only the purest drugs are used and the prices are very reasonable.

Every department of this store is most complete and the wants of the people are taken care of in a manner that is commended by all who have had business dealings with them.

In this review we wish to compliment Mr. H. A. Weichelman on his constant courtesy and the efficient manner which he conducts his business and predict for him an ever increasing patronage.

GUNPOWDER

E. K. Tanner made this scribe a pleasant call on Friday last week. Elbert Rice, of Covington, was here on Thursday of last week in the interest of the Cincinnati Hay and Grain Company.

Rev. Crume, who has been holding a two weeks meeting in Louisville, arrived home last Monday.

HORR'S JEWELRY AND OPTICAL

Located in Aurora, at 405 Second street and features a wide selection of jewelry, gifts, etc., under the management of Mrs. Leale Horr.

Mr. C. O. Sieglitz, is in charge of the Optical Department, and a well known Optometrist is at the store on Wednesdays and Fridays. If troubled with the eyes, consult him and he will correct your trouble. Phone 242-M.

They carry an extensive line of diamonds, watches, pins, silverware, etc., backed by the strong firm guarantee.

An important feature of their business is a well equipped repair department which is in charge of able and efficient craftsmen.

The selection of birthday, wedding or holiday gifts is not an easy task, but when you visit the immense stock carried here the task not only becomes much easier, but is a real pleasure.

Their optical department is fully equipped for the latest scientific devices for the correction of faulty vision and relief from eye strain.

When you have your eyes fitted with glasses at this place, you can rest assured your case is in the hands of expert optometrists who diagnose your case and give you a modern and scientific relief from your eye troubles.

Our advice to the buying public of this section is to buy at Horr's Jewelry and Optical Store, where high quality and moderate prices prevail.

FALL BEST TIME TO PLANT FRUIT TREES

The horticultural department of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, says late fall is the best time to set fruit trees in this state. November 15 to December 15 are about the dates of the best time, in most years.

Fall-set trees often begin growth better the following spring and frequently continue to show better growth, even after several years, than trees set in the spring.

When trees are set in late fall, the tops are dormant, but the soil temperature is high enough so that root growth may continue for a time. When trees are planted in the spring the buds open soon after the y are set and the water loss from transpiration retards root development. Some trees, such as cherries, are rather difficult to transplant and a smaller loss of trees results when they are set in the fall.

It is pointed out that more careful preparation of the soil is usually possible in the fall. The desired varieties are more easily obtained when the trees are ordered early for fall delivery. When spring comes the work of establishing the orchard already has been completed and the trees are in a position to start into growth with the coming of the first favorable weather.

Early fall planting is not desirable, because trees at that time have not had a chance to mature their wood properly and winter injury may result.

One of Burlington's eye sores is being repaired. For many months Washington street, running directly north and south thru the town has been in such a terrible condition. Workmen for the past few days have been giving it a coat of tar and crushed stone, after which it will be given a top coat of oil.

Ralph Cason, long recognized as a competent tobacco raiser, brought to L. C. Weaver, one day last week, one of the prettiest stalks of cured tobacco that we have ever seen. This tobacco, which he raised on his Middle creek farm, bore sixteen leaves of the best silky cigarette quality and, if there is such a thing possible, it certainly will command a fine price.

The Ladies Aid of Florence Baptist Church are making arrangements for their Turkey Supper to be served in the Church Basement November 19th from 5 to 9 o'clock. Money to be used for the building fund.

Baseball Game at Midway Park next Sunday October 30th, if weather permits. Come out and help cheer for the Midway boys.

How Is Business?

This question is often asked these days and we find that 90% of the people asked will agree that considerable change for the better is taking place.

Factories and Mills are now purchasing raw materials before a rise in price occurs.

We note many changes for the better in financial conditions.

A complete return to normal times can not come over night. The gradual improvement in business is not observed usually until a wide comparison can be noted.

YOUNG WOMEN

ADD NEW MEMBERS TO DEMOCRATIC CLUB AT MEETING AT HOME OF MARY LOUISE BENAKER—PLAN TO ASSIST CAMPAIGN ORGANIZATION.

Following the address of Mrs. Eugene Ray at the court house, Saturday afternoon, the Young Women's Democratic Club of Boone County held a meeting at the home of the chairman. Four new names were added to the membership list.

The county campaign chairman, C. L. Cropper, met with the club and advised how it would be most effective in helping in the campaign. It was decided that each precinct chairman of the Young Women's Democratic Club should offer the services of her organization to the Men's precinct chairman.

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL. School was dismissed Friday on account of the Northern Kentucky Educational Association held at Covington. All teachers attended and we hope that this day was well spent and that each and every pupil will profit by his or her home room teacher being there.

Mrs. Eddins and Miss Cropper have a new traveling library from Frankfort. This is a great advantage to the children of the second, third and fourth grades. It gives them an advantage as how to learn to use a library. Some pupils from Mrs. Eddins room acts as librarians and this way they keep tab on all books.

Chapel program will be conducted by the sophomores, Friday afternoon, November 4, at 2:30 P. M. Come and enjoy the program.

Cheer leaders will be elected one day this week. All who wish to try out will lead a yell and then be voted on.

Those persons from the fifth and sixth grades winning places in the tournament were:

Ruby Cotton, first in English. Roberta Berkshire, third in English. Keith Vice, second in Reading. Harold Vest, second in Spelling. Harold Garrison, third in Spelling. Dorothy McClure, second in 100-yard dash.

Ruby Cotton won a higher score than any eighth grader in the county, and we expect to hear that she will be a state winner when the scores are read out at Lexington, Friday evening.

Also Betsy Eddins and Harold Snow from the seventh and eighth grades. Betsy winning in Run and Catch and Harold in Baseball Throw.

We hope that by the next tournament, which is to be held in the spring, that these seconds and the thirds mentioned above will come up to a first and we will bring home the cup for first place.

Those winning first prizes at the Halloween party Monday were as follows:

Most Comical—Mrs. Dortha Ryle and Mrs. Julia Ryle.
Most Clever—Mrs. R. E. Berkshire.
Best—Marjorie Henley.

Children.
Most Clever—Joan Yelton and Geraldine Yelton.
Most Comical—Marvin Rouse Porter.

Best—Madge Rouse.

At the elimination tournament Friday night, New Haven won in Boys' declamation and Florence in Girls' declamation and Constance in the Chorus. We congratulate these schools in winning first and hope that they may win first place at Lexington.

NEW HAVEN FARMERS' ALLIANCE MEETS FRIDAY NIGHT, NOVEMBER 4TH

The New Haven Farmers' Alliance will hold their regular meeting at the New Haven School on Friday Night, November 4th at 7:15, according to Mr. S. B. Sleet, chairman.

The New Haven Alliance meets regularly the first Friday night of each month. The meetings represent a gathering of farmers to discuss farm problems. The local invites all farmers to meet with them.

CORNCRACKER CLUB

On Friday, November 18th, the club will hold its last meeting. At this time the number of points will be scored. Louise Klesner is one of the outstanding members of the club, having been in club work for six years and winning a first every year. For this meeting a special program is being arranged.

YOUNG DEMOCRATIC ORGANIZATION

A Young Men's Democratic Club was organized last week by Sen. Louis Arnett, of Lexington. Arthur Maurer, of Burlington, was elected president. Names of other officers will be published at a later date.

Deaths

LEWIS S. BEEMON

The oldest citizen of this community passed to his reward last Saturday afternoon.

Lewis S. Beemon had reached and passed his ninety-second milestone in life's pilgrimage, death finally being caused by general infirmities. The deceased was unmarried and his only sister, Mrs. America Tanner, had preceded him to the grave. He was a son of Elijah Beemon and wife, who were citizens of the Hopeful neighborhood. He was a stalwart, honest, thrifty and industrious citizen.

He was a member of the Hopeful Lutheran Church, where funeral services were held Monday, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Harlow Edgar Haas. Burial in the adjoining cemetery.

C. Scott Chambers, of Walton, was in charge of the arrangements for burial.

MRS. MARY CRAVEN

Mrs. Mary Craven passed away last Friday morning, October 28, 1932, after an illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mike Dye. She was a good Christian, very active in church work until ill health prevented. She was loved and respected by all who knew her. Mrs. Craven is survived by one son, George, and three daughters, Mrs. Mike Dye and Mrs. W. A. Bullock, of this place and Mrs. Edward Aylor of California.

Funeral services were held at the Burlington Baptist Church, of which she was a member, Monday at 2 P. M.

START NEW POULTRY DEMONSTRATION YEAR

The new poultry year for those poultrymen keeping records in cooperation with the County Agent and the College of Agriculture many poultrymen in the county starts on November 1st. There are many interested in the building up of their flocks and interested in the keeping of demonstration flock records.

Demonstration flock record books for 1932-33 have just been received at the County Agent's office. Those flock owners receiving these books, please send receipt records and mail a report to the County Agent's office once each month. Flocks at the end of the year which come up for standard requirements are eligible for state certification.

Baptismal services for the recent additions to the local Baptist church were held at the Florence Baptist church last Sunday afternoon. The following were immersed by Rev. F. E. Walker: Hayden Hendy, Willard Stephens, Harry Cook, Ethel Snow and William Greenup.

HAMILTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Hamilton Second Annual Free Community Fair will be held at the Hamilton School Friday, November 11th. This fair is being sponsored by the Silver Leaguers 4-H Club of Hamilton. Community members are urged to come and bring products which they wish to exhibit. Prizes will be awarded for the best.

Hamilton's "fighting five," clad in the beloved purple and gold, will clash with the Verona squad at Hamilton, November 11th. This game marks the beginning of the basketball season, which we are working forward to with the biggest anticipations.

Marie Kirtley, a member of our junior class, entertained with a Halloween Party at her home, Saturday evening, November 29. Grotesque, comical and fancy objects stationed themselves on the Kirtley estate. A good time was had by all.

Temperance Day was observed at this school Friday, October 28. Rev. Bradley, Methodist minister at Big Bone and Hughes Chapel, gave a very interesting talk on the subject of the day.

Hamilton Parent-Teachers Association will hold their second meeting at the school house, Thursday evening, November 3rd. The speaking which was to be done by Sen. O. M. Rogers has been called off and entertainment will be furnished by the students. The P-T-A. will serve lunch.

LOCAL HERDS LEAD ASS'N

The Guernsey herd of Mr. Joel Gray, of near Burlington, and the Jersey herd of Kite ad Purdy, of near Waterloo, lead the Northern Kentucky Dairy Herd Improvement Association during September in butter fat production. This is the fourth consecutive month that Boone county herds have led in the association.

The ten cow Guernsey herd of Joel Gray averaged 588 pounds of milk and 34.2 pounds of fat. The sixteen cow herd of Kite and Purdy with two dry cows averaged 495 pounds of milk and 29.1 pounds of fat.

Harry Holtzclaw, of Lancaster, Kentucky, was a Sunday visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cropper.

Charles S. Finnell, of Verona, has on exhibit in the county clerk's office here a copy of a paper published at Kingston, Ulster county, Virginia, in 1800. The paper was brought from Virginia by Mr. Finnell's grandfather, who made the trip to Boone county by ox team about 1825. Anyone interested in looking at this copy should see it as soon as possible as it will remain on exhibit for only a short time.

WIRE BASKET BALL

There will be a WIRE BASKET BALL game at the local gym Friday evening at 7 o'clock between the high school team and the local church team.

Local News

County Attorney B. H. Riley, has returned to his home, near Union, after several weeks of treatment in a Cincinnati hospital. He is said to be improving.

Arthur and Robert Maurer, Lillard Scott, of Bellevue, and Norris Berkshire, of Petersburg, returned Sunday evening, following a two weeks Coon hunting trip thru the mountains of North Carolina. The moonlight nights cut them down some, but in spite of the fact that their catch was nothing was nothing to rave about, they enjoyed a wonderful trip and were delighted with that section of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Brown and son, Bobbie, enjoyed a week-end visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Stephens, at Petersburg.

Cline Vye, who is attending college at Georgetown, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vye, of Woolper Creek neighborhood.

George Griffith, of Limaburg, who has been ill for some time, was a county seat visitor Monday afternoon on this week.

Charles Long, of Florence, was a caller on old acquaintances in Burlington Thursday afternoon.

Leonard Wingate and his mother, of Erlanger, were Burlington visitors Tuesday afternoon.

The most important presidential election in the history of the United States approaches. It is your duty to go to the polls next Tuesday and cast your ballot for your choice.

Esquire Sherman Burcham, of Bellevue, was a business visitor at the court house Monday morning.

A missionary program under the direction of Miss Mary Beas Cropper was rendered at the local Baptist church last Sunday morning, instead of the regular services.

Joe Brady and Elbert Loudon, of Bellevue, were visitors at the Recorder sanctum Tuesday morning.

GOSPEL TABERNACLE

On October 23, 1932, Sunday School was opened and led by Brother Floyd Hitchcock. Each Sunday shows an increase in attendance, for which we are truly thankful.

The Sunday School lessons for this entire quarter are very interesting indeed, for they deal with the Christian's life from many angles.

Quite a large number attended the Sunday night service and were well paid for coming out, for Brother Hitchcock spoke on "The Second Coming in Regard to the Jews."

Wednesday evening a Cottage Prayer Meeting was held at the home of Mr. Alfred Perry.

Thursday evening began on the third Chapter of the Book of Luke. This Bible Study Hour certainly grows more instructive each week.

Remember our regular order of Services.
Sunday School—2:30 each Sunday afternoon.
Preaching Service—7:30 each Sunday evening.
Bible Study—7:30 each Thursday evening.

HAMILTON COMMUNITY FAIR TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 11

Hamilton Free Community Fair will be held at the school building, Friday November 11th, according to Prof. Ruben Asbury, chairman of the event, with a display of agricultural and home products, a 4-H Club show, a 4-H Club achievement program and a special program by the school.

The event will be a friendly community educational and recreational gathering. Ribbons but no money will be offered on the display of the various exhibits. The patrons of the community and others who are interested are cordially invited to attend. The program will begin at 12:30 p. m.

The mask dance given at the Conner restaurant was well attended last Wednesday.

Democratic Campaign Comes To Successful Close Saturday Night

WHY GO SOUTH?

Two wild ducks, evidently tired of flying all the way south and back each winter, have decided to make their home with the tame ducks on the farm of Hubert Conner, near Hebron. Indeed, they have no other choice now. Last Friday, Mr. Conner noticed them alight on his pond and begin to mingle with the home fowls. He called his ducks to the barn to feed them and the wild brothers followed them into the feeding shed, where Mr. Conner captured them and clipped their wings. They seem to be perfectly satisfied, but if they go south now, they'll have to hitch hike.

TOBACCO SALES IN GEORGIA AND CAROLINAS

Many Boone county tobacco growers are interested in knowing how tobacco is selling in the south and south-east. The following information has been secured from the marketing department of the College of Agriculture by the County Agent.

Georgia markets with all the crops sold, the 1931 average was $6.41 per hundred and the 1932 crop $10.41 per hundred.

North Carolina—Wilson market, with the season up to October 13th, the price for 1931 averaged $9.01 per hundred and 1932 $10.20 per hundred.

South Carolina—August and September the market averaged $9.15 for 1931 and $11.46 for 1932.

The lower grades show more improvement than the better grades.

Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. John Burton and family, of the Bellevue road, were: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stephens and daughter, and Mrs. Dora Griggs, all of Cincinnati.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siskman and daughter were Sunday guests of friends in Cincinnati.

William Phillips, of Madisonville, Ohio, was visiting his mother, Mrs. B. E. Aylor, of near Burlington.

Members of the Epworth League and their friends were guests of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Norris at a Halloween party last Friday evening.

Ed Osborne, of Florence, was a business visitor at the county seat Tuesday afternoon.

County Judge N. E. Riddell, Deputy Sheriff W. B. Cotton, A. B. Renaker, cashier of the Peoples Deposit Bank, and R. E. Berkshire attended the Barkley-Spence Democratic rally at Williamstown last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. L. C. Weaver is suffering from an attack of the Flu at this writing.

COWS COST $64.50

—D. H. I. A. NEWS

The average cow at two years of age costs $64.50. This figure is important for the dairymen of Boone county who are wondering whether they save heifer calves or sell them. The above figures were secured thru a study of the cost of producing 63 heifers on 12 central Kentucky farms for the 12 months period ending February 1st, 1932, made by the farm management and dairy departments of the College of Agriculture. It cost the high farm in this study $108.40 and the low herd $33.44 per head to produce a two year old heifer.

The cost of keeping a herd bull for six months on central Kentucky farms during the same period averaged $85.28 per year. It cost the high farm $152.85 and the low farm $42.54 per year. It is interesting to note the wide differences in costs but is also interesting to note the amount which these important dairy factors are amounting to each year. Efficiency in production cannot be overlooked in all parts of Boone county's agriculture according to county agent H. R. Forkner. Individual efficiencies are the most outstanding factors in all studies.

Friends of Boone Rye, of Woolper Heights, will be greatly pleased to learn that he is much improved after a protracted illness.

BEAVER AND RABBIT HARE VOTED ON FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NIGHTS—FIVE SPEAKERS ON PLATFORM AT LATTER MEETING—CONSTANCE AND BELLEVUE WILL BE FINAL MEETINGS

The liveliest campaign ever before conducted in Boone County, according to the oldest political sages, comes to a close on Saturday night of this week at Bellevue.

Since the last issue of the Recorder two meetings have been held, at Beaver and Rabbit Hash on Friday and Saturday nights, respectively. The Glee Club did not accompany chairman Cropper and his speakers to either of these points on account of the lack of a piano, but nevertheless, both were enthusiastic meetings.

Jim Sleet's store was packed and jammed to hear Miss Mary Louise Renaker and Judge Lassing, while the Rabbit Hash folks were fortunate enough to hear the most diversified program yet offered thru-out the campaign. Besides Miss Renaker and Judge Lassing, Newton Sullivan, Congressman Spence and Commonwealth's Attorney Yager spoke.

All of these addresses were among the best yet heard. Especial mention should be made of Mr. Sullivan's speech, since it was his second effort on the stump. His marked improvement over his first effort was indeed noteworthy.

As this is being written, the Hamilton School meeting, which was scheduled for last Thursday night has not yet been held, but has been moved up until tonight (Wednesday). The date was changed on account of a conflict.

Program there on Thursday night, Constance and Bellevue, therefore, close what has been not only a great campaign, but a very enjoyable one as well. As a result of the efforts of the campaign committee and their associates, it is being freely predicted that Boone county's majority will approach, if not surpass, the largest ever given a Democratic candidate for President. So far, James M. Cox holds the record he attained in 1920.

LOCAL 4-H CLUB BOY SPEAKS OVER WCKY

Carroll C. Rice, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Rice, of Burlington, a member of the Burlington Edge Ribbon 4-H Club and winner of the State Butter Fat Production Contest will speak in the National 4-H Club Achievement Program over Radio Station WCKY on this coming Saturday, November 5th at 11:30 a. m.

Saturday, November, the 5th is National 4-H Club Achievement Day and the 4-H Club program will be broadcast from coast to coast over a national radio hookup of 56 stations. The program will last from 11:30 to 12:30 (central standard time) and will present many points of interest not only to 4-H members, but to the public as a whole.

The National 4-H program will give a broader view of what members are doing. Two hundred and ninety-three Boone county 4-H Club members, 23,000 Kentucky 4-H Club members and approximately 900,000 4-H Club members in the U. S. are making plans to congratulate close by radios this coming Saturday not only to listen to reports by members, but also to be met by the United States Marine band and other points of interest. Don't forget the time—LISTEN IN.

On next Sunday, November 6th, there will be a Rally Day service at the Hebron Lutheran Sunday School, which will begin at 10:00 o'clock. There will be a home coming church service at 11:00 o'clock. Everyone is welcome.

HARRISON AT WALTON

Mayor Harrison, of Louisville, will be the principal speaker at a Republican Rally to be held in the high school auditorium at Walton, on Friday evening of this week. It will be recalled that Mayor Harrison was the Republican candidate for Governor last fall and is very popular with the rank and file of his party. The public is cordially invited to attend the meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Utz and daughter, Mary and scribe and wife were very pleasantly entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rouse, near Big Bone Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Pettit called on this scribe last Sunday afternoon.

A Mr. Sharp, who is manipulating the business on the Ogden farm, took seriously ill last Saturday night very suddenly, but is somewhat better at this writing.

After a sojourn of about four years in this neighborhood, Mr. and Mrs. James Pettit moved to Florence last week. We are sorry to lose them as neighbors, but our loss will be Florence's gain.

We had a pretty good specimen of winter weather on Thursday of last week; our first snow fell and according to the saying we will have twenty-seven snows this winter.

RABBIT HASH

Bro. Graden has been delivering some good sermons at the M. E. church the past week and he and his wife spent the week-end with B. C. Kirtley and family.

Bro. Sam Bradley preached a good sermon at the K. of P. Hall on Sunday afternoon. There will be services there once every month by someone.

A good sized crowd attended the Democratic speaking at the K. of P. Hall here Saturday evening. Several speakers were present.

Several enjoyed a Halloween party at Reuben Kirtley's Saturday evening.

The Aid met with Mrs. Berta Clore Thursday. Next meeting will be with Mrs. Lou Van Ness on November 10.

Misses Paye and Marie Conner spent from Saturday until Tuesday with home folks here from Midway, Kentucky.

Mr. Paul Aylor and wife, Mr. Franklin Clore and wife spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Z. T. Stephens.

Mr. Joe Stephens and wife called on W. D. Kelly and children Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Ryle spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. Anna Ryle.

Robert H. Wilson and family spent Saturday night and Sunday with Russell Stephens and family.

There will be a Pie Social at the Maple Hill School House Saturday night, November 5th. All ladies are requested to bring pies.

CONSTANCE

Last Friday, October 28th, the following members from the Constance P. T. A. attended the Sixth District P. T. A. at Newport, Ky.: Mrs. George Kottmyer, Mrs. Oliver Kottmyer, Mrs. Tillie Hempling, Mrs. Flora Prabel, Mrs. Geo. Helst, Mrs. Fred Prabel, Mrs. W. E. Zimmer and Mrs. H. E. Kottmyer.

On Saturday night, November 19, the Constance P. T. A. will give an "Oyster Supper" in the School basement. Everyone is cordially invited.

Starting Sunday, October 30th, the Constance Christian Church will have a Revival for two weeks. The services will be conducted by Bro. M. M. Scott. Everybody is welcome.

About two weeks ago the following pupils from the Constance School took the County Test to determine who would represent Boone County at Lexington, Ky. in State Tournament. The following pupils placed in either first, second or third place in every subject.

OWLS' POINT

The work on Mr. James Rice's house is progressing nicely, the weather being favorable for such work.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Clore took dinner with Mrs. Mary Kelly Thursday and visited Mrs. Clore's uncle, Mr. Lewis Sullivan in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelton Kelly entertained at dinner Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Pope and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Sorrell spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Buckler and family.

Nora Mae and Zophe Stephens and Alvin and Clayton Clore attended the tournament at Burlington Saturday.

Mrs. Stanley Clore was calling on Mrs. W. S. Stephens Friday afternoon.

Mr. W. L. Stephens spent Sunday with his brother, Chas. H. Stephens, and family.

Stanley Stephens still continues to butcher every Friday. The cool weather proves very favorable for that line of business.

Will Rowland has moved his sawmill to Lick Creek and is doing some sawing for people in that community.

Lillard Scott of McVine and a few friends are spending a few weeks in the mountains of North Carolina, hunting.

The straw vote of the States seems to change but the "Owl" and his family remain true to the Republican party, for they still call—Hoo-Hoo-Hoover.

HOPEFUL

Miss Emile Beal entertained with a surprise party Saturday evening, October 29th in honor of her brother Henry's twenty-first birthday. Those present were: Helen Borders, Albert French, Alfred Robbins, Mabel Wilson, Frances Schreier, Willie Beal, Robert Wilson, Betty Garhauser, William Borders, Elmer Borders, Tom Price, Bea Price, William Garhauser, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Pierce, Emelle and Henry Beal and several friends from Elsmere. Delicious refreshments were served and at a late hour all left, wishing Mr. Beal many more happy birthdays.

HEBRON

Miss Lorena Hater of Berea, Ky., spent a few days here the past week with her brother and family.

There will be a business meeting and election of officers of the Lutheran Ladies Aid Thursday afternoon, November 19th.

Rally Day at the Lutheran Sunday School, next Sunday, church services at 11:00 P. M. We hope to have a large attendance at both services.

Inspect Property Before Day Of Sale

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Byers, of Grayson county, arrived in town Tuesday night with their family. They are on their way to the home of Mr. Byers, near the town of Grayson.

A number of the young society from the village attended a very pleasant Halloween party Saturday night given by Joseph Jones at the home of his father, Harmon Jones, near Beaver.

Dr. O. E. Senour's residence, occupied by the Omer Black family, caught fire late Monday and would have burned but for the timely aid of a volunteer fire brigade as there was a terrific wind blowing at the time.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Robert Huxy, Miss Jane Ebelton Bristol motored over to Piner Monday night to attend a bridge party given by Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. Dunn.

Mrs. J. J. Garrison spent Saturday afternoon in Erlanger with Mr. and Mrs. John Woodford Conner. The many friends of Mrs. B. L. Norman will be pleased to learn that she is home from the Erner Hospital much improved, tho she still is confined to her room.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Day and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Rouse, of Erlanger, were guests Thursday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Rouse.

Mrs. Joseph A. Huey spent the mid-week in Burlington with her brother, John Maurice Lassing, and Mrs. Lassing.

At the scholastic tournament in Burlington Thursday night, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Williams' son, Master Tommy Williams, won first prize in the Boys' Declamation and second prize in the Girls' Declamation contest. The contest was held at the home of Mr. Williams.

Miss Ann Gowing and Mrs. Ed. Haldridge, of Covington, were one of the week guests of Miss Nell Jo Wicks.

Miss Shirley Jack, of Beaver, spent Tuesday night with her friend Mrs. Lassing Huey.

The High school pupils at New Haven, under the skilled tutelage of Prof. Moore and Miss West, put on a very clever Halloween program in the auditorium Monday afternoon.

BULLITTVILLE

Mr. Frank Engleton and Miss Lillian Lenhof were united in marriage Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Ida Watts has returned to her home from Ludlow, where she has been paper hanging for the Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dinn and daughter were calling on Mrs. Ida Watts Sunday afternoon.

The Halloween party given by the Church was very successful and all spent a delightful evening.

BASEBALL

Colie Simpson's All-Stars, who gained a victory over Bob and Gene's team at Kimmere last Sunday by a 6-5 score, will play Bellevue at Bellevue next Sunday afternoon. Brady and Stephens will form the local battery. This no doubt will ring down the curtain for the season.

W. H. Byers, a Grayson county farmer, cut 15 tons of korean lespedeza hay from six acres sowed in wheat last spring.

Rockcastle county alfalfa grown according to suggestions of the county agent averaged four tons of hay to the acre.

ROOSEVELT WINS; BOONE CASTS RECORD VOTE

Deaths

ARTHUR C. APPEL

Arthur C. Appel, aged 61 years, passed away Wednesday night at his home, Locust and Cowie Aves., Erlanger, Ky., after an illness of two years with carcinoma of the stomach. The remains were taken to the Tallaferro Funeral Home for preparation.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lizzie Appel, one son, Jule, of Cincinnati and two married daughters who reside in Illinois. His body was forwarded to Belleville, Ill. Friday afternoon, his old home. After appropriate services at the Lutheran Church Saturday afternoon, interment followed in that city.

Funeral director Philip Tallaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

AUGUST HERMANN

August Hermann, aged 76 years, was found dead in bed Saturday afternoon at his home, Garvey and Shaw Aves., Elsmere, Ky. From condition of his body it is thought he must have died some time Thursday night. Coroner Harry F. Donnelly, pronounced death due to apoplexy.

Mr. Hermann was one of the pioneer citizens of Elsmere and Erlanger, having been in the bakery and grocery business for over forty years, before he retired. He is survived by four sons, Joseph, August, William and Charles, besides several grandchildren and great grandchildren.

Six grandsons acted as pallbearers. Funeral was from the Tallaferro Funeral Home Tuesday at 8:30 A. M. with requiem high mass at St. Henry's church at 9 A. M. by the Rev. G. C. Bealer, pastor, after which interment took place in St. Mary's cemetery by the side of his wife.

MRS. SUSANNE RYLE

Mrs. Susanne Ryle passed away at her home on Wednesday morning, at 8 A. M., following a few days suffering from pneumonia. Her funeral took place from the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. B. Berkshire, on Wednesday, at 1 P. M., conducted by her pastor, Rev. Dunaway, minister of Petersburg Baptist Church, in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends, after which the remains were conveyed to Florence cemetery and laid to rest along side of her husband, who preceded her to the grave several years ago. She leaves to mourn her death, one son, Harry Ryle, of Erlanger; two daughters, Mrs. J. B. Berkshire and Mrs. Pat Brindley, of Petersburg; three grandchildren, Dr. Floyd Ryle, of Lawrenceburg, Frank Berkshire, of Lawrenceburg, and Mrs. Lucille Gridley, and a lot of relatives.

The pallbearers were: J. B. Berkshire, Harry Ryle, Pat Brindley, Frank Berkshire, Max Gridley, Dr. Floyd Ryle. The funeral was in charge of Chambers and Grubbs.

MARY ROBERTS CRAVEN

Mary Roberts Craven, daughter of Thomas and Roxanna Roberts, was born January 8, 1849, at Middle Creek near Bellevue, Boone county. She united with the Middle Creek Baptist Church at the age of 18, and afterward removed her membership to Burlington where she remained a faithful member to the end.

She was united in marriage to the late Washington Craven in 1870. To this union was born seven children. Two dying in infancy. One daughter, Mrs. H. S. Tanner, preceded her to the grave sixteen years ago. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Ella Beasley of Pomona, California, one son, G. W. Craven, three daughters, Mrs. Mike Dye and Mrs. W. E. Aylor of California, fifteen grand children and twenty-three great grand children.

She passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mike Dye, Friday, October 28, after which she was removed to the home of Mrs. W. A. Bullock.

Funeral services were conducted at Burlington Baptist Church October 31, at 2 P. M. by her pastor, Rev. Walker and Rev. J. W. Campbell. Six grandsons bore her casket.

WINNERS IN VERONA

A good community 4-H Club show was held by Verona Willing Workers at the schoolhouse in Verona on last Thursday, November 3. Tobacco, girls sewing and poultry club work was exhibited. Mr. Earl Robinson of Walton judged the tobacco and Miss Weaver of Verona, judged the girls sewing. Following the show, Mr. Jesse Collins, field agent in dairying from the College of Agriculture, gave a discussion on dairy feeding and management problems.

First places in the tobacco show were won by Frances Ransom and Robert Gibson, second place by Wilbur and Ira Harris and third place by Willis Cleek. Miss Beulah Winans won first place in the poultry exhibits. Miss Ida Mae Underhill won first and Miss Gene Roberts second in unit 1 sewing. Miss Geneva Vest won first and Margaret Hoffman second on towel. Miss Gene Roberts first and Miss Ida Mae Underhill second on kitchen holder.

Verona Willing Workers not only have the largest club on record, but are securing the highest percent of completions according to the report of the county agent. Forty three members are enrolled. Mr. Frances Ransom is president, Verne Sturdivent, vice president and Beulah Winans, secretary.

BASKETBALL

The Florence Knights and Nightingales opened their Basketball season November 4th with a game with Crescent Springs at Florence. The Knights played one of the most interesting and speedy games ever seen in this community, both teams being unusually fast and accurate. The final score was 29 to 25 in favor of Florence. Captain Reagan was put out by fouls as was Groger. The high score man was Higgins, who scored 10 points.

The Nightingales played a hard game and fought to the end. V. Miller and Markberry fouled out, leaving H. Miller and Sullivan as their substitutes. The final score was 34 to 10 in favor of Crescent. High score girl was Beil, who had scored 5 points.

The next game will be played at Florence with Beechwood, Ft. Mitchell. Everyone be sure to come and see this game as we know it will be interesting.

Game Warden Edwin M. Johnson, of Walton, arrested three men last Sunday for hunting out of season. The men were arrested on the farm of Lute Bradford, of Union, and gave their names as Vernon Kyle, David Kyle and W. Deibel. The former two were from Ft. Mitchell, the latter from Covington. Their trial was set for Thursday of this week.

Attorney A. W. Edwards, of Walton, was a business visitor at the court house last Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lassing, Jr., and daughter, Mary Lina, left Wednesday morning for St. Petersburg, Florida, where they will spend the winter. Their many friends here certainly regret their departure.

4-H TOBACCO SHOW AND SALE PLANNED

A 4-H Tobacco Show and Sale to be held during the first or second week of December at either Covington or Carrollton was decided upon during the last two weeks by fifty-seven Boone county 4-H Tobacco Club members and nine adult tobacco project leaders according to county agent H. R. Forkner.

The Show and Sale held at Carrollton last year was a success and the tobacco club members enrollment this year has more than doubled. Boone county 4-H Club tobacco produced this year is estimated at 25,000 pounds. It is understood that Kenton, Campbell and Grant counties will likely be interested in a tobacco show and sale, should it be held at Covington this year.

to its last resting place beside her husband in Burlington Cemetery as the committal service was conducted by Rev. Haas, pastor of the Hebron Lutheran Church.

The floral offerings were carried by three grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The family wishes to express their appreciation to friends for the kindness shown during her illness and death.

The new president of the United States is Franklin D. Roosevelt. On the crest of a vast wave of votes, which exceeded in number any tabulation ever yet recorded in the United States, the Democratic standard bearer, with his running mate, John N. Garner, swept to victory Tuesday.

Under the Brock-Gilbert election law Kentucky and Boone county votes were not counted until Wednesday. That is, the count was started Wednesday, although the final figures probably will not be reached until the weekend. Advance counts, however, have come in to such an extent that it can safely be said that Kentucky will go Democratic by approximately 150,000.

Boone county polled the largest vote in her history. However, in spite of this fact and the additional fact that Roosevelt was a very popular candidate with the Boone county electorate, the Democratic majority was not as large as it was in 1920. Cox defeated Harding in Boone county by 2499 with less than 4500 votes cast. Tuesday a grand total of 4889 voters found their way into Boone county polling places.

In 1920 Cox polled almost exactly the same number of votes as did Roosevelt, but the Republican vote showed a great increase this year to prevent a greater Democratic majority. It is a peculiar coincidence that Roosevelt was on the ticket also in 1920 when he was the running mate of Governor Cox. Of the 4889 votes polled in the county, the Democrats "garnered" 3534, while the Republicans cast 1355, leaving a clear majority of 2179 for Roosevelt.

With Governor Roosevelt the nine Congressional candidates and Senator Alben W. Barkley also rode home to victory. Very little scratching was indulged in Boone county and for that reason the vote for each congressman and senator is not recorded here. The presidential vote by precincts in Boone was as follows:

	Dem.	Repub.

SPECIALIST TO SPEAK

AT HAMILTON

Mr. S. C. Jones, field agent in agronomy, from the College of Agriculture, will discuss soils fertility problems with the farmers at Hamilton Community Fair to be held at Hamilton schoolhouse on Friday, November 11th.

A successful fair is expected by the patrons of the community. The event is sponsored by the school and the Silver Leaders 4-H Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Elias Boyle, of Hamilton, Ohio, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Green.

Mrs. Manley Ryle was a Covington shopper last Saturday afternoon.

BOONE COUNTY

TEACHER ELECTED

Mrs. Sibilla Reimer of the Bellevue school was elected chairman of the Elementary Teachers at the Northern Kentucky Educational Association held in Covington on October 28. Mrs. Blanche Thatcher of Covington, was elected secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Huey of Petersburg, and Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Alford, of Louisville, were Saturday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Porter.

Edward Easton, of the Woolper neighborhood, sustained a painful injury to his right hand while sawing wood last Saturday. The wound, however, is healing nicely.

EQUAL SHARE IN ASSOCIATION HERD SIRS

Each member of Boone County Jersey Bull Association No. 1 will have an equal share in each of the four herd sires that compose the block according to the contract as signed by members in a meeting held at Florence Deposit Bank on last Tuesday, November 1st. The animals will be registered in the name of the association and each member will have privileged use of all animals proving themselves outstanding in siring high producing daughters.

This is the first full association block to be formed in Boone county and one of the few that have been organized in Kentucky to date, according to county agent H. R. Forkner. The association plan combined with cow testing work offers the most efficient known methods of herd improvement through breeding principles.

BOONE COUNTY WOMAN'S CLUB

The Boone County Woman's Club met for their October meeting with Mrs. Josie Maurer.

The annual election was held, with the following results: Mrs. Lula Huey, president; Miss Pearl Botts, first vice pres. Mrs. Kathryn Easton, second vice president.

Lovely refreshments were served by the hostess.

MANY FARMS USE BRICK BROODERS

Hundreds of Kentucky farmers used home-made brick brooders this year. Fifty were used in McCracken county alone. County Agent W. C. Johnson quotes one farmer as saying that the brick brooder is the greatest help to farm poultryraisers introduced in recent years.

Many farmers built these brooders at no cash outlay. Where all materials are purchased the cost need not be more than $4.30, according to the agricultural department of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. A circular published by this department gives details on building the brick brooder. Copies may be obtained from county agents or by writing to the College of Agriculture. County agents are urging farmers to make these brooders during the fall and early winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Noble Owens, of Louisville, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Snyder.

Calvin Kirkpatrick and family, of Ludlow, were Sunday guests of Mrs. Lavinia Kirkpatrick and family.

GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Sunday School was held as usual last Sunday afternoon. We find the lessons dealing with the Christian's life very helpful and interesting.

Sunday evening, Brother Hitchcock preached a fine sermon to a very attentive crowd.

On Thursday evening, we were informed by Brother Hitchcock that he is going to hold a Revival near Louisville, Ky., so will be unable to be with us for about two weeks.

However, his place in the pulpit will be filled by Brother James Tucker, whom we all know.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Hood wish to extend their sympathy to them in their loss of Mr. Hood's father, who has been very ill for some time.

Mr. Wesley Fogel has been greatly missed while he has been away from the mission. We hope he is able to be back with us real soon.

Services will be held as usual and we sincerely hope that Brother Tucker will be greeted by large crowds.

Local News

There has been a change in the musical program at the dance at Conner's restaurant in Burlington. A band from Cincinnati will be on the program next Saturday night. All are cordially invited.

Elmo Gaines, of Frankfort, was among the great army of Democratic voters at Burlington last Tuesday.

William Phillips, of Madisonville, O., came home Tuesday to cast his vote for the famous New York Governor, Franklin D. Roosevelt. It was "Billy's" first vote for a president.

Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Barlow and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barlow, of Florence, were Sunday guests of W. F. Beemon.

16 SCHOOLS FOR SHEEP FARMERS

The College of Agriculture, thru its extension division, is cooperating with farmers in holding 16 sheep raising schools in central counties during November. While the schools deal with all phases of sheep breeding, emphasis is being placed on the production of high quality lambs. Breeding, feeding, grazing, control of internal parasites, judging and other factors involved in the raising of sheep are discussed. Methods of reducing the cost of raising sheep are being given prominent place in the program. Richard C. Miller, extension sheep specialist for the College; Harold Barber, sheep expert at the Experiment Station, and prominent farmers are helping conduct the schools.

T. W. Allison, here from Covington, was the Saturday and Sunday guest of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Greenup. Mr. Allison was a former resident of Burlington.

Raphael Poole spent the past week with his brother, Ray Poole, our local barber. The former recently completed a four year enlistment period with the U. S. Army. He has reenlisted for four more years.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly were Sunday afternoon visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ezra Brown, of near Hebron.

Beginning with $10 worth of seed in 1928, R. E. Layman, a Covington county farmer, has sold $2,000 worth of Korean lespedeza seed and seeded 200 acres of his farm to lespedeza.

TESTING RESULTS

IN BETTER COWS

How five Graves and McCracken county farmers increased production in their herds by 2,072 pounds of milk and 72 pounds of butterfat per cow in three years, is told in dairy herd improvement association reports to the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky.

Production averaged 6,616 pounds of milk in 1929-30 and 8,688 pounds for the year ending August 31, 1932. Butterfat production per cow increased from 274 pounds to 346 pounds in the same period of time. This increase of 72 pounds of butterfat is equal to three-fourths of the yearly production of the average cow in Kentucky.

Increased production was brought about by culling out the poor producers. Seventeen percent of the cows tested the past year were sent to the butcher, after they had been well fed and given an opportunity to produce. Culling reduced the total amount of milk and butterfat produced, but it eliminated feeding and milking low producing cows and thereby increased the profit per herd.

In the first year of dairy herd improvement work in Graves county, 1928-29, only 41 of the 681 cows tested produced 300 pounds or more of butterfat. During the past year 128 cows were tested and 49 of these exceeded 300 pounds of butterfat. The number of 400 pound cows increased from three to eleven, and 50 percent of the cows retained in the herds at the end of the year exceeded 300 pounds of butterfat.

KENTUCKY FARM NEWS

Exhibits of sorghum molasses and honey were features of the Elliott county agricultural and school fair at Sandy Hook. Merchants, farmers, school teachers and other persons in the county joined to make the fair a success. Mrs. Mollie Green, county superintendent of schools, and Edgar Rice, county farm agent, assisted by local leaders teachers, etc., had charge of arrangements. Many of the products exhibited were donated to a crippled man unable to work.

It cost Reggie Preston, a Johnson county farmer, 31 cents each to raise 100 pullets to maturity, according to figures sent to the College of Agriculture. He purchased 200 chicks on March 1 and raised them in a home-made brick brooder. One hundred and eighty-six were raised to maturity and from that number 86 cockerels and culls were sold. The 100 pullets already have laid 150 dozen eggs.

It costs over $70 a year to keep a bull, according to figures kept by six dairy farmers in Jefferson, Marion, Bourbon and Carroll counties. In fact, it cost an average of $85 on these six farms last year, but with lower prices of feed and labor it is estimated the cost would be about $71 this year. The cost of keeping a bull on the farms varied from $42 to $162, being governed largely by feed and depreciation charges.

Allen county farmers are adopting the practice of saving field seeds from crops grown on their farms. Twelve men threshed nearly 100 bushels of red clover seed from adapted strains, and 50 farmers saved Korean lespezea seed.

TOO HEAVY LIMING
INJURES TOBACCO

Only moderate applications of limestone should be made on land to be used for tobacco growing. They should be applied as far in advance of the tobacco crop as possible. There is no evidence in any experimental work of the Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky that liming directly benefits tobacco; in fact there is evidence of lowering yields and of injury to quality by liming too heavy. Two tons per acre immediately preceding the crop has produced injury. There is, however, evidence of much improvement in the rotation.

This experience, it is pointed out, should not deter farmers from using liming materials on tobacco land, but they should be careful as to the amount used and the time of using it. Detailed information on the use of limestone, and recommendations on management and fertilizer practices for bluegrass soils can be obtained in Experiment Station bulletin No. 331.

KENTUCKY FARM

RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios, of WHAS, the week of November 14. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

November 17—Timely chats with the fruit growers, C. O. Eddy. Use of fruit trees for ornamentals, N. R. Elliott.

November 18—What farm folks are asking, L. C. Brewer.

CROP ROTATION AN IMPORTANT FACTOR

Crop rotation is given an important place in the management of Bluegrass soils, in recommendations made in a recent report of the Agricultural Experiment Station of the University of Kentucky. In part, the report says:

"A rotation of crops should include one legume crop in a two to four year rotation of harvested crops. If the rotation is made long by adding grass either for hay or pasture, a legume should be included in mixture with the grass. The choice of the legume depends on the soil to different legumes, and partly upon the use to be made of the crop. For hay, seeding a mixture of two or more legumes and a small amount of grass is good practice. Red clover, alfalfa and timothy make a good hay mixture where these legumes will grow. Lespezea is valuable in most mixtures where a more or less temporary pasture is desired following the hay crop. If clover and alfalfa will not grow, lespezea may be mixed with grass for hay and may give a hay crop after the grass is cut.

"To prevent erosion and leaching, land should be occupied by growing crops as much of the time as possible. The rotation should be planned not only to accomplish this, but to reduce plowing and the seeding of special cover crops to a minimum. Keeping land in grass is the best means of preventing both erosion and leaching. It is self-evident that the more productive the crop land is kept, the smaller the area needed for harvested crops and the larger the proportion of the farm that can be kept in grass. The effects of erosion and leaching in reducing the productivity of soil are many times as great as the removal of plant food in harvested crops."

Twelve thousand pounds of Korean lespezea seed used in Livingston and Crittenden counties last spring have converted many farmers to the value of this crop.

Four hundred pounds of treated certified seed produced 3,129 pounds of potatoes on the farm of R. S. Shivel in Rockcastle county.

A state pulverizer provided 5,000 tons of limestone for Franklin county farmers at a cost of about 25 cents a ton.

A Dime A Day Keeps Fatigue Away
Doing things for others is usually a pleasure. We are in the business of doing things for others. Our service is designed to do for you what you otherwise would have to do for yourself, or engage expensive servants to do for you.
Our service can do almost everything there is to be done in the home, the office or in industry which requires human attention and work, effort, elbow-grease.
With the energy which we dispense, you can heat, cook, cool, freeze; you can wash, iron, sweep, dust; you can perform the most delicate or the most arduous task—and you can have proper illumination under which to perform each.
Large sums have been invested to make possible this service to you. Our so-called "profits" are only a fair wage for the service we offer at the rate of a "dime a day" on the average. Those who require more service pay more; those who need less service pay less. But each individual determines what he or she pays, according to the amount of service he or she needs.
ELECTRIC SERVANTS AT AN AVERAGE OF TEN CENTS A DAY TAKE THE IRK OUT OF WORK, IN HOME, OFFICE OR INDUSTRY.
ASK US. WE'LL TELL YOU HOW!

MORE SUPERVISION

MAKE FARMS PAY

Successful farmers are doing more of their work and giving attention to higher yields and better quality of products, according to an analysis of the 1931 business records of 42 farms in Dwen and Grant counties, made by the department of farm economics of the College of Agriculture. Last year's earnings ranged from $54 to $1,277 on 32 of the 42 farms while losses of $13 to $1,096 resulted on nine of them.

As is usually the case, the more successful farmers were better stockmen and made more money from their livestock than did the less successful men. They also had better crop receipts, the result of higher yields per acre, better quality and higher prices for their tobacco.

The investigators point out, in addition, that farmers in the most profitable group had only a minor part of their tobacco grown by tenants, while those in the least profitable class the greater part of their tobacco grown by tenants. Men who grew their own tobacco had better yields and received a higher price.

It also is pointed out that farmers who made profits, despite low prices received for their products, conserved cash by doing numerous minor repair jobs which they formerly hired done. Myte also is made of lower expenses for improvements and machinery on the more profitable farms.

Civilization's Ratio

Our civilization is a ratio between what we are and what we might have been.—Louis L. Mayo.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

BURLINGTON

Friday afternoon was the beginning of our basketball season. It opened with a short pep meeting, held in the gym after chapel. Our cheer leaders being "Libby" Holbrook and Betty Adkins. Then that night the Tomcats challenged the Alumni for a game. It being more for practice. Anyhow their newly elected captain, Ralph Maurer led them to a victorious end, the score being 38 to 15. We hope that this game aroused your interest enough so that you will come back Saturday night, November 16th and see them play their opening game of the season with Mt. Healthy, O.

Friday afternoon, Miss Anderson, Ethel and Lucille Kyle and Melicent Ann Berkshire will go to Piner, Ky., where they will attend the Older Girls Conference, which is held annually. We extend our congratulations to these girls for being the ones selected to go, and hope when they return, they will prove that their trip was beneficial by telling us the purpose of the conference.

The Girls Reserve enjoyed "Play Day" with the Hebron and New Haven Girl Reserve at Hebron Saturday. Miss Ann Campbell and two of her helpers from the Covington Y. U. C. A. was there and conducted the games in the morning. A delightful lunch was served at noon and after lunch each club contributed a stunt to the program. We thank the Hebron G. R. for sponsoring this program.

FLORENCE HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The pupils from Florence school who represented Boone county at Lexington last week were: Jane Taylor, Albert Rose, Alice Sara Lucas, Leo Norton and Donald Stevens.

The Halloween Party given by the P. T. A. last Monday night was a huge success. The auditorium was beautifully decorated tending to display the spirit of Halloween.

Music was furnished by Jack Busby and his orchestra. There were four prizes awarded, two to the town people and two to the school children. Mrs. Ben Carpenter received the prize for the most comical costume. Miss Helen Elliot received the prize for the best dress of the town people. Evelyn Highhouse received the prize for the best dressed pupil and Marvin Lutes received the prize for the most comically dressed. After the judging of the costumes a program was sponsored by Darnin and Dalley circus.

We are sorry to report that several of our students have been absent from school, due to illness.

The cheer leaders who were elected for the coming year were Evelyn Highhouse, Donald Tajner and Fred Highhouse.

Larry Kernen and Gregory Reeser were elected managers of the basketball teams. D. Everett McCauley was reelected as mascot.

BELLEVUE SCHOOL NOTES

Several boys of the Bellevue school have set out some maple trees in their school yard for shade and to beautify the school grounds. They wish to thank Mr. Forrest Brown for his help in getting the trees, also Mr. Edward Rogers, for offer of help and trees.

All the patrons and people of the community are invited to the chapel exercises held at 2:45 Friday afternoon.

The seventh and eighth grades will dramatize "The First Thanksgiving."

Join the Red Cross and Help The Distressed and Needy

OPENING OF RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Armistice Day, November 11 is a day of world wide rejoicing in remembrance of the end of strife and international hatred. It is a day that can be celebrated by everyone in a way more useful than that of the tooting of horns and parading.

A national organization appeals to you on this day to join with it and to lend your support in its activities, regular and emergency. Everyone knows the period, November 11-24 as the time of the national RED CROSS ROLL CALL.

It is more urgent than ever that you join this far reaching organization now, and do your bit to alleviate suffering and distress. Fifty-one years and the official national relief agency, with experience in more than 1,200 disasters in the United States, The American Red Cross finds itself in 1932 carrying the largest peace-time load in the history of humanitarian organizations. It is up to you to divide with your more unfortunate friends. You will have an opportunity to make your contribution to a volunteer worker who will call on you sometime between November 11 and 24. The county roll call chairman, C. L. Cropper, has announced that each precinct has its chairman and that an effort will be made to reach everyone. It is hoped that many homes will show the flag that means each adult of the family is a member of the National Red Cross. This is a new project, but the usual single membership flag is still to be used.

Volunteers, trained and directed by a nucleus of professional men and women, carry the comprehensive program for the Red Cross. The program puts into effect the mandates of the Congressional Charter, the principal ones of which are:

"To furnish volunteer aid to the sick and wounded of armies in time of war."

"To perform all the duties developed upon a national society by each nation which has acceded to the treaty of Geneva."

"To act in the matters of volunteer relief in accord with the military and naval authorities as a medium of communication between the people of the United States of America and their army and navy."

"To continue and carry on a system of national and international relief in time of peace and to apply the same in mitigating the sufferings caused by pestilence, famine, fire, floods and other national calamities, and to devise and carry on measures for preventing the same."

As an example of Red Cross relief in Kentucky in 1932, the following statistics speak forcefully:

Families furnished flour, 74,795. Barrels flour furnished (to September 31), 97,628.

Families furnished garden seed, Fall, 76,966; Spring, 51,515. Pounds yeast furnished for Pellagra prevention, 5,578.

Disaster sufferers aided, 559, 4

Korean lespezea has largely taken the place of red clover and is materially reducing expenditures for commercial feeds in Spencer county, according to a report of County Agent R. S. Dunn to the College of Agriculture.

He estimates that 500 Spencer county farmers sowed 25,000 pounds of Korean seed this year. Commercial feed costs for the county this year are placed at $2,000, compared with $100,000 in 1928.

In addition, by growing Korean lespezea, farmers are saving thousands of dollars which they spent annually in an effort to get red clover established on their farms. Mr. Dunn says that in 1928 farmers of this county sowed 2,000 bushels of red clover seed at a cost of $30,000. Ninety-five percent of the red clover failed. Farmers spent $25,000 in each 1929 and 1930, in trying to grow red clover.

Then, due largely to the way Korean lespezea survived the 1930 drought, the sowings of red clover dropped sharply, and those of lespezea increased. Only three farmers in Spencer county grew Korean lespezea in 1928, and only 21 in 1930, but the number jumped to 200 in 1931 and to 500 this year.

Ninety percent of the Korean lespezea is being grown in pasture mixtures, Mr. Dunn reports, 9 percent for seed and one percent for hay.

The Bellevue Democrats will hold a celebration Friday night.

TWO MEETINGS

FOR "RATIFICATION" OF ROOSEVELT ELECTION HELD IN THE COUNTY—MANY JOIN "SOUP LINE" AT BELLEVUE

The seal of Boone county Democrats, which carried them thru such an eventful and successful campaign, simply would not down even with the knowledge of the fact that Franklin D. Roosevelt had won the election.

Contrary to the custom in years past, when bombs were dropped, torch light parades were conducted, and numerous other more or less blasphemous forms of celebration were indulged in, Boone county Democrats observed this victory with two very quiet "ratification" meetings.

This, in spite of the fact that the victory in county, state and nation was the most impressive, momentous and timely that ever has been witnessed in our history. We aim to convey the idea, already expressed by some and no doubt parent to all, that the electorate this year bears not the attitude of a baseball or football crowd. They went thru the campaign and on to the polls with a determined and entertaining no idea of exuberance or of throwing a fit if Roosevelt were the victor.

People were hungry by the thousands, other thousands were being kept from the pangs of hunger either by borrowing or begging. Farmers, of which the greater part of our local population is composed, are fighting such battles against such enormous odds that they can barely exist.

Small wonder then that two such staid meetings were held in observance of the victory.

Bellevue Democrats entertained their local people with an old time burgoon last Friday night. The Glee Club, several speakers and campaign leaders, were invited to participate. As aforesaid, the affair was very quiet and orderly. It was an appropriate meeting because some of the "hungry" were being fed. But, at the same time, it seemed all more or less out of joint because a lot of people, who had made it very well thru the Hoover administration, joined the "soup line" immediately after the election of Roosevelt.

The venerable "Donie" Cook was the chef—and what a chef—while the ladels were handled by Sherman Burcham and Franklin Clure. R. S. Hensley very hospitably opened his store to the crowd and his home to the Glee Club, which took time out between gulps, to go over a few campaign numbers. Much comfort and satisfaction was derived from a blazing log heap in the lot adjoining Hensley's emporium. The comfort came from the heat and the satisfaction (probably from the fact that the logs were taken from a Log Cabin).

It certainly was a fine meeting, but still, in all seriousness, one could not but note the fact that no one was hysterical in spite of the purpose of the gathering.

The same tone pervaded the county-wide meeting that was held at Burlington last Saturday night. A fine crowd almost filled the large school auditorium. A dozen speakers made short, but pungent, talks, and the Glee Club rendered several selections. The crowd appeared interested intensely. But getting back to point again, if such a meeting had followed the election of a Cleveland or a Wilson, there would have been a hullaboo that would have drowned both speakers and singers.

The crowd would have yelled itself hoarse and hats would have been thrown in the air. But the crowd's attitude was in direct contrast to such behavior. The reason? Well, most of them had no hats to throw and the rest were loth to risk the only they had. They were all too blamed poor to yell—they owed to many people even to act jubilant for a few minutes. In fact, have you heard anyone shout "Hurrah, for Roosevelt" at any time during the campaign? Conditions have taken the zip out of everybody.

Judge J. M. Lassing, chairman of the speaking campaign, had invited all speakers who had helped to attend the meeting. Some were unable to attend for various reasons, but the following were on hand and each appeared for a few minutes: Congressman Spence, State Senator O. M. Rogers, Newton Sullivan, Representative Leonard Cook, and lastly, but by no means least, Miss Mary Louise Renaker, who was one of the most faithful and effective speakers in the campaign.

Fourteen of the seventeen voting precincts in the county were represented, which was evidence of at least one of the reasons for such an outpouring of Democrats last Tuesday. As pointed out by Judge Lassing, County Chairman, C. L. Cropper the precinct committee men were responsible for several hundreds of voters coming to the polls that otherwise would not have voted.

ATTEND HAMILTON COMMUNITY FAIR

Hamilton Second Annual Community Fair held at the Hamilton school building on last Friday, November the 11th was attended by approximately 300 adults, boys and girls and patrons of the community. A good display of agricultural and home economics products were made and a splendid program was rendered by the school and the Silver Leaders 4-H Club.

Mr. B. C. Jones, head agent in agronomy, from the College of Agriculture made a talk to the farmers on the importance of soil improvement. He said the soils of the community were unlike those of the experiment station fields of the state but from his twenty-six years of study of Kentucky soils, he would say that the soils management problem was similar to that of other Ohio river bottoms which divides itself into three major parts, namely, the prevention of erosion, the growing of more legumes and pasture improvement. Ways in which these could be brought about were outlined.

The keen interest shown by the community was one of the most encouraging parts of the event. The fact that ribbons alone were awarded, as prizes took no edge off the enthusiasm in the exhibits. The following is a list of those receiving awards:

Largest Pumpkin, Wallace Ryle, first; J. L. Jones, Jr., second; Cery, Oren Edwards, first; Richard Schwenke, second; Corn-white, Guy Aitha, first; Joel Walton, second; Corn-yellow, Melvin Moore, first; Oren Edwards, second; Pop Corn, F. H. Jones, Jr., first; Wm. Ogden, second; Peppers, J. L. Jones, Jr., first; Onions, Ralph Abden, first; Turnips, J. L. Jones, Jr., first; Betty Jean Hall, second; Apples, F. H. Sebree, first and second; Sweet Potatoes, Guy Aitha, first; Chas. Palmer, second; Tobacco, Delbert Hubbard, first.

The awards in the Women's Department were as follows:

Jelly, Mrs. Oren Edwards, first; Peaches (canned), Mrs. Oren Edwards, second; Beans, Oren Edwards, first and second; Tomatoes, Mrs. Sallie Moore, first; Mrs. Oren Edwards, second; Carrots, Mrs. Richard Schwenke, first; Blackberries, Mrs. Richard Schwenke, first; Kraut, Mrs. Richard Schwenke, first; Pepper Relish, Mrs. Richard Schwenke, first; Peas, Mrs. Sallie Moore, first; Cakes, Miss Nannie Allan, first; Mrs. L. R. Miller, second; Pie, Mrs. J. L. Jones, Jr., first; Sewing, 4-H Unit 1, Sude Allen, first; Sewing, 4-H Unit 11, Alma Schwenke, first; Eva Mae Black, second; Wool Quilt, Mrs. Bertha Miller, first; Mrs. Sallie Moore, second; Fancy Quilt, Carrie Ogden, first; Bettie Allen, second; Mrs. B. C. Kirtley, third; Embroidery Work, Dresser Scarf, Miss Nannie Allen, first; Fancy Embroidery Work, Rose Moore, first; Nannie Allen, second and third.

The prizes in the poultry exhibits were as follows:

Best Young Pair (adult classes), Lou Miller, first; Mrs. Conner Carroll, second; 4-H Club, Lloyd Kelley Jones, first.

The chairman in charge of the event were as follows: Ruben Asbury, chairman and school program; Mrs. J. L. Jones, Jr., secretary and 4-H Club; Women's Work, Mrs. Oren Edwards; Crops, B. C. Kirtley; Fruit, F. H. Sebree; Poultry, Lou Miller; Judge, H. R. Forkner.

The above committee was assisted by the community as whole.

HOW OLD IS GASBURG?

Readers will note this week a communication from "Gasburg," Miss Mary Rector, our correspondent from that neighborhood, suggests that it went by that name some twenty years ago. We differ. The editor first saw daylight there about twice that many years ago and "gas" was in that burg before we came. Col. Elijah Parker invented the name and was the Recorder correspondent from there for many years. Oddly enough he lived where the present correspondent lives. Mary, you just ain't old enough. You'll have to read up on Gasburg history.

resented, which was evidence of at least one of the reasons for such an outpouring of Democrats last Tuesday. As pointed out by Judge Lassing, County Chairman, C. L. Cropper the precinct committee men were responsible for several hundreds of voters coming to the polls that otherwise would not have voted.

Local News

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Congleton were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Chastity, of Jessamine county, Mr. and Mrs. Leary Greenup, of Scott county, Mr. and Mrs. George Congleton and family and Elmer Kirkpatrick and family.

Tuesday eve, Nov. 20, there will be an open meeting at the Modern Woodmen Lodge Hall. All members are urged to be on hand and each one is invited to bring someone with him. A good program is being arranged and everyone is assured an enjoyable evening.

C. W. Meyers, Florence auto dealer, was in Burlington on business last Thursday afternoon.

Funeral Director W. A. Bullock and wife were in the county seat Thursday.

M. O. Martin and wife were among those from out of town who enjoyed the regular Saturday night dance at the Conner dance hall.

G. H. Gordon and James Bullock were business visitors here Monday morning. Mr. Bullock was securing his hunting credentials, while Mr. Gordon included the Recorder of office in his itinerary.

Uncle Tom Adams, one of Burlington's oldest citizens, is reported to be ill. His friends certainly hope that he has a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Denzel Carpenter, of Walnut Hills, spent the weekend with the parents of the former, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Carpenter.

Mrs. Bess Rouse spent the weekend with relatives in Price Hill, Cincinnati.

The above leaders have assisted in the completion of one of the largest and most successful years in the history of Boone county 4-H Club Work. They supervised in eleven local or community clubs, the work of 293 boys and girls carrying a total of 333 4-H projects.

MEETING OF UTOPIA CLUB No. 2

The members of Boone County Utopia Club No. 2 will meet at Burlington, Thursday night, November 17th for their regular monthly meeting. Mr. Carl Jones from the College of Agriculture, will be present to discuss new developments in older boys and girls work.

Thirty-five members were present at the last meeting and more than forty are expected at the meeting Thursday evening. Agriculture and home improvement project reports will be given by the members. The play committee which has been active the last two weeks, will also give a report on the progress being made on community entertainment. The club is always glad to have visitors and invites for membership all boys and girls nineteen years of age or older who are interested in agricultural and home economics improvement.

HERD BREEDING PROBLEMS IMPORTANT

Right now when dairying is hitting at the lowest ebb in recent years is the best time to eliminate scrub herd sires and replace them with good purebreds according to county agent H. R. Forkner. The past week Mr. Ben Paddock of Hebron informed the county agents of charge that he would give free of cost a five day old purebred bull calf out of one of the best cows to anyone who would use it to replace a grade or scrub bull. Many such offers are available from time to time for the dairyman who thinks he can not afford to buy an animal.

The general tendency is to neglect the building up of the herd when cattle are cheap. However, the man who uses his resources to build up his herd now, will more than likely have a more efficient herd when the price of dairy animals rise.

R. S. HENSLERY WALKS TRAINS SHOW PROGRESS

The formal opening of the basketball season will take place on Sat. night of this week when the two local high school teams make their maiden appearance of the season on the high school floor. Last Friday night the Baptist church team played the Petersburg Baptists before a small crowd, but the real opening of the season always is regarded as occurring when the high school squads trot out on the floor.

While girls basketball will lack some of the color of past seasons, nevertheless, a team will be maintained here this year. It has been noted that girls teams have been eliminated from state tournament competition and for that reason it is thought not quite so much interest will be taken in the general outcome of their work. However, they will have a good team and intend to engage as many good fives as possible. Friday night they will play the B. H. S. alumni.

Four fine players were lost to the team last year, namely, Misses Mac Burcham, Allen Berkshire, Rosa Pettit, and Mrs. Mary Phillips Stott. Remaining on the squad there are: Misses Anna Lee Burton, Lucille Ryle, Londa Lee Jarrell, Elizabeth Burton, Ethelyn Ryle and Luella Berkshire. Newcomers to this year's squad are: Pauline Holbrook, Rose Williamson, Alberta and Laura Mae Pettit, Virginia Sullivan and Marjorie Hensley. Mrs. E. Kirkwood is manager of the girls five, with Miss Ethelyn Ryle as captain.

Those who have seen the boys outfit in action this fall predict a very fast and aggressive team, which, so they say, will provide a lot of good basket ball for the detection of the local fans this winter. While the Tomcats will be minus the services of such fine players as Hal Hensley, Alvin Stephens and William Greenup, yet the leftovers and newcomers may more than fill their shoes, it is said.

Coach Lamb put great faith in the following members of last year's squad: Albert Sebree, Ralph Maurer, James Ogden, Boyd Snow, Leslie Voshell, William Cook, Dudley Rouse and Albert Weaver. He also says that no place on the team will be secured this season as Donald Kirkpatrick, Wallace Lucas, Russell and Leon Ryle, the newcomers to the team, have shown unusual promise for first year men. Ralph Maurer has been named as the 1932-33 captain and Harold Kelly Clure will be student manager. The team this year will depend to a great extent on speed, of which they are said to be possessed in abundance. The entire outfit is made up, as in many former years, principally of rather small men.

A preliminary will be played on next Sat. night between two junior teams, which are composed of some very promising talent.

CONSTANCE SCHOOL MAKES RECORD AT STATE TOURNAMENT

The Constance School took four "firsts" and one "third" for Boone county at the State Rural School Tournament held recently at Lexington. Boone county tied with Kenton county for honors in taking first places, each taking four "firsts."

The pupils winning for Constance were:

Melvin Kenyon, Eighth Grade Arithmetic, third.
Althea Vahlsing, Eighth Grade Physiology, first.
Kathryn Dietz, Eighth Grade Spelling, first.
Charles Hodges, Sixth Grade Arithmetic, first.
Avalon Hood, Eighth Grade History, first.

BURLINGTON F. T. A. REHEARSING FOR COMEDY

Rehearsals of "The College Hobo" a play to be presented by the Burlington F. T. A., Saturday night, November 26, 1932, have begun. "The College Hobo" is a four-act comedy with thirteen characters, portraying the wanderings and adventures of a restless college student. Plenty of humor is supplied by the hobo, a college freshman, a group of cheer leaders, and other characters. Admission prices will be on a depression basis, so make your plans to attend.

A very successful revival under the preaching of Rev. H. C. Runyan closed last week at the Florence Christian church. They report six additions as follows: Joe Berkshire, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilson, Mrs. Everett Wolf and daughter, and Miss Markberry.

ARMY STRIKE BREAKERS IN CINCINNATI MAKE AGREEMENT IS REACHED AT MUSIC HALL MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

For months the Farmers Alliance has been making a fight for a better deal for the milk dealers of Boone County.

A number of times, figures have been shown in the Recorder indicating that the farmer was receiving a great deal less than fifty per cent of the price paid by the consumer. In fact, he is said to have received even less than the driver of the wagon which delivered the milk from house to house.

Last week the Cincinnati distributors proposed a twenty per cent cut to their drivers. The drivers balked, in turn proposing that they would stand a ten per cent drop. The distributors insisted on twenty per cent. The drivers struck and then plenty of fun started.

Quite a number of farmers and unemployed from Boone county joined with the strike breakers and went to Cincinnati Saturday morning to assume jobs on the milk trucks. The strikers at once started war and many of the drivers were beaten and dragged from their trucks. However, no one from Boone county was seriously injured.

The milk producers then decided that they would strike and withhold the supply from the Cincinnati market. With this view in mind a number from this county attended a meeting of drivers, farmers, officials of the two major producers cooperative associations, and distributors, which was held at Music Hall in Cincinnati Monday night. As a result of the meeting a tentative agreement was reached that all parties would arbitrate with a government official, who was also present at the meeting. The arbitration period will be for ten days, at the end of which time it is hoped that an amicable agreement may be reached.

DOGS RAID SHEEP

About 6:30 last Sunday evening dogs raided a flock of sheep on the farm of W. L. Kirkpatrick on the East Bend road about a mile east of Burlington. Four ewes were killed outright, while two others were injured so badly that they had to be destroyed. The remainder of the flock was badly frightened, it was reported. Shelby Acra, who resides near the place, heard the disturbance and was successful in killing one of the dogs. The other was not identified and made his getaway.

NEW HAVEN F. T. A.

The F. T. A. of the New Haven Consolidated School held its regular meeting Monday night, November 17th. The meeting was called to order by President Mrs. Emerson Smith.

Preparations were made for an Oyster Supper on November 11th. An interesting program was rendered by the following:

Interesting talk by Mrs. Sleet. "Train up a child in youth in the way he should go, and when he is older, he will not depart from it."

"Standards for Promotion in the First Grade."—Mrs. Utz.

"Obstacles to be overcome in School Life."—J. W. Huey.

Reading—Kathleen Quinn, of Fourth Grade.

Flano Solo, "Little Boy Blue"—Dorothy Newman, of Sixth Grade.

Reading, "Tom Sawyer's Monday Morning."—Tommy Williams.

Chorus—New Haven F. T. A. Boys and Girls.

Refreshments were served.

CORRECTION

In our classified column of last week we carried an advertisement for Robert R. Robbins, advertising the sale of some choice varieties of fruit trees. It has been called to our attention that the prices were quoted from ten to twenty five cents. This was an error as the top price should be 50 cents. We are very glad to make this correction.

CHEVROLET A NEW CAR

WILL PRESENT

OF SUCH IMPORTANCE THAT NO PERSON INTERESTED IN THE PURCHASE OF A LOW-PRICED AUTOMOBILE CAN AFFORD TO DISREGARD IT

America naturally expects big things of Chevrolet. For it is Chevrolet that first brought beauty and comfort to the low-price field... pioneered the six-cylinder engine... built the most economical cars, and the most dependable. And it is Chevrolet who has led the world in sales for 4 of the past 6 years. So each year at this time America looks to the leader to learn what's new in the way of low-priced transportation.

And again America's confidence is fully justified. The new Chevrolet, to appear next month, advances standards in every phase of motoring. Again Chevrolet has broken boldly with the past wherever change means improvement in style, comfort, smoothness, safety, economy, and dependability.

Chevrolet engineers have packed this, latest of a long line of successful cars with thrill after thrill and advancement after advancement. Fischer body craftsmen have taken advantage of an even longer wheelbase to contribute coach-work which is unique in the low-priced field—including dynamic new styling, and an invention which you will immediately recognize as one of the most fundamental comfort improvements of all time. And the experience gained in the production of more than 8,000,000 cars, together with the marked advantages that naturally accrue to the leader in sales, has made it possible to build the new Chevrolet at a price which takes account of today's incomes.

So keep an open mind on the question of an automobile purchase until you see Chevrolet's Great American Value for 1933. And watch for it next month! It will prove to you, beyond a doubt, that this is the time to buy a car, and this is the car to buy.

BRING YOUR TOBACCO TO THE CARROLLTON MARKET

TOBACCO PRICES ARE HIGHER!

Prospects for a smaller poundage of better quality of burley tobacco this year, and reports of strong demand for tobacco on the Southern Markets, indicates more satisfactory prices for burley this season.

The Carrollton Tobacco Board of Trade invites you to sell your crop on the Carrollton Market, where you will find seven large warehouses ready to serve you as you should be served. Bring your crop to market "stick graded". It will save you money and time. Open to receive Tobacco November 28th. Will announce First Sale later.

SUPPLEMENT TO The Boone County Recorder

Burlington, Kentucky, Thursday, November 17th, 1932

County High School Notes

FLORENCE SCHOOL NOTES

Last week Mr. Ewald, state worker of the Y. M. C. A. visited our school and organized a H-Y Club. The following officers were elected:

Cornelius Reagan, president.
Robert Groger, vice-president.
Larry Kemen, secretary.
Forest Ferguson, treasurer.

This club furnishes a splendid means for the broader development of the older boys, and we hope to make our club one of the best in the county.

Owing to the fact that the girls had not been organized, we did not send delegates to the Older Girls Conference which met at Piner, Saturday. We expect to get out Girl Reserve Club organized in the near future.

Both boys and girls basketball teams are organized and are training under the efficient leadership of coach Alphin. Two games have been played here; the first one, on November 4th, was with Crescent Springs. Florence boys defeated the visiting team, the score was Florence 29, and Crescent Springs 25. The visiting girls defeated our girls, the score being, Crescent Springs 34 and Florence 10.

On November 11th, our teams played the Ft. Mitchell team. The girls were more successful in this game and defeated Ft. Mitchell by a score of 57 to 4. Our boys also won, their score being 46 to 11.

As the eleventh was Armistice day, a very effective tribute was paid to the gallant men from Boone county who fell in the World War. Professor Davis had originated a pretty flag ceremony in which he members of each ball team and several other children took part. As a fitting close to the exercise, Mary Laubach and Virginia Miller sang "Just Before the Battle Mother." This exercise immediately preceded the ball games, and was viewed by an appreciative audience who had gathered for the games.

The pupils from high school who made the honor roll the second month were as follows:

Ninth Grade
Helen Miller
Helen Taylor
Robert Surface

Tenth Grade
Florence Grayson
Gladys Britt
Helen Rust

Eleventh Grade
Mary Elisabeth Uta
Mary Alice Dixon
Helen Dixon

Twelfth Grade

Mary Laubach
Virginia Miller

From the seventh and eighth grades the honor students for the second month were:

Donald Stevens
Alice Lucas
Betty Eastman
Robert Bremen
Dorothy Lalle
Harriet Leidy

The honor roll for the grades one through six appeared last week but owing to the illness of Mr. Caton, was not prepared for seventh and eighth grades or for the high school in time for public action last week.

The high school was glad to welcome back Mr. Caton, who has been absent because of illness.

Rev. Bradley, Pastor of the Methodist Church at Beaver, gave a talk at chapel last Wednesday morning, which was greatly enjoyed by the younger children.

Miss Eva Belle Franks of Walton, substituted for Mr. Caton for several days last week while he was ill.

The Sophomore class had their first class meeting Thursday and elected the following officers:

Larry Kemen, president.
Forest Ferguson, vice president.
Helen Rust, secretary.
Ethel Davis, Treasurer.
Gladys Britt, class reporter.

Paul Taylor was absent from high school three days last week because of illness.

The fifth and sixth grades are sorry to lose Edson Ryle, whose family has moved to Maryland.

Bobby Lalle of the fourth grade had his tonsils removed last Saturday and has not been able to attend school this week.

Junior Layle, who has been absent two weeks because of illness returned to school.

HAMILTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Community Fair proved a great success. A large crowd was present and took part in the exhibitions. Winners in the exhibits received ribbons.

Entertainment was furnished by a school program and a program by the 4-H Club members.

Pins and certificates were awarded to those members completing the required number of years in their project. The leaders, too, shared in the honors.

Mr. S. C. Jones, Field Agent and an expert on soil fertility, gave an interesting talk on soil condition and ways of improvements.

The girls came out in flying colors Friday night and defeated the Verona "five" by a score of 39-4. The boys were not so fortunate and were defeated 16-4. The Hamilton Independents then stepped out and showed the Veronians "how it's done" by a score of 24-22.

The pupils who represented Hamilton at Lexington were:

Sara Feldhaus
Elva Mae Black
Lloyd Kelly

Lloyd returned with two honors, second in the 150-yard dash and third in the 100-yard dash.

On Friday night, November 18, Hamilton will play against Petersburg, at Hamilton. Lunch will be served by the Honor Club.

Charles Satchwell, our Honor Club president was elected captain of the boys' basketball squad and Carl Bodie co-captain. Virginia Miller was elected girls' captain with Lucille Hodges as co-captain.

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Last Tuesday morning the "Kittens" selected as their captain for the year of "32-33", Miss Ethelyn Ryle, and as their manager, Mrs. Kirkwood. We are sure that "Ethel" will do her part as captain.

Some very queer noises have been heard in the gym this week. We can't decide what it is, unless it is the Freshmen practicing on their Chapel program, which is to be Friday. As we all know the adjective "green" is usually applied to the name Freshman but come out Friday, November 18, and let the Freshmen of B. H. S. show you that they are not living up to the name of "A Green Freshie."

The girls that attended Conference at Piner, Kentucky, arrived Sunday, P. M., about 2:30. They all said they had a splendid time. We hope they brought back many new ideas which will help our club. Due to several reasons, Lucille Ryle was not able to attend and Anna Lee Burton was sent in her place. We wish to say that in behalf of the Burlington G. R., we extend our appreciation to the Piner G. R. and hope to entertain them sometime at our school.

Don't forget the Basketball game Saturday night, November 19. The boys play Mt. Healthy, Ohio, and the Kittens will play Burlington Independent girls. On this team will be found such outstanding former high school girls as V. Yelton, Elva Akin, Lucille Ryle, Lucille Cotton and others. Come and support your team. Admission, 10 and 20 cents.

Harry Stephens was absent from school a few days ago, due to a very painful cut on the knee.

Mr. Norris donated some very good books connected with the 7th and 8th grades work. They also have some new magazines, which are being enjoyed very much.

HEBRON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The three girls who attended the Girl Reserve Conference returned home Sunday at noon. They had been chaperoned by Miss Mary Bess Cropper, and all reported having a good time. They have brought back many ideas with them and we hope that these may prove profitable to our Club. Our delegates had a stunt for banquet on Saturday night, which proved to be quite successful. They gave a very clever little health play called "The Marriage Shoppe" and were assisted by the Piner boys and girls.

Don't forget Tuesday night when the Hebron boys and girls play against the Independent team, and also Friday night when the Hebron Cardinals journey to Florence. The whole school wishes them luck and we hope they will be successful.

The Boone County Recorder, Thursday, November 17th, 1932

OUR DEMOCRATIC WOMEN SHOULD SHARE VICTORY

Well, the presidential campaign has come and gone. And was it waged vigorously?—It was.

Whether the men of Boone county are willing to acknowledge it or not, the Womens Democratic Club of Boone county had its share in bringing about this overwhelming victory.

Four years ago Mrs. Thornton Lee Brown was sent here to organize a Womens Democratic Club by the state organization. There were only four members present, but it as organized and has been growing steadily since. We have held at least two meetings every year and from five to eight delegate have been sent to the State Womens conventions each year.

The women are realizing more and more that they have a part in these elections. Even the men have been slow to recognize us, but we are getting so strong now that they will be forced to realize our power.

Last spring before the State convention our club organized a Young Womens Democratic club in the county and asked Miss Mary Louise Renaker to accept the presidency. This fall two precinct Womens clubs were organized, one at New Haven and the other at Florence. Florence decided to pursue regular course of study and selected "Government."

So, I think that everyone should be able to see and acknowledge that the Womens Democratic Club of Boone county was a great factor in the overwhelming victory of last Tuesday.

Mrs. Crocilius, our district chairman, stopped at Burlington for the call on our county chairman, Mrs. Ben Riley, and was amazed at Barkley speaking, while on her way the large number of women present because she knew the women were here interested particularly several years ago.

Women tell me often they did not come to our club meetings because they are not members. Now that is just what we want—our women to come—and they are coming. But we want more to come, until every woman in Boone county is a member of our club.

Every time you hear of a meeting come out and you will receive a warm and hearty welcome and you do us good. Our dues are the large sum of ten cents a year and there is a magazine, a splendid little womens journal, that is 25 cents a year.

On October 29th. two of the best speakers in the State came and addressed an audience of about 70 at Burlington.

Mrs. Wilbur Ray, of Louisville, and Mrs. F. A. Clegg gave us inspiring messages, urging us to push on and to keep organized. Mrs. Ray impressed us with the importance of our vote, that elections were won and lost by one vote.

This is to urge organization to continue in every branch for the next four years. Let us not waver or become over-confident with our large vote, but keep organized and work harder than ever, instead of slowing down.

Our county Democratic Womens Club is at a place now where we can take a stand in our county elections and see that our candidates measure up to our standards.

Thank You,
Emily Hughes Cleeck

The Commissioner of Agriculture has declared a quarantine against corn from Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia and all states north of those states. The quarantine does not apply to shelled corn.

County Judge N. E. Riddell has received a letter regarding the quarantine and which reads as follows:

Frankfort, Ky., 11-10-32
County Judge of Boone County
Burlington, Ky.

In order to keep the "Corn Borer" out of Kentucky, the Commissioner has declared a quarantine against corn from Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia and states north of there. The infested area is spreading very rapidly and is now right across the river from your county. The public generally don't understand how destructive this pest is. A province in Canada which raised 800,000 bushels of corn, became infested, and now raises only 8,000 bushels. Any peace officer has a right to stop corn from those states. Any person violating the law is subject to a fine of not less than $25.00 nor than $100.00. Arouse the people to the danger and have all corn stopped coming from those states, except shelled corn, in which there is no danger.

Geo. T. Gess, Field Agent

In spite of the threatening weather and a short rabbit crop, great numbers of nlimrods took to the fields Tuesday morning in search of game. Most of them found some, some of them found plenty, but a few were shipwrecked on the shoals of disappointment.

More than a few were "shipwrecked on the shoals" of the law. Wednesday morning the lobby of the court house looked like a Democratic Rally. Game Warden Edwin M. Johnson and a corps of assistants had made numerous arrests the day before and Wednesday was the day of reckoning. We did not learn before going to press the exact number and nature of the charges. However, it was indicated that most of them were for hunting before having made the necessary arrangement with the county clerk.

A. G. McMullen, County Clerk, stated late Monday that he had sold approximately 200 "tickets for the field."

W. A. Pettit and family entertained the following guests last Sunday: Mrs. Robert Guley and daughter, Mrs. Harry Guley and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Pettit, of Florence, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Pettit and son, Shelby, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Pettit and daughter.

REPORT OF RED CROSS NURSING SERVICE FOR OCTOBER, 1932

Again in October as in the previous month much time was spent in the giving of special attention in individual children, twelve in all were carried to the children's Clinic in Cincinnati for examinations and needed treatment, this part of our service has gradually increased to the extent that so very much of my time has to be spent in this particular health activity, however, this evidences the fact that parents are appreciating more and more the opportunities of preventive treatment, and the correction of the defects of their children and are taking advantage of such opportunities, this in turn proves that a knowledge of positive health practices is on the increase in Boone county. Seventeen parents have sought consultation with me during the month for advice on protective measures pertaining to their children's health, and twenty-nine homes were visited in behalf of the welfare and health of all the family.

Fifty-one children of the Burlington School were given physical inspection, these were the children who are just entering this school for the first time, and since my duties become heavier constantly, I am compelled to practice this method of inspection of school children, which is termed screening, meaning that we are able only to make out inspection of the children every other year, but aim to see the new pupils as they enter our schools. Mrs. Kirkwood helped me greatly by doing the measuring and weighing of the children.

I attended the State Public Health Nurse's Meeting and State White House Conference on Child Health and Welfare, held in Lexington, at the State University, under the Direction of President McVey. It was a great State Meeting at which the foremost Educators, Health and Social Workers of our State and Nation met to plan and gain inspiration and knowledge by which we trust the efforts of all engaged in such work may be more effective.

LADIES OF WALTON CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The Ladies of Walton Christian Church are having a Turkey Dinner and Quilt Display on Friday evening, November 18, 1932, at the Christian Church.

Everyone invited to come and bring their quilts, and get a good dinner for only 35c.

The Burlington school will have a Junior team this year. This team will be composed of youngsters from 9 to 16 years of age. This is the first time that the local school has tried to support such a team. They held their first practice Saturday afternoon and games may be arranged with Bailey Greenup, who is their manager.

DEATHS

In the past two weeks the Death Angel has entered two homes in this Community and took away two pioneer residents.

MR. BENJAMIN F. HOOD
Thursday, November 3, 1932

and
MR. JOHN WERNZ
Monday, November 7, 1932

Benjamin Franklin Hood passed away Thursday, November 3, 1932, at 5:30 P. M. Aged, 88 years.

He received an injury from a fall on November 4, 1931, from which he never recovered.

Funeral services were conducted at the residence, Monday, November 7, at 1:30 P. M. by Rev. H. C. Runyan, of the Latonia Christian Church, with songs by Brother Scott, of the Constance Christian Church.

He was laid to rest by the side of his wife in Spring Grove Cemetery, Cincinnati, O. She preceded him to the grave more than twenty-three years ago.

Mr. Hood leaves four sons, eleven grandchildren, a niece in Hillsboro, Illinois, a niece in Yale, Oklahoma, and a number of other relatives and friends to mourn his death.

A number of young folks from here attended the dance at Petersburg last Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slekman and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slekman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Will Graves, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Acra, Mr. and Mrs. James Beall, Mr. Albert Reisman and Mary Marshall spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Owen Acra at Hebron.

J. E. Snyder, of Bullittsville, stopped at this office Monday to take advantage of the combination rate for the Recorder and Cincinnati Enquirer.

Mrs. Hattie Berkshire and Miss Laura McGlasson, of Constance, were attending to business matters in this town Monday.

Miss Lucille Rice entertained a number of her friends at her home near town last Friday evening.

J. C. Layne Pays Off Unique Election Bet To "Winning Widow"

WIDOWS WIFE HAS "WINNING" WAYS—MRS. GEORGIA TANNER ESCAPES "DREADFUL" CONSEQUENCES OF ROOSEVELT LOSS AND RIDES TO KILLER BEHIND A DEMOCRATIC DONKEY

For some weeks prior to the November Presidential Election as Mr. J. C. Layne came to the Florence Deposit Bank, where Mrs. Georgia Tanner is employed as Assistant Cashier, they would enter into a good natured political argument until it was agreed between the two that if Hoover was elected, Mrs. Tanner was to kiss Mr. Layne square in the mouth before a public audience on the streets of Florence, but if Mr. Roosevelt was elected, Mr. Layne was to hitch a Democratic Donkey to an old two wheel cart and convey Mrs. Tanner to Erlanger and return.

Mr. Roosevelt having been elected it was up to Mr. Layne to pay off, so promptly at 3:30 last Saturday afternoon, Mr. Layne appeared in front of the Florence Deposit Bank with a donkey hitched to a cart all decorated with red, white and blue ribbons, and wearing a white hat likewise decorated and with a large picture of Hoover dangling from the rear of the seat, on which were the words: "HE VOTED FOR HOOVER."

Mrs. Tanner emerged from the Bank dressed as a large buff rooster and delivered the following address:

Ladies and Gentlemen:
 "This unusual spectacle is the result of a recent election bet—Mr. Layne being a Republican and I a Democrat, of course, disagreed as to whom would be chosen as the next president. So we agreed that if Mr. Roosevelt should win he was to take me riding, and should President Hoover be reelected, I was to kiss him in public, square in the mouth. Well, here we are: I am collecting, altho I will admit there were times just before Tuesday when I was greatly troubled, not for fear of Mr. Hoover winning, but because of the penalty I should be called upon to pay. Kissings is not one of my accomplishments, but for the subject offered, by reason of his infirmities and from present servitude, is ineligible for matrimony, and can lay few claims to looks. The American people have a keen sense of humor, and the men are noted for protecting the womanhood of our fair land, so looking back over the events of last Tuesday I am convinced that the land-slides, yea, avalanche for Mr. Roosevelt was not to put him in the White House so much as to save me from a very embarrassing position, and the possible displeasure of Mrs. Layne."

Anyone can look at Mr. Layne and tell that he has a wife. Look him over, poor fish: knowing his wife as I do I don't see how he gets away with it. Mrs. Layne is a rip-roaring dyed in the wool Democrat of the old school—I mean the school is old, not Mrs. Layne, and how she stands for him who is equally as strong as a Republican is beyond me. Be that as it may, it is her business, and the land knows that I am not one to interfere between man and wife. However, my face is saved; I have learned my lesson and from now on my bets are going to be with live, wide-awake, keen, snappy young men, whose object is matrimony."

Mrs. Tanner not being accustomed to the mode of travel in use 30 years ago, was unable to ascend to the seat by the side of Mr. Layne and had to be lifted bodily to her position.

Amid the cheers of the crowd that had congregated to witness the paying of the bet, the parade started toward Erlanger followed by several automobiles. Upon arriving at Erlanger, they were met by a large crowd led by Mrs. J. C. Layne, the wife of the loser, who held the donkey by the bit while Mrs. Tanner again delivered her address as she had done at Florence. Moving further on in Erlanger, she was forced again to deliver her address to another crowd that had not heard her first speech after which the return trip was made to Florence and all bets were paid.

It might be said by way of explanation that Mrs. Tanner is an attractive young widow, while Mr.

Layne is the husband of Mrs. Nora G. Layne who made the race for Congress a few years ago, she being a staunch Democrat, though her husband is just as strong a Republican.

Mr. Layne, a true sportsman and a good citizen of Boone county, enjoyed the occasion more than any one present and no doubt would have been disappointed had he been prevented from carrying out his part of the contract.

In years to come, in all probability, this occasion will be recalled many times by those who were present in Florence last Saturday afternoon.

FLORENCE P. T. A.
 The executive committee of the Florence P. T. A. wish to announce to the public, there will be a Musical Program at the School Saturday, December 2 at 2 P. M. Admission one can or one pound of food. Proceeds will be used in the luncheon to care for needy school-children.

HEBRON BASKETBALL.
 The Hebron basketball teams played the Florence teams at Florence, Friday night. The boys game was a very interesting game, as the score was tied at the end of the first half. By the end of the game, Florence had succeeded in making a score of 17 to Hebron's score of 14. The Hebron girls defeated Florence girls by a score of 23 to 6. On next Wednesday night, November 23, Hebron will play Hamilton at Florence.

CONSTANCE OYSTER SUPPER.
 The oyster supper given at the schoolhouse Saturday night was a success. The gross receipts were over $62. The Constance P. T. A. who gave the supper, wishes to thank all who gave their services and donations.

Deaths

SUZANNA MARSHALL RYLE
 Susanna Marshall Ryle, daughter of the late Harvey E. and Elizabeth Clore Marshall, and wife of the late John P. Ryle, was born May 16, 1847, departed this life November 7, 1932. Age 85 years, 6 months and 2 days. She is survived by three children, Harry W. Ryle of Erlanger, Ky., Elizabeth Virginia Berkshire and Cora May Brindley of Petersburg, Ky., three grandchildren, Dr. Floyd H. Ryle and Frank B. Berkshire of Lawrenceburg, Ind., and Lucille Gridley of Cincinnati, Ohio, one great grandchild, Linda Jane Berkshire, one sister, Mrs. Anna Rice and one brother Samuel H. Marshall.

Mrs. Ryle was converted and united with the old Middle Creek Baptist Church at the age of sixteen, she has been a faithful worker until the last few years, because of her affliction she has been unable to be an active member yet she had the interest of the work at heart. During her active years in the work she was a member of five different Baptist Churches, taking her letter with her each time she moved. She was president of four W. M. S.'s in the various churches, and at one time one of the few to help re-establish the work at Florence church. She also was one of the faithful charter members of Petersburg Baptist Church of which she was a member at death.

Our best friend has left us; the voice we loved so well is silent. The hand that once greeted us is stilled. The smile that once met us, is still smiling with loved ones she is meeting to-day in the home-land. The footsteps we once heard, are still plodding in eternity. We feel now we can see her standing on the portals, waiting, looking and beckoning for us to come home.

MOTHER
 "Queen of the world, by love enthroned, on whose head rests the diadem of honor, loyalty and blessedness, we, the children of the Human Clan, salute thee: we bow our heads in humble humility; kneel prayerfully, we raise to thee in a chorus of purity, the best work of our hands, the sacred thoughts of our minds and the love of our hearts."

TOMCATS AND KITTENS WIN
HEBRON BASKETBALL GAMES
 The two Burlington High School teams opened the season here last Saturday night in the presence of a well filled gymnasium.

The opening was an auspicious one as both teams earned splendid victories. The Kittens took the measure of the Alumni team by a score of 30-15, while the Tomcats fished a speedy attack against a much larger bunch of boys to defeat Mr. Healy's Business College 27-21.

The Kittens ran wild during the first half and piled up an enormous lead, but played second string play during the second period. Miss Anna Lee Burton was on top in scoring as her able companions led her the ball for a total of 23 points.

The Tomcats took to the new playing rules like ducks to water, rolling in basket after basket. The Tomcat squad is so well balanced this year that there seems to be very little difference in any five that Coach Lamb sends on the floor. Marked improvement is plain in every member of last year's team, while the newcomers are showing surprising form.

Behore, the stocky Woolperite, piled up a total of 17 points, leading the males in that respect. But the passing and floor work of his mates helped him a lot, in spite of the fact that he knows how to handle the leather when he gets hold of it.

CONSTITUTIONAL MEETING
 I take this means of rendering my resignation as Chairman of the Boone Democratic Executive Committee, a post I have held for the past eight years. Following the defeat of John W. Davis in 1932, I was named committeeman by the county organization and needless to say it has been both a pleasure and an honor to render whatever service I have given.

Although I have one major regret in not having been able to serve during a Democratic administration, nevertheless, there is some solace in the fact that I saw the checkered flag to extend both wishes and an offer of service to whatever Democrat is named as my successor on December 10 and thank everyone who so earnestly cooperated during the past eight years.

Respectfully yours,
 R. E. Berkshire.

Uncle Jimmie Barlow has been suffering with a severe cold for the past three weeks. He is somewhat improved.

The Recorder feels that it is "news" to publish the name of the high scorer, but expresses the sincere wish that such publicity will not cause a "high scoring complex" among members of the team.

FLORENCE SCHOOL NOTES
 The roll call of each room Friday was answered by reciting our school song, after which the entire room united in singing it. This method of teaching the children the song proved to be a huge success.

The 4-H Club had its regular monthly meeting Friday afternoon and elected the following officers for the coming year:

Marion Sullivan, president.
 Marvin McCauley, vice pres.
 Jane Taylor, secretary.
 Neville Hoffman and Alfred Robbins who have completed five years of successful club work received certificates of honor. The leaders who had finished three years of teaching and the captains, each received a pin. With these capable officers, we are sure that the 4-H Club will be one of the outstanding clubs during the coming year.

Mary Alice and Helen Dixon were absent Monday and Tuesday because of the death of their grandfather. We all extend our deepest sympathy to them.

Miss Willis, our county health nurse, paid the school a visit last week and took Bobby Laile of the fourth grade and Minta Dell Carpenter of the eighth grade, to Cincinnati, for medical treatment.

The Audubon Society was organized November 18 for the students of the fifth grade through the eighth. The officers were elected as follows:

Jane Taylor, president.
 Charlie Long, vice president.
 Duane Reeves, sec.-treas.

The third and fourth grades welcomed Daisy and Walter Janis, formerly of Elmore, into our school.

The lower grades are preparing a splendid Thanksgiving program to be given at Chapel, Wednesday morning. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The grades were presented a set of "Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia" by the P. T. A. They appreciate this gift very much and assure the P. T. A. that these books will be used to the best advantage.

There will be no school Thursday or Friday, due to the Thanksgiving Holidays. Everyone is looking forward to these holidays.

BURLINGTON SCHOOL NOTES

We told you last week that the Freshmen were going to prove to you that they were not green "Freshies" and they really did last Friday afternoon in their Chapel program. If you had been there, I'm sure that you would have thought you were in one of the broadcasting stations on the air. Their program consisted mostly of music. We just wish to say to the Freshmen that everyone present enjoyed the program and hope they will sponsor another one before school is out.

The seventh and eighth grades held an election last Tuesday, November 15 to elect their officers for the following year. Those elected were as follows:

Eighth Grade
 Lee Etta Aylor, pres.
 Howard Garrison, vice pres.
 Ruth Ligon, sec.

Seventh Grade
 Harold Snow, pres.
 Billy Jarrell, vice pres.
 Laura Mae Pettit, sec.

On Wednesday afternoon of this week, school will be dismissed for the Thanksgiving Holidays. Everyone seems to be enthused over it. We hope that everyone will have a good vacation and plenty of turkey. After that come back ready to take a six week examination.

Some very good carpenter work has taken place at our school in the past weeks. The basketball team with the aid of their coach and principal have built themselves a dressing room in the basement. This was a great help as they didn't have a private room. Later on they plan to fix a shower in it. Jeff Eddins, Elmo Aylor and Charles Hughes did some nice work in our office. They built shelves along the walls and painted them, the book cases were then put in the elementary department and the books were placed on these shelves. If our school keeps on developing like it has in the last few weeks along these lines, we will have a modern school within a few months. We are very proud of it because it is being done by the students themselves.

HAMILTON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Friday night, November 18, resulted in another decisive victory for the Hamilton Girls over the Petersburg Girls. The final score was 23 to 3.

The boys proved no match for opponents, the Petersburg squad, and were defeated 28 to 13.

After tying the score four times, and playing two overtime periods, the Hamilton Independents came out on top and defeated the Petersburg Independents 24 to 22.

Gladys Moore, a member of our Senior Class, will spend the Thanksgiving Holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Moore, Dayton, Kentucky.

The Honor Club served lunch at the basketball game, Friday, November 18. Those on the serving committee were: Hazel Lee Craig, Dorra Mae Delph, Dorothy Jean Reese and Gladys Moore.

Burlington will receive the battle of her life when Hamilton travels to that place to play against them, Friday, December 2.

The Honor Club held a meeting in the school auditorium, Friday, November 18. After a discussion of old and new business, the following program was offered:

Devotional—Marie Kirtley.
 Song—By Club.
 Recitation—Sara B. Ryle.
 Piano Solo—Ann Aylor.

"Thanksgiving Today and Yesterday"—John Wesley Palmer.

Democrats Will Meet Next Week To Elect Precinct Executives

HIGH-Y CLUB

The High-Y Club had its first meeting, November 18. They elected the delegates, who will represent them at the older boys conference to be held December 2, 3, and 4, at Eminence, Ky. The Club also decided to sponsor a Community Chest and Christmas Tree for the needy of this community. The plans will be announced later, and the cooperation of the entire community is requested. Through this means Christmas Cheer may be brought to many who otherwise would find it a dull season. Let's all do our best and make this a real success.

LASSINGS LEAVE FOR FLORIDA

Judge J. M. Lassing and wife left Tuesday night for St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will spend the winter as usual. While Judge Lassing always is missed when he leaves Burlington it seems that folks look forward to his departure each succeeding fall with increasing regret. On account of his valiant and effective services in campaign organization and on the stump this year this regret is even more expansive, reaching out to all Democrats from North Bend to Landing and from Rabbit Hash to the Dixie Highway. But that is not all. He is admired and respected by Republicans as well as Democrats on account of his clean-cut and inoffensive campaign mannerisms, and most Republicans in the county would seek his aid as quickly as from a member of their own faith. If possible, Judge, more power to you!

Don't forget to see the four act play to be given by the P. T. A. and entitled "THE COLLEGE BOBO." This play is packed with laughter and fun and will certainly entertain you. The price of admission is nominal and the talent all local. To other members of this club we will find the taste of characters.

Local News

Hon. W. A. Gaines, of the Petersburg Pike, took his departure for the sunny southland Tuesday night. He accompanied Judge and Mrs. Lassing. In spite of Mr. Gaines' advanced years he appears in splendid health, in fact much better than he looked several years ago.

Those who attended the turkey supper given by the W. M. U. of the Florence Baptist Church last Saturday night will not wonder why they wonder why their suppers always are a success. One glance at one of those fifty cent plates will suffice. Mrs. Lewis Stephens was chairman of the committee, being assisted by Mrs. Elsie Hamilton, Mrs. L. D. Renaker, Mrs. Stanley Lucas and Mrs. Ed Newman.

John Harold Cook, of near Petersburg, and Miss Zora Cason, of Bellevue, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nichols and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sullivan and family of near Idlewild.

D. R. Blythe, Dr. M. A. Yelton and F. H. Rouse spent several days the past week hunting birds in Green County, Kentucky. Dr. Yelton has several fine hunting dogs and the three reported a very good kill, considering the fact that they were hampered by the weather.

Mary Emily Burcham, younger daughter of Esqued and Mrs. A. S. Burcham, of Bellevue, was taken to the Bethesda hospital, Cincinnati for an operation for the removal of her adenoids Wednesday morning. The result of the operation had not been learned at press time.

FISH DISTRIBUTED

The State Game and Fish Commission distributed 3,000 Blue Gills of "Angelina" also in the waters of Boone county Tuesday. The distribution was made under the supervision of Deputy Game Warden Edwin M. Johnson, who ever is alert to the welfare of Boone county sportsmen. These fish are several fine fishing places in the county as a result of "stocking" and many more in the making.

LEADERS IN PAST CAMPAIGN TO PREPARE FOR PRECINCT CAUCUSES—COUNTY COMMITTEEMAN TO BE NAMED ON DECEMBER 10 BY PRECINCT MEMBERS—GOOD TURNOUT EXPECTED

Under the party law, meetings will be held in each voting precinct in Boone county to select a man or woman as members of the Democratic County Committee to serve for the next four years. The Democratic State Convention held in Louisville, April 12th, 1932, provided that these meetings should be held in each voting precinct in the county at 2 P. M., according to the time in use in that precinct, on Saturday, December 3rd, 1932, at or near the polling places in said precinct.

The meetings are to be called to order by a person designated by the County Chairman for that purpose who shall preside at the meeting and certify to the county chairman the name of the man or woman selected to act as a member of the County committee.

All persons selected at the voting precinct meetings will meet at the Court House in Burlington, Saturday, December 10th, 1932, at 2 P. M. Central Standard Time and organize the County Committee by selecting a County Chairman and Secretary, who may be either a member of the committee or some other person selected by the County committee.

The qualifications of persons selected are: "No person shall act as a committeeman or committeewoman who does not live in the voting precinct for which he or she offers to act or who fails to support the nominees of his or her party." The present County Chairman, R. E. Berkshire, designated the following to call the precinct meetings to order and preside:

Beaver, J. F. Clerk.
 Bellevue, Lillard Scott.
 Builittville, M. M. Garnett.
 Burlington No. 1, J. E. Gaines.
 Burlington No. 2, J. P. Brothers.
 Carlton, Ira Smith.
 Constance, J. Emmett Riddell.
 Florence No. 1, T. H. Casselman.
 Florence No. 2, L. O. C. Aza.
 Hamilton, Tom Elmer.
 Hebron, Emmett Kilmer.
 Petersburg No. 1, Wilbur Rice.
 Petersburg No. 2, B. H. Berkshire.
 Union, A. O. Rouse.
 Verona, G. C. Ransom.
 Walton No. 1, O. W. Clerk.
 Walton No. 2, Sidney Gaines.

CORNCRACKERS MEET

The Constance Corncracker 4-H Club met at the Constance School House Friday afternoon and finished the club year. For the fifth consecutive year the club had 100 per cent completion of projects. The Corncrackers have taken part in every club activity undertaken by Boone county 4-H clubs. The club sent one demonstration team to Lexington to represent Boone County in the state contest during the "Junior Week" and one representative on the Boone County judging team at the State Fair at Louisville. Several members attended club camp at Alexandria's last August.

The Corncrackers expect to score high toward winning the Boone County Bankers' trophy, which has already been won twice by the club, and if won this year by them, becomes their property. There are many good 4-H Clubs in Boone County, and if some other club wins this trophy our club will be among the first to congratulate them. We believe in sportsmanship.

We wish to thank the Boone County Recorder, and Walton Advertiser for the publicity given the club; William Zimmerman, club leader; A. D. Hunter, assistant club leader; Mrs. Will Zimmerman, Mrs. Freda Zimmerman, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Lupton, club leaders; and all the club officers for their faithful service. It would not be proper to not mention the services of our faithful and beloved county agent, H. R. Fortner who has given so much of his valuable time to the cause of 4-H clubs and the problems of farmers of Boone County. We are grateful to you, Mr. Fortner. We also wish to thank Mr. J. P. Dawkins who rendered his services and his time to help the club members to the State Fair, and to all others who have contributed to the club's success in other ways.

RED CROSS ROLL CALL

Thanksgiving day will end the time set aside by the National Red Cross for the Roll Call. However, that does not mean that you cannot join at any later date. Membership is taken at all times. Each precinct has its chairman, and it is the intention to overlook no one in being given the opportunity to join. If you have not been reached, just communicate with your precinct chairman, and he or she will give you the button and flag showing that you are doing your share to help in this time of trying need.

Boone County's quota is 550 members this year. To obtain this, the cooperation of everyone is needed. Last year Boone County's membership totaled only 250 which does not begin to pay for the services the National Red Cross has rendered this county. Show your appreciation to this national organization by doing your bit toward reaching the quota.

Flour, made from government wheat, voted by congress to the Red Cross, is being distributed throughout the county to needy families. Approximately 60 families in Boone County are receiving this aid. In August, Congress voted 500,000 families of cotton to be given to the Red Cross, which organization has made it into cloth and apportioned it to the states in the nation. Boone county has its supply on hand and it is being made into garments by already-organized groups in the various precincts, such as Sunday school classes, Ladies Aids, etc.

Your contribution to the Red Cross also helps to pay for the services of the Red Cross Public Health Nurse, without which Boone county would have no affluents whatsoever with the Children's Hospital and Clinics in Cincinnati. This hospital has been very generous to Boone County's charity cases, and our own Public Health Nurse, Miss Eunie Willis, our children would have been denied the services of the best doctors of the city. A Public Health Nurse has been found to be a necessity in a county, not only for the welfare of the children, but of all who are need of any help. Without a sustained unit of the Red Cross in the county, there can be no nurse.

Look up your precinct chairman and tell him you want to be counted "Present" on his roll.

The precinct chairmen are:
Bellevue, R. S. Hensley.
Petersburg, H. A. Rogers.
Beaver, Harry Moore.
Big Bone, Rev. Roy Johnson.
Union, Irvin Rouse.
Walton, Chas. Ransler.
Florence, Stanley Lucas.
Constance, Jesse Hamilton.
Hebron, Chester Kottmyer.
Burlington, Mrs. C. L. Cropper.
Bullittsville, Mrs. B. C. Graddy.
Rabbit Hash, Chas. Craig.

LOCAL NEWS

Newton Sullivan has been confined to his home with tonsillitis for these few days. It is hoped that he will improve sufficiently to swallow turkey on Thanksgiving day.

J. S. Ryle and son, of Warsaw, were Burlington visitors Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Cropper had as their dinner guests Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Cropper and daughters, Misses Mary Bess and Sara, and Judge and Mrs. J. M. Lasing.

Dr. E. J. Love, Edward Helms and B. H. Berkshire, all of Petersburg, were visitors last Wednesday.

Sterling Rouse, expert fruit grower and honey producer, of near Limaburg, was a pleasant caller at the Recorder office last Thursday afternoon.

Friends of Mrs. L. C. Beemon, of Florence, will be pleased to learn that she is greatly improved in health.

Miss Mary B. Rouse, of Cincinnati, spent last Saturday night with Miss Virginia Yelton.

J. H. Bartley, of Burlington R. D. 1, was a caller at the Recorder office last Saturday afternoon.

Gulley and Pettit transported a fine load of hogs to the Cincinnati market Tuesday for O. M. Rogers and John Snelling. The hogs weighed 250 pounds and brought the usual depression prices. Mr. Rogers' farm is located near Burlington on the Union Road.

F. A. Hall and wife left Sunday afternoon for Newport, where they will spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. H. W. Shearer and Mr. Shearer.

W. L. Kirkpatrick and company were busy all day Tuesday dressing pork turkeys and chickens for the Thanksgiving market.

Mr. and Mrs. George Eggleston, of Francesville, are the proud parents of a fine daughter since November 16—name Helen Fay.

C. D. Benson, George Baker and W. B. Johnson, of Walton, were business visitors in the county seat Monday afternoon.

W. C. Weaver is able to be about again following a siege of flu. Mr. Weaver is a red hot Democrat and it is reported that his cold was caused from cooling off too quickly after the election.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Williams and family, and Waite Cross were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Manley Ryle. Mr. Cross formerly was a prominent citizen of this community.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our friends for the many kind deeds extended to us, Brother Dunaway for his kind and consoling remarks, Brother Campbell for that beautiful prayer, Mrs. Martin for that sweet song, and Chambers and Grubbs for the efficient manner in which they conducted the funeral.

Boone County Farm Notes

By H. R. Forkner, County Agent

4-H BOY LEADS IN POULTRY WORK

Mr. Ralph Maurer, son of Mrs. Josie Maurer of near Burlington and poultry project group captain of Burlington Blue Ribbon 4-H Club believes in making his poultry project not only practical, but profitable. While numerous poultrymen had severe losses he raised 529 chickens out of 343 put in the brooder house with a gross cost of 3 cents per pound for feed and fuel to 13 weeks of age. He carried his project farther and now has the pullets from the above project in the laying house laying from 35 to 45% production per day of 35 cents per dozen eggs.

Ralph's success with his poultry project didn't just happen. It is the average of 10 five-point Clean Chick brooding demonstrations started by the County Agent last spring in which 95.41% of 3199 chicks strated were raised. The five points of the Clean Chick brooding demonstrations are clean chicks, clean ground, clean brooding equipment, good balanced rations cleanly fed under careful management. The big difference in the above demonstrations is not in the number of chicks raised but the quality of pullets raised. These birds went into the laying house vigorous and healthy and ready to do a good job in making winter eggs. While many of our older folks sit back and hesitate in changing their methods, 4-H Club and Utopia Club members have this year put new ideas and new blood in the agriculture and the poultry industry of the county.

STATE HORTICULTURAL MEETING

A number of Boone county fruit growers each year attend the State Horticultural meeting held at the College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky. The meeting this year is scheduled for Thursday and Friday, December 1st and 2nd. A number of prominent orchardmen from various parts of the country will be on the program.

MELONS ARE WILT RESISTANT

Eight Boone county melon growers of the Ohio river bottoms tried out three varieties of wilt resistant watermelons this year. A close survey of the results shows that in every case the melons lived where the commonly grown varieties died from wilt.

The quality seems to be the limiting factor in growing the wilt varieties. The quality did not come up to that of Stone Mountain and the other high quality melons commonly grown in the bottoms. When the resistance to wilt has been found the next problem will be to improve the quality.

UTOPIA MEMBERS SHOW PROGRESS

Boone county Utopia Club No. 2 met at Burlington on last Thursday night with thirty members present. Mr. Carl Jones of the College of Agriculture was present to discuss state Utopia Club plans for 1933.

Good progress was shown by the members in project activities. The importance of improved agriculture and home economic practices were discussed as one of the major problems along with the social and recreational life of the county. A number of the project reports were as follows:

Mr. Thomas Randall has given special care to the growing and curing of his acre and half tobacco project. He displayed a hand of lugs which was compared with samples left at the courthouse by Mr. Cason and Mr. Perry Presser. Jailer Kirkpatrick and the county agent had to agree that Tom's tobacco was just as good as that of the above growers, but Tom wouldn't agree—He says his is the best.

Mr. Kirtley McWethy reported 183 bushels of potatoes from his acre potato project.

Mr. Wilford Stekman reported

$183.00 income from his one half acre of raspberries.

Mr. John Cox reported one half acre strawberries in his project this year and one half acre in his project next year.

Mesars. B. C. Stephens, Wilton Stephens, Grant Maddox, George Wöhrlay, William Cox, Robert Hafer and Lloyd Siskman are each keeping complete farm account records. Mr. Viola G. Anderson, Alice Hafer, Alberta Baker and Thomas Randall each turned in written reports on their years' work in the landscape project. The reports on this work was most encouraging. The next meeting night was set for Thursday, December 15th.

FIVE 100% CLUBS

Five of the eleven Boone county 4-H Clubs enrolling 296 4-H Club boys and girls have completed their project work 100% and will be classified as 100% clubs according to county agent H. R. Forkner. One other club carried 100% project work, but to date one record book has not reached the county agent's office.

Those clubs to win the honor of being 100% clubs are the Blue Ribbon Club of Burlington, the Norbich Champion Club of Hebron, the Cornercracker Club of Constance, the Zion Eagles Club of Mt. Zion and the Silver Leaders Club of Hamilton. Each of the other clubs have from one to five members who have not turned in their project record books.

The above record is the best in the history of Boone county. It is the result of no one person's work but a combination of efficient 4-H Club officers, adult community and project leaders and hearty cooperation of parents, teachers of the schools, the county superintendent of schools and others.

FARMS SOLD

Two farms sold by Rel C. Wayman, Real Estate, Herbert Huffman farm, 106 acres, near Verona, Ky. to John Anderson, of Latonia, Ky. and 41 acres near Piner, Ky., owned by Mary Desmond, sold to Grover Drake of Bellevue, Ky.

Rel C. Wayman also reports a heavy movement towards the farm report of Department of Agriculture shows 32,000,000,000 persons will be living on farms by the close of the year. It has been 20 years since the population on the farm has been so high. During the first three months of this year 564,000 persons moved to farms, this shows a farmward move for 1933.

Tri-State Loose Leaf Tobacco
Warehouse Company

A. L. Hite, President

Russell and Front Sts. Covington, Ky.

The Tri-State Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., Inc.

A Farmer Owned Organization Operated by Farmers Who Know the Tobacco Business Thoroughly, and Work with the Purpose in Mind of Obtaining the Highest Prices for the Market. Will Purchase—They Invite You to Sell Your Tobacco with Them and We Can Assure You of Every Possible Advantage. To Help You Have a Good Sale—Their Fine, Modern, Well Lighted Warehouse is Located at Second and Russell Sts., in Covington—It is Convenient for Farmers of this Section and we are glad to recommend it to all our customers—Phone Hemlock 4924.

No service is of greater value to the farmer than one which provides him a market for his tobacco and obtains for him the highest of market prices. Such a one is rendered by The Tri-State Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., Inc. in Covington. They have recently enlarged their warehouse, which will enable our customers to sell their tobacco and get back home with less cost, than you will have in a larger market; where the expense of several days' wait is avoided, and this is a frequent occurrence. Why not support your home market and you will always have a place where you can sell to better advantage than amongst strangers. Here you will find at all times friends who will try to help you in every possible way. Remember, if you want better service, a home market and the highest of prices, sell your tobacco with The Tri-State Loose Leaf Tobacco Warehouse Co., Inc.

The men connected with this concern, are: A. L. RIFE, Pres. P. L. Powers, Vice-President, E. E. Kenney, Treasurer, Judge J. M. Rankin, Cashier and Chas. I. Thomas, manager. All know the business from beginning to end and are deserving of your patronage. We are glad to compliment them on the valued service they are rendering and suggest that you sell your tobacco here.

The Wilson Coal Co. Incorporated

Ludlow's Leading Coal Firm Located With Office and Yards at Ash and Traverse Streets Makes a Specialty of Dealing in the Highest Grade of Coal—Featuring a Quick Service to Farmers and Will Load Your Truck or Wagon in a Short Time. Under Management of R. E. Wilson, Phone South 4571.

This is one of the leading firms of this section of the country that is rendering the public the best of service and use every effort to maintain a complete supply of coal and coke for the people at prices that are reasonable. There is more to the modern coal business than merely quoting the prices to customers. This establishment is in charge of people who are thoroughly familiar with every feature of this important service. They know which coal is best for particular heating systems. They are always willing to give you information about fuel problems and you are obliged in no way merely because you inquire. Talk the proposition over with them and learn not only how to save money on your fuel, but also how to obtain the best results from its use. The experience of past years make everyone alert to laying in as much coal as possible now. The price, as you know, never recedes in fact, more often goes up. We know of no firm with a more enviable record and reputation for fair and honest dealing and in this edition we give commendable mention to The Wilson Coal Co., Inc., in Ludlow.

The Ideal Supplies Co., Inc. "All Kinds of Building Materials"

Are Known For Their "Courtesy and Service With Every Order" and Furnish the People of This Section of Kentucky With a Complete Service in All That Pertains to Lumber and Building Material—Located With Offices and Yards at 514 Adella Street in Ludlow—A 20th Century Concern, Equipped for Rendering the Most Metropolitan Service and Dealing on a Large Scale in Quality Products, including Lumber, Sand, Gravel, Lime, Cement, Tile, Brick, Concrete Blocks, Porch Columns, Fence Posts, Gas Pipe and Roofing—Phone South 4185.

At the outset they realized that a satisfied customer was the best influence for more business, and they determined to build for this establishment a reputation that would be the envy of the building material trade. That they have succeeded is evidenced by the large amount of patronage that they now receive and the amount of territory that their activities cover. With a knowledge of their business that always breeds success, they have offered the best Lumber and Building material.

POINT PLEASANT (Too late for last week)

Church services on November 13, were well attended both morning and evening. The young people are putting forth every effort to have a Christmas entertainment.

Mrs. Anne McGlasson and family entertained Rev. Wilbur Wallace of Lexington, over Sunday.

Several from this neighborhood attended the funeral of Mr. John Wernz, Sr., last Wednesday. Dearest sympathy is extended to the family in the loss of this good husband and father.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dolwick and sons had as Sunday afternoon guests Mrs. Hildreth Dolwick and children and Mr. and Mrs. George Wernz.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wernz entertained friends Saturday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Adam Dolwick and daughter spent Sunday with her father, Mr. Henry Jergens and family.

Miss Florence Herbstreit of Constance, spent Sunday afternoon with her sister, Mrs. Elmo Jergens.

A number of Mrs. Elnora Riddell's friends and relatives surprised her with a house-warming last Saturday evening.

We are glad to hear Mrs. Alice Carder is able to be out again after her long illness.

Mrs. Emory Smith and son of Cincinnati, O. spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tanner. Their Sunday guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Markberry and small son, Billy Ray.

George Miller, Jr., spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Miller of Florence.

Miss Helen Wernz has been spending several days with her grandmother, Mrs. John Wernz, Sr., of Constance.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST AT CONSTANCE

We closed our meeting November 13. Because everyone cooperated in such a splendid way, we had a very successful meeting. There was a total of six added to the Church; four by primary obedience and two to take fellowship with the local congregation. The attendance and attention was splendid thruout the whole meeting.

But now that the meeting is over we must press on to other things. The morning worship service each Sunday is being kept on the same high plane of worship. We try to come into His house as He would have us come. The service begins at ten A. M. and closes at eleven-thirty. The Lord expects all His followers to be present to "Remember Him." We will have our regular Wednesday evening services as usual. The fine young peoples' class is in charge of these services, and are showing themselves capable of leadership. The future of the Church is assured by the training of our young folk.

You are invited to attend the Sunday evening services the second and fourth Sundays of each month. They begin at seven-thirty and are full of good music and gospel preaching.

COLLEGE PLANS FARM INVENTORY CAMPAIGN

The College of Agriculture of the University of Kentucky, through its extension division, is planning to assist 5,000 or more farmers in taking inventories of their farm business the first week in January. The period of January 2-7 is to be designated as "farm inventory week." Its observance has been endorsed by the agricultural committee of the Kentucky Bankers' Association, and bankers, farmers' organizations, civic bodies and other agencies interested in agriculture will cooperate with the college in encouraging the use of business methods on the farm.

The statement from the college points out that an inventory enables a farmer to know where he stands financially. It can be used as a basis for making a credit statement to a bank or other loan agency. It is the first step a farmer must make in keeping complete records of his business. Special directions for taking farm inventories have been prepared by the college. Blanks entitled, "How to Take a Farm Inventory and Make out a Credit Statement," issued by the college, will be distributed in large numbers to agricultural leaders in all parts of the state, preparatory to encouraging farmers to

NEAR RELATIVES

PAID AWAY WITHIN FEW HOURS OF EACH OTHER—BERT SULLIVAN DIED SUDDENLY FRIDAY EVENING, FOLLOWED BY DEATH OF HIS UNCLE L. P. SULLIVAN, EARLY SATURDAY—LATER WAS LAST OF FAMILY OF TEN.

Albert Sidney Sullivan

The extremely sudden death of Bert Sullivan was a severe shock to his legion of friends and his numerous relatives here last Friday afternoon. He had been ill for an extended period last spring and summer, but had been up and about and apparently very much improved for the last few months.

Just before going to his home for supper Friday evening he had complained slightly, but did not appear at all concerned. Just after eating his evening meal he turned on the radio and as he leaned forward to remove his shoes, he collapsed, dying immediately.

Albert Sidney Sullivan was born in the Burlington precinct, on Woolper creek, and had passed the major portion of his life either in or very near Burlington, where he moved after retiring from active farm life. For several years he lived in Erlanger. He was 65 years old and is survived by one sister, Mrs. A. G. McMullen. One brother, Kirby Sullivan, preceded him to the grave.

The deceased was a son of the late William P. (Babe) Sullivan and Eliza Sullivan and also is survived by two nephews, Lewis, of Florence, and Lloyd, of Latonia, two nieces, Mrs. Grace Michaels, of Ft. Mitchell, and Mrs. Clara Wright of Latonia. Numerous other closely connected relatives also survive him.

Funeral services were conducted from the home in Burlington by Rev. H. C. Runyan, of Latonia Christian Church, assisted by Rev. F. E. Walker, of the local Baptist Church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends, many of whom were unable to gain admission to the spacious dwelling. The remains were interred on the family lot in the I. O. O. F. cemetery by Funeral Director, C. Scott Chambers, of Walton.

Lewis P. Sullivan

Within a few hours after the death of Bert Sullivan last Friday evening came the news of the death of his uncle, Lewis P. Sullivan, on Woolper Creek, a few miles from Burlington. Death came at 1 o'clock Saturday morning. The deceased had been ill for several years past.

L. P. Sullivan was the sole surviving member of a family of ten children, five brothers and four sister having passed away.

The deceased was born August 12, 1863, being 70 years, 3 months and 14 days of age. He was a son of Merritt and Mary Sullivan and one of a family of six sons and four daughters. His brothers included Newton Sullivan, Sr., Henry Sullivan, William P. Sullivan, Jasper Sullivan and Woodford Sullivan, Sr., all of whom preceded him to the grave. His sisters included Mrs. Mary Hensley, Mrs. Adaline Hensley, Mrs. Lucy Carson and Mrs. Susan Recker.

Mr. Sullivan was married on March 1, 1883, to Miss Elizabeth Deck, who preceded him in death several years ago. To this union were born five children, all of whom survive. The children include Mrs. George Bruce, Chas. Sullivan, of Moore's Hill, Indiana; Elbert Sullivan, of Petersburg, Millard and Earl Sullivan.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from the Petersburg Christian Church the discourse being delivered by Rev. H. J. Berry, of Lexington. Burial in the Petersburg cemetery in charge of C. Scott Chambers, of Walton.

LEON LODER DEAD

News of the death of Leon Loder, of Bromley, reached Boone county early this week. The deceased was formerly a resident of Petersburg and Hebron in the county, having been a member of the Masonic Lodge at the latter place for the past twenty-five years. He was buried at Highland.

Boone county friends of Dr. Quinn, of Union, will be pleased to know that he is doing nicely in a Lexington Hospital, where he has been for the past week. Mrs. Quinn stated Monday evening that he soon would be able to return to his practice.

Miss Alta Rouse, of Cincinnati, spent a few hours with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Rouse last Sunday afternoon.

PLANNED BAPTIST CHURCH

The Ladies Aid and W. M. V. will meet at the home of Mrs. Frank Madden of the Blue Highway on December 15th. All members are urged to be present. Election of officers and other special business.

The week of prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Delahanty, December 7th, at two o'clock. Members are urged to attend. Visitors are welcome.

CLOSE MYERS

Friends of Miss Kathryn Myers were surprised to learn of her marriage last Wednesday, November 23, to Mr. Charles Myers, Jr., of Ft. Mitchell. The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. W. Bush, pastor of the Ft. Mitchell Baptist Church in the presence of the immediate kindred, in the Ft. Mitchell parsonage.

Mrs. Myers is the daughter of L. V. Myers, of Burlington, and is a graduate of Burlington High School and Georgetown College. Following her graduation she became a school teacher, having been assistant principal at Florence High School the past year.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Myers, Sr., of Ft. Mitchell, and a graduate of Holmes High School, Covington. For the past eight years he has been the cashier of the Union Light, Heat and Power Co., at Covington.

The newly wedded couple will be at home to their many friends within a few days at the residence of the bride's father in Burlington. At present they are enjoying a honeymoon trip through the Southern states.

BOONE COUNTY WOMAN'S CLUB

The Boone County Woman's Club held its regular monthly meeting on Thursday afternoon, November 17th, at the home of Mrs. Anna Huey.

"Thanksgiving" quotations, was the response to roll call. Scripture reading 95 Psalms by the hostess.

"Paper Autumn and the Old Year"—Mrs. Ida Easton. Song in the Sweet By and By—Mrs. Lullie Huey, Mrs. Genie Green and Mrs. Anna Huey.

Reading—Mrs. McWilliams and the Lightning—Mrs. Bea Huey. General Quizzes—Mrs. Lizzie Goodridge.

Duet—Beautiful Isle of Somewhere—Mrs. Genie Green and Mrs. Anna Huey.

Our welcome guests were Mrs. L. J. Underhill of Tampa, Fla. and Miss Estelle Huey. Delicious refreshments were served to the following guests and members:

Mrs. Catherine Easton, Mrs. Bea Huey, Mrs. Pearl Hughes, Mrs. Lizzie Goodridge, Mrs. Ida Easton, Mrs. Lullie Huey, Mrs. Genie Green, Mrs. Ann Huey, Miss Estelle Huey and Mrs. L. J. Underhill.

The club received Miss Estelle Huey as a member, and we are glad to take her in our Woman's club, a meeting ground for those of purpose, great and broad and strong, whose aim is in the stars, who ever long to make the listening world resound, with sweeter music, freer tones; a place where kindly living words are said, and kinder deeds are done; where hearts are fed, where wealth of brain for poverty atones; where hand grasps hand and souls touch with souls.

Mrs. Bea Huey will be the next hostess to the Woman's Club on December 15th.

Deaths

LOUIS E. THOMPSON

Louis E. Thompson, aged 69 years, passed away Friday at his home on Shelby Street, Florence, Ky., after having been in poor health for several years.

He was manager of the C. W. Myers Motor Car Co., and a member of the Hopeful Lutheran Church and Venus Lodge No. 154, I. O. O. F. Mr. Thompson is survived by his widow, Mrs. Sallie Thompson, one daughter, Mrs. Albert Luckert, his mother, Mrs. Mary Thompson, one brother, Warren Thompson, two grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.

The pall bearers were John P. Crouch, Winfield Myers, Harold Thompson, Vernon Selts, Clifford Tanner and Cecil Martin.

Funeral services were conducted at the Hopeful Lutheran Church, Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, by the Rev. Harlow Haas, pastor, assisted by Rev. Cecil Tanner, in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends, after which he was laid to rest in the nearby cemetery.

Funeral director Philip Taliaferro had charge of the funeral arrangements.

M. M. BLACK KILLED

WHEN STRUCK BY WHEEL OF MANURE SPREADER WHEN FRIGHTENED TEAM RAN AWAY—WAS FATHER OF ALLEN BLACK, WELL KNOWN BOONE COUNTY BASEBALL PITCHER.

M. M. Black, formerly a prominent Boone county citizen, who lived near Big Bone, was killed last Friday on his farm near Washington, Courthouse, Ohio. Mr. Black met death when his team became frightened, throwing him beneath the distributor wheel of a manure spreader he was driving on his farm near that town. He had stopped the team to tighten a bolt and the surprise lunge of the team threw him off balance with the result above recited.

Mr. Black will be remembered in Boone county as the father of Allen Black, who was widely known as a crack baseball pitcher. The latter now is managing a professional team in Florida.

The deceased was 66 years old and beside the above named son is survived by three other children and his widow. He was a son of the late James Black and wife, of Big Bone. He moved to Ohio from Boone county in 1916. He was buried at Washington Courthouse.

B. Y. P. U. TO ENTERTAIN

The local B. Y. P. U. will entertain members and friends with an Oyster Soup at Earle Smith's tenant house, Saturday night, December 3, 1932.

There will be a special speaker at both the Sunday school and church services at the Burlington Baptist church next Sunday, December 4.

Boone County Farm Notes

By H. R. Forkner, County Agent

285 4-H CLUB MEMBERS

COMPLETE PROJECT WORK

Two hundred and eighty-five of the two hundred and ninety-six Boone county 4-H Club members completed in boys and girls organized 4-H Club work and completed their year's project work and turned in their reports according to county agent H. R. Forkner. Estimates from reports turned in shows that the value of the products produced this year are approximately $9,935.00.

The project enrollment is not only on record but both project completion and per cent completion are rated at the highest. The members have completed 56 quality tobacco projects, 60 poultry projects, 26 dairy calf projects, 81 girls sewing projects, 5 foods preparation projects, 10 canning projects, 5 room improvement projects, 3 acre corn projects, 6 pig projects, 8 rabbit projects, 3 sheep projects, 2 butterfat production projects and 37 garden projects.

Project work is not the only accomplishment of 4-H Club members as they have made an equal good record of special 4-H events in the communities, county and state this year. The four fold development of the Head, Heart, Hand and Feet in the organized educational, recreational, social and economic features are of importance in the agricultural, home economics and rural life of the county. Much credit for the successful club year goes to the splendid cooperation in unselfish leadership of 68 adult community club and project group leaders.

HOGS SHOW PROFIT

The fact that hogs fed an efficient balanced ration will show a profit was demonstrated the past few weeks by Mr. S. B. Sleet, of near Beaver Lick. Mr. Sleet started 31 hogs on June 29th with a gross weight of 1860 pounds or an average weight of 60 pounds per head. The same hogs were sold September 28th on the Cincinnati market with a gross weight of 6440 pounds of 207 pounds per head.

The hogs were fed for 71 days a balanced ration recommended by County Agent consisting of ear corn, full feed and a self fed protein supplement consisting of 3 parts tankage, 1 part 41% protein cottonseed meal and 1 part linseed oil meal. The average daily gain was 2.06 pounds per head which is an unusual good gain for hogs of the above weight.

The hogs were valued at $74.40 cents per pound at the start of the demonstration. They were sold at the close of the feeding

GO ON SALE IN BOONE COUNTY

DAY AFTER THANKSGIVING—QUOTA IS 100 WHICH WILL BE ADDED TO FUND FOR EDUCATION OF TUBERCULOSES—MRS. MARY LOUISE BERKHAUSE IS CHAIRMAN.

The day following Thanksgiving Day marked the beginning of the sale of Anti-Tuberculosis Christmas seals in the United States. Boone county has its quota of 100 worth of seals on hand now. Soon you will be given the opportunity of buying any amount you desire, thus doing your part toward checking the spread of the "White Plague."

Dr. L. E. Smith, executive secretary of the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association, made the statement that 150 persons in Kentucky, 175 of which are children, are ill with tuberculosis and are asking for help. At present there are only 13 beds available for these unfortunate. Tuberculosis takes advantage of unemployment, hunger and exposure. This is not the end of the story. Many thousands of people are in contact with the sick, and the disease is constantly spreading. The number of cases increases and each year a small army of victims are taken from the most active group of life.

An increased effort will be made to reach everyone this year, but if you are overlooked, communicate with the County Seal Sale Chairman, Mary Louise Berkhauser, and the seals will be sent you. Each seal costs only 1c. No contribution is too small to be of help, and no contribution can be larger than the need.

The Christmas seals spread knowledge, protect the well, care for the sick, build up the standards of living, and when placed on letters and packages at Christmas time, carry a message of health, hope and happiness wherever they go.

4-H TOBACCO SHOW AND SALE DECEMBER 14TH

Arrangements have been made by the County Agent for Boone County 4-H Club members to compete in the North Kentucky 4-H Tobacco Show and Sale to be held at Carrollton on the tentative date, December 14th.

Seven counties, including Boone, Kenton, Gallatin, Carroll, Owen, Henry and Trimble will take part in the event. One entire house will be used exclusively for the show and sale of estimated 200,000 pounds of Burley tobacco grown by the 4-H Club members in the above counties. This is the second year for the sale, the event last year being considered successful by all members taking part.

DRENCHING PROVES HELP
A number of Boone county sheep raisers were supplied with recommendations for the regular monthly drenching of their flocks early last spring by the county agent. The flocks were drenched with Bluestone and Bluestone-Black. Last 40 once each month from May until freezing weather in the fall.

A recent survey of a number of these flocks made by the County Agent shows that those flocks that were drenched regularly as recommended are in better condition and are more healthy than those not drenched regularly. This is the first year this plan of stomach worm control has been conducted and the results warrant the carrying out of this plan on a larger basis next year.

Alonso Benson, of the Florence Pike, was a Burlington visitor last Monday.

NEWS FROM SULLIVAN

Friends of Newton Sullivan have been very much interested over the production of his illness from myalgia. He still is confined to his bed at this writing and is reported to be in a weakened condition. While there is no cause for alarm, yet his many friends would much rather prefer to learn that he is showing rapid improvement.

Thanksgiving Day guests of C. L. Cropper and family were Walter Brown and family and J. K. Cropper and family.

A fine fox was a part of the Thanksgiving Day kill of C. G. Kelly, while hunting on the farm of his father-in-law, H. S. Turner, in the Ft. Pleasant neighborhood.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Methven and daughter, of Middletown, Ohio, spent Wednesday night and Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slickman, of the Petersburg Pike.

William Townsend, formerly of Union, who is attending medical college in Louisville, spent his Thanksgiving holidays with friends in Boone county.

TOMCATS AND KITTENS WIN
In a three game exhibition on Thanksgiving Eve at Hebron, the teams from B. H. S. eked out a two to one victory. In the opener, a slip and tuck contest between the two junior fives, the Hebron boys were the victors, 17-15, after an overtime period.

In the girls game the Hebron team was bested by a rather one sided score of 22-8. The great Hebron team of last year was depleted by graduation and is but a shadow of its former self, while the new blood on the Blue and White team performed even better than was expected.

Misses Ethelyn Ryle and Anna Lee Burton divided the scoring honors with eight points each, the former making some beautiful shots from the corner, while the latter, playing a usual steady game, was under the basket at the right time and often enough to drop in four field goals.

Although the final score of the boys game was 22-20 it was much closer than that figure at some other periods of the contest. With a lead of 11-9 early in the game it seemed like a coast to an easy win. But the scrappy Hebronites had other ideas and at the end of the half the count stood at 15-8. After a few minutes of play in the second half, the Red and White five had climbed to within three points of the visitors.

It was here, however, that Coach Lamb made one of two shifts in his line-up that proved beneficial by just the necessary margin. The score in the second half was 13-12, indicating just how evenly the second period was fought.

Ogden led in the scoring for Burlington with eight points, while Sebree and Voehel followed with five each. Cook and Snow, alternating in center, divided eight points between them, while Maurer, midget Blue and White captain, accounted for two. Watts, with six markers, was the Hebron leader, followed by Hankins, with five and Dolwick with four.

The local teams will play Hamilton on the home court Friday night of this week and judging by the ominous reports that have come from down that way, the Tomcats and Kittens are in for a tough evening.

DEATH COMES

TO MRS. EMMA ROUSE LLOYD, WIFE OF NOTED SCIENTIST AND BELIEVED QUARANTINE—MRS. LLOYD WAS BORN ON BUFFALO HILL, NEAR UNION—BURIAL AT HOSPITAL.

One of Boone County's best known natives passed away in the death of Mrs. Emma Rouse Lloyd, 74 years old, wife of John Uri Lloyd, noted scientist and author, Sunday, after a short illness, at her home, 3901 Clifton Avenue, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Lloyd was born at Buffalo Hill, near Union, in Boone County, in 1859. She first attended a private school near Union, then a private school in Crittenden, and later went to Sayre Institute at Lexington.

She married Mr. Lloyd in 1880 and the first five years of their married life were spent in Hebron. Then they moved to Norwood and finally to Clifton.

During the World War, she was active in the organization of the Red Cross in Cincinnati. Mrs. Lloyd was a member of a number of patriotic, social and literary organizations.

Answers Call

Last year she published "Clasping Hands With Generations Past," which gives a genealogical record of the branches of the family to which she belonged, who were among the pioneer settlers of Kentucky and who played an important part in the political, educational and agricultural development of this state.

Besides Dr. Lloyd, she is survived by a son, John Thomas Lloyd, Cincinnati, and two daughters, Mrs. O. C. Welburn, Los Angeles, Calif., and Mrs. James Brett, Cincinnati.

Funeral services under the direction of J. J. Gilligan & Son, Cincinnati, were held Tuesday Morning at the home of the deceased. Burial was in Hopeful Church Cemetery, Boone County.

Local residents are well acquainted with Lloyd Park at Crittenden, which was donated to the people of that and surrounding communities by the late Curtis G. Lloyd, also a scientist and author.

Both the Lloyd and the Rouse families have been leaders in the political and educational advancement of Northern Kentucky for many years past.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, of the Camp Ernst neighborhood, were reported to be suffering with the flu the first part of the week.

Mrs. George A. Porter has been confined to her home with influenza for the past few days.

County Clerk A. G. McMullen states that the new auto license plates will be on sale Friday of this week at his office in the court house. The new tags will be white numerals on a green back ground.

LOUISVILLE PAPER BOOBS
BOONE COUNTY GENE CLERK
The following item was clipped from "Highlights and Shadows," a monthly publication published by the Courier-Journal and Louisville Times:

"One of the high spots in the Democratic campaign in Gallatin county, as reported by St. Louis, editor of the Gallatin County News, was a close chase from Boone county, headed by R. E. Berkhauser, chairman of the Boone county Democratic Executive Committee. Mr. Berkhauser, Circuit Court Clerk and Master Commissioner, is a well known and published of the Boone county Recorder, Burlington. The program was as popular with the audience as speaking by Gen. LaFollette and Congressman Spencer."

Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Berkhauser, Mrs. R. E. Falkner and Mrs. David, of Petersburg, and Mrs. Ida M. Thompson, of Cincinnati, enjoyed Thanksgiving Day with R. E. Berkhauser and family.

W. C. Weaver reports a very active summer at his trade despite depressed conditions. Mr. Weaver is a painter and states that 23 houses and two barns were covered by his brush the past season.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT
Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our midst, our dear sister, Mrs. Julia A. Bradford.
Therefore, be it resolved:
That we bow in humble submission to Him, who doeth all things well, and realize that our loss is Heaven's gain.
That we, as members of the W. M. U., will ever cherish her memory and may her Christian influence live on forever in the lives of those who knew and loved her.
That we, express to the bereaved family, our sincere sympathy in this hour of their bereavement and sorrow.
That, a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family, a copy to the Boone County Recorder, and a copy be spread upon the minutes.
Mrs. E. E. Utz
Mrs. H. W. Rouse
Mrs. G. Butler

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank all of our friends and relatives for their many expressions of sympathy expressed on account of the sudden death of our brother, Bert Sullivan. It is our especial desire to thank Rev. Runyan and Rev. Walker for their appropriate and consoling remarks at the service, the donors of the beautiful floral offerings, the singers, and the undertaker, C. Scott Chambers, of Walton, Ky. We never shall forget any of them.
Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McMullen

THE COURIER-JOURNAL STATE SPELLING BEE

Donald McWain, Director.

The Courier-Journal has announced that effort will be made to reach 100 per cent representation in its ninth annual State Spelling Bee, which will be held Wednesday, April 19, at the opening day of the Kentucky Education Association meeting in Louisville. To must have representation, match must have champions from each of 120 counties competing in the final.
Early response to invitations resulted in enrollment of 107 counties. The school systems which have not enrolled to which invitations still are open are: Lawrence, Martin, Menifee, Harlan, Clay, Rockcastle, Clinton, Adair, Oldham, Butler, Livingston, Carlisle and Fulton counties.

The Courier-Journal certifies of merit in spelling are given to the best speller in each school, presentation being made by the county superintendents at county pell-downs. Newspapers, civic clubs, luncheon clubs, Parent-Teacher Associations, business organizations, and various other associations in various counties make it possible to distribute desirable awards in local competitions. In the state match The Courier-Journal offers a trip to Washington for the National Spelling Bee, $500 in cash prizes and dictionaries.

Asbury College in Jessamine has been added to the regular remote control studies of WHAS radiophone of The Courier-Journal and The Louisville Times.

President L. R. Akers of the Wilmore, Kentucky, institution completed arrangements with Gredo Harris, managing director of WHAS, whereby a regular period of devotional music and brief meditations conducted by a faculty member is radiocast directly from the chapel on the Asbury campus at 7 o'clock every morning but Sunday.

Professor I. D. Moon, in charge of music at Asbury, draws on the plentiful talent of the second most cosmopolitan college in the United States for his songs and instrumental selections. Old hymns of the church are featured by glee clubs of men and women, a mixed chorus and quartettes.
The reports on the programme show it is reaching as far west as Kansas at this early hour. It has been widely welcomed as a bringing of a radio day, bringing an atmosphere of quiet into the morning. Music predominates, scripture reading and prayer being limited to about four minutes.

Ten percent of the alfalfa growers in Fleming county cut their hay four times this year; others turned stock on it instead of cutting at the fourth time.

County High School News
BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES
The entire school assembled in the gym Wednesday afternoon for a Thanksgiving program. The program was led by Mrs. Lamb's room, which was enjoyed very much. Brother Walker was present and he made a very nice talk, his subject pertaining to Thanksgiving. We thank the choir for their very pretty songs that they donated to the program and also Mrs. Dorothy Ryle for her beautiful solo. We were very glad to see so many of the parents, patrons and friends at our program and hope that you will come again soon.
Everyone came back on Monday morning with a big smile. We hope that this smile will continue on through the week, as this is a week's examination, but we are mighty afraid that it will vanish. Come on students, let's show that this smile will still be on there by Friday afternoon, and when Hamilton comes Friday night, greet them with and show them we are real sports as well as good basketball players.
The eighth grade is giving a chapel program this Friday. All come out.
The seventh and eighth grade has a very nice portrait of Washington, which they are planning to frame.

HEBRON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES
Wednesday night the Burlington team won a decisive victory over Hebron. The Hebron were defeated 23 to 8 while the boys score was 28 to 20. The Burlington and Hebron Junior teams, however, played a very interesting game. After trying the score once and playing an overtime period, Hebron succeeded in defeating Burlington, 17 to 15. Don't forget the game, Friday night December 2, when Hebron plays Warsaw at Hebron.
The program given Wednesday afternoon by the grades was much enjoyed by all and very well attended by the public. We want to congratulate the grade teachers on their efforts and to thank them for the entertainment that they furnished.

NOTICE
There will be a Farmers Alliance meeting at the New Haven school building on Thursday night, December 1, at 7 o'clock. Everyone is welcome.
Sam B. Sleet, Chairman.

THE CHURCH OF CHRIST AT CONSTANCE, KENTUCKY
The all-day meeting which was held last Sunday was a pleasing success. The morning service was well attended. The young people's class was the largest, with 21 present. Brother Ernest Laughlin, minister of the West End Church in Cincinnati, preached an inspiring sermon on "The Abiding Church" at the afternoon service. The seating capacity of the room was almost taxed to capacity at the evening service, when the local minister, M. M. Scott preached on the subject "The Resurrection, the Proof of Christianity." A fine spirit of fellowship and cooperation prevailed throughout the day. Dinner and supper were served in the basement of the church. It is a great inspiration to all when the family of the Lord comes together to eat and discuss the things pertaining to the Church.
The young people have charge of the mid-week service which begins at eight o'clock each Wednesday evening. These meetings are most interesting and instructive. The entire membership of the Church should feel a responsibility to help these young folk prepare for greater service for the Master. It should be counted a privilege to be able to come to the House of God in the middle of the week to think about the things that are here.

One of the most enjoyable entertainments that has been given here in many years was witnessed by a full house last Saturday night. The play, "A College Hobo," was coached by Miss Virginia Yelton, who casted the play and handled it after the manner of a veteran. No one who witnessed the performance had a word of criticism. Variety musical numbers between the acts greatly enhanced the entertaining value of the performance. A great many here would appreciate a return engagement, but that is not contemplated at this time. It is said, however, that an invitation to stage the play at New Haven has been accepted and that the date has been set for December 10.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Rouse from Thursday until Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Clark Hauchner of Falmouth, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Ben Bales and family, of Dayton, Ohio.

B. E. Aylor and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ryle.

Mrs. Gaines A. Scott, of Petersburg, spent Thanksgiving Day with her mother, Mrs. B. E. Aylor and Mr. Aylor.

Deputy Sheriff W. B. Cotton is making the rounds of the various precincts for the purpose of collecting taxes.

Stanley Ryle is reported ill at his home this week.

Guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clure here on Thanksgiving Day were Dr. L. H. Crisler and wife, Hebert Crisler and wife and Mrs. C. C. Miller, all of Covington. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Cowen, Mrs. Lella Kite, Mrs. Fannie Rice, and L. T. Clure, all of Burlington, and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Snyder, of North Madison, Indiana.

A broken bell rope at the Baptist Church caused a number of cases of tardiness at the Sunday School services last Sunday. It happens that the M. E. Church has no bell, so that all Bible School going folks in Burlington depend upon the same bell as a time signal on Sunday morning.

The Erlanger Independents came to Hamilton, Tuesday night, November 22 and were victors in two games. The first resulted in Erlanger gaining 17 points and Hamilton, 13 points. "Subs" were then put in on both sides and Erlanger again came out on top. Score this time was 12 to 8.

Mr. Reuben Z. Asbury, principal of Hamilton High School, and his wife, spent the holidays at the home of their parents, near Mt. Olivet, Kentucky.

TOBACCO GROWERS! SELLING CHARGES REDUCED AT CYNTHIANA

There has been a great agitation throughout the State by Tobacco Growers, advocating a Reduction in Warehouse Charges. We have watched with interest the mass meetings held by the Growers and the decisions and opinions given by Warehousemen. In almost every case the Warehouse Corporations have held that because of the light weight of this year's tobacco, their overhead and taxes remaining about the same, that it is impossible for them to operate at a minimum of less than 75c per hundred.

NEVERTHELESS

At a Meeting of The Warehousemen of Cynthiana, It Was Unanimously Agreed and Adopted That All Warehouses Act As One, In Reducing

Our Cost To 25c and 21-2% With 65c Per Hundred Minimum

With A Minimum Charge of 25c Per Basket. This Simply Means That No Basket should Weigh Less Than 40 lbs.

We Are Glad To Make This Announcement, As We Feel It Is Only Fair Under These Trying Conditions. This Is One Of The Lowest Selling Fees Charged In The State.

Mr. Farmer, Do Not Forget That This Reduction Will Go A Long Ways Toward Paying Your Trucking Charges To Cynthiana.

We Believe In Honest Weights and Straight Business

REDISTRICTING

HELD VALID BY UNITED STATES SUPREME COURT—FEDERAL JUDGES' DECISION ON RE-VERSED—CONGRESSMEN WILL BE ELECTED FROM NINE NEWLY FORMED DISTRICTS IN 1934.

The United States Supreme Court finally put an end to a complex situation in Kentucky when they rendered a decision Monday holding that Kentucky's nine congressional districts will be elected two years hence from the districts as outlined by the State Legislature at its last session.

Just prior to the August primary three Federal Judges namely Judges Charles McManis, A. M. J. Cochran and Charles I. Dawson, held that the Kentucky redistricting act was invalid since it did not comply with the provisions of the 1911 act requiring that districts be contiguous and as nearly as possible equal in population.

Accordingly, the primary and regular elections were conducted on a state-at-large basis resulting in the election of nine Democrats, whereas had they been elected from districts the Republicans would have had at least one congressman and possibly two.

It also resulted in two men being elected from the old seventh (new sixth) district, John Young Brown and Virgil Chapman, of Lexington and Paris respectively, both being successful. This left the old fifth district (Louisville) without representation.

CHRISTMAS MAILING

"WHAT TO DO'S"

Postmaster Everett Hickman has handed us a list of "what to do" about Christmas mailing. It is said that mail matter increases about 50 percent around holiday time and it is therefore necessary to observe a number of regulations so that the handling of this large volume of mail may be expedited.

Principal among the recommendations of the department are early mailing, secure wrapping of parcels, the marking of "fragile" on packages that contain breakable articles, legible addressing, observance of the rule that packages must not be more than 100 inches in length and girth combined, nor should weigh more than 70 pounds. Observance of these rules will help a great deal.

FLORENCE P.-T. A.

The Florence P.-T. A. certainly appreciate the cooperation of the people in making the musicale program and pound party such a wonderful success. Also wish to thank the Dixie Dudes from the Y. M. C. A. for their part in the program. Beginning this week we will feed on an average of twenty pupils in the lunch room each day. We do not operate the lunch room for a profit, therefore, we surely appreciate your help in caring for these children. Regular P.-T. A. meeting will be held Thursday evening, December 8, at 7:45 o'clock. Mrs. H. R. Leidy, president, will be in charge. Publicity Chairman.

VENUS LODGE No. 154, I. O. O. F. Florence, Ky.

November 25, 1932. Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God, the Supreme Architect of the Universe, to call from labor here on earth to that Celestial Lodge on high, our beloved brother, L. E. Thompson, who departed this life on November 25, 1932.

Resolved, That in his passing, Venus Lodge No. 154, I. O. O. F. has lost a highly esteemed brother-soldier, who has been among us for a number of years, the family a devoted husband and father, and the city and county, a good and upright citizen. Be it further

Resolved, That we extend his loved ones and friends our heartfelt sympathy in their bereavement and commend them to Him who has promised to be of help in time of trouble, and it be it further Resolved, That these resolutions be spread on the minutes of this lodge, a copy be sent to the local paper for publication and a copy to the family of the deceased brother.

Deaths

MRS. EVA M. SANDERS

Mrs. Eva M. Sanders, aged 57 years, passed away Wednesday afternoon after a short illness. The remains were taken to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home for preparation.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock by the Rev. R. D. Martin, pastor, in the presence of a concourse of relatives and friends after which she was laid to rest in Highland cemetery.

She was very devoted to her church and took quite an active part in the work, being president of the W. M. U. superintendent of the Junior Department of the Sunday School, as well as teaching a class.

She is survived by her husband, Clarence Sanders, three sons, Earl, Edgar and Russell, four daughters, Mrs. Howard Lepper, Mrs. Bryce Van Landingham, Miss Ruth and Ann Sanders, one sister, Miss Emma First and one brother, Charles First, besides many other relatives and a host of friends.

The pall bearers were: H. P. Day, J. C. Mills, Everett Yelton, A. A. Shearer, Wm. Tallaferrero and Walter Coe.

Funeral director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

BEN M. OSBORN

Ben M. Osborn, aged 55 years, passed away Friday afternoon at his home in Florence, Ky., after having been in ill health for some time. The remains were taken to the Tallaferrero Funeral Home for preparation.

Funeral services were held at the residence Monday afternoon at 2:30, by the Rev. Harold Beemon, after which he was laid to rest in the Florence cemetery.

Mr. Osborn was a member of the Town Council, also Blue Grass Council Jr. O. U. A. M. No. 40, of Ludlow, which organization held impressive services at the residence Sunday at 7 o'clock.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Zella Osborn, two sons, Lloyd and David, one daughter, Mrs. Helen Byrne, his mother, Mrs. Susie Osborn and three brothers, Tom, Ed and Fennell, besides many other relatives and friends.

Funeral director Philip Tallaferrero had charge of the funeral arrangements.

LOCAL TEAMS

WIN TWO OUT OF THREE GAMES FROM HAMILTON SCHOOL—JUNIORS LOSE, BUT BOYS AND GIRLS SENIOR AGGREGATIONS TAKE THEIR GAMES.

Again the Junior team prevented a clean slate for the evening last Friday night when the Hamilton teams were entertained on the local high school floor.

In the opening game on the program the Juniors were defeated 16 to 5. The girls, however, were quick to turn the tables and lounded the Hamilton ladies decisively, the score being 26 to 16.

In spite of the fact that three of Coach Lamb's regular team were attending H.-Y. Conference at Eminence the local boys managed to win 29 to 14, after trailing at the half, 10 to 8. The Hamilton boys played an aggressive game and realized a score into the local followers during most of the contest.

On Friday night of this week the local teams will journey to Florence where they will tackle the Knights and Knightingales. The Juniors also will play.

AMERICAN LEGION

MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

A membership drive was inaugurated by Boone Post No. 4, of the American Legion, at the regular monthly meeting held at the court house Monday evening. The post was divided into two squads and designated as the Red and Blue. Ira Long was named captain of the Blue and H. W. Waller captain of the Red. The losing side is to entertain the winning side, a supper at the end of the drive about the middle of January.

County High School News

BURLINGTON HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Older Boys Conference of Northern Kentucky, was held at Eminence, Ky. Friday, Saturday and Sunday, December 2, 3 and 4. Those who attended from our club were: James Ogden, Wallace Lucas, Harold Kelly, Elmer and Leslie Vossell, with their leader, Mr. Kirkwood. We were very proud of standing that our club made. "Jim" was elected Secretary of the Conference and Wallace was made a member of the Nominating Committee. Mr. Kirkwood was given charge of one of the discussion programs for the Saturday meeting. They arrived back in Burlington Sunday evening, about 7 P. M., and they all reported a fine time.

We are glad our girls who recently attended the older girls conference at Piner, and girls are given a privilege to take part in the Christmas training and work offered the Girl Reserves and H.-Y.

Although some of the boys were unable to go to the Conference they donated their services in a very helpful manner. Saturday they went and shucked most of Mr. Roy Voss's corn. As we all know, Mr. Voss has been sick and not able to do his work. The purpose of the H.-Y. Club is to create, maintain and establish Christian thought throughout the community. We feel that this was well done. The boys wish to express their thanks for the lovely dinner they had and feel that they were well paid for their services at dinner time. Those who attended were as follows:

Mr. Lamb, leader
Albert William Weaver
Leon Ryle
Allen Burman

The slogan of our school this week is, "Beat Florence," we hope that we can live up to this slogan Friday night. To you Knights and Knightingales, we wish you luck, but to ourselves we wish better. Even though our slogan will change each week as we face a new team, we will rally to it. We don't want anyone to get the impression that we are out only for the highest score. If we can't win by fair play, we will be losing the greatest thing in the game. So, if our opponents can out-play us, we will be good sports and determine to profit by the experience and try all the harder the next time, always looking forward with pleasure to the visits of our neighboring schools.

Friday afternoon the eighth grade boys had charge of the Chapel program. This was the first time they directed chapel, but everyone enjoyed their program very much. Some of their program pertained to John Greenleaf Whittier, as his birthday was the past week.

The first grade will give the chapel program Friday, December 9. Come out and see the little folks.

There will be no chapel program Friday, December 16. We are all going to work on our Christmas program, which will come the following week.

There is quite a little sickness in the form of "colds" and "flu" in our school. Everyone should be very careful and not go to school with the "flu."

The Girls Reserves are busy preparing for a mother and daughter banquet, to be given Tuesday night, December 6.

This year the Tomcats and Kittens have added two players to each team. Instead of eight composing the squad, two new studs have been purchased for each team and ten players will always be seen dressed in the blue and white.

"Go with Us to Florence"

HAMILTON HIGH SCHOOL
The junior boys saved the evening for Hamilton by winning over Burlington junior boys Friday night, December 2, at Burlington High School. The score was 14 to 5. Hamilton boys and girls were both defeated; the girls score being 26-16 and the boys 29-14.

The Honor Club held a meeting in the school auditorium. A committee was appointed to serve at the Piner-Hamilton basket ball game. The following were named: Gladys Moore, Hazel Lee Craig and Sarah Elizabeth Ryle. After old and new business had been taken care of, the following program was of:

Devotional—Hazel Lee Craig

Song—By Club
Piano Solo—Mr. J. R. Huey
Play—In Love—Dot Reese and Nannie Allen
Recitation—"Don't Quit"—Otha Hubbard

Piner came to Hamilton Saturday night, December 3, and showed Hamilton a few things about basket ball. Piner won both games. The girls score was 31-9 and the boys 34-14. The New Haven Independents were not nearly so fortunate and Hamilton won by a score of 29-4.

Warsaw and Hamilton will fight for the goals at Hamilton, Friday night December 5.

HEBRON CARDINALS WIN

Last Friday night, December 2, the Hebron teams played Warsaw at Hebron, the Cardinals winning a two-to-one victory.

The Warsaw girls were defeated by a one-sided score of 64-7. At the end of the first quarter the Cardinals had an enormous lead so Coach Goodridge put the second in. They very easily walked over the Warsaw girls and when, in the last quarter, the first team was again put in, it of course, proved very easy sailing for them. Eva Mae Grant scored the most points for the first team with Lina Mae Arnold coming in second. Anna Mary Grant, playing a very good game, was the leader for the second team, with Ida Reganbogen scoring second in number of points.

The boys played a very successful game, although not very exciting, as there was very little competition, Hebron defeating Warsaw by a score of 40-12.

The Cardinals were, however, handicapped as four of their very good players were attending conference, and by the loss of Francis Southern, who was hurt in the beginning of the game. Watts played his usual good game, leading in the scoring for Hebron, with fourteen points, followed by Clayton, with twelve; Bradford, with six; Elliott, four, and Surber and Kenyon with two each.

Next Friday night, Hebron will play New Haven at their home, and judging from the reports heard, we imagine it will be an exciting and very interesting game. You won't want to miss it.

FLORENCE SCHOOL NOTES

Last Wednesday morning at chapel, Mr. Norris, our County Superintendent, gave a very interesting talk. His subject was "Play the Game of Life." In this address, he gave some worthwhile advice that should be followed through life. We extend to him a cordial invitation to attend chapel again in the near future.

A musical program, which proved to be very successful, was sponsored by school pupils and out of town visitors last Saturday night at the Florence gymnasium. This was given for the benefit of the P.-T. A. so as to provide food for the needy children throughout the school. We wish to thank all of those who participated in this affair, especially the "Dixie Dudes" from W.L.W., who are very talented in their line of music. The admission was either a can or a pound of food.

The first grade pupils are sorry to lose their friends Dorothy White and Willis Roberts, who have moved to Erlanger.

Glad to welcome back to the seventh and eighth grade those who have been absent from school a few days on account of illness. They are Mildred Brown, Duane Presser, Paul Wolfe and Arnold Easton.

The Freshman Class was glad to welcome Charles Greyson, who entered school the past week.

The Eighth grade is glad to have Robert Campbell back in the team. He has been absent from school six weeks.

The third, fourth and fifth grades are to have charge of the chapel exercises on Wednesday morning, December 7.

Seventh and Eighth Grade news: The seventh and eighth grades have organized a Junior Basket Ball Club. We have very promising teams. Later we hope to compete with the various schools in this section.

The following players constitute the squads:

Boys:
Eddi Quiley
Duane Presser
Donald Tanner
Arnold Easton

HEBONARY NIGHT AT HEBRON

VIEW CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Don't forget Hebonary night at Hebron Christian Church Friday night, December 10, at 7:30. Come and enjoy a good time with the folks from the Hebron community. This program will be instructive as well as entertaining, so don't forget the time and place.

Local News

County Clerk A. G. McMullen became the purchaser of the farm known as the James Will Ryle farm near Waterloo at the auction sale last Wednesday. Col. Lute Bradford, of Union, was the auctioneer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Burton and family entertained members of the Epworth League with an old-fashioned candy pulling last Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Cowen, of Wyoming, Ohio, Mrs. Laura Martin and Misses Pink Cowen and Nell H. Martin, all of Burlington, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Arnold, at Carrollton.

The Missionary Society of the M. E. church held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. O. S. Eddins Friday afternoon.

Last Saturday night the members of the B. Y. P. U. enjoyed an oyster supper in a vacant house on the farm of the Smith brothers, near Burlington. About 25 were present and enjoyed the evening.

Misses Mary Louise Renaker and Kathryn Maurer were selling Christmas seals in the lobby of the court house on Monday. They will be at the same stand next week during circuit court.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Kelly and Mrs. Albert Willis spent Thursday last week with Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Crisler at Petersburg.

Rev. Harold Beemon, of Green-stead, Indiana, was in Burlington for a while on Monday, County Court Day.

VICTIM OF ROBBERS

Early Monday morning as Lloyd Rouse, manager of the Standard Oil filling station at Sixth and Scott streets, Covington, opened the office door two negroes pushed him inside at the point of a pistol and bound him hand and foot. They then robbed the cash register of approximately $70.00 and made their get-away. His cry for help later was heard by a passerby who entered the office and released him. Mr. Rouse is a son of A. O. Rouse and wife, of Union.

COMMITTEEMEN

ARE ELECTED IN ALL BOONE COUNTY PRECINCTS SATURDAY AFTERNOON—SEVENTEEN PRECINCT EXECUTIVES WILL MEET AT BURLINGTON TO SELECT COUNTY EXECUTIVE CHAIRMAN FOR ENSUING FOUR YEARS.

Democratic precinct committeemen were elected last Saturday afternoon at meetings held throughout the county.

Next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Burlington these men will meet to elect a county chairman to serve for the next four years. R. E. Berkshire, the present county chairman of the Executive Committee, will call the meeting to order and reside until a successor is chosen.

The meetings last Saturday afternoon were well attended in most instances and harmony prevailed generally.

While two precincts had not been heard from as we go to press the fourteen who mailed in their certificates are as follows:

Beaver—J. F. Clegg
Bellevue—Ray Cook
Burlington No. 1—J. E. Gaines
Burlington No. 2—J. P. Brothers
Carlton—Ira Smith
Florence No. 1—T. B. Castleman

Verona—O. C. Ransom
Walton No. 1—O. W. Clegg
Walton No. 2—H. A. Thornton

The two precincts not reporting are Bullittsville and Conance.

Cincinnati relatives were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Siskman last Saturday.

FISCAL COURT

REDUCED SALARIES OF COUNTY AGENT AND PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE—E. R. FORKNER ASSESSED COSTS TO REIMBURSE THE COUNTY AGRICULTURAL WORK IN 1933—RESCUERS ALL ALONG THE LINE ARE CONTEMPLATED BY COUNTY.

The Boone County Fiscal Court held its last meeting of the year Tuesday with the following members present: E. J. Ayler, A. R. Burman, W. H. Frazier, O. C. Ransom and Chester L. Tamm.

Officials have known for some time that it was going to be necessary to cut quite a sum from the county expenses during 1933 on account of shrinkage in taxes.

Two important steps were taken in that direction Tuesday when the court reemployed County Agent H. R. Forkner at a reduced salary and offered to reemploy Miss Emily B. Willis, Public Health Nurse, at a corresponding reduction.

Mr. Forkner accepted, but Miss Willis had not made known her intentions at press time. Both of these officials are competent and needed by the county and it is to be hoped that the latter may see her way clear to follow the lead of Mr. Forkner.

OFFICERS ELECTED

At the regular weekly meeting of the M. W. A. last Tuesday night the annual election of officers was held. Those elected and who will serve for the next year were: Consul, Eliza Stephens; Advisor, Willard Stephens; Banker, A. G. McMullen; Escort, Robert Barnes; Watchman, Bailey Greenup; Chaplain, F. E. Walker; Sentry, Wilton Stephens; Trustee, W. B. Cotton.

The membership drive which started in the county last week is reported to be in full swing. Next Tuesday night the Burlington camp will initiate two new members and the Des Moines Camp at Grant county, will be present. All local members are urged to come out promptly at seven o'clock next Tuesday night.

Members of the Girl Reserve Club of B. H. S. entertained mothers and other guests with a banquet at the school building on Tuesday evening. A delightful dinner was served at six o'clock after which short talks were made by Miss Melba Beck, club president, Miss Lucille Ryle, secretary, and Miss Mildred Anderson, Advisor, also Misses Wilma Cotton and Betty McMullen.

Those present as guests are listed below with the name of her hostess following in parenthesis:

Mrs. R. L. Anderson (Miss Anderson)
Mrs. Wess Stephens (Halle)
Mrs. Manly Ryle (Ethel)
Mrs. Joie Maurer (Londa Lee)
Mrs. Cecil McMullen (Betty)
Mrs. Thelma Stanley (Marjorie)
Mrs. Ray Betts (Marjorie)
Mrs. John Burton (Elizabeth and Anna Lee)
Mrs. Lee Ryle (Tom Ella Berkshire)
Mrs. William Cotton (Wilma)
Mrs. John Holbrook (Pauline)
Mrs. Leon Ayler (Thelma)
Mrs. Frank Huey (Leora)
Mrs. Robert Berkshire (Melba)
Mrs. Alva Snow (Ethel)
Mrs. W. C. Brown (Lucille Ryle)
Mrs. R. T. Sine (Garrle)
Mrs. D. R. Plythe (Martha)
(Betty Lucas)

MEAT:

Fried Chicken
Gravy and Potatoes
Corn and Beans
Coffee
Buns
Jellies

During the dinner songs were sung and talks were made. After dinner we went up to the room and the girls gave a song and dance.

Require the girls to be present at a meeting and dance on Monday morning.

COLLEGE BROADCASTS

THE TOBACCO MARKET

The College of Agriculture at Lexington, beginning Monday, December 3, is broadcasting the burley tobacco market daily, except Saturday and Sunday, from the University of Kentucky Extension studios of WHAS. A resume of the market also is given at the same time. The service is a part of the regular College of Agriculture farm radio program beginning at 12:45 o'clock, central time. This is the third year that the College has provided this radio tobacco market service.

In order that growers and other persons interested in the tobacco market may keep a complete record of prices, the College is distributing free, a chart on which quotations, given over the radio, may be kept day by day throughout the season. This chart is ruled with the price of each grade each day for 70 days. Quotations listed in this manner will provide information on price trends.

Tune in on station WHAS at 12:45 each day except Saturday and Sunday for prices and other information on the burley tobacco market. Send a postal card to the College of Agriculture, Lexington, for the tobacco market chart and keep a complete record of prices as they are given daily over the radio.

CROPS IN TWO YEARS

WORTH $165 AN ACRE

McW Allison Shipp, of Campbellsville, produced crops worth $165 an acre in two years from a 40-acre tract of land, is told by C. V. Bryan, agricultural agent in Taylor county. In the spring of 1931, Mr. Shipp purchased $320 worth of certified Korean lespedeza seed, which he sowed in 40 acres of wheat. The wheat made 30 bushels an acre and was sold for 50 cents a bushel. Baled wheat straw returned $5 an acre. Each acre also yielded 2 1/2 tons of threshed Korean hay which was sold for $7 a ton. Finally, a seed crop of 450 pounds to the acre sold for 15 cents a pound. The total income for the first year, therefore, was $105 an acre.

The field was disked and sowed to wheat in the fall of 1931 and the Korean lespedeza left to reseed itself. One hundred and fifty pounds of superphosphate was spread to the acre.

This year, 10 bushels of wheat per acre was threshed and sold for 50 cents a bushel. A ton was straw and 3 1/2 tons of threshed Korean lespedeza hay were baled and 900 pounds of Korean seed produced per acre. This production for 1932 was valued at $60 an acre, making a total return of $165 an acre from the crops produced in the two years.

FARMERS COOPERATE

TO MARKET TURKEYS

Meade County farmers received 15 cents a pound for 1,264 turkeys marketed for the Thanksgiving Day trade, as a result of a pool which they had formed through the assistance of County Agent Ray Hopper and E. A. Johnson of the department of markets of the College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky. The best price offered previous to the formation of the pool was 13 cents a pound, which means that cooperation added $200 to $300 to the amount received for the turkeys. The birds were sold to a Philadelphia concern, through its Indiana agent. They were graded and weighed and settlement made with the farmers making them.

Plans are being made to sell the rest of the Meade County turkey crop for the Christmas trade.

KENTUCKY FARM

RADIO PROGRAM

The College of Agriculture will broadcast the following farm radio program from the University of Kentucky extension studios of WHAS the week of December 12. Each program will begin at 12:45, central standard time.

Dec. 12—Tobacco market. Tips from the cow tester, Jim and Mr. White.

Dec. 13—Tobacco market. New ideas for controlling gophers, E. G. Welch.

Dec. 14—Tobacco market. Get ready for lambing season, R. C. Miller.

Dec. 15—Tobacco market. Care and culture of the young orchard, A. J. Olney.

WASHINGTON SNAP

SNOTS

Faced by the inability to frame a balanced budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1 next, President Hoover prepared to recommend to Congress a manufacturing tax with the essentials of life—food and clothing—exempted. This became known as the President's fight against the budget for two weeks and after searching everywhere for possible economies, found that the budget he will send to Congress would contain a prospective deficiency of several hundred millions of dollars. Under the law in such an event the President must recommend sources of new revenue to Congress.

The contest for Speaker of the next House to succeed John N. Garner, Vice President-elect, is becoming so sharp in its preliminary stages that some Democratic leaders believe Governor Roosevelt, the President-elect, will be compelled to exert his influence to prevent discord in the unwieldy Democratic House majority in the Seventy-third Congress. With the contesters intensely active and the campaign assuming a personal aspect, the enlarged Democratic representation from the North is demanding that it be accorded recognition. The contention of the hundred or more Democrats from States above the Mason and Dixon Line is that the party must relieve itself of sectionalism by making a Northern man speaker. Their argument is that all the important chairmanships will go to the South under the seniority rule, and that the North should inherit the Speakership.

In a 6,000-word note which was virtually an appeal to the reason of the American people over the head of Congress, the British government protested to Washington that there can be no substantial start toward world economic recovery unless America reconsiders its insistence upon the British debt payment due on December 15, and contents to a review of the whole system of intergovernmental debts with a view of eradicating them. The note, although carrying no direct refusal to make the December payment of $95,550,000, emphasized that it could only be made at the cost of a vital shock to business generally. Rejecting Hoover's suggestion of a temporary payment in sterling, the communication pointed out that the installment must be paid in gold, if at all, and that the British gold reserves were barely sufficient to satisfy London's requirements as an international financial center.

Congressional action to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment within the next four months moved measurably closer as House Democratic leaders expressed confidence of obtaining the required two-thirds majority for the Garner resolution, and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, declared the Senate should also vote on repeal during the coming President session. After the House and Senate have passed the repeal resolution, if it is passed, the power of Congress on this issue will be exhausted and the fate of the measure will be in the hands of the individual States with the approval of thirty-six required to complete ratification.

A second assault on governmental extravagance, one of the many efforts under way of pending toward effecting a balanced Federal budget, will begin on Capitol Hill. The Senate Economy Committee, under guidance of Senator Bingham, Connecticut, will start its arduous task of prying into every conceivable corner of Government activity for savings. The economy committee which succeeded the summer in saving from $150,000,000 to $175,000,000 has an even more difficult task this session with a continuously mounting deficit. But it will bend to its work with Colonel Roop, director of the budget, as first of many witnesses asked to assist.

In the light of most information and using as a measuring yard the full air strength of that country could employ in an operation where armies, navies and air forces would be used, the United States today stands fourth among world powers in relative air strength. Assistant Secretary of War F. Trubee Davison, in charge of army air activities, discloses in his report to the Secretary of War. On June 30, this year, the air strength of the United States Army, the National Guard and the organized reserves was 1,814 airplanes, of which about 210, of all types, were temporarily un-serviceable.

Plans are being discussed at Geneva, with the approval of the State Department, for the General Disarmament Conference to consolidate through a treaty or convention the gains already made and leave the adjustment of remaining questions to negotiations among the various governments or to a reconvened conference at Geneva, made on postage, of only one delegate from each country. This much was disclosed on authority, although it was assumed that the arrangements now under discussion had not crystallized sufficiently for any definite schedule time worked out of dates set for making the change in procedure. It would come as no surprise should the bureau and committee, which have been in session since the conference proper resumed in July, adjourn for the Christmas holidays not to meet again at any fixed time.

Reports from Warm Springs that Governor Roosevelt hoped to cut $100,000,000 a year from the navy budget and that Representative Vinson of Georgia, chairman of the House Committee on Naval Affairs, favored appropriations of not more than $200,000,000 a year for new construction and replacements, caused concern in navy circles and among "big navy" men in Congress. Administration experts held that the putting into effect of any such program would quickly place the navy in third position among the navies of the world, with Great Britain and Japan holding the leadership, and that a reduction of $100,000,000 could not be accomplished without sharp decreases in pay which would injure efficiency, close virtually all navy yards and almost halt construction other than that now under way. The records show in this connection that $34,063,000 was being devoted this year to the building and replacement program.

The problem of cutting Federal expenditures was attacked directly by committees representing both houses of Congress. Their activities concern appropriations for the fiscal year 1934, beginning July 1. Representative Byrns, chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, announced that cuts under the 1933 appropriations for the Treasury and Postoffice Departments and that all departmental appropriation bills will be ready for consideration by the House very soon after the President's budget message is received. The Senate Economy Committee at the same time began hearings to gather facts which will form a basis for considering reductions below whatever appropriations are passed by the House.

Convinced that Federal assistance would not be offered unless the Metropolitan police are unable to cope with the "hunger marchers" advancing on Washington, the Capitol and city police officials hurriedly completed plans to thwart the project of a mass demonstration before the Capitol. Three conferences resulted in an agreement among the officials to station extra police at the White House and the Capitol; and to permit the marchers to enter the city only in small groups or as individuals. While they will be allowed to enter the Capitol grounds as "private citizens," the demonstrators will not be allowed to parade or display banners of any kind.

BURLINGTON P. T. A. TO HOLD MEETING
The Burlington Parent-Teachers Association will meet in the school auditorium, Friday, December 9, at three thirty o'clock. Everyone is invited to attend.

A load of fine hogs from the farm of Bernard Rogers, Bellevue, passed through Burlington on the way to the Cincinnati market, Tuesday morning.

Joe Furnish, of Erlanger, son of Dr. J. G. Furnish, was renewing old acquaintances in Burlington Tuesday afternoon. Joe was only six years old when he left Burlington, but many of the present day citizens still are familiar to him.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Slekman and daughter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Slekman of the Hebron community.

Mr. and Mrs. William Greenup and Bailey Greenup, of Burlington, were Thursday guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Dickerson, at Union.

W. P. Beemon entertained the following guests last Sunday on the occasion of the birthday of their daughter, Miss Myrtle Beemon—Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Weaver and son, Albert William, J. M. Barlow, W. H. Ward and Stanley Easton.

Friends of William Graves, of the Hebron Community, were sorry to learn that he was the victim of a stroke of paralysis last week. It has been learned, however, that he is somewhat improved.

A group of tobacco buyers from Oynthiana were in this part of the county for a time last Thursday. They called on Postmaster Everett Newman while in Burlington.

NATION'S LAW MAKERS SEEN AS HARD WORKERS

Banker Tells of Labor Put in by Members of Congress on Masses of Technical Measures

OUTLINING legislative procedure, Robert V. Fleming, President of the National Bank, Washington, D. C., gave the recent convention of the American Bankers Association a description of the difficulties and problems confronting the law makers. Mr. Fleming said in part:

"The most important part of organization of the two branches of congress is election of standing committees. There are 14 standing committees in the Senate and 46 in the House. These are the workshops of Congress. The real work of law making is done in Committee Rooms.

"The task of legislating for 124,000,000 people is a tremendous one. Of recent years approximately 20,000 bills are introduced annually in the two Houses. Only a small percentage become law, but they must be weighed in haste, amended, reported out, and then considered on the floor.

"Lawmaking involves about 90% of hard and unspectacular work and about 10% of oratory. Few tasks appear so easy and are so difficult as enactment of sound and satisfactory legislation. Few individuals in any line of activity work harder or longer hours than the chairmen of the important committees during a session. I have great sympathy for the members of Congress whose constituents expect undivided attention to every piece of legislation in which they may be interested. From my personal observation, they earnestly and conscientiously endeavor to do all that is humanly possible.

Public Hearings
"When a bill is introduced, referred to committee and printed the next step, if it is a measure of considerable importance, is to conduct a public hearing. The committee makes an effort to listen to anyone who cares to be heard either for or against a measure, although witnesses are frequently limited as to time. Members of the Cabinet and other officials of the administrative departments of the Government usually testify on measures in which they are interested and furnish the committee information in executive session or otherwise. In this way the Administration makes a prominent part in shaping legislation.

"Due to pressure of work and the fact that it is impossible for members of Congress to be technical experts on every subject of legislation, the committees are inclined to give consideration to the merits of arguments presented in testimony and the recommendations of the Cabinet and other officials. It is therefore highly desirable, both from the standpoint of Congress as well as those affected by proposed legislation, that the latter have an opportunity to discuss frankly the effects of such legislation.

"We sometimes complain about the technicalities of legislation, but when we observe organized minorities endeavoring to force class legislation through one House it is a comfort to know such measures may be caught in the meshes of technical procedure in the other and there suffer what is termed automatic asphyxiation."

A Country Editor Looks at Banking

THE editor of the Norwalk, Ohio, Herald takes a somewhat different view of the banking situation from a good many people. His idea is as follows:

"With rents falling and unpaid, real estate does not present a happy picture. Nor does the owner of carefully selected bonds feel any happier, with a bunch of them going wrong. A lot of folks very carefully invested in preferred and common stocks in the finest companies in the world and have seen them fall to perhaps a tenth of what they paid for them, and no dividends at all. Some folks kept their money in savings accounts in banks, and some banks have closed and left them high and dry. But the situation is worth looking at very carefully.

"On government authority, most banks that have been really solvent but for frozen assets and popular timidity. Gradually the closed banks are coming out from under and depositors in even bad cases will get at least 50 per cent of their savings. That's tough of course; nobody likes to lose half of what they have scrimped and sacrificed and saved. But when a coffee pot or under a mattress, some play-ugly comes along and burns your feet till you tell him to take it and welcome.

"And what about the great majority of banks that weathered the storm, met all comers and are doing business as usual, carefully and conservatively but safely? What about the savings in those banks? They are a full 100 per cent today—and they are the only thing we know of at 100 per cent anywhere. After all is said and done, a good, well managed bank is still the best place in all the world for money or savings. Right now in the old banks pay in the all savings and pay the depositors not interest on their savings. We can't think, just now, of many other investments that are a tenth as safe as a savings account in a solid bank. Why, even a savings account in a closed bank is actually worth more today than most stocks."

THE TAX MENACE A GROWING CRISIS

By FRANK H. HERRICK
President American Bankers Association

No dragon, unicorn or socialist, more seriously menaces our life, happiness and prosperity than the stingy tale of 1934 which threatens to engulf us. This is not simply a problem of the depression. It has been developing for many years, growing more serious all the time. The depression merely brought it to a climax. Unless drastic steps are taken to reverse this trend, the problem will grow more serious all the time.

The depression merely brought it to a climax. Unless drastic steps are taken to reverse this trend, the problem will grow more serious all the time. The depression merely brought it to a climax. Unless drastic steps are taken to reverse this trend, the problem will grow more serious all the time.

Not fit to be with the depression. It will continue to weigh down and retard progress for an indefinite period.

In city, county, state and nation the cry of spending has run on. It is estimated that in the United States the total cost of all government is nearly five times what it was before the World War. Many localities have been brought to the verge of bankruptcy by their expenditures, while many have added their citizens with a debt burden that will darken their lives and hamper their progress for years to come.

The total cost of Federal, state and local government in the United States is estimated at forty-six million dollars a day. Based on national income in 1930, this represents about one-fifth the total income of our people, or about $110 for every individual in the nation. Total taxes in 1931 are estimated to have taken more than 22 per cent of the national income. It is a serious thought for the part of everyone when one day's income out of every four or five must be contributed to the maintenance of government machinery.

Reductions Possible
United States Government expenditures were reduced one hundred and forty million dollars during the first quarter of the current fiscal year. The recent action of bankers in calling a halt to unnecessary expenditures of New York City as prerequisite to loans will reduce the cost of government in the country's metropolis, which is second in its expenditures to only the Federal Government. No state in the Union, in fact, no other government on this hemisphere, spends half as much as this one city. These savings in Federal and municipal costs are only the beginning of a movement needed throughout the country, if we are to be led out of depression into prosperity.

Unless the people can be made to realize that money for governmental expenditure can come only from their own pockets as taxpayers, casting depressing effects on both individual effort and general business, there is an imminent threat that we may be forced to meet economic difficulties similar to those that have so seriously handicapped other countries. The question is not primarily one of merely paying government salaries or having parking government activities for which we cannot afford to pay.

The idea that money for these mounting extravaganzas can be raised by following the slogan "Soak the Rich" is utterly fallacious, for such a policy will simply exterminate "the rich" and eliminate sources of revenue. It is also important to realize that corporate business in this country is in no position to withstand the effects of indefinite advances in tax rates. Current earnings reports reveal that fact beyond shadow of doubt. The tax base must be broadened, and it therefore seems likely that Congress will be called upon to reconsider the sales tax, at least as a temporary measure to help meet a critical condition in the nation's finances.

Deposit 'Guarantee' Fails of Purpose

LOS ANGELES.—While the idea of the guarantee of bank deposits by some legally enforced plan seems to appeal to many people who give it casual thought, the fact is that it has not only failed in every instance in the eight states where the experiment was tried, but actually produced unsound banking and increased the number of failures, it was declared by the recent convention of the American Bankers Association held here.

"Guaranty of bank deposits carries an idea that naturally appeals to people in general on casual consideration," the declaration said. "However, in principle it is unsound and in practice it is unworkable. It has been tried in eight States and it has not only failed in every case, but it has resulted in increasing the number of bank failures. Taxing property and banks to make up losses of failed banks is not only unfair and unreasonable, but it weakens the whole banking structure. Again, guaranty of deposits places the incompetent and reckless banker on an equal footing with the able and conservative banker, which encourages bad banking at the expense of good banking. We are therefore opposed to the passage of any law carrying a guaranty of bank deposits and believe that it is against the interest of the people of the United States to develop any such system."

THE FORGOTTEN MAN
A Boone County farmer suggested that we publish the following, which was clipped from the "Way and Weather" column of the Cincinnati Enquirer:

Who was the author of "The Forgotten Man" and how long ago was it written? Could you please publish it?

"The Forgotten Man" was part of a lecture delivered in the early part of the present century by Professor William A. Sumner, of Yale, as follows:

"Wealth comes only from production, and all that the wrangling grabbers and loafers get to deal with comes from somebody's toil and sacrifice. Who, then, is he who provides it all? Go and find him and you will have once more before you the forgotten man. You will find him hard at work, because he has a great many to support. Nature has done a great deal for him in giving him a fertile soil in an excellent climate, and he wonders why it is, after that, after all, his scale of comfort is so moderate. He has to get out of the soil enough to pay his taxes, and that means the cost of all the jobs and the fund for all the plunder. The Forgotten Man is doing away in patient industry, supporting his family, paying his taxes, casting his vote, supporting the church and school, reading his newspaper and cheering for the politician of his administration, but he is the only one from whom there is no pay. He works, he votes, he pays—yes, above all, he pays."

FAMOUS AUCTIONEER TO BE ON CARROLLTON MARKET

The tobacco growers of the territory served by the Carrollton loose leaf market are to be congratulated in the securing of the services of Col. George C. Gibbons, of Wilson, N. C., as auctioneer here the coming season. Col. Gibbons came from a family of well known auctioneers, his father as well as himself, having been auctioneer at most of the larger markets including Lexington, Ky., and Wilson, Greenville and Winston, N. C. Ask any well informed tobacco buyer who the best auctioneer is, and the prompt reply will come, George Gibbons.

The Carrollton market is growing and will grow; it will grow in proportion as more and better roads leading into Carrollton are built; it will grow because it will deserve to grow and no more progressive step could be made than to have the services of an outstanding auctioneer, the father of Col. Gibbons, who will cry the sales at the Big Burley, Sixth Street House and the Fourth Street House.

The management of these houses deserves the thanks of the Burley growers as well as all those interested in making Carrollton the second "biggest" Burley market in the State. (Carrollton News-Democrat)

Last week we carried an account of the death of M. M. Black at Washington Court House, Ohio. Our story differed somewhat in fact from the following, which was clipped from the Washington C. H. Herald.

INJURY FATAL TO M. M. BLACK
Michael M. Black, age 68, whose skull was fractured by being thrown against a fence post when a team of horses ran away with him at his home on the creek road, shortly before noon Friday, passed away in Radium Hospital, Columbus, at four o'clock Friday afternoon just after an operation had been performed in an effort to save his life.

Mr. Black had been hurried with such a force that his skull was crushed and a gash five or six inches in length cut in his scalp. He never regained consciousness.

For many years Mr. Black, a native of Kentucky, had resided in Fayette county, and was one of the county's most highly esteemed residents; having made large numbers of friends in each community where he had resided. His death brings widespread sorrow in the community.

Mr. Black is survived by his widow, three sons and two daughters; James A. of Pinecastle, Fla.; M. L. Black, of Erlanger, Ky.; Lawrence, residing on the Creek road; Mrs. John Lusher, of Erlanger, Ky., and Mrs. Herman Frey, of Dayton.

The body was removed to the Klever Funeral Home, prepared for burial, and returned to the late home on the creek road Saturday afternoon.

Funeral services were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock, at the Sugar Grove Church, with interment in the adjacent cemetery.

HENRY J. AYLOE EXPIRES

News of the death of Henry J. Ayloer, of Hebron, age 81, reached this office just at press time. His death was due to general infirmities, it was said. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Addie Ayloer, and three daughters, Mrs. A. H. Jones, of Burlington, Mrs. Will England and Mrs. Jerry Garnett.

FLORENCE LOSES TO LUDLOW

Boys, 12-15. Girls, 17-19
Coach Alphon's Knights and Nightingales dropped games to Ludlow in two, hard contested games. The Nightingales got off to a small lead in the early part of the game but were outpointed in the latter part of play. The Nightingales are expected to be one of the best teams in this section. The Knights led in points in the early part of the game against their husky Ludlow opponents. They again looked like sure winners in the beginning of the fourth quarter, leading their opponents by a small margin, but they were nosed out by the Ludlow team to the tune of 18-25. This was the first game the Knights have lost this season and this hard fighting club hopes to make this one the last.

The Florence teams will meet the Burlington quintet at the Florence gymnasium this Friday, December 9. We know this will be an exciting game as our coach of last year happens to be Burlington's present coach. Come out and see this game, as our boys and girls need your boosting.

THE KENTUCKY TUBERCULOSIS ASSOCIATION
The sale of Christmas Seals for the Christmas Seals Campaign is well under way in Boone County. The Boone County Tuberculosis Association will give a prize to the school making the best showing in the county. This prize will be awarded on a per capita basis so that each school has a chance of winning. An appeal now being entered in the contest may do so by communicating with the county seal sale chairman, Mary Louise Renaker. The value of the prize is negligible, but the service the school can render the community in education along health lines is much more important.

A county staff of seal sellers will be composed of the first twelve children in each school to sell 500 worth of seals. Each member of the staff will be eligible to wear the pin meaning that he has served. In some schools a contest is being sponsored among the pupils to arouse interest. The contest does not close until the day school opens after the Christmas holidays and there is plenty of time for any school to enter.

The Kentucky Tuberculosis Association has sent out the following for immediate release:

Why should we buy Christmas Seals?
Because they support the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association in its fight against tuberculosis.

Because it has no other means of support, and it is the only State-wide organization, definitely dedicated to the crusade against this disease.

Because tuberculosis is still the leading cause of death in the active period of life, and in that group, took nearly twice as many people last year as all accidents combined.

Because tuberculosis took more lives in Kentucky last year than were lost by Kentucky soldiers in the World War through deaths, wounds, or disease.

Because one of the eleven people died in Kentucky with tuberculosis; and between ten and fifty, one death out of five is caused by this disease.

Because tuberculosis last year took 2474 from Kentucky, and 1535 of them were in the active period of life.

Because tuberculosis is preventable, and can be completely brought under control, when the common facts, that have been proven beyond any reasonable doubt, are believed and used by the people of Kentucky.

Because tuberculosis is curable if discovered early, and the Kentucky Tuberculosis Association, supported by the Christmas Seal Sale, is working in cooperation with other organizations to educate the people how to prevent tuberculosis, and how to find it early, when it can be cured; therefore we should buy Christmas Seals to help save Kentucky from the ravages of the great enemy to mankind.

Fight tuberculosis with a Christmas Seal—good health is the best Christmas Gift.

Among those confined to their homes on account of illness are: Walter Brown, Miss Helen Berkshire, W. H. Ward, Mrs. Zelma Clark, Harold Kelly, Prof. Kirkwood, Mrs. George A. Porter, Newton Sullivan and possibly one or two others since we learned of all of the above. None, however, are reported seriously ill.

O. R. Russ, of Linaburg, is nursing a sprained ankle, which he sustained when he attempted to jump across a small stream of water near his home.

Sheriff Snyder and Deputy Cotton arrested three men for hunting on Sunday late Sun for afternoon on the farm of County Clerk A. G. McMillen near Camp Ernst. Two of the men were from Erlanger and one from Covington. Their trial was set for Monday and their guns held as bond, but the two men from Erlanger failed to show up, although the Covington offender was on hand. The case was continued and warrants issued for the arrest of the two Erlanger parties.

W. H. Ward, who has been employed by the Recorder as a printer for the past two and a half years, was unable to work Wednesday, being confined to his bed with an attack of the "flu."

The prices prevailing on the nearby tobacco markets were generally satisfactory to local growers, who attended the opening sales. Real fancy grades are not up to last year's prices, but medium red tobaccos, the predominant Boone county type, are about double of what they were last year.

Our regular Linotype operator, Howard Kirkpatrick, who has been ill for the past two months, still is unable to work and does not improve.

4-H CLUB MEMBERS WORKING FOR TROPHY

The 4-H Club members are still at work for the trophy and there are several groups still holding meetings. We feel we will have a good chance to be ahead on the final day.

CHAMPIONSHIP
BOYS' BASKETBALL
 We told you last week that we would have a new champion each week. We took it to the "Real Petersburg." This is always one of the most interesting games of the year. When the "Real Dogs" tie up with the "Tomcats." Literally speaking, a Bull Dog can whip a Tomcat. Last night, the Dogs will turn out with their sharp claws, will defeat the Bull Dogs. The Petersburg boys will also play the Kittens. So come out and see two interesting games. Admission, 10c and 20c. Time, P. M. "COME".

Last Friday night, three games were enjoyed at Florence. This seemed to be a "one point night." It was a very unusual thing, as all three games were decided by one point. We were very sorry that our girls lost. Although we did lose, we will say that it was a very good game and we hope to win by one point next time. Instead of losing. We wish to thank the Florence boys and girls for the delicious hot chocolate and cakes that they served after the game.

Due to so many absent last Friday, the first game was unable to give their chapel program. They will give it this Friday, December 16. Come.

It seems as though the "Flu" is doing its best to break up our school. Last week, Mr. Kirkwood was absent quite a bit, we missed him very much and were glad to see him back Monday morning. Miss Anderson was also absent; she was missed very much. We look for Mr. Lamb to get the disease, but he is able to "keep right on going." As you all know, a sheep doesn't give up very easily, "ours" especially. Not only the teachers have been absent, but a good many pupils. We hope by next week we will be able to go on with our regular schedule.

Basket Ball Schedule:
 The following is the Burlington Basket Ball Schedule for the season on 1932-1933:

- Feb. 10—Verona at Burlington
- Feb. 17—New Haven at Burlington
- Feb. 24—Petersburg at Burlington
- Mar. 3-4—District Tournament at New Haven

Games are called at 7 o'clock. Central Standard Time. Admission, 10c and 20c.

HAMILTON HIGH SCHOOL
 Virginia Miller, a member of the Freshman Class, entertained with a party at her home, Saturday night, December 10. Those who attended reported having a good time.

The Hamilton Girls again came into the limelight Friday night and wrestled the game from the Warsaw Girls by a score of 46 to 6. The boys were defeated 23 to 14. The Bellevue and the Hamilton Independents then waged war and, Hamilton, as usual, was the victor. The score was 17 to 10.

Rev. R. A. Johnson, pastor of Big Bone Baptist Church, was present with us at our chapel exercise, Friday, December 2. He gave a very interesting talk on the forming of habits in our daily lives.

Hamilton vs. New Haven will take place at New Haven school, Friday, December 16.

NEW HAVEN SCHOOL NOTES
 It has been difficult to complete second period reports to pupils and parents because of absences. Special tests become necessary. When marks are established by comparison, absences create a difficult situation for both pupil and teacher. Usually uniform attendance is conducive to good progress in school work.

The Older Boys Conference held at Eminence, Ky., December 2-3-4, was attended by Mr. Moore, Harold Love, and John Thomas Stevens, and leaders were present. They report a good time and that the conference was a good one. A report will be given at our regular Hi-Y meeting this week. The theme of the conference was "The Other Fellow."

December second, our basket ball team won a double header here at home. On the ninth at Hebron, we won two well contested games. This week, Friday night, we play Hamilton, at New Haven.

Several pupils are back in school this week after an absence because of a cold or "flu." Many are out, however, this week.

The "College Hobo," presented at New Haven on Saturday, the tenth, by the Burlington P. T. A. was highly appreciated by those who braved the bad weather and road. It was well presented and thoroughly enjoyed.

Christmas decorations will be arranged this week. Mrs. Utz, who is directing the decorations this year, plans to have all rooms uniform in appearance from exterior view. Each home room teacher and pupils will arrange the interior of their room as desired. Pupils plan to have a Christmas tree in each room.

Our Christmas program will be given next week. Since more pupils may witness and participate, the program will be presented in the afternoon. It will be composed of carols, readings and a playlet.

FLORENCE SCHOOL NOTES

Florence breaks even on a twin bill with Burlington, scores were: boys, Florence 17, Burlington 18; girls, Florence 15, Burlington 14.

Cach Allphin's Nighthawks got off to a flying start on the Burlington Kittens and trounced them badly for three quarters of play. The Kittens however, made a come back in the last quarter of play, when Helen Miller and Mary Laubach, two stars on the Florence team, were forced to retire from the game on personal fouls.

The moral of the Knights was completely broken because of the sudden death of the father of our player, Stanley Kerns, some thirty minutes before the game. The Knights displayed much courage, as they battled away, while we mourned the loss of our beloved friend and brother, Mr. Kerns. The Knights lost by only one point and played off form throwing away numerous opportunities to win the game. The Juniors played a preliminary game and lost by a score of 10 to 11.

Florence plays Erlanger, Walton and Dayton during the week-end. The Knights and Knightingales will journey to Erlanger to play the Lloyd Juggernauts, Friday night December 16, and on the following night the boys will meet the Walton Bearcats and the girls will play the Dayton Girls.

The Covington Y. M. C. A. came to our school last Wednesday evening and put on the centennial for the newly organized Hi-Y Club. Some 50 boys came out, together with the Northern Kentucky Representative, Mr. Ewald. All members of our Hi-Y Club were present. Many of the people of Florence attended the ceremony and several expressed themselves, as it being one of the most impressive that they had ever attended.

George Patterson is spending the week with relatives in Michigan.

A Girl Reserve Club was organized last week in the Florence High School. Most all of the girls joined and all are looking forward to a very interesting year of work in this club. The officers elected were as follows:
 President—Mary Marksberry
 Vice President—Helen Dixon
 Secretary—Dot McCauley
 Treasurer—Alice Cody
 The Advisors chosen were:
 Dr. C. L. Rouse
 Mrs. W. R. Davis
 Mrs. Chas. Alphin
 Mrs. William Evans
 Mrs. John Fogle

We are sorry that Thomas Glenn Lohm was absent this week because of illness.

The first and second grades will have charge of the chapel program Wednesday morning.

The faculty and the entire school extends to Stanley Kerns, of the Sophomore Class, the deepest sympathy. The sudden death of his father, which occurred Friday evening, was a shock to the entire community. The high school faculty and students attended the funeral at St. Paul's Church on Monday morning.

Through an error, the names of Elva Smith, twelfth grade, and Joe Dringenburg, eleventh grade, were omitted from the honor roll for the third month.

Following the untimely death of two of his jurors, Judge Vallandigham immediately appointed committees to draft resolutions from among the members of the bar. These resolutions were spread at large on the court order book and thus was permanently recorded this most unusual and sad occurrence.

ANNUAL REPORT OF RED CROSS

ited 188 homes during the year, inescapably present when fifty-five parents sought me at various times in behalf of health problems in their children, following which fifty three children were given special attention, namely, taken to Cincinnati to the Children's Clinic and Hospital for operations or treatment or the fitting of glasses if school work was to be done.

And here let me say that to me this opportunity which this Clinic and Hospital makes possible to our county is nothing short of a miracle in reality. Your Public Health Nurse is the agency through which channel is kept open to you, how and why none of us can fathom. It is out of our county and out of our state.

If for no other reason but to keep existent affiliation with this Clinic and Hospital whereby hundreds of our county children have received service, this alone would be sufficient reason for our continuance. Nurses, where ever I meet them, marvel over this part of our work in Boone County.

I made 114 school visits, here also, the teachers expressed a deeper need of our service than ever before in our years of labor.

To the 1030 people before whom I made 31 health talks on so many occasions, there too, in personal discussions afterwards I sensed the need I made mention of at first, the mental and spiritual need, that because of this time of uncertainty of depressed wonderings over the future, every where every one is somehow giving expression to the belief that in and about our service and through it a contribution can be made in helping us all through the maze of the present.

Because I have felt this, I have tried in teaching my Home Hygiene Classes, one at Hamilton and two at New Haven the past year, and at least two at Lebanon to the girls in High School to instill in them helpful health practices and that will give to the individual principles to live by, Martha and Walter and Robert and to our Homes and Communities citizens of dependability and worth.

I have brought you this type of report in an attempt to partially give a meaning to the figures, and I leave to your consideration the cause of our service in Boone county. I beg of you to think of it as the peoples cause, for there exists no other work in the county whose only reason for life is to give something of value to the lives of every citizen of the county.

Estie B. Willis, Red Cross P. H. N.

Deaths

ANOTHER OF BOONE COUNTY'S AGED CITIZENS ANSWERS THE FINAL ROLL CALL

Mrs. Mary Ellen Crigler died Monday evening at 6:45, on December 12, 1935, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ida Houston, Covington, Ky., after an illness of seventeen days.

Mrs. Crigler was born near Lima-burg, Ky., January 3, 1849, and was married to William Morgan Crigler October 11, 1866.

To this union was born two daughters, Mrs. Ida Houston, Covington, and Mrs. Etta Weaver, Burlington. Besides the daughters Mrs. Crigler is survived by five grandchildren, Lloyd Weaver, of Burlington, Ben, Edna and Ray Houston, of Covington, and Artie Mae Redmon, of Pottsville, Penna., also four great grandchildren; Arnold and Virginia Houston, of Covington; Albert William Weaver, of Burlington and Billy Redmon, of Pottsville, Penna.

Mrs. Crigler's funeral service was held at Hopeful Lutheran Church, Thursday, December 15, at 10:30 A. M. Sermon by Rev. Haas.

Interment in Hopeful Cemetery.

ANNUAL REPORT

From December 1, 1931
To November 30, 1932

By H. R. Foraker, County Agent,
Boone County Fiscal Court,
Burlington, Kentucky,
December 4, 1933.

This is the seventh annual report that the present agent has had the pleasure to present to the Boone County Fiscal Court. Each year has presented new problems in which the County Agricultural Extension Program has attempted to meet. The agent from his present position has attempted to meet these problems with the best of his energy and ability. Without boasting, I believe I can say that the latest program of the seven years has just been completed.

The years program was not one which the agent just planned. It was built early in the year on programs of work planned by leading farmers in fourteen community centers of the county. These local programs were combined and summarized and with the help of project leaders and county farm leaders directly related to the local programs combined into a county program of work. Once this program was planned the agent used every effort to carrying it out. Certain emergency work arose from time to time during the year but I believe the farmers of the county will agree that the results from the time spent along this line are worthy of the time given.

The first of these emergencies was certain responsibilities placed on the agent as a result of the Federal Seed Loans made available to those farmers of the county without local credit for the purpose of purchasing seed and fertilizer for the production of this year's crops. The agent, in this connection, can not pass up on giving credit to the county seed committee composed of C. L. Cropper, Hubert Conner and J. B. Doan, for their high type, efficient and sincere service rendered in this work.

The improvement in certain milk marketing problems was originally planned in a community program of work. This industry normally means more than $500,000.00 annually to the farmers of Boone county. The further the progress made along this line the more enormous became the problem until it became, not a community, but a county wide problem affecting the entire milk shed. A number of emergency problems in this work arose from time to time during the year's survey. Whatever progress has been made of good will result from this work, those leaders in Boone County Dairy Work will deserve considerable credit.

Project Activities
Time will not permit giving a discussion on the many activities carried on during the year. I will mention one or two in a general way after which it will be necessary to mention the rest in a more or less tabulated form. For a more general discussion of this work, I refer you to the 34 page narrative report and the annual statistical report presented to the College of Agriculture and two copies of which are on file in my office for your inspection at any time.

The dairy improvement program was conducted from three points of attack, namely, the improvement through breeding up the herds, the elimination of low producing cows and by increasing the individual cow efficiency through improved feeding, care and management. The milk marketing problem has been mentioned previously. The organization of the Northern Kentucky dairy herd and improvement association and the organization of the Boone County-Bull Association No. 1 (the first full association block to be organized in the county and one of the few of the state) are important steps toward the building up and increasing the inherent production efficiency of Boone county dairy cows. Standards of improvement set by these organizations set examples and pave the way for general improvement along these lines. The findings of the dairy herd improvement association and the production surveys help inform the dairymen on the minimum production standards which a cow under present milk prices can profitably remain in the herd.

The dairy feeding problem in Boone county is not one of thousands of dollars in importance but hundreds of thousands of dollars in importance. The dairy feedings schools and feeding program backed by the foundation laid three years previous have brought to the dairymen as a whole a greater understanding of feeding principles and confidence in the efficient use of maximum amounts of home grown feeds. Specific instances can be cited where cows are producing with maximum use of home grown feeds better today on a better milk-feed ratio than they did a few years ago with maximum use of commercial feeds.

The future position of Boone County as a dairy, sheep and livestock county depends on its soil improvement, increased acreage of legumes and pasture improvement work, the extension program of which was only to maintain the Twenty seven Korean and Japan clover inspection result demonstrations were conducted. These demonstrations brought new information and understanding including both the success and failures of a relative new crop which is destined to mean much in the future of soil improvement, pasture and hay improvement in the county. While Korean is not yet recommended as a hay crop yields of from one to two and one-half tons per acre were secured this year. Demonstrations in the growing of alfalfa, sweet clover and red clover were also conducted. Crown rot from which certain strains of Kentucky red clover are resistant was identified as a cause of much clover failure in the county and plans have been made for the growth of next year in demonstrations Kentucky clover resistant strains. The use of lime on certain types of soil gave increased yield of legume crops. Assistance was rendered a number of farmers in locating the cheapest sources of ground stone and application has been made to the Commissioner of Agriculture for future use of the state lime crusher. The use of dirt proved an effective method of inoculating soy beans and other legume crops. One farmer alone was saved approximately $15.00 this year on the inoculation of 25 acres of soy beans.

More than 325% increase in yield was secured in eight potato result demonstrations through the use of a seven point potato improvement program including soil improvement, deep planting, shallow cultivation, certified seed, seed treatment and heavy application of fertilizer and Bordeaux sprays. $30.10 additional labor income was received by those growers applying from three to six Bordeaux sprays for control of blight and insects.

Twenty six result demonstrations in the growing of Experiment Station No. 5 and one with Fusarium wilt resistant No. 2 tobacco were conducted. Fifty six of fifty eight boys enrolled in the 4-H tobacco project have completed their work and plan to compete and sell their crop at Carrollton on December 14th. Seventeen took part in this event, held last December, in which 13,900 pounds were sold for an average of 15c per pound, which represents as a whole quality and sale above the average.

Eight wilt resistant melon demonstrations showed that the varieties were resistant to wilt but not to the standard in market quality. Four yellows resistant cabbage up to the standard in market quality result demonstrations showed that Wisconsin No. 8 was not only resistant to yellows but was of good quality for home or late market use. Seed treatment proved of value in controlling damping-off disease in cabbage.

Two winter fruit meetings were held to discuss latest and most profitable developments in the fruit industry. New spray schedules gave more effective control of scale and scab on apples. New cash crop demonstrations were started with small fruits.

Eight Experiment Station model poultry houses were constructed according to plans furnished. 92.9% of 3958 chicks started in nine clean, chick result demonstrations were raised to 12 weeks of age at a gross cost (less cost of chicks) of 87c per pound. Losses of from 20% to over 50% were incurred on record demonstrations not following the clean chick program. $1.17 per labor income per hen was made on 428 hens in one county poultry flock record. Two county poultry meetings and a tour of the above demonstrations were held to plan and show the results of the above program.

Regular monthly dressings gave better results in stomach worm control with sheep. One pound of pork was produced for each 4.3 pounds of feed consumed in a balanced ration feeding demonstration. A total of 3.9 pounds of corn and 5 1/2 pounds of protein supplement costing 2.7 cents were required to produce one pound of pork.

Sixteen complete farm account records for 1931 were completed and twenty new records started. An analysis of the business records shows that those farmers having kept complete records for two or more years made more money in 1931 than they did in 1930.

Assistance has been rendered to the farmers of the county in the marketing of milk, wool and truck crops. A truck crops growers organization was formed to work with other counties near Cincinnati to improve the farmers position on that market.

Eleven community 4-H clubs enrolling 296 members under the supervision of 58 adult project leaders completed 294 supervised 4-H projects valued at $9,935.00. These clubs were further organized into project groups with a complete setup of junior officers, project and community club programs of work. The above is both the largest enrollment and largest number completed in the 4-H Club history of Boone county. A total of 56 tobacco, 60 poultry, 4 dairy calf, 81 girls sewing, 5 foods, 10 canning, 5 room improvement, 3 corn, 6 pig, 8 rabbit, 3 sheep, 2 butterfly production, and 27 garden projects were completed by the above members. Carrying out the four-fold development of

Could Santa Claus will have to continue in the dry goods business, until further notice, because the "lame duck" Congress turned out to be dry land ducks.

The Head, Health, Heart and Hand program five leaders training meetings were held 18 farm and home practice demonstration teams were trained, eight community club tours conducted, 358 exhibits made at the North Kentucky Fair, exhibits made at the Harvest Home, District 4-H Club Show and State Fairs, two county picnics held, community and county 4-H judging team contests held, a judging team trained and entered in the State 4-H Judging Contest, the county demonstration teams and girls sewing club style show champion and Utopia Club delegate entered in the State 3-A-County Agent Report.

Forty members were enrolled in the Boone County Utopia Club No. 2, an organization of older boys and girls interested in agricultural and home economics improvement. This organization held twelve regular meetings during the year and carried on a constructive farm improvement program.

The "Live at Home" program was given special attention and emphasis at 4-H Club meetings, Utopia Club meetings, community program of work meetings and other general farm meetings conducted during the year. This is also an important project which time will not permit discussion here.

In Conclusion:
A total of 238 1/2 days were spent in field work and 61 1/2 days on office work. 553 office and 1042 telephone calls were received, 327 news articles were written by the agent and 121 additional articles written by 4-H Club members, 682 individual letters were written and 48 different circular letters prepared and mailed out, 1800 agricultural and home economics circulars and bulletins relating to agricultural improvement and better farm and home practices were distributed to 4-H Club members and to farmers of the county, project improvement exhibits were made at seven community, county, district and State Fairs, 3 adult and 5 4-H Club project leaders training meetings were held, 11 method demonstration meetings were given on improved farm practices with a total attendance of 149, 7 result demonstration meetings to show the result of improved agricultural practices in the field were held with a total attendance of 265, 9 tours to visit project work were held with a total attendance of 238, 11 community 4-H Club achievement meetings were held, one 4-H Club encampment was held for those members successfully carrying on their project work, 221 other meetings were held by the agent or in relation to project work with a total attendance of 11,805, 230 additional project group meetings were held under the supervision of adult project leaders with a total attendance of 955, making a total of 479 meetings held with a total attendance of 13,432. A total of 237 adult leaders and 51 days help by the specialists assisted in conducting the above program. A total of 961 farm visits were made to 366 different farms and 12,881 miles were travelled by the agent in the above work.

Respectfully submitted,
H. R. Foraker,
County Agent.

MAPLE HILL SCHOOL NEWS
Attendance has been bad this month due to sickness.

We were pleased to have Mrs. Beulah Riggs, the former teacher, with us last Tuesday.

We are having a Christmas program, and Tree, at the school house Friday night, December 23, at 7 o'clock. The public is invited.

We are sure Santa is on the way, and are looking forward to a grand vacation. School will open again January 2, 1934.

One hundred and forty-two purebred rams were placed on farms in Marion county this year.

Thirty head of high grade females were added to the cattle herds of Fulton county last month.

NOTICE
This is to notify the general public that I will not be responsible in any way for any obligations incurred by any party other than myself.

The P-T-A. held their regular meeting December 12. Miss Laura May Mathews' scholars gave a play-ette for this occasion.
Mrs. Davidson's scholars: the grade girls sang a very pretty song, a double quartette composed of Dorothy Dunaway, Janet Walton, Ethel Christy, Marietta Rue, LeRoy Rue, Edgar Snyder, Henry Russell and Herbert Deck. sang two lovely songs, the violin and guitar music by Millard Nixon and Bluford Hensley was very much enjoyed, also Millard's songs, the Scripture Lesson was read by Mrs. Betty Berkshire, prayer by Mrs. Dunaway and a good talk was given by Prof. Davidson. Every member enjoys the P-T-A. work.
Mr. Charlie Ruth, who works in Lawrenceburg, had some trouble getting across the river Friday, the river was full of ice and in landing, his skiff when he reached the Kentucky side, he slipped and fell, and it was some time before he could get up the bank he was so chilled. When he reached his home he fell prostrated in the door way. Dr. Love was called, and soon revived him. Glad to report he is improving nicely.

RABBIT HASH

There were services at East Bend M. E. Church last Sunday and Sunday night, by Brother Graden; he also delivered a sermon at the K. P. Hall here Sunday afternoon. The weather being very bad kept several away. He visited with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Palmer; he also called on Mrs. Lucy Ryle, who has been quite poorly.

There will be services at the K. P. Hall the third Sunday in January by Reverend Smith.

Mrs. Betha Miller has the sympathy of this community in the loss of her husband, Mr. L. R. Miller, which occurred at his home at Hamilton last Thursday evening.

Mr. J. E. Walton and Mrs. R. T. Stephens have been suffering from an attack of Rheumatism.

Several on the sick list here, with LaGrippe and Colds.

The river is full of ice here as the weather has been very cold.

Several sleds and sleighs have been on the roads since the snow has been on, seems like old times.

While Mrs. Robert Aylor was assisting her sister, Mrs. Paul Aylor, Friday, in her work, she was badly burnt on her hand with hot grease.
